CLANTON, - - - ALABAMA.

The Gathmann gun did not realize expectations, but no doubt some other invention will realize the hopes of civilization for a more expeditious means of killing people.

Even philanthropy becomes an everyday occurrence. Andrew Carnegie's recent $2,000,000 gift required but six lines of newspaper space. It is the man who is not philanthropic that excites wonder these days.

The new Prince of Wales will probably not undertake to eclipse the traditions of his title with reference to sport and bonhomie. In his case the parental influence can be exercised with that intelligence which comes of experience.

The Postoffice Department no longer regards free rural delivery as experimental. The farmers have most enthusiastically welcomed the service, the demand for it is widespread and Congress for several years has made very liberal appropriations to extend it.

The report of the General Prison Board of Ireland for 1901 shows that the number of criminals committed to the local prisons was 32,924 and the daily average number in custody 2363. This shows a reduction of 3198 in the number of criminals and 221 in the daily average in custody as compared with 1899.

W. T. Harris, United States Commissioner of Education, says: "The excuse for the introduction of the school garden into the United States lies in the right of country children to get the benefit of the educational advantages embodied in their environment." That is, things are teachers as well as books. Book knowledge at best is second-hand information.

A fact indicative of the great progress higher education in America has made within the last generation is that of 7160 persons named in "Who's Who" who furnished personal data, 5466 were graduates of colleges or of like institutions and 808 received only common school education. We shall soon present a unique spectacle in history—a democratic nation led by men of learning.

The finding of great coal beds in Alaska and of extensive deposits of asphalt in Michigan is better than the discovery of new gold mines. Coal in Alaska is a measurable offset to the wintriness of the climate. Cheap fuel is the one thing needed to hasten the development of the mineral wealth of the Territory. The asphalt supply in Michigan, if it shall prove to be extensive, will hardly be a less welcome contribution to the need of the country. The asphalt supply of the world that is readily accessible for commercial purposes has fallen largely into the hands of a few owners. If we can get it as near at hand as Michigan we shall care less for the output in Trinidad and Venezuela, and perhaps we can expect to have our streets paved at a more moderate cost, obviating the Philadelphia Record.

Millionaires who have exhausted all the ordinary forms of pleasure have adopted others that are new and open to doubt. For example, a copper king has ridden a distance of eighty-one and a half miles in three hours and twenty minutes in an automobile over an ordinary country road, "merely for pleasure." At that rate of speed the most common irregularities in the road cause the "auto" to sway like a catboat in a choppy sea. There is constant excitement in the fear of running down somebody, and occasionally an appalling doubt as to whether the dog which has just been bowled over and killed was not in fact a child—a question about which a man in dusty goggles and going at express speed cannot be positive. Then there is the reasonable expectation that the man himself will be killed before the end of his pleasure trip.

The President that Ohio has given to the Nation have been pursued by a curious and most lamentable fatality. Of the four, only President Hayes failed to die in office. Garfield and McKinley were assassinated, and William Henry Harrison served but one month of his term. Ohio men have been elected to five terms in office, but succeeded in serving only nine years and one month of the twenty years—Harrison, one month, Garfield six months, Hayes four years, and McKinley four years and six months.

LIVE WASHINGTON NOTES.

President Roosevelt An Original Schley Man.

GEN. MILES WILL NOT BE A CANDIDATE.

Dear Admiral Schley Consults With His Attorneys—May Bring Civil Action Against the Publishers of McClay's History.

The most positive denials are given of the story recently published that F. D. Coburn, Secretary of the State Board of Agriculture, of Kansas, is to succeed Secretary Wilson. The President is anxious that Secretary Wilson should remain and the Secretary has informed the President that he will gladly do so.

Lieutenant General Miles, contrary to reports recently circulated, has no intention of entering the presidential race in 1904. This statement has been authoritatively made by one of General Miles' intimate friends, who did not hesitate to admit that at one time it had been the general's hope to try for the highest office in the country.

President Roosevelt, it is reported now, was an original Schley man, first to proclaim the admiral as the hero of the battle of Santiago. The story is that shortly after the fight Lieutenant John Doyle was sent ashore to file at the cable office Schley's reports to Washington. He met Colonel Roosevelt, of the Rough Riders, who expressed a desire to send a message to Schley. After a pause the colonel said in a slow, deliberate, studied manner: "Say to Commodore Schley that Theodore Roosevelt, until recently assistant secretary of the navy and now colonel in the army, congratulates him heartily as the hero of the battle of Santiago."

Subsequently, it is reported that Colonel Roosevelt, in discussing the battle with friends, both navy and army men, gave the full measure of credit for the victory to Admiral Schley. It is pointed out that Colonel Roosevelt felt a personal interest in Schley's success because he, as assistant secretary of the navy, planned the flying squadron and selected Schley as the commander of it.

The War Department has received a cablegram from General Chaffee at Manila, giving an account of an engagement near Dapado, Samar, in which Company E, Ninth Infantry, lost seven men killed and a number wounded.

The cablegram is as follows: "Jacob H. Smith reports the following:

"During the scouting near Dapado, Samar, December 24, Capt. Francis F. Schofield with a detachment of eighteen men, Company E, Ninth Infantry, were attacked by a force of bolsones springing from the thickets. Severe hand to hand fighting ensued. Following casualties occurred:

Killed: Sergeant John P. Snisher, Corporal James Gaughan, Privates John Maren, Frank McAndrew, Joseph A. Neippart, George Bedford. Wounded: Captain F. H. Schofield, slightly; Corporal John H. Russell, Private Daniel L. McPherson, George Claxton, severely; Arthur Bonniacastle, slightly; one other killed; one wounded; names later, no property lost.

"Heavy driven from the field; lost severely. Large detachment of the scouts arrived soon after and assisted in caring for and removing the wounded."

President Roosevelt has received information from Andrew Carnegie that is expected to enable him to submit to Congress a form of gift of $10,000,000 to the United States for higher education. This offer will not be in bonds of the United States Steel Corporation, as formerly proposed, but will be in a form expected to be generally satisfactory.

Washington, Dec. 29.—Warnings of flood stages in the rivers of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, South Carolina, West Virginia and Eastern Tennessee, have been issued.

In reference to a claim to the treasury department Secretary Root of the war department has rendered the following opinion:

"The insurrection in the Philippines against the sovereignty of the United States and the authority of the government of the Philippine Islands is of such character and extent as requires the United States to prosecute its rights by military force and therefore creates the condition of war."

Chief Wilkie of the secret service, has issued a circular stating that a $200 counterfeit is in circulation. He says it is an untitled photograph and would not deceive anyone accustomed to handling money.

A silver memorial vase of elaborate workmanship has been presented as a Christmas gift to the mother of Ensign Worth Bagley, killed in the Cuban campaign. The gift is from the citizens of thirty-seven states and is inscribed: L. B. Eaton of North Carolina made the presentation.

Rear Admiral Schley was joined at his apartments here the other day by his counsel, Mr. Iador Rayner, and assistant counsel, Mr. Teague, both of whom came from Baltimore at the Admiral's request in order to consider what further steps, if any, were to be taken in the Schley case. It is understood the special purpose of the meeting is to decide what shall be done in the way of a civil action against the author or publisher of the McClay history, which was the basis of the recent investigation.

Baron Coubertin, President of the Olympic games, has just received a personal letter from President Roosevelt in reply to the invitation sent to the latter asking him to become President of the Olympic games to be held in Chicago during the year 1904. Mr. Roosevelt says he will lay the whole matter before the cabinet, and that so far as he himself is concerned, he takes the keenest interest in the undertaking and will do his utmost to make the meeting at Chicago as successful as the last one, held at Athens.

Mail advices received at the Colombian legation speak of the deplorable financial condition of the country resulting from the strain of the rebellion. Paper money has depreciated so that $45 in paper money is equivalent to only $1 in gold. Mr. Herran, the charge at the legation, said:

"The rebellion is now practically over. There are only scattered marauding bands left, numbering probably not much more than 300 men. These are in the latitudes of Panama and the state of Tonima, but they are being wiped out rapidly. The rebellion broke out in October, 1899, and has cost the country the lives of 50,000 able-bodied men, the sines of her population, and $250,000,000 in money, and has left the country in a state of exhaustion."

The state department has just added another to the long list of arbitrations which it has arranged within the last few years for the settlement of American claims. This arbitration will provide for the settlement of the "pious fund" which has been a subject of diplomatic exchange between the United States and Mexico since the Mexican war.

The claim arose through the failure of the Mexican government to pay to the archbishop of California interest on lands belonging to the Jesuits for which the Mexican government acted as trustee. The claim was submitted to the Mexican claims commission in 1877 and judgment given in favor of church for about $1,000,000. The Mexican government claimed that that payment extinguished the claim but the state department held that the interest began again from the date of the award and has run until at present it amounts to another million dollars. Personal representations by the archbishops of California, who recently was in Washington with other dignitaries of the Catholic church, caused the department to press the matter with the result stated.

THE CITY OF Lincoln acting through a committee, has given an order for a set of chiming bells to be erected as a memorial to William McKinley in a local church. The price, $8,000, was raised by voluntary subscription following a movement begun shortly after the death of the late President.

UNITED STATES SENATOR W. J. Sewell, of New Jersey, died at his home in Camden, N. J., on the 27th of December. He suffered from diabetes, complicated with stomach and heart trouble.

SIX HUNDRED employees of the Pittsburgh, Beaver and Lake Erie Railroad at Greenville, Pa., have been notified of an increase of ten per cent in wages commencing January 1st. The raise was voluntary.

IT IS reported that Venezuela is in a state of revolt. The people are bitterly opposed to Castro, and are murdering the country, cutting telegraph lines and creating trouble for the government.

LATE STATE NEWS.

BIRMINGHAM'S chief of police is trying to provide beggars on the streets with permanent homes in the almshouse. In several cases where the chief has offered homes to mendicants they have decided to leave the city rather than accept them.

TRAIN RUNS INTO STREET CAR.

A fatal crossing accident occurred Sunday morning in Birmingham, an East Lake electric car being crashed into by a switching train on the Southern Railroad at First avenue and Twenty-seventh street. Elbert N. Jones, conductor on the electric car, was crushed to death. Ed Green, a negro brakeman on the switching train had both legs broken and died this morning. J. N. Hambright, motorman on the electric car, was slightly hurt about the head and bled internally for a short time, but it is not now believed that his injuries are serious.

RIVER TRADE PROSPEROUS.

A special from Florence says the government dredge boat Kentucky, recently completed at a heavy expense, has gone up the river in tow of the steamers Colbert and Lookout, and will be used in removing obstructions in the upper river as soon as the river falls sufficiently. The river trade is booming and came in with a heavy rise, unprecedented for December. The late swell was 16 1/2 and a good boating season will now remain till summer. The summer Avalon's maiden trip this season from Paducah to Chattanooga opened flatteringly and she will not be able to handle all the local freight on account of the heavy through freight shipments.

URIAH PORTER SURRENDERS.

Uriah Porter gave himself up to the Chief of Police of Opelika at 2 o'clock Sunday night, after riding two days through sleet. Sheriff Belamy, of Russell county, called for troops Saturday and Governor Jinks ordered out Company L, of Girard. The company left the city at 8:30, marched five hours through mud and water twelve and a half miles to Crawford and arrived there at 1 o'clock. They found the town quiet. Little attempt was made to arrest Porter. The community has been in a state of great terror. Half a dozen homes were found deserted, with window lights shot out and furniture filled with lead. Fincher, the murdered man, was buried at Columbus Saturday. His wife returned despite the protest of friends.

NUMEROUS WASHOUTS.

A special from Montgomery, dated Sunday, says: The fast mails from the east are greatly delayed and traffic on all railroads leading out of Montgomery has been tied up today because of the numerous washouts from the severe rains which have fallen over this district since yesterday morning. For the eighteen hours beginning at 9 o'clock yesterday and ending at 3 this morning a total rainfall of 6 1/2 inches is reported. At Tallapoosa, near the scene of the Western wreck, the rainfall was 7 1/2 inches. All other weather stations through east Alabama from Gadsden to Mobile report from 3 to 7 1/2 inches of rain. The railroads have not suffered so severely since the flood of 1892. There were only three passenger trains to arrive at the union station here this morning out of a total of fourteen due. These trains came from the Louisville and Nashville north, the Western west and Georgia Central. The Mobile and Montgomery division of the Louisville and Nashville suffers next to the Western of Alabama.

FOUR HUNDRED KILLED.

News has been received that General Maria, the Colombian revolutionary leader, attacked Honda, on the Magdalena river December 2, with 1200 men. The garrison, consisting of 430 men, fought from 6 a. m. until 11:30 p. m. At 6 p. m. the garrison received reinforcements numbering 300 men. The battle started on the outskirts of the city and ended at Cascoqui, nine miles from Honda. Bayonets and machine guns were used. The government forces were victorious. Four hundred men were killed during the battle.

James D. Wood, president of the western district, Kentucky Mine Workers of America, was arrested at Evansville, Ind., shortly before midnight Monday night. He was indicted by a grand jury at Madisonville, Ky., about two weeks ago, charged with being an accessory before the fact in the murder of a non-union miner. Bail was offered for his release, but it was refused, and he spent the night in jail.

WELCH DESIGNS.

Superintendent J. L. Welch of the South and North division of the Louisville and Nashville railroad, and the Birmingham Mineral railroad, with headquarters in Birmingham, has covered his connection with the system. Mr. Welch will be succeeded by Mr. B. M. Starks, Superintendent of the Nashville Terminals and former Assistant Superintendent of the South and North division and Birmingham Mineral at this point.

SIXTY-FOURTH ANNIVERSARY.

The Jackson Institute at Marion is making extensive preparations for the celebration of its 64th anniversary. Many hundred invitations will be issued and among the guests will be the most prominent educators, authors and statesmen of the South. The governor of Alabama and the governor of Louisiana are expected. One of the features of the celebration will be the laying of the corner stone of the new $15,000 auditorium. Mrs. Lillian Nordica, the great American singer, will sing in the Jackson chapel January 15th. Special trains will be run from all nearby points on the Southern, and large crowds are expected.

DRENNEN A CANDIDATE.

Mayor Drennen is for a third time a candidate for Mayor of Birmingham. In speaking of the matter to a reporter, he said:

"I will be a candidate for Mayor to succeed myself. I have had the matter under consideration for the past few weeks, and I have fully made up my mind to stand for re-election. The city affairs have been well managed, its affairs have been honestly and judiciously managed in all departments, and the character and ability of the city officials will compare favorably with that of the officers or employees of any firm or corporation in Birmingham."

Mr. Drennen stated further that during his present term the city has been engaged in building three new schools and a new city hall. The Democratic primary for the city is usually held some time between December and March. The question of setting the date for the next primary has not so far been agitated. The only announced opponent of Mayor Drennen is Capt. F. P. O'Brien.

A dispatch to the London Central News dated December 20th, from Berlin says:

"It is believed to be certain here that an ultimatum will be issued within three days, and that an attack on Venezuela will follow directly after. In addition to the Vineta, the Falk, two training ships, the cruiser Gaiser has been ordered to LaGuayra. In the meanwhile, I am officially assured that the German Charge D'Affaires has not left Caracas, and that diplomatic relations have not yet been broken off. The Pour Parlers continue: "An agreement has been reached between Germany and the United States in regard to the course of action in Venezuela."

INOFFENSIVE MAN KILLED.

Four white men killed J. M. Rhee, an inoffensive passenger on train No. 6 of the Yazoo & Mississippi branch of the Illinois Central railroad at an early hour Monday morning, near Leland, Miss., cut the locomotive from the train and forced the engineer to run to Cleveland. All four men were arrested, one being in jail at Leland and three locked up at Shelby. They were later taken to Greenville on a special train.

A CHILD HERO.—At Buffalo, N. Y., last Friday, Joseph Mundry, 10 years old, lost his life in an effort to save two smaller brothers from the flames which destroyed their home. Shortly before 4 o'clock, smothered by smoke from which he could not rescue them, the three fell and their little bodies were burned beyond recognition.

THE TENNESSEE river has reached a stage of thirty-five feet at Chattanooga, two feet above the danger line.

ENORMOUS FIGURES.

In an annual review of the corporations of the United States, the New York Journal of Commerce estimates the total capitalization of all industrial consolidations in the United States as approximately $5,500,000,000. This does not include railway street railway, lighting or banking consolidations.

EATING BETWEEN MEALS.

The Apple is Pan-Existence the Food For This Period.

The practice of eating between meals is sternly disapproved by many well meaning individuals who are of dyspeptic habit, or perhaps do better without any additional nourishment in the course of a sedentary life. They are apt to enforce obedience from their children on this point on the ground that what suits the mother's digestive apparatus of the child to the child is very different. Growing children of active disposition are apt to be hungry most of the time and are willing to accept the proffer of anything "good to eat" (from their own point of view) at almost any hour. Indeed, the boy who is getting his growth rapidly frequently eats as if his legs were hollow or as if he had as many cavities to be filled as those that occur in the complex stomach of a ruminant.

It was on this account doubtless that the immortal "autocrat" laid down his golden rule for ascertaining the youth of an individual, namely, to offer the suspected person a bun immediately before dinner and then to note whether it is accepted.

Since active children need frequent refreshment and assimilate it without difficulty, it is well to give them the most suitable food. Cakes and sweets generally are not desirable because they take away the appetite for a regular meal, to which they appear as a kind of desert. The better plan is to keep a generous supply of fresh fruit constantly on hand in the house. When a child becomes hungry between meals and asks for something to eat, give him apples, grapes or a peach.

It seems to be a well ascertained fact that apples, while satisfying the "empty" sensation of a hungry person, do not interfere with enjoyment of one's regular meals. The apple is par excellence a health food. It helps to keep the digestive apparatus in good working order, and the weak subacid of the fruit appears to act as a lubricant to the machinery of the human body. Therefore, instead of refusing to allow your children to "eat between meals," or instead of permitting them to cram sweet biscuits, crackers, or cakes, it is the part of a wise mother to lay in a supply of apples and allow the children unrestrained access to the fruit.—Pittsburgh Dispatch.

HUMOR OF THE ROCKIES.

The Rupe of a Squatter and a Rarefied Air Joke.

High up on the Laramie Range there is a little station called Sherman—a mere watering place for trains on the Union Pacific Railway. Near by is a gigantic pyramid of stone, sixty feet high and sixty feet square at the base, which was set up by the railway as a monument to Oakes Ames and Oliver Ames.

In the later eighties there arrived at Sherman a shabby person of melancholy aspect, who put up a "shack"—Western for shanty—not far from the monument. Ostensibly, he was prospecting, and he continued to prospect for three years without accomplishing any results, so far as could be observed. At the end of that period the management of the Union Pacific received from him a communication demanding the immediate removal of the monument from the premises, which he claimed as his under the Homestead law.

The matter was regarded in a humorous light at first, but subsequent proceedings developed the fact that the squatter had what lawyers call a "case." The stranger, it seems, had located on a section of land which did not belong to the Union Pacific—the same section on which the monument had, by an inadvertence, been placed. He knew very well what he was about, and the upshot of the affair was that the railway had to pay $5,000 for the squatter's tract, in order to make its title good.

The monument, by the way, is distant only about one hundred yards from the station, and it is a favorite trick of experienced persons to induce green travelers to attempt a run to the pyramid and back during the two minutes of the train's wait. In nine cases out of ten they fall on the way back bleeding at the nose, the air being so rarefied at that elevation of 3,300 feet as to forbid such exercise.—Saturday Evening Post.

A Question in Finance.

Jack Shields, well known on Mount Adams, tells the following story on a young man of the East Side whose name he refuses to divulge: "He counted a young lady of my acquaintance," explained Jack, "and finally proposed to her. She was from Missouri, and 'had to be shown' how much money was earning. He told her $15 a week. She accepted him. During the first week after the marriage the young fellow arose at 4 o'clock each morning and was on his way to work an hour later. He never returned until 10 o'clock in the evening, stating that he worked twelve hours, from 6 o'clock a. m. to 6 p. m. Thus it was that the wife saw but little of her husband.

"On pay day the early riser and hard worker brought his envelope, still sealed, to his better half. When she opened it she was rather astonished to find but $1.

"How is this, dear? I thought you were earning $15 per week?" she asked.

"So I am; but I only worked half time last week," he replied.

"Well, for heaven's sake," was her startled query, "what time would you leave the house and when would you return each day if you would fall time?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

CRIMES OF FILIPINOS.

Natives who Accepted Service were Hacked to Pieces.

Many Filipinos who accepted service under American rule are visited with awful vengeance by their fellow countrymen. The native policemen who had been sent from Laoag to San Nicholas, Iloos, north, for duty at the latter place, were seized and bound by an armed band of Filipino outlaws, taken before a priest to be confessed and then flung alive into a well after being hacked with bolos. Their assailants then filled up the well with loose earth. Another native policeman met his death at the hands of an outlaw band in the barrio of San Antonio, LaGuna province. His body was found in a river weighted with a heavy rock and showing wounds through his heart and in the neck.

Two Filipinos who murdered an unknown native, accused of being an American spy, beheaded the body and buried it in the city of Manila, were sentenced to be hanged.

Another outlaw band seized a native man and woman, for no apparent motive, and killed them by striking them with clubs on the back of their necks. Mariano Zales was found guilty of murder, but the sentence was commuted at hard labor for twenty years.

"There was a charge against our member (Admiral Schley) of being a coward, the meanest charge that could ever be brought against any man. No man who has the courage to enter the arctic region as he did and rescue General Greely can ever be charged with such an offense and I deny it and oppose it." SENATOR DEPEW'S MARRIAGE.

The marriage of Senator Chauncey M. Depew to Miss May Palmer was celebrated at Nice, last Saturday, following the ceremony of the Catholic marriage service in Notre Dame. The wedding party first attended a low mass at Notre Dame, celebrated by Father Orepaux, formerly an officer in the French army. Shortly before noon the party proceeded to the American Church which was crowded to excess and beautifully decorated. The Rev. Dr. Adamson officiated. A guard of honor of ten blue jackets from the United States Cruiser Albany stood at the entrance of the church.

RECORDS SMASHED.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce in commercial circles it is generally conceded that January disbursements for 1902 on account of interest and dividend payments will break all records. Estimates of New York disbursements alone run as high as $150,000,000 while the total disbursements at New York, Boston and Philadelphia have been placed at above $200,000,000.

The aggregate dividends already declared of industrial companies for January next, including the closing days of December, amount to $25,044,996.

It is claimed that more passengers were handled by the lines of this company during the holidays than ever before for the same length of time.

SANTA CLAUS BURNED.

A casualty was narrowly averted last Thursday night at Girard when Santa Claus came near burning up. While standing out presents from a Christmas tree his long beard caught from one of the lighted candles, and in an instant his light cotton costume was ablaze. He was painfully burned in several places. Santa was impersonated by Jim Kindred.

Dear Sir—Your letter of the 20th inst. announcing the fact that I have been elected an honorary member of Camp Bedford Forrest, No. 1387, U. C. V., is received. I wish to express my appreciation of the great honor you have done me. I have always placed Forrest with Stonewall Jackson, in the very forefront among our great leaders, and to have my name associated with his in any way is gratifying. Thanking you for the kind words of myself personally.

DR. CUREY APPOINTED.

Will Represent U. S. at "Coming of Age" of King of Spain.

Hon. J. L. M. Curry, of Washington, has been selected by the President to represent the United States at Madrid on the occasion of the "Coming of Age" of the young King Alfonso XIII, on May 17. Dr. Curry was the United States minister to Spain from 1885 to 1889, the first administration of President Cleveland. He was present in his official capacity at the palace when the King made his advent into the world. Mrs. Curry will accompany him.

THE state historical department has in preparation an elaborate biography of the late Governor William J. Samford. The volume will embrace about 250 pages. It will be entitled "William James Samford and His Times," and is being written by Colonel John Witherspoon DuBose, literary attaché of the department. The work of preparing the manuscript will be completed about February 1st, when it will then go to the printer.

AN OPELIKA FAILURE.

Mr. W. B. Goodgram, of Montgomery, has taken possession of the stock of J. H. Powell made general assignment with C. M. Barnes as assignee, whereupon some of the creditors placed him in involuntary bankruptcy with Mr. Goodgram as receiver. It is said that liabilities will reach $18,000 with assets amounting to very little. The failure has created somewhat of a sensation. The Shepard bank of Opelika lost over $13,000 in the failure.

WAR DIARY RECEIVED.

Director Owens of the state department of archives and history has received the war diary of Capt. J. L. Stockdale of the Eighth Confederate Regiment. The diary contains much valuable unrecorded history. It covers the years of 1862 and 1863. It covers important campaigns in which the officer's regiment had a part and it contains a vivid portrayal of the lives of the Confederate prisoners on Johnson's Island. Captain Stockdale was from Vineland.

WHISKY THE CAUSE.

Robert Evans a young white man employed in the stove factory at Florence committed suicide last Thursday by cutting the artery of his arm and letting the blood flow into a tin plate. When discovered he was lying on the floor with the broken razor which he had used lying by his side. He died in a short time after being found and in his dying statement said that whisky was the cause of his suicide. He came from Iowa a year ago and cut himself off from his family refusing to communicate with them.

BIRMINGHAM BANKS.

The banks of Birmingham have broken all records for business for the year 1901. Reports made through the clearing house make the gain in returns even greater than the estimates of the most optimistic. The statement of the yearly business up to last Saturday night shows a gain over the figures of last year of $3,718,084.57. The total clearings for the year of 1900 amounted to $43,982,844.31. So far this year the amount which has passed through the clearing house is $47,700,928.88. In discussing the figures and the increase they show, Manager W. T. Latham of the clearing house said: "It must be remembered that the clearing house here is composed of only six banks. This fact makes the figures more startling, therefore, and tends to give an excellent index of the enormous business transacted. It is also a striking indication of the prosperity really felt here."

TEACHERS' EXAMINATION.

The regular examination of applicants for teachers in the public schools of the state will be held in each county January 2nd. The questions for the examinations have been sent to the county superintendents. Usually the questions have been sent out in the early part of the month preceding the examination. This year, however, the questions have been held back. The department has been in no hurry to send out the questions. Heretofore, the questions have in some inexplicable way leaked out. In more than one county aspirants have come into possession of the questions before the examinations. It is understood that for this reason the department of education has delayed sending them out. In some of the county superintendents offices, information about the questions would leak out in spite of every precaution. It was not a good plan to leave the questions lying about in the superintendents office.

SHORTER HOURS.—The

Baltimore and Ohio railroad will shorten the work day hours of freight trainmen from twelve to ten hours. After ten hours the overtime will be paid. This will add between $50,000 and $60,000 per month to wages paid by the company.

Mr. Will Derahide has received from the British government $120 as a reward for services rendered in South Africa. Mr. Derahide is a Tuscaloosa young man who has recently returned from extensive travels. While in South Africa he lost his lot with the English and served in the army for six months. He was in several thrilling engagements with the Boers. The check came from the secretary in the war office at London.

POPULAR SCIENCE

That the glass of bottles is acted upon by strong acids is generally supposed. The matter has been tested lately by two British chemists, who placed sulphuric, hydrochloric, nitric and hydrobromic acids in quart bottles of various kinds, but who found after several months that absolutely nothing had been dissolved from the glass.

Near Davos, Switzerland, two mountain torrents ran together, and the wide awake people of the place are going to harness them, and make them furnish light, heat and power. An electrical firm is to build a plant at a cost of about 9,000,000 francs, and the citizens will light and heat their houses and cook their meals with the current.

Herr Simons has patented a bath for the easy development of a large number of negatives. The receptacle, which is tall, is made of glass or glazed earthenware. It has a raised ridge running along the bottom, and deeply corrugated sides. The photographic plates fit in the corrugations and rest on the bottom ridge, thus enabling a good many whole, half, or quarter plates to be safely developed at the same time.

Based on the premises that the degree of alkalinity in the blood of certain lower animals as the horse, dog and cat, is greater than that of man, and that it is a causative factor in their immunity from certain diseases, Dr. Emil Schmitt, of New York City, has suggested the use of salts derived from the blood ash of horses, and he reports cases of puerperal septicemia and cerebro-spinal meningitis thus treated. The author suggests a new trend of thought which will attack disease at its very foundations, altering the composition of the blood and body juices so as to make them uninhabitable for germs. Infusion of the salt solutions together with venesection to rid the body of some of its toxins is recommended.

The general purposes committee of the London County Council, having received a letter from the secretary of the Meteorological Office, stating that it is proposed to hold an inquiry into the occurrence and distribution of fogs in the London district, and their relation to other atmospheric and local conditions, and asking the co-operation of the Council, has decided to appoint a scientific weather expert who shall formulate and carry out a scheme of fog observations. The fire brigade stations of London are to be used and the returns sent direct to the central meteorological office. The London County Council is to contribute $1000 for the investigation. It is expected that results of considerable practical value will follow if the scheme is adequately carried out.

Professor G. Forbes, in an address at the recent British Association meeting, returned to a problem on which he spent considerable time twenty years ago. From the marked grouping of cometary aphelia at a distance about a hundred times that of the earth from our sun, beyond Neptune, Professor Forbes concludes that there may be a large unknown planet, capturing comets. Twenty years ago Dr. I. Roberts made an exhaustive search on his photographic plates, but failed to find anything. The search has now been recommenced by W. E. Wilson. The comet of the years 1294 and 1556 was supposed to have been lost, as it did not reappear between 1830 and 1840. Professor Forbes has calculated that this comet would have come near the supposed planet, which would probably have a greater mass than Jupiter, and which might have "disturbed" the comet.

The Executive Engineer.

Engineers—mechanical and civil—now make it their ambition to become not consulting experts, but executives. Among military and naval cadets, the most brilliant and successful students eagerly enter the engineering corps of the service, and become in after years the most thorough and successful officers. The same tendency is pervading commercial life. This state of affairs is becoming more and more prevalent. The managers of street railway, gas electric lighting and similar companies are, in the main, men of engineering training. The general management of broader manufacturing industries is being more concentrated in the same direction. The departmental organization of commerce requires men who shall be, first of all, able executives—second, experts in the departmental work. In all excepting purely special branches—such as the legal or financial—use is being made of the trained engineer. Salesmen of mechanical goods, railway transportation department officials and incumbents of many other apparently unrelated fields are made from engineering timber. The highest executive positions in the great industries are accessible to men of mechanical training and common sense.—Engineering Magazine.

The Almost Inevitable Fly.

A fly is almost inevitable. It will survive long immersion in water, will sustain the odors of sulphur and other disinfectants without apparent injury. Only turpentine, chloroform and ammonia can get the better of a fly.

The Rabbit Question Still Unsettled.

Justice Hawkins, of West Indianapolis, has ruled that rabbits are game. Justice Stout says they are not.—In Indianapolis Sentinel.

A novel system for heating cars is in vogue in Christiansburg and Stockholm. Under each seat is a perforated metal box, and in this are little red-hot bricks of compressed coal, so prepared that no smoke or odor results while they are burning.

The worn or soiled Bank of England note is seldom seen. This is because no note of this bank is ever released by the establishment. When cashed it is kept and put aside for destruction. The average term during which a note remains in circulation is about a month.

A curious tombstone has been discovered in an English graveyard. The inscription reads as follows: "In memory of William Griffiths, died October 25, 1833, aged 127 years. Also William, father of the above, who died October 2, 1845, aged seventy-two years." According to the dates given the son was sixty-five years older than the father.

Bologna's two square leaning towers, the Garisenda and the Asinelli, which are more startling than the tower at Pisa, are safe. A rumor was started that they showed signs of weakening, but a commission of engineers pronounced them as solid as ever. The Asinelli tower is 315 feet high, and was built in 1109. The Garisenda was built a year later and was originally taller, but is now only 153 feet high. Its inclination, however, is greater than that of the other tower.

Mme. Hubertine Auclert, a Frenchwoman, who favors equal rights for women, has hit upon a novel way of preaching the gospel. The new French postage stamps represent a young woman resting her hand on a tablet which bears the words, "The rights of man." Mme. Auclert has caused to be made a quantity of blue stamps which show a young man resting his hand on a tablet with the words, "The rights of women." She recommends persons who believe in equal rights to affix one of these stamps to each letter, side by side with the official stamp of the Government.

A Chinese manuscript in the Paris Library proves that anaesthetics for surgical purposes were used in China 1700 years ago. It states that when a surgeon conducted a serious operation he gave a decoction to the patient, who after a few moments became as insensible as if he were dead. Then, as the case required, the surgeon performed the operation—incision or amputation—and removed the cause of the malady; then he brought together and secured the tissues, and applied liniments. "After a certain number of days the patient recovered, without having experienced the slightest pain during the operation."

In a southern department of France, not so very long ago, a well-to-do young lady married a youth of spendthrift tendencies. Anxious to win him away from his undesirable companions, the girl hit upon the notion of employing her husband as secretary in connection with some charitable work in which she was from time to time engaged. For his services with the pen she paid him a fixed salary of $20 weekly, and, as the gentleman in question possessed no means of his own, he was compelled to accept the queerly conferred berth. It is related that from time to time he "struck" for higher wages, but the wife was adamant, and refused to increase the weekly payments by a single cent.

Key-Winding Watches Seldom Seen.

"Speaking of things that are disappearing in the upheavals and transformations which mark the age in which we live," said a New Orleans jeweler, "how long has it been since you saw a watch that you had to wind in the old-fashioned way with a key? You may find them, and occasionally you may find one for sale. The chances are, however, that when you do run across a watch which is to be wound in this way you will find that it is now regarded as a family relic, a sort of heirloom, which is kept simply because of its sentimental value. The fact is that a majority of the watches of this make, in cases where they are worth it, have been sent back to the factories, made over and put on the market again with stem-winding works. The disappearance of key-winding watches was natural. It was too much trouble. It consumed too much time, and there was always the perplexing problem of a lost watch key. The stem-winding watch was a business necessity, and that is why it is in such universal use at this time. It is a time saver and consequently a money saver. In my judgment the time will come when only open-faced watches will be found on the market, for the same reason. It takes time, you know, to open a watch. That's why railroad conductors, the men whose business is run on seconds, use open-faced watches. The old key system of winding is gone, and the next change will be the disappearance of the double-screw watch."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

The Value of a Rich Mind.

Al. Joke. In the Laramie Range there is a station called Sherman—a good place for trains on the Great Northern Railway. Near by it is a small town of stone, sixty feet square at the base, built up by the railway as a station for the Great Northern and Oliver. Ostensibly, he was prospector, but he continued to prospect without accomplishing anything, so far as could be observed. The marriage of Senator Chauncey M. Dapew to Miss May Palmer was celebrated at Nice, last Saturday, following the ceremony of the Catholic marriage service in Notre Dame. The wedding party first attended a low mass at Notre Dame, celebrated by Father Crepeux, formerly an officer in the French army. Shortly before noon the party proceeded to the American Church which was crowded to excess and beautifully decorated. The Rev. Dr. Adamson officiated. A guard of honor of ten blue jackets from the United States Cruiser Albany stood at the entrance of the church.

According to the New York Journal of Commerce in commercial circles it is generally conceded that January disbursements for 1932 on account of interest and dividend payments will break all records. Estimates of New York disbursements alone run as high as $150,000,000 while the total disbursements at New York, Boston and Philadelphia have been placed at above $200,000,000.

The aggregate dividends already declared of industrial companies for January next, including the closing days of December, amount to $25,044,995.

Birmingham Banks, According to Clearing House Reports, Smash all Records —State Teachers Examination to be Held This Week.

Extra freight train No. 21, which left Montgomery for Atlanta over the Western of Alabama Saturday night at 10:30 o'clock was wrecked at Notasulga 45 miles east of Montgomery. Tom Russell engineer was killed. Si Lee, colored fireman was mortally wounded. The wreck was occasioned by the washing away of the track.

A canning factory for Birmingham is now being discussed. A Western man with the necessary capital and experience is anxious to erect a factory of this kind in Birmingham if there is any guarantee that he can secure the quantity of vegetables, especially cucumbers, to run a plant the size he wishes to operate.

All of the employees of the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company, who worked on Christmas day, received a Christmas present from the company in the way of double pay for the day. It is claimed that more passengers were handled by the lines of this company during the holidays than ever before for the same length of time.

A casualty was narrowly averted last Thursday night at Girard when Santa Claus came near burning up. While handing out presents from a Christmas tree his long beard caught from one of the lighted candles, and in an instant his light cotton costume was ablaze. He was painfully burned in several places. Santa was impersonated by Jim Kindred.

Mrs. Jane Dickey, of East Florence was frightfully burned from her dress catching fire and died from the effects last Thursday. She was cooking at the time and rushed into the street crying for help with the flames enveloping her body. Help came, but she was so frightfully burned that she died in a short time. She leaves a crippled husband and four helpless children.

Will Represent U. S. at "Coming of Age" of King of Spain.

Hon. J. L. M. Curry, of Washington, has been selected by the President to represent the United States at the "Coming of Age" of the young King Alfonso XIII, on May 17. Dr. Curry was the United States minister to Spain from 1885 to 1889, the first administration of President Cleveland. He was present in his official capacity at the palace when the King made his address into the world. Mrs. Curry will accompany him.

The Shepard bank of Opelika lost over $13,000 in the failure.

Director Owens of the state department of archives and history has received the war diary of Capt. J. L. Stockdale of the Eighth Confederate Regiment. The diary contains much valuable unrecorded history. It covers the years of 1862 and 1863. It covers important campaigns in which the officer's regiment had a part and it contains a vivid portrayal of the lives of the Confederate prisoners on Johnson's Island. Captain Stockdale was from Vineland.

Robert Evans a young white man employed in the stove factory at Florence committed suicide last Thursday by cutting the artery of his arm and letting the blood flow into a tin plate. When discovered he was lying on the floor with the broken razor which he had used lying by his side. He died in a short time after being found and in his dying statement said that whisky was the cause of his suicide. He came from Iowa a year ago and cut himself off from his family refusing to communicate with them.

The banks of Birmingham have broken all records for business for the year 1901. Reports made through the clearing house make the gain in returns even greater than the estimates of the most optimistic. The statement of the yearly business up to last Saturday night shows a gain over the figures of last year of $3,718,084 57. The total clearings for the year of 1900 amounted to $13,982,844 31. So far this year the amount which has passed through the clearing house is $47,700,928.88. In discussing the figures and the increase they show, Manager W. T. Latham of the clearing house said: "It must be remembered that the clearing house here is composed of only six banks. This fact makes the

The regular examination of applicants for teachers in the public schools of the state will be held in each county January 2nd. The questions for the examinations have been sent to the county superintendents. Usually the questions have been sent out in the early part of the month preceding the examination. This year, however, the questions have been held back. The department has been in no hurry to send out the questions. Heretofore, the questions have in some unexplicable way leaked out. In more than one county aspirants have come into possession of the questions before the examinations. It is understood that for this reason the department of education has delayed sending them out. In some of the county superintendents' offices, information about the questions would leak out in spite of every precaution. It was not a good plan to leave the questions lying about in the superintendents' offices.

That the glass of bottles is acted upon by strong acids is generally supposed. The matter has been tested lately by two British chemists, who placed sulphuric, hydrochloric, nitric and hydrobromic acids in quart bottles of various kinds, but who found after several months that absolutely nothing had been dissolved from the glass.

Near Davos, Switzerland, two mountain torrents ran together, and the wide awake people of the place are going to harness them, and make them furnish light, heat and power. An electrical firm is to build a plant at a cost of about 9,000,000 francs, and the citizens will light and heat their houses and cook their meals with the current.

Based on the premises that the decrease of alkalinity in the blood of certain lower animals as the horse, dog and cat, is greater than that of man and that it is a causative factor in their immunity from certain diseases, Dr. Emil Schmitt, of New York City, has suggested the use of salts derived from the blood ash of horses, and he reports cases of puerperal septicæmia and cerebro-spinal meningitis thus treated. The author suggests a new trend of thought which will attack disease at its very foundations, altering the composition of the blood and bodily juices so as to make them uninhabitable for germs. Infusion of the salt solutions together with venesection to rid the body of some of its toxins is recommended.

Professor G. Forbes, in an address at the recent British Association meeting, returned to a problem on which he spent considerable time twenty years ago. From the marked groupings of cometary aphelia at a distance about a hundred times that of the earth from our sun, beyond Neptune, Professor Forbes concludes that there may be a large unknown planet, capturing comets. Twenty years ago Dr. I. Roberts made an exhaustive search on his photographic plates, but failed to find anything. The search has now been recommenced by W. E. Wilson. The comet of the years 1264 and 1532 was supposed to have been lost, as it did not reappear between 1830 and 1840. Professor Forbes has calculated that this comet would have come near the supposed planet, which would probably have a greater mass than Jupiter, and which might have "disturbed" the comet.

Engineers—mechanical and even now make it their ambition to become not consulting experts, but executive men. Among military and naval cadets, the most brilliant and successful students eagerly enter the engineering corps of the service, and become in after years the most thorough and successful of officers. The same tendency is pervasive in commercial life. This state of affairs is becoming more and more prevalent. The managers of street railway, gas, electric lighting and similar companies are, in the main, men of engineering training. The general management of broader manufacturing industries is being more concentrated in the same direction. The departmental organization of commerce requires men who shall be, first of all, able executives—second, experts in the departmental work. In all excepting purely specialized branches—such as the legal and financial—use is being made of the trained engineer. Salesmen of mechanical goods, railway transportation department officials and incumbents of many other apparently unrelated fields are made from engineering material. The highest executive positions in the great industries are accessible to men of mechanical training and common sense.—Engineering Magazine.

A curious tombstone has been discovered in an English graveyard. The inscription reads as follows: "In memory of William Griffiths; died October 25, 1835, aged 127 years. Also William, father of the above, who died October 2, 1845, aged seventy-two years." According to the dates given the son was sixty-five years older than the father.

Mme. Hubertine Auclert, a French woman, who favors equal rights for women, has hit upon a novel way of preaching the gospel. The new French postage stamps represent a young woman resting her hand on a tablet which bears the words, "The rights man." Mme. Auclert has caused to be made a quantity of blue stamps which show a young man resting his hand on a tablet with the words, "The rights of women." She recommends persons who believe in equal rights to affix one of these stamps to each letter, side by side with the official stamp of the Government.

In a southern department of France not so very long ago, a well-to-do young lady married a youth of spendthrift tendencies. Anxious to win away from his undesirable companions, the girl hit upon the notion of employing her husband as secretary in connection with some charitable work in which she was from time to time engaged. For his services with her, she paid him a fixed salary of $100 weekly, and, as the gentleman in question possessed no means of his own, he was compelled to accept the queerly conferred berth. It is related that from time to time he "struck" for higher wages, but the wife was adamant, and refused to increase the weekly payments by a single cent.

"Speaking of things that are disappearing in the upheavals and transmutations which mark the age in which we live," said a New Orleans jeweler, "how long has it been since you saw a watch that you had to wind in the old-fashioned way with a key? You may still find them, and occasionally you may find one for sale. The chances are, however, that when you do come across a watch which is to be wound in this way you will find that it is not regarded as a family relic, a sort of heirloom, which is kept simply because of its sentimental value. The fact is that a majority of the watches of this make, in cases where they are worn at all, have been sent back to the factories made over and put on the market again with stem-winding works. The disappearance of key-winding watches was natural. It was too much trouble. It consumed too much time, and that was always the perplexing problem of a lost watch key. The stem-winding watch was a business necessity, and that is why it is in such universal use at this time. It is a time saver and consequently a money saver. In judgment the time will come when only open-faced watches will be featured on the market, for the same reason. It takes time, you know, to open a watch. That's why railroad conductors, the men whose business is running on seconds, use open-face watches. The old key system of winding is going to be the next change will be the disappearance of the double-case watch." —New Orleans Times-Democrat.

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Some History About the Ancient Origin of Christmas Festival.

DIFFICULTIES IN ESTABLISHING DATE

Old Father Time Experienced Hard Time in Finally Getting His Calendar on Straight.

Nearly sixteen hundred years have passed since Christmas was first celebrated by Christians. During all these long centuries they have not failed to meet somewhere and pay reverence to the day that somehow was chosen as the birth of the Savior. It is not at all certain that the 25th of December was His birthday, but that does not matter much, so that Christian people observe some day and show their gratitude. Indeed, the Greeks and the Russians still celebrate the 6th of January and call it Christmas, for they have never yet adopted the new calendar established by Pope Gregory XIII in the year 1582. Now, it is important for the young people and many of the old ones to know that for nearly sixteen centuries old Father Time had been gaining a little every year on the exact time that it takes the earth to go around the sun. This gain had amounted to about twelve days, so the pope, who was a great and wise man, issued his mandate that time should be set back, and it was set back. All the Roman Catholic countries conformed at once to the new date, but the Protestant countries were jealous of the pope, and so Germany would not conform until the year 1700. Great Britain and Ireland refused to conform until the year 1752, and the American colonies put it off a few years later. Greece and Russia have not conformed yet, but they will. They are getting tired of having to put two dates to all their letters and commercial transactions with other countries. When General Young was our consul at St. Petersburg all his letters that were written home had two dates that were twelve days apart. One he marked "O. S." for old style, and the other "N. S." for new style. England had to abandon another measure of time, for until about two hundred years ago the new year began on the 25th of March. Some countries began it on Easter day. I tell you, my young friends, old Father Time has had a perplexing problem to keep his calendar straight. The day used to begin at 6 o'clock in the morning. The week began on Monday. The Jews had twelve lunar months of twenty-eight days, and every third year had thirteen to make up for lost time. For centuries there were only ten months in the year among the Greeks and Romans, and February had thirty-six days just like all the other months. But popes and emperors ruled the civilized world, and changed the measures of time to suit their own whims. Pope Gregory was a scholar, a mathematician and a promoter of public education, and he knew that the calendar was wrong, and was getting more so every year. It was a bold stroke of power, but he was backed by all the great astronomers of Europe, and he set the clock back, and it stands.

But what about Christmas? It has to be written about every time it comes around, for there is a new generation of young people coming on every year, and they must be taught to know as much as those who are older. This is the most important event that ever happened in the history of the world, and every man and woman and every boy and girl who can read should be as familiar with it as they are with the spelling book. The word "mass" does not literally mean birth. It means "dismissed," and came into use because after any service in the Roman Catholic church the priest would say the congregation is now dismissed. In Latin, it is "mass." Hence, there was high mass and low mass and candle mass and Michael mass and Christmas—a dismissal and benediction after worship.

For two or three centuries after Christ His followers had so many ups and downs they could not establish holy days or feasts or festivals. Some emperors were kind and tolerant and some were cruel and persecuted them. During the reign of the Emperor Diocletian the Christians of Rome determined to celebrate Christmas in their own church where they had been permitted to worship, but Diocletian had taken a great dislike to them, and after the church was full he sent soldiers there and locked the doors and set fire to the building and burned them all alive—men, women and children. The wretched died soon after, but it was many years before Christians dared to celebrate Christmas again. This was about the year 310. But the utmost efforts of kings and emperors to extinguish Christianity failed. The more martyrs the more Christians. They seemed to thrive on persecution, and hence it was said that "the blood of the martyrs is the seed of the church." Just think how much we have to be thankful for in this age and in this land of religious liberty. No martyrs, no persecutions, no inquisition, but every man and woman can worship God according to their own conscience, with none to molest or make them afraid. The towers and spires of beautiful churches adorn our land in every city, town and village, and are a silent

WAR'S ALARUM IN TRENTON

Washington's Famous Victory of 125 Years Ago Celebrated.

HISTORIC BATTLE FOUGHT OVER

Battle of Monmouth Again Fought in New Jersey's Capital—Many More Fought Fought Then, Than Now, When First Times to Allow the Victorious Continental to Catch Up.

Trenton, N. J.—In celebration of the one hundred and twenty-fifth anniversary of the Battle of Trenton New Jersey militiamen fought the famous engagement over again in sham battle on the ground to which it has brought worldwide renown. There were rattle of musketry and smoke of powder. There were the rhythmic tread of marching men and the sound of stern command. The national colors fluttered from 500 trolley poles and in front of the gas company's office, where the Hessians rendered, a gorgeous gas sign intertwined with laurel bays forth a welcome to friends and foes alike. Troops from different parts of New Jersey, from Philadelphia and Washington began pouring into the city at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, for the battle, as its predecessor did, was due to begin at 8 o'clock. Spectators also came in great numbers from the surrounding towns and from all the countryside within driving distance of the city, especially from Washington Crossing and the many hamlets of historical importance near Trenton. To the delight of the boys in the crowd and the consternation of the timid, the window panes of all the nearby houses rattled to the ground when the first volley of the affray was fired.

Contrary to history, the only other casualties resulted from Hessian fire-arms. The ear of a Continental soldier was lacerated by a Hessian cartridge and two Hessians' faces were slightly scorched by the discharge of their own batteries. General William H. Cooper, as General Washington, commanded 1200 men, comprising the Second and Third battalions of the Second Regiment, Third battalion of the Third Regiment and one platoon of Battery B. General Cooper and his command were in the National Guard uniform, for, as the parade was to form afterward, it was thought the wearing of Continental costumes by part of the troop would destroy its uniform appearance. This command formed in the famous Pontington road, about a mile from the battle monument which marks the site where Alexander Hamilton's battery was stationed.

Colonel John L. Shinn appeared as a dual personality, for, according to the program, he represented "Generals Sullivan and Greene." Colonel Shinn, commanding the First and Second battalions of the Third Regiment, and the Philadelphia City Troop, whose original members fought in the famous Battle of Trenton, formed his men in West street, about one mile from what was King street before the battle and which afterward became Warren, in honor of Washington's general. Colonel Q. M. Gillmore, representing the Hessian General Rahl, commanded the First battalion of the Second Regiment, the battery of Garfield Camp and the Sons of Veterans. In spite of the many discrepancies in costume and the fact that General Washington did not wear a cocked hat, the sham battle was sufficiently thrilling and by no means lacking in the historical atmosphere.

With many skirmishes and much firing it swept down the beautiful streets of the old town, lined as they are with charming old houses, past the streets whose names bear witness to their part in that historic day, past the old Presbyterian churchyard, where several Hessian soldiers are said to be buried; past the church where Colonel Rahl was taken when he fell, wounded, to the site of the orchard where the Hessian troops finally grounded their arms.

The orchard is now one of the busiest blocks in the city, and when the Hessian troops arrived in front of it, ready to ground their arms, they found that, besides the orchard, one thing was lacking—their pursuers. But Colonel Gillmore was not to be embarrassed by the mere absence of an enemy, and he calmly ordered his troops to begin firing again, until the Continental soldiers, dashing up, effected a brilliant movement, completely surrounded the Hessians, and forced Colonel Rahl—who should have been over in the church mortally wounded—to jump from his horse and surrender his sword, on the conclusion of which ceremony the troops marched away together to join in the parade. After the battle the celebration continued for the remainder of the day. A parade formed of the various city organizations of the city and the military companies which took part in the battle marched through the principal streets of the city and past the State House, where it was reviewed by Governor Foster M. Voorhees and his staff. In the afternoon patriotic exercises were held at the opera house, at which addresses on the "Battle of Trenton" were made by Governor Voorhees, Mayor Frank O. Briggs, of Trenton, and Professor Woodrow Wilson, of Princeton College. The Right Rev. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey, and the Right Rev. James A. McFall, Bishop of Trenton, made the opening and closing prayers at the exercises.

Cave Dwellers in Wisconsin. A cave, believed by its drawings, trinkets and pottery to be the work of cave dwellers, has been discovered on a farm a few miles east of Lacrosse, Wis. The cave is a natural formation of solid white sandstone, and upon its walls pictures of characters of an ancient type were found. There are four distinct layers of ashes, indicating four occupancies. The weapons are of bone and crudely formed.

A BAD BRITISH DISASTER

General De Wet Successfully Rushes Colonel Finnerman's Camp.

The Letter Had Three Companies of Volunteers and Two Guns—General Kitchen's Report.

London—The following dispatch has been received from General Kitchen, dated Johannesburg:

"General Rundle reports that Colonel Finnerman's camp at Zeefontein, consisting of three companies of Yeomanry and two guns, was successfully rushed by a strong commando under De Wet. It is feared the casualties were heavy. Two regiments of Light Horse are pursuing the Boers. Boer resistance has always been very strong in that part of the Orange River Colony which was the scene of De Wet's Christmas coup. A great quadrangle of blockhouses is being built, the four points of which are Vereeniging, Volksrust, Harrismith and Kroonstad. At the south of this quadrangle is a long open space over which the Boers have been making their raids. The Boers are still in the area, and here De Wet made his attack.

Colonel Finnerman's force probably amounted to 400 men, and the disaster, especially the loss of the guns, the possession of which may enable De Wet successfully to attack the blockhouses, creates a disturbing impression.

STATE OF SAMPSON'S HEALTH.

Wife of the Rear-Admiral Writes His Brain is Beyond Recovery.

Urbana, Ill.—John B. Weeks, of Champaign, a personal friend of Rear-Admiral Sampson, has received a letter from Mrs. Sampson, in which she says the mental condition of the Admiral is beyond recovery. Mrs. Sampson in her letter said: "Admiral Sampson is too ill to really understand your most kind letter, just received, but if he were well he would wish to thank you for it, he cares so much for all 'old times,' and for anything that concerns Palmyra. 'The working of your letter shows that living in the West has not blinded your eyes to the truth concerning recent events. I have enjoyed your expression of the true facts as you understand them.' 'My dear husband is quite worn out with a long life of concentrated duty. Physically he is comfortable and happy, but the brain is tired beyond ever being rested.'"

GOVERNOR ROGERS DEAD.

Chief Executive of Washington State Passes Away at Olympia.

Olympia, Wash.—Governor Rogers died here from pneumonia. The Governor was taken sick Friday evening with a cold, which developed into pneumonia. On Sunday his condition was such as to alarm his friends, but on Monday he was much better, and it was thought all danger had been passed, but on Thursday Mr. Rogers was suddenly taken worse. Henry G. McBride, Lieutenant-Governor of Washington, who will become Governor, came to this State from California in 1864. He located at first in Leavenworth, in Skagit County, but in 1887 he removed to Mount Vernon County, where he now resides and practices law. In 1889 Mr. McBride was elected a Superior Judge, serving four years. In 1900 he was elected Lieutenant-Governor, as a Republican.

ALL OF SIX CHILDREN DEAD.

Father and Mother Survivors of a Kentucky Family.

Cincinnati, Ohio.—All the six children of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Childers, of Covington, Ky., have died in one month. Five of them succumbed to measles, and on Tuesday and Christmas Day the father and mother kept a ceaseless vigil at the bedside of Melissa, their eighteen-year-old daughter, the sole survivor of the children. At last she, too, breathed her last at 10 o'clock on Christmas night.

On December 7 Ettie, the fourteen-year-old daughter, died. Then Vania, aged four, followed her to the grave on December 14, after which the rest of the children were smitten. Even doctors visited the little home, and all the remedies they could suggest did not avail to stop the epidemic.

KILLED AT THE BANK'S VAULT.

Cashier Put to Death by Electricity in a Peculiar Way at Akron, Ohio.

Akron, Ohio.—David P. Wheeler, cashier of the Citizens' National Bank, was killed in a strange manner. He had been working in the bank and prepared to lock the vault. Taking an electric light in one hand, Mr. Wheeler placed the other hand on the handle of the vault door. The electric light wire had been crossed with a trolley line, and the insulation having worn off at the point where he grasped it, he received the full force of the circuit current as soon as he formed a trolley by touching the steel handle. Mr. Wheeler was fifty-three years old, and leaves a wife, one son and one daughter.

REV. DR. TALMAGE

Subject: Lessons Taught by the Nativity.

On That Christmas Night God Honored Motherhood—A Tribute to Science—Most Famous Night in History.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The discourse of Dr. Talmage is full of the nativity and appropriate for the holidays, text Luke 1, 18. "And they came with haste and found Mary and Joseph and the babe lying in a manger."

The black window shutters of a December night were thrown open, and some of the best singers of a world where they all stood there and, putting back the drapery of a cloud, chanted a peace anthem until all the echoes of hill and valley responded and echoed the hallelujah chorus. Come, let us go into that Christmas scene as though we had never before worshipped at the manger. Here is a Madonna waiting looking at I wonder not that the most precious name in all lands and in all Christian countries is Mary and there are Marys in palaces and Marys in cabins, and though German and French and Italian and Spanish and English pronounce it differently, they are all namesakes of the one whom we find on a bed of straw, with her pale face against the soft cheek of Christ in the night of the nativity. All the great painters have trodden on cascas, to present Mary and her child, but I think of the small room of that night in the world's history Raphael in three different masterpieces, celebrated them, Titoretto and Ghirlandajo surpassed themselves in the adoration of the Magi, Correggio needed to do no more than make Madonna to become immortal. It cannot truthfully be said that Governor Jelks and the State Board of Registrars have shown any spirit of partisanship in the appointment of the Registrars for Chilton county. P. M. Moore is the Populist ex-sheriff, Ed Smith-man is a conservative Democrat, and Dick Gains is a mild sort of a Democrat we believe. The appointments are good ones and we have no doubt will be entirely satisfactory to the county.

The state board of registrars completed the work of appointing county registrars Tuesday. The following appointments among others were announced:

Chilton county—Dick Gains, Jemison; Edward Smithman, Maple-ville; P. M. Moore, Chilton.

Coosa county—S. A. Thomas, Nixburg; Robert Lauderdale, Crawsville; R. S. B. Penton, Speed.
Shelby county—Thomas J. Martin, Harpersville; John Garner, Montevallo; J. T. Leeper, Colum-biana.

STATE Auditor Sowell has mailed a letter to all the tax assessors and collectors of the State relative to the payment of the poll tax.
The following copy explains itself:

"Dear Sir: I have had a large number of the assessors and collectors of the state to propound the question to me of 'What would be the tax rate for the year 1902 be?'
This I referred to the Attorney-General for his written opinion.
He is of the opinion, and in this I concur, that the rate fixed by the act of the Legislature before the adoption of the constitution will control in the assessment and collection of taxes.

There seems to be some confusion in regard to the payment, collection, etc., of poll taxes and I have received a large number of communications from assessors and collectors on this subject, wishing to know whether since the ratification of the new constitution:

1. The payment of tax could be enforced by law?
 2. Whether the collection of any fee could be enforced by law.
 3. Whether it was the duty of the assessor to assess poll tax, etc.
- These matters were also referred to the attorney general. He is of the opinion, and I concur with him that:
1. That payment of the poll tax since the ratification of the constitution is entirely a voluntary act and cannot be enforced by law.
 2. That no fee or commission can be allowed for the collection thereof whether assessed or not, previous to October 1, 1901.
 3. That after February 1, 1902, the tax payer can pay his poll tax at any time but it does not entitle him to vote at any election held by the people that year.
 4. That it is unnecessary for the assessor to assess poll taxes and no poll tax book is therefore necessary.
 5. Should a tax payer desire to pay his poll tax and tender to the collector one dollar and fifty cents that it is the duty of said collector to receive the same and give his receipt therefor, showing the date of its payment.
 6. The tax collectors shall make returns of poll tax collections separate from other collections.

Yours very truly,
T. L. SOWELL, State Auditor.

Sale: Do Experts Not Want It

The Selma Times is not anticipating a political millennium next fall. Perhaps its prognostications are reasonable. But there is one thing the good people of the State have decided, namely, the ballot-box expert must go. That kind of rascality must be stopped. It no longer has any sort of excuse, for prolonged existence except of course plain out-and-out dishonesty, for the negro will no longer be an empendary factor in public affairs. White men will make up the electorate, and ballot-box rascality will be surplusage.

This sort of rascality was not confined to the Black Belt. It may have been originated there, and it may have become a great art under the pressure of black numbers, but it finally spread to all other parts of the State until all or nearly all lived in glass houses. Here in Jefferson county were as skilled ballot box manipulators as Dallas or any other county possessed, and they cheated each other upon occasion in one county as in another. Neither Jefferson nor any other county is in a position to cast any great number of stones at the Black Belt, for all were harried with the same stick.

But such vile work must be ended, and the chief task that good citizens have in hand next fall is to see that it is ended. The ballot box experts should be served with notice that their services are no longer needed—that their peculiar occupation is gone—that they are marked men whose acts will be closely watched. Every county has such men, but no county has more than this good county of Jefferson. Let them step down and out.
This they may do gracefully, and they should be told in all counties, whether they like it or not,
that they must either reform totally and absolutely, or be bounced.—

The work of registration of voters under the new constitution will begin now in a few days. All of the registrars have not yet been appointed by the Board, but they have to the 28th of January in which to complete the appointments. The law does not fix any time for the work of registration to begin, but provides that prior to the Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to a teaspoonful, according to age, dissolved in their milk.
If you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother and child.

A WORTHY SUCCESSOR

"Somewhere Over the Sea."
All Doctors have tried to cure CAT-ARRH by the use of powders, hard paste injections and drugs in some form. These powders dig up the mucous membrane causing them to rub off and bleed. The pow-entirely driven away the same membrane that they seek to cure. And to cure, while powders and injections cannot reach the disease. An old and experienced practitioner who has for many years made a specialty

ARE YOU DEAF? ANY HEAD NOISES?

ALL CASES OF

DEAFNESS OR HARD HEARING ARE NOW CURABLE

by our new invention. Only those born deaf are incurable.

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERMAN, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion. About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noises ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the diseased ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain very truly yours.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation. Examination and advice free.

THE HOME GOLD CURE

As Superior Treatment by which Drunkards are Brought Back to Normal.

No Pains, No Vomiting, No Weakness of the Stomach, A Pleasant and Positive Cure for the Drunkard.

It is now generally known and understood that drunkenness is a disease and not weakness. A body filled with poison, and never completely shattered by periodical or constant use of intoxicating liquors, requires an antidote capable of neutralizing and eradicating this poison, and destroying the craving for intoxicants.

Refugees may now cure themselves at home without publicity or loss of time from business by this wonderful "HOME GOLD CURE" which has been perfected after many years of close study and treatment of inebriates. The faithful use according to directions of this wonderful discovery is positively guaranteed to cure the most obstinate case, no matter how hard a drinker. Our records show the marvelous transformation of thousands of drunkards into sober, industrious and upright men.

WATER CURE YOUR RUN-DOWN CHILLS. CURE YOUR FATIGUE!! This remedy is in no sense a nostrum but is a specific for this disease only, and is so skillfully devised and prepared that it is thoroughly reliable and pleasant to the taste, so that it can be given in a cup of tea or coffee without the knowledge of the person taking it. Thousands of drunkards have cured themselves with this priceless remedy, and as many more have been cured and made temperate men by having the "CURE" administered by loving friends and relatives without their knowledge in coffee or tea, and believe today that they discontinued drinking of their own free will. DO NOT WAIT. Do not be deluded by apparent and misleading "improvement." Drive out the disease at once and for all time. The "HOME GOLD CURE" is sold at the extremely low price of One Dollar, and placed within reach of every body a treatment more effective than others costing $25 to $50. Full directions accompany each package. Special advice by skilled physicians when requested without extra charge. Best prepaid to any part of the world on receipt of One Dollar. Address Dept. described for the wickedly angry child. Let him drink nothing but water and milk, permit no meat foods, allow him free vegetables, eggs and fruit. The hours of rising and retiring should be fixed; he should be as much as possible in the open air, and be bathed and well rubbed daily. In fact, regularity in all things should be rigidly adhered to. Neurasthenics should have as much nourishing food as possible.

MUSHROOMS AS FOOD.

They Give Palatableness to Other Food Materials.

Recent investigations made by the department of agriculture show that mushrooms are about equal to potatoes in the element of nutrition that goes to make flesh and blood, but that, on the other hand, they do not hold much of the fuel stuff required to keep the body machine running. Consequently, as they do a very large percentage of water, they may be said, in essence, to correspond with fresh vegetables in respect to food value. The notion that their composition resembles chiefly that of meat—a conception which has caused the term "vegetable beefsteak" to be applied to them—is an absurd error. One would have to consume eight pounds of mushrooms in a day in order to take the place of the ordinary ration of beef or mutton. The great usefulness of mushrooms lies in the palatableness which they give to other food materials. This is a matter of no small importance from the point of view of the economic expert in dietetics who looks upon the attractiveness of dishes as a touchstone in their value. This mushroom luncheon, is a trifling more than 11 per cent water. It contains nearly 4 per cent of flesh-forming stuff, 23 per cent of starchy and sugar substances, and 1 per cent of fat and fibre, with one-half of 1 per cent of mineral material.

Taboos Handshaking.

Mrs. Roosevelt occasionally demonstrates that "when a woman won't shake hands, there's an end on't." The mistress of the white house has decided ideas as to what she should and should not do and generally has her own way without giving offense to anyone. For instance, the American habit of indiscriminate handshaking, one which she does not endorse. In fact, it is very distasteful to her, as when she went to Albany as wife of the governor of New York state she made up her mind to avoid handshaking at official receptions. At the first of these gatherings she charmed her callers by the sweetness of her smile and the cordiality of her manner, but both her hands were kept steadily clasped a huge bouquet. It is understood she will adopt the same or similar way of avoiding the handshaking ordeal should it show signs of development in Washington.

Asphalt Beds of Trinidad.

According to a report prepared by the Agricultural Society of Trinidad the principal deposit of asphalt in the island is at Le Brea, where there is an apparently inexhaustible supply. The pitch lake is 110 acres in extent, unknown depth and situated 130 feet above the level of the sea. The removal of 1,200,000 tons during the thirty-four years has apparently made no impression on the lake. The lake contains no liquid asphalt, but in other parts of the island the kind of which illuminating and lubricating oils can be distilled is found well distributed. Glacé pitch, also found in the island, is used for electric insulations and for black varnishes.

The World's Loneliest Missionary.

The loneliest missionary in all the world is said to be Rev. J. Q. Sprague whose station is on Herschel Island near the mouth of the Mackenzie River within the Arctic Circle. The latest received letter from this most solitary man is dated October 23, 1902. The ship has been at Herschel Island two winters, and the missionary and his white neighbors are at Peel river, miles away.

Why He Preferred Wagner.

"Who is your favorite composer?" inquired the visitor. "I suppose you mean classical?" responded Mr. Cummings. "Certainly," Wagner," was the answer. "Gimme Wagner. Some of these other music writers start in with a tune, but as soon as you get your foot going steady in time to it they break off in a way that pretty near sprains your ankle. But Wagner never fools you. He plays fair. You know from the beginning that you ain't going to find anything, and you might as well go to sleep or read the advertisements in the program."

Will Be Held at Dallas, Texas, April 22nd and 23rd, 1902.

WILL BUILD A NAVAL CLUB HOUSE.

Captain McCalla Will Spend His Spanish Prize Money for a Club House for the Enfranchised Men of the Navy.

BY UNANIMOUS AGREEMENT

The Confederate Reunion Will be Held in Dallas April 22.

The following explains itself: Headquarters United Confederate Veterans, January 4, 1902.

General Orders No. 267:

1. The general commanding announces that under the custom established by the association, leaving the dates of the reunion to the general commanding and the department commanders, by unanimous agreement and at the desire of and acquiescence in by our host, the next reunion will be held at Dallas, Texas, on April 22, 23, 24, and 25, 1902, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday respectively.

2. On account of the rapid growth of the association and the immense accumulation of business which demands urgent attention at the coming session, four days will be given for this important session, unless the business is sooner disposed of by the delegates.

3. With pride the general commanding also announces that 1390 camps have now joined the association, and applications received at these headquarters for many more. He urges veterans everywhere to send to these headquarters for organization papers, form camps at once and join this association, so as to assist in carrying out its benevolent, praiseworthy and patriotic objects. By order of J. B. GORDON, Commanding. GEORGE MOORMAN, Adjutant General and Chief of Staff.

DIED A REAR ADMIRAL.

Richard P. Leary Lounged for Promotion; But Was Dead When It Arrived.

Boston, Mass., January 3.—Information from Washington shows that Captain Richard P. Leary, U. S. N., who died at Chelsea recently, died a rear admiral without being conscious of the fact. It was a promotion which he had looked for, and it is said to have been the only thing that troubled him in his last moments. The appointment was made the day before he died, but it was only when his brother-in-law, Dr. Fairfax Irwin, returned from his funeral at Annapolis to Chelsea that the appointment was found.

Captain Leary's retirement with the grade of rear admiral was made under the law giving the president authority to retire officers who served in the civil war, one grade higher than the position they held at the time if his request for such action is made.

Unfortunately, but for some unexplained reason, action was deferred on Captain Leary's application until his sudden death recalled the matter to the attention of the officials when he was promptly retired at the advance grade, his retirement taking effect as before his death.

AT A MEETING Saturday in Boston, the Democratic state committee unanimously refused to co-operate with the Commonwealth Club in the reception and banquet to be tendered by the latter to Hon. William J. Bryan.

FOUR THOUSAND people attended a pro-Boer meeting in Gray's army, Cleveland, Sunday afternoon. There was much applause for every expression of sympathy and encouragement for the struggling Boers. An unexpected event in the meeting was the appearance of Hon. W. J. Bryan, who is the guest of Mayor Johnson.

COLLISION AT SEA.

Unknown Vessel Causes Marine Disaster and Steals Away in the Night.

A telegram from San Francisco says the collision at sea early last Thursday morning between the steamship Walla Walla and an unknown sailing vessel, resulted in the sinking of the steamer and the probable loss of at least of twenty lives. The Walla Walla, owned by the Pacific Coast Steamship Company, sailed from San Francisco January 1st, for Puget Sound ports. She carried thirty-six first-class passengers, twenty-eight second-class and a crew of eighty men. When off Cape Mendocino, on the California coast at 4:10 Thursday morning an iron bark, believed to be French, loomed up in the haze and crashed into the Walla Walla's bow. Then the sailing vessel slid into the darkness and was seen no more. All the passengers and crew of the Walla Walla (except the few on watch, were asleep, but were aroused by the crash. The steering quarters were in the bow and it is believed that some of the steering passengers and crew were crushed to death. A big hole was made in the steamer's bow and she sank in thirty-five minutes. The officers and crew maintained strict discipline and boats and rafts were lowered. All who were not killed in the collision got off except Captain Hall, who went down with his ship. He was picked up later by one of the boats uninjured with the exception of a few bruises.

CAPT. MCALLA IS LIBERAL.

Will Build Naval Club House With Spanish Prize Money.

News comes from San Francisco that Capt. B. N. McCalla, now in command of the Kearsarge, the flagship of the North Atlantic squadron, has in view the erection of a fine clubhouse at Vallejo for the enlisted men of the navy. He has already secured a site for the proposed building, paying for it with the prize money awarded him for his services in the Spanish war. Additional funds are to be secured by popular subscription.

Mrs. McCalla is now here making the preliminary arrangements for the erection of the structure, which will probably be modeled after the Blue Jackets' Club House in Brooklyn, which was erected through the munificence of Miss Helen Gould. It will contain a library, a gymnasium, billiard rooms, a bowling alley and sleeping rooms, and will be a home for the men at Mare Island when off duty.

CAN USE PICKETS.

Judge Declares Strikers Can Adopt Any Peaceful Measures to Win.

A special from Chicago says Judge Chetlain in the circuit court of Cook county has granted the Robert Tarrant Company, a temporary injunction against striking machinists but in doing so delivered an opinion said to be the antithesis of a recent ruling in the federal court. Judge Chetlain said strikers had the right to use peaceful methods in their fights and declared that a "patrol or picket may not necessarily imply force or a threat of bodily harm."

In granting the injunction the court explained that it was not because the place was picketed but because there was unquestioned evidence that the pickets had used threats and violence. The court also declared that persons charged with violating an injunction should not be judged by a magistrate on a charge of contempt of court but should be given a jury trial.

WANT NEW SYSTEM.

Train dispatchers of the country want all possibility of collisions removed by doing away with the present system of train orders that can be misinterpreted and signals that may be useless. Instead of these methods, it is proposed to substitute colored electric lights in the engine cabins; signals that can always be seen and understood. The placing of "block" signals along the track at this day when trains often run eighty miles an hour is held to be unsafe, as they cannot always be read by the "pioneer" when going at such speed.

The widow of Henry B. Plant won seven million of dollars one day last week by the decision of Supreme Justice Lovett that the will of the railroad magnate should be established in this jurisdiction, on the ground that although he died in Connecticut he was a resident of New York. Under the New York laws the widow gets property valued at $7,000,000.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—The honest, intelligent physician is above the 'School.' Whatever is best in each case should be used, no matter to what school a physician belongs. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I unhesitatingly prescribe it, and have never yet been sorry. I know of nothing better for ovarian troubles and for falling of the womb or ulcerations; it absolutely restores the affected parts to their normal condition quicker and better than anything else. I have known it to cure barrenness in women, who to-day are happy mothers of children, and while the medical profession looks down upon 'patents,' I have learned, instead, to look-up to the healing power, by whatever name it is known. If my fellow physicians dared tell the truth, hundreds of them would voice my sentiments."—DR. WANATA, of Lansing, Mich.

The Japanese are rapidly assimilating American business notions, but they have not yet quite divested themselves of Oriental extravagance of expression, as this personal advertisement from a Tokyo newspaper will testify: I am a beautiful woman. My abundant, undulating hair envelops me as a cloud. Supple as a willow is my waist. Soft and brilliant is my visage as the satin of the flowers. I am endowed with wealth sufficient to saunter through life hand in hand with my beloved. Were I to meet a gracious lord, kindly, intelligent, well-educated and of good taste, I would unite myself with him for life, and later share with him the pleasure of being laid to rest eternal in a tomb of pink marble.

New $2,000 Contest on Savannah Cotton Receipts

From September 1, 1901, through April 15, 1902.

CONTEST CLOSING APRIL 10, 1902

Special Premium Offer for subscribers for First Quarter of 1902.

The Atlanta Constitution proposes to distribute $2,000.00 in prizes among those complying with the rules of the contest, upon estimates submitted for the cotton receipts at Savannah, Georgia, from September 1st, 1901 to and including April 15, 1902. Estimates to be received from Jan. 1 to April 10, 1902.

For the exact estimate accompanied by yearly subscription to The Atlanta Constitution (Weekly). $1,000.00 in cash to the person estimating correctly the number of bales of cotton received at Savannah, Ga. from September 1st, 1901, to April 15, 1902, provided the estimate is received by us before February 1st, 1902.

$250.00 in cash to the person sending in the exact estimate on the number of bales at any time during March or up to April 10th, 1902, received by us on or before April 10th, 1902.

For the nearest estimate accompanied by yearly subscription to The Atlanta Constitution (Weekly). $250.00 in cash for the nearest estimate to the number of bales of cotton received at Savannah, Ga. from September 1st, 1901, to April 15, 1902. This prize and all the following will be awarded without regard to the exact estimate going to the nearest in the number, whether they may be received at any time during the contest.

$75.00 in cash for the third nearest estimate on the number of bales.

$50.00 in cash for the fourth nearest estimate on the number of bales.

Greatest consolation offer: $100.00 in cash to be divided equally among those not taking any other prize who comes within 500 bales either way of the exact figures, thus allowing a margin of 1,000 bales between the limit on each side of the correct figure. This will give several persons a very nice check.

$2,000.00 in cash represents our total liability hereon. You will note the highest prize for the exact estimate is $1,000.00, and all the prizes for the nearest estimates add up another $1,000.00, making a total of $2,000.00—this being offered in addition to our agents premium offer $1,500.00 for the same period—the two offers covering a cash distribution of $3,500.00 to subscribers and agents for work early in 1902.

Note especially—Sunny South combination: Two estimates to every combination subscriber to both papers. Every subscriber to The Weekly Constitution and the Sunny South, the two papers at only $1.25 per year, will be entitled to send two estimates in this contest one for each paper. The regular price of the Sunny South is 50 cents a year, and The Weekly Constitution $1.00 every year. Every subscriber to both papers during this contest will be entitled to two estimates in the New Orleans contest. The Weekly Constitution covers the news of the world; the Sunny South is distinctively a literary paper, and the only one of its kind in the southern states. The two papers should find their way in every southern home.

The exact official figure to decide this contest will be furnished to us by Mr. J. P. Merritt, the secretary of the Savannah Cotton Exchange. Please note especially there will be five days' cotton receipts at Savannah counted after our contest has positively closed. The Constitution market page each week will give you the price receipts at Savannah since September 1st, 1901, up through Friday immediately preceding publication.

Should there be more than one correct estimate for the exact number of bales, the date upon which we receive the estimate will decide to which premium sum the prize making it shall be entitled.

Should there be more than one correct estimate received, the money will be divided into fractions whose denominators will be the total number of correct estimates received and whose numerators will be the prize sum for the period in which the correct estimates fall, thus even successful estimate will receive its share of the prize sum for its period. For instance: should A send his correct answer during January, B during February, and C during March, A would receive one third of the $1,000 prize, B one third of the $500 and C one third of the $250 prize the day upon which we receive the estimate decides the standing of the contestants. To those who have the longest time against them the largest rewards are offered. Those who wait until the time has almost expired will have the chance at only the smaller sums.

The condition precedent to sending a right to this Prize Contest is that each and every estimate must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution; the estimate must be sent by mail in the mental envelope, not being the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting to or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the contest at the time you subscribe, or any other reason, will not entitle you to send an estimate afterwards. The estimate must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one prize estimate he or she will be entitled to a prize on each one.

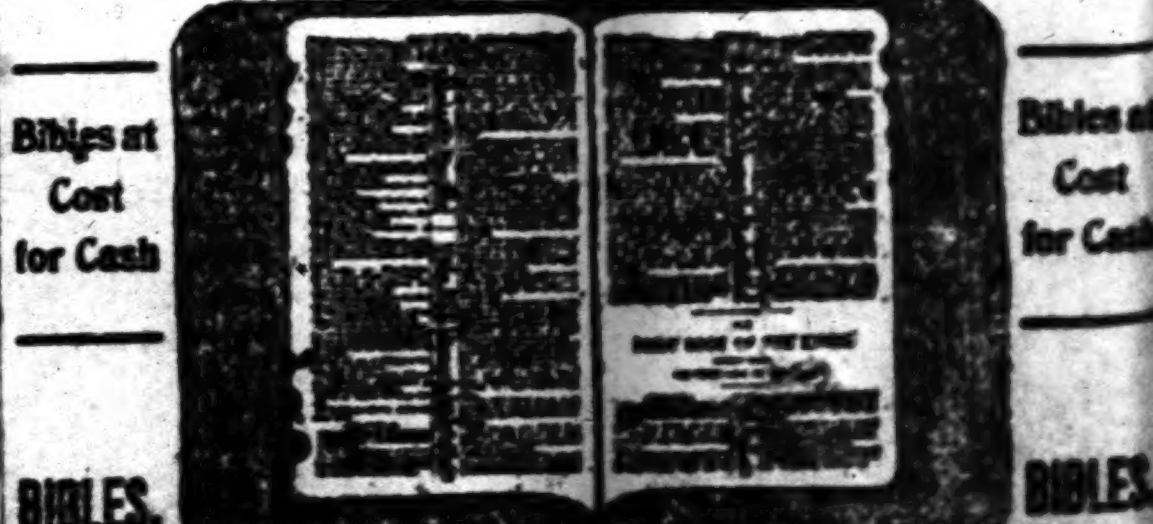

Persons may send answers as many times as they send subscriptions. Agents answers allowed as has been usual. The contest began January 1st, 1902. We record the answers on the day received and will allow no changes whatever in them afterwards. The contest closes April 10th, 1902, after which time we will pay out to the successful parties the full prize amount that has accrued under the foregoing rules of the contest. In making your answers make your figures very plain, and just state simply "Estimate."

Address all orders and enclose your estimate, subscription and money in the same envelope, by mail to:

CLANTON, - - - ALABAMA.

Love letters and all allied correspondence have long been held dangerous documents, but there has seldom been a more telling example of their importance than that afforded by the young man who will not receive a lieutenant's commission in the army because his epistle to a lady who was to have become his mother-in-law, explaining why he broke his engagement, does not please the Secretary of War.

The stumpage of the old pine forests in Minnesota, Michigan and Wisconsin is now selling at $8 and $9 per 1000 feet, the price at which the best lumber was once selling in the industry when stumpage was only worth fifty cents per 1000 feet. These three States have been nearly cleared of the pine timber, which almost covered them at one time. Nothing is practically left except the stumpage, and that will soon disappear. Neither State made any provision for reforestation.

There are 80,000,000 people in the United States. One-half of them are old enough to dream. Say they dream 200 nights in the year, then we shall have 8,000,000,000 dreams yearly to be accounted for. Out of that number a few scores are reported to the Society for Physical Research, as seeming to have some relation to events that follow. The wonder is not that so many, but that so few, dream cross the track of actual occurrences in such a way as to suggest a connection between them, observes the Christian Register.

"We wear nothing to suit ourselves, we wear nothing because it is beautiful, and we wear nothing out," is the plaint of a woman on the subject of fashions. Therefore she calls for a universal dress that will be fashionable all the time, and that can give the worth of its cost to its owner. The idea is capital; the trouble is that a universal dress for one woman is a perfect fright for all the others. Therefore fashion will have its way, and the only choice for the feminine reformer is between sackcloth and trousers and sackcloth and ashes, observes the Philadelphia Saturday Evening Post.

The house which Thackeray built for himself in London and is now known as 2 Palace Green, Kensington, was put up for sale the other day by the son of the auctioneer who sold it for the first time—thirty-seven years ago. It is a red brick mansion, screened from the road, and the lease, which has forty-one years to run, is held direct from the Crown. Many persons thought that Thackeray, when he decided to build his own house in his own grounds, was putting too great a strain on his pen. But events have shown that the speculation was a sound one, for the house was sold for $75,000.

O. P. Austin states in the National that while our exports to Canada have in the ten-year period increased nearly 350 per cent, those of the United Kingdom to British North America show a slight decrease; while our exports to British Africa have increased over 400 per cent, those of the United Kingdom have increased but about forty per cent; while our exports to Australia have increased more than 125 per cent, those of the United Kingdom have slightly decreased, and while our exports to Japan have increased 475 per cent, those of the United Kingdom have increased but about 100 per cent.

In the International Monthly Professor Shaler, the Harvard geologist, has disclosed his views about gold production. He estimates that on account of improved machinery and processes it costs now about a third as much to get gold out of lodes and veins as it did in 1850. This cheapening of production makes it profitable to work pretty poor veins, and he guesses that within twenty years that source alone may yield $500,000,000 a year. But the chief gain is to come from placer mining, which means getting the gold out of accumulations of detritus made by the decay of gold-bearing rocks. The use of dredges in handling pay dirt of this sort, and the cheapening of other processes, have made so much difference that Dr. Shaler thinks that within twenty years this sort of mining alone is likely to yield as much gold as all the mines yield now. In 1890 the earth produced gold valued at $307,000,000, so that Dr. Shaler seems to think that by 1920 the annual production may be $800,000,000, states E. S. Maris, in Harvard Weekly.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

Summary of Current Events From All Sections of Alabama.

U. S. DEPUTY MARSHAL MURDERED

Poll Tax Payment Decision—Industrial Notes—On in Colbert—Railroads Just Make All Stations Comfortable.

KILLED BY MOONSHINERS.

Deputy Marshal J. H. Holsenbeck and his son were shot and the former instantly killed by moonshiners near Boaz Saturday afternoon. It is thought the son will recover. The party had started to Gadsden with Bud Moore, a moonshiner, whom they had under arrest, and when a few miles beyond Boaz were fired upon by moonshiners in ambush, killing Holsenbeck and wounding his son.

TO BUY ELEPHANTS.

C. C. Wilson, manager of the Harris Nickel Plate shows, in winter quarters at Birmingham, went to Cincinnati last week, looking for elephants, which are said to be on sale there. The disposition of the big elephant, Gypsy, carried by this show, has been suggested, and it was stated that the beast would be killed by electricity. However, if Mr. Wilson does not succeed in making the purchase in Cincinnati, the big elephant Gypsy will continue to be a feature. The beast has already killed two men and Sunday made a second assault on her present keeper.

RUNNING AGAIN.

The car works are once more in full operation and have about 150 men at work and will employ about fifty more as soon as the foundry is completed. They have an order from the Florida East Coast Railroad for 200 cars, and are now at work on them; also, an order for 500 box cars from the Seaboard Air Line, which will be built as soon as possible, and an order for 500 car loads of castings for the Pressed Steel Car Company, which will be made at the Gadsden Foundry at once. Many improvements have been made on the plant. The cupola which was burned some time ago is being rebuilt and the foundry will start in a few days.

THAT POLL TAX PAYMENT.

Judge A. A. Coleman in the circuit court has rendered an opinion that poll tax should be paid to the county tax collector. The suit is a friendly one and was filed to test the question as to whom a citizen of Birmingham must pay his poll tax in order to vote under the provisions of the new constitution. An appeal from Judge Coleman's decision was taken at once and the attorneys hope to obtain a final decision from the supreme court this week.

WORK has commenced on the construction of the branch road between Littleton, on the Southern Railway, and Flat Top Mountain, where the Sloss-Sheffield Steel & Iron Company is now opening extensive coal mines and to which place it will remove all its convicts from Coalburg. The road will be three and half miles in length and will go down alongside the Little Warrior river. The work will be some of the hardest railroad work done in this section in years and something like five or six months time will be given for its completion. There will be no less than 200,000 cubic yards of excavations in earth and rock to be made.

OIL IN COLBERT.

The Alabama-California Oil Company struck Gordon oil sand Friday at Cherokee, Colbert county, at a depth of 300 feet. The oil brought up by the sand bucket is a bright amber, and is the finest quality of illuminating oil. Drilling has stopped to case the well with an eight inch pipe. It is believed that a big producer will come within a week.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., HAS DECIDED to present Admiral Schley a handsome gold and silver loving cup on the occasion of his visit, February 5th.

HUNTSVILLE SELLS BONDS.

Huntsville's city council sold an issue of $40,000 in 5 per cent twenty-year bonds to John D. Weakley, representing the Columbus, Ohio, First National Bank. The bid of Mr. Weakley gives the city a premium of $2550. The money realized by the sale of these bonds will be expended in building schools and paying off the city's indebtedness.

DON'T LIKE IT.

Five almost-eyed Celestials gave word to appear before Commissioner Elmore Wednesday and answer to the charge of the violation of the exclusion act. These Chinamen were arrested by the deputy marshals for the violation of said law and were unable to give bond. Two of the seven were discharged on the ground that they were merchants and not laborers. The other five gave bond. Judge Jones explained the matter to the jury, stating that he did not approve of the action, as nearly all of the Chinamen had been in America for several years. The method of arrest did not appeal to him, as it was done from the marshal's office without consulting either the district attorney or the judge. The marshal had the authority to do this, but it was always better to consult the attorney. He had no doubt of the fact that the marshal thought he was doing what was his duty and the whole affair was but a mistake in his judgment. All of the Chinamen are hopeful of remaining in the country and are loud in their praises of all the court officials.

COMMISSIONER'S NEW ORDER.

The Alabama railroad commission has issued an order of far reaching importance in ordering that railroads should post all trains and keep comfortable waiting rooms in depots. The issuance of this order was no doubt due to the lawsuit brought by Mrs. Page, of Evergreen, against the L. & N. for damage to her health caused by waiting in a cold depot. The supreme court held that as the railroad commission had issued no orders to the railroads to provide comfortable waiting rooms Mrs. Page could not recover. The matter was brought to the attention of the commission and the order was prepared and issued. It provides for comfortable waiting rooms and for all trains to be posted that a passenger may see whether they are late or on time. So far as known the railroad companies make no fight on the commission making them look after their passengers.

Y. M. C. A. BUILDING.

R. S. Munger has offered a subscription of $10,000 for the purpose of erecting a Young Men's Christian Association building in Birmingham, and a fresh movement to secure such a building has been started by the officers of the association. A number of prominent citizens have signified their willingness to make contributions. No plans have been made as yet for a building, but every effort will be made to secure a handsome structure which will be equipped with a gymnasium and all modern appliances for making the time of the young men spent in the hall pleasant and useful.

L. & N. EXTENSION.

Work began on the survey of the proposed route of the Decatur and Danville railroad at Jasper Saturday. The road will run from Jasper to Decatur through Walker and Morgan counties, and will be eight miles in length. It will pass through one of the finest parts of the state of Alabama and will make accessible excellent mineral and timber lands. It is believed the L. & N. is behind the movement and that the new line will be made to connect with that road.

A DECLARATION has been filed by the Woodward Iron Company in creating the capital stock from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000.

STEVENSON had a city election last Saturday. E. L. Johnson is mayor.

MCKINLEY MEMORIAL.

The McKinley National Memorial Association has authorized Julian H. Bingham, collector of internal revenue for Alabama, to collect subscriptions to erect a monument to the memory of the martyred president. Mr. Bingham is addressing letters to Alabamians asking for contributions and hopes to secure a goodly amount for this purpose. It has been suggested that the governors of all the states make January 29th McKinley day, as a memorial to the president and as a memorial to the country on that day.

FAMILY BURNED TO DEATH.

At Buffalo Sunday Henry Pearlstein, his wife and five children ranging in age from one and a half to twelve years were burned to death. Joseph Supowski who owned the building and Karl Bracki his brother-in-law, have been arrested pending investigation. Supowski carried an insurance of $9,000 on the building and its contents. The Pearlsteins and another family lived in rooms above a shoe store and were asleep when the fire started. Supowski told the police that he accidentally dropped a lamp a few minutes after the fire began there was a loud explosion that blew out the front of the store and hurled some of the contents of the windows into the street. The family living in the rear flat barely escaped with their lives. Before the Pearlsteins could reach the only stairway leading from their rooms the fire had undermined the floor and it collapsed, carrying them down.

CHINA LEAGUED WITH BOXERS

Documents now in possession of Columbia University, it is believed, prove that the Chinese imperial government was in alliance with the Boxer uprisings. The documents consist of an original block out and a copy of a proclamation. The circulars bear the seal of the government used on imperial documents. The wording of the circulars is as follows: "Let the Boxers of (names of eight towns near Peking) rise up to united victory." This, it is supposed, meant the destruction of the foreigners as shown in the Boxer motto, "Protect the Manchus; destroy the foreigners." The circulars are printed on yellow paper with black ink, excepting the vermilion of the seal, "imperial pencil," as it is known. Red characters, signifying the seal of the Boxers, are stamped on the lower left-hand corner.

PACIFIC CABLE.

The House committee on commerce has considered the subject of a Pacific cable. The main question is whether the cable shall be constructed by the government or by private persons. Contracts have been made for the manufacture and laying of a cable to Honolulu by November 1st next, and the company intends to extend the cable to Manila within two years from next November. The manufacture of the cable is now proceeding at the rate of 240 miles per month, and this rate will be increased to 630 miles per month. The cost of the project is between $10,000,000 and $12,000,000. The expected rate to Manila is $1 and to Honolulu 35 and 50 cents a word.

FROM THE PHILIPPINES.

Colonel Mariagan, Major Cabrera and a renegade priest named Castillo, who stole a valuable image of the Virgin from a church, for which he obtained large sums of money, have surrendered unconditionally to Gen. Bell, who is concluding the campaign in Bantangas province. Many men and guns have been captured during the past few days. It is possible that Malvar, the insurgent leader, will surrender soon. The United States has appropriated $2,500,000 for insular expenditures during the first quarter of the year.

THIRTY DAY FAST.

J. D. Choate, of New York city, is at the Colorado sanitarium at Boulder, Col., and for thirty days has eaten absolutely nothing. His fast has been self imposed and because of a stomach trouble which would not yield to medical treatment. His mental and physical condition, aside from the latter, due to his protracted fast, have not suffered in the least.

OBJECT TO UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

Lexington, Ky., Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, sent a written petition to Charles B. Scott, manager of the Lexington Opera House, asking that the play "Uncle Tom's Cabin" never be presented at the opera house there. They give reasons that the best citizens and old families living about Lexington were once slave owners as a heritage of not their own choosing; that the incidents of Uncle Tom's Cabin are not typical of slave life in the South, but of isolated cases; the play, with bloodhounds and pictures gives a false idea of the history of the times and disrespect to Southern gentlemen and good citizens and their families living in this part of the country. The petition is signed by four of the most prominent women of the chapter and endorsed unanimously by the members. It created a sensation. Mr. Scott replied as follows: "To the Committee of the Lexington Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy: Ladies, a copy of your resolution in reference to 'Uncle Tom's Cabin' has been received. Replying to same, I have only to say 'the war has been over about thirty-six years.' Yours, etc., Charles B. Scott."

RAILS BY THE MILE.

Kansas City, January 10—A cablegram from London, received from President Stillwell of the K. C. M. & B. Ry. announced that Chief Engineer Pratt has sailed for home after having arranged for the shipment of six hundred miles of rails for the line in Mexico, which were bought and paid for by the Mexican subsidy. These rails were bought delivered at Port Stillwell and Tampico at about ten dollars per ton less than the lowest delivered price obtainable from American mills. They will come from Belgium manufacturers and the first specimen is due at Tampico. The first shipment for Port Stillwell is now en route. About one-fifth of the 1600 miles of the line has been graded without the issuance of bonds.

HUMAN FREIGHT.

Frank Holt, a military prisoner on Alcatraz Island, serving a thirteen-year sentence for desertion, has escaped. He concealed himself in a large wooden box which was consigned to a clothing firm in San Francisco and was put on board the steamer McDowell. The top of the box was so arranged with leather straps that it could be opened from the inside. It is thought that after the box was put aboard Holt crawled into it and did not emerge until the vessel reached the dock. As Holt was dressed in a blue uniform he walked away as any other soldier, without detection.

CROKER RETIRES.

Richard Croker announced his retirement from the formal leadership of Tammany Hall Saturday afternoon at the meeting of the executive committee, at which the plan of organization for the year 1902 was agreed upon. Lewis Nixon was chosen as Mr. Croker's successor as the chairman of the finance committee. This position carries with it the leadership of the organization.

A GRIEF-STRIKEN TOWN

Victims of Railway Tunnel Disaster Lived in New Rochelle, N. Y.

HEARTRENDING SCENES ENACTED

Intense Excitement When News of the Accident Was Received—Indignation of Citizens at the Calamity of the Railway Officially Expressed at a Mass Meeting—Suburban Towns Affected.

New Rochelle, N. Y.—Perhaps after all the greatest suffering occasioned by the tragedy in the Central tunnel was born in this little town where live the friends and loved ones of almost every victim. There is scarcely a street in the place on which at least one family is not either mourning for its dead or ministering to the wants of the injured.

On the day of the accident business was almost entirely suspended and excitement, suspense and despair alternated among the people. The stores and shops were filled with groups of men telling anecdotes about friends and acquaintances who had been killed, and speculating upon the chances for life of those who had been maimed. At the telephone exchange men and women for a time fairly fought for places at the telephones in search of information. There was hysterical laughter at the receipt of reassuring news and sounds of grief from time to time. At the railroad station, where the telegraph office is located, there were enacted throughout the day heartrending scenes.

It was not until the following day that this grief-stricken city recovered somewhat from the paralyzing shock of the disaster and began to awaken to a sense of intense indignation. As the harvest of death reaped in the hole under the New York City streets was slowly garnered in the home of New Rochelle, the townsmen of the dead and the maimed began to ask each other not how this thing occurred, but why. This was the burden of the conversation in many places throughout the city, and even among those who stood about the station platform with raised hats, as from the baggage cars of various trains were taken the coffins containing the victims. These quivering fires of indignation and wrath broke into flame when a prominent professional and business man met at the home of former Mayor Michael J. Dillon, and issued a notice for a public indignation meeting to take whatever action was deemed advisable, and to appoint a number of committees to bring about once and for all time such a system of railway facilities as will safeguard the lives of those who are obliged to travel every day.

The feeling in New Rochelle has spread throughout Westchester County, and Mayor Clarke has received a letter from Mayor Fluke, of Mount Vernon, who, after expressing sympathy with the citizens of New Rochelle in their bereavement, asked Mayor Clarke if he would take part in a concerted movement among the cities and towns of Westchester County in demanding the abolition of steam in all local traffic through the tunnel and the substitution of electric motor power and electric lighting therein. Mayor Fluke also sent a letter to Mayor Walsh, of Yonkers, asking for co-operation, and it is believed that every town in the county will join in the movement.

New York City.—District Attorney Jerome and representatives of the State Railroad Commission have made a searching investigation of the causes of the New York Central tunnel horror. The results will be utilized at the Coroner's inquest.

It has been developed that John M. Wisker, the engine driver, now imprisoned in the Tombs, has been licensed only since last August, and had only made the south bound run through the tunnel twice before the disaster. As a locomotive fireman his record is good. He is a member of a Methodist church in the Bronx, and his pastor, his landlord and his neighbors all speak highly of him.

District Attorney Jerome, after examining all the train hands involved except the engine driver, announced that his task would be prosecuted fearlessly, and that indictments would be sought wherever the yare deserved. The officers and directors of the New York Central Railroad may be indicted for manslaughter, as they ignored presentments by the Grand Jury and by the newspapers as to the lack of ventilation and light in the tunnel. It is probable that Mayor Low, backed by Aldermen Cantor and the Board of Aldermen, may take early steps to compel the adoption of electricity as the motive power in the New York Central tunnel.

Damage suits aggregating more than $1,000,000 are expected to grow out of the tunnel catastrophe. The New York Central, it is expected, will have to pay immense sums to the families of those who were killed and to the families of those who were seriously hurt. It is many who were seriously hurt, and will be crippled for life, and these unfortunate ones will demand extra heavy damages.

Seven Men Drown in a Wreck.

The steamer Bristol, one of the oldest carriers of the Pacific coast, lies a total wreck on the end of Green Island, B. C., and her captain, with six members of the crew, has been drowned. The vessel was on her way from Ladysmith, Vancouver Island, to the Treadwell mine, on Douglas Island, Alaska, with 2500 tons of coal.

Suicide Club—And His Wife.

A pastry cook named Tantale at St. Etienne, France, had a quarrel with his wife and killed her with a revolver. He thrust her body into an oven and which he lighted a big fire. He then committed suicide. The calcined remains of the woman were found in the oven.

Call For Men to Fight Boers.

The British War Office has issued a call for infantry volunteers grateful to replace those now serving in South Africa.

City Versus

DR. PARKER'S SUNDAY SAYS

A movement which is in progress throughout the country, headed by Judge Jerome, recently elected Mayor of New York, is the adoption of a more lenient law. The views of Judge Jerome are that the law which should be thrown out of the city is the general opinion that the law is too strict. In the state, as in the city, the law is too strict. The measure has failed to accomplish its purpose. It is believed that the law is too strict in the city and in the state.

A Revision of the law which gave birth to the hotel has done much to approval against the whole, and in many cases door evil has also arising effect not only officials, who wink at violation of the law, but public generally.

Many prominent New Yorkers have been interviewed, and are convinced that the need for a change in the law will do away with the evil upon the closing of saloons. With this end in view, they are bringing about a conference representing various elements and business life in New York, and drafting a measure that could be passed by the Legislature, and measure for ratification.

A Unique Spectacle. The opinions of the New Yorkers expressed on the subject.

WHAT PEOPLE

Some Curious Insect D

Allying of the Apes. The ancient Israelites, fried in oil, and many others in Africa have been cooked locusts to be eaten and nourishing, with a taste of boiled eggs. The philosopher, Socrates, with other things, considered a cooked grasshopper to be more than equal on the French army in Algeria. Grasshoppers, simply grasshoppers, were not only a valuable addition to the old campaigner's diet, but back home with them French grasshoppers are valued French provinces as an article in Poitiers, France, the grasshoppers in the fields are raw. The natives on Africa, catch in nets along the koungs and make an article. They are said to have a variety. In many of the lands spiders are the chief delicacy. In portions of Central America caterpillars are eaten and have been approved by others who have tasted them. French bon vivant, eat locusts and in many French districts a cricket called the cricket is regarded as an excellent food. A resumption, once offered French senate, to provide destruction of the caterpillars of the injury to vegetation, met with strong opposition from many learned senators who value the people as the value of the people as the value of the people.

from perishing; and how I bought ten bushels of corn away down the river at $150 a bushel and got good old Howard Bryant to keep it hid for me at his home six miles from town, and once a week he took a bushel to mill and had it ground and brought to town hid under the seat of his buggy; and how the scouts and outlaws robbed everybody who had anything, and these outlaws were a company of cavalry made up of thieves and deserters from our own army; and how I had a bale of factory shirting hid out in the country for two years and as soon as we dared it was brought home and my wife could exchange a few yards at a time for potatoes and chickens; and how about these times the confederate detectives arrested a quartermaster in Selma for big stealing and put him in jail, and he was desperately scared and wanted to get out and run away, and there wasn't a lawyer in Selma, for General Morgan and General Pettus and Dawson and all the rest were in the army, and a friend of mine advised him to send for me, and he did, and I went down there in an old buggy, for there was no railroad running then and I interviewed him in jail and agreed to get him for $75,000, and it was deposited with my friends, and I did get him out on a habeas corpus and a straw bond, and he ran away and is running yet, I reckon; and how a little steamboat came up from Mobile with some blockade goods, and I bought two pounds of opium for $5,000 and fifty pair of cotton cards on the leaf without backs or handles for $100 a pair, and that took the rest of the money, and the captain gave me two pounds of coffee and as much sugar, and I put the opium in one side of a little old rusty valise and the cards in the other side and returned home and formed a partnership with Bob Hargrave, who had a half box of cheap tobacco, and we opened a store and took in a third partner, which was my wife, who sent down two bolts of shirting, and we went to trading for something to live on. We assessed the cards at $300 a pair and the opium at $10 in gold for an ounce and the shirting at $2 a yard. It was a kind of department store. Bob clerked on one side and I on the other. We didn't take confederate money for anything, for it got worse every day, but we exchanged things—and we sold the opium to the few who needed it for gold they had hid away. Our store was a sensation, for it was the only one in town that had a stock of goods. All the others were empty. In April, 1865, a company of bluecoats came down in the night and next morning we were all surprised to see them. Mr. Lincoln was killed two days before. So it was rumored, but we didn't believe it. Dr. King was a great big red-headed man and said what he pleased, so he rode up to the company and said: "Cappon, is there any truth in the report that ole Abe Lincoln is dead?" The captain replied roughly: "Yes, sir, he's dead and buried." "Well, I thought if he was dead it was likely that they would bury him," said King, and he put spurs to his horse and galloped down the street to tell us the news. The captain said afterwards he came very near ordering the men to shoot him.

And so we talked over the old war times, and the good lady and our other guests listened and laughed and wondered until bed time.—Bill Arrp, in Atlanta Constitution.

JOEL SMITH REPLIES.

He Makes Frank Statement in Answer to Arrp's Letter of Last Week.

Editor Constitution: In The Constitution of a week ago, in the headlines of Bill Arrp's letter, you state: "But the same Joel advertises that he is Arrp's boy." This statement is without foundation. I have never advertised that I was Arrp's son, but, on the contrary, have invariably stated that I was not related to him, when inquiry was made.

Bill Arrp, in his last week's letter in your paper, does me a great injustice. I feel sure, he had known me, or had definite information as to my business, he would not have written as he did.

The work I have been engaged in is not an "endless chain humbug." It is true, I have had a number of agents for the past few years who have solicited subscriptions for my paper, job printing, advertising, etc., but I have kept faith with them. My business was perfectly honorable and legitimate, as every one who has looked into it has found.

That you may know who I am, I will give you such information as will afford you ample opportunity to find out. I was born and raised on a farm in Echols county, Georgia, where my parents still reside. My father, J. D. Smith, has represented that county in the Georgia legislature, and also the senatorial district of which Echols forms a part. I and my family are well known to the best people of Echols and Lowndes counties.

Leaving the farm in 1887, I attended the University of Georgia in Athens for three years. Leaving school in 1890, I moved to Monticello, Fla., where I have since continuously resided and been in the newspaper business. Should you desire to know my standing there, I invite you to inquire of any citizen of Monticello, Fla.

During my stay in Monticello, by hard and earnest efforts, I have built up a fairly good business with my paper—The Monticello Weekly Constitution—which, by the way, was established in 1874 under that name by Colonel Fildes. By diligent effort I had increased its circulation to the largest of any paper in Florida—this was done by seven years' hard work. In October last year, I purchased and carried to Monticello the best newspaper press, with the possible exception of one, in Florida, together with other costly machinery.

However, during the last few months I have encountered serious opposition in my business from papers in other sections whose publishers did not know me. This opposition has been continuous and persistent, and to maintain my business I have been compelled to devote more time and energy to it than my health would permit. My business having been damaged and my health being run down, I am unable to give it the attention necessary for its successful continuation. But I shall protect those who have worked for me, and to do this I shall voluntarily sacrifice all that I have saved by nearly twelve years' hard struggle, provided it takes all. Unfriendly criticism, amounting in some instances to falsehood, has made this sacrifice on my part necessary. This criticism invariably comes from those who do not know me and who do not endeavor to find me out. JOEL E. SMITH.

FIGHTING WITH GIANTS.

Major Austin's Expedition Along the Anglo-Abyssinian Frontier.

Among the latest joys of empire building in Africa are week long fights with giant savages. In an extremely interesting account of his expedition along the Anglo-Abyssinian frontier, Major Austin tells, among other things, of an encounter with the Turkhana, a tribe of giants inhabiting the shores of Lake Rudolph. One night these tribesmen came upon some members of Major Austin's caravan and killed three Soudanese soldiers.

A second attempt to rush the camp was after some trouble beaten off, and when the expedition moved off these gigantic tribesmen hung on to its skirts.

It took a month for the caravan to get clear of their country, and during that time thirty members of the expedition died.

The hostility of the Turkhana seems strange in the face of the entirely different demeanor observed in them by the late Captain Welby, whose useful life was cut short in the unending war.

When this gallant officer passed through the Turkhana country he found that the tribesmen fled at his approach, leaving their villages entirely deserted.

Penetrating into the bush the captain and his party, saw several Turkhana men moving through the forest. They appeared, said the captain, to be filled rather with fear and curiosity than with any intention of hostility.

These warriors, who moved about the bush in little groups, were men of enormous stature, many of them perfect giants in their build. They were magnificent specimens of savage manhood, and all were armed with spears of unusual length.

The most curious feature of their personal adornment was their fashion of dressing their hair. It fell in thick, carefully woven masses right down to their waist, forming a sort of net, in which were primitive trinkets and other ornaments.

As for the Turkhana women, they were so dreadfully frightened when they saw Captain Welby and his men, that it was plain they thought their last hour had come. But by his kindness, and making some little present to them each time he encountered them, the captain eventually overcame their fears, and by degrees the Turkhana women, susceptible like all their kind to the charms of the sons of Mars, lost the despairing look which had overspread their faces when they first saw the white man.

Once, when the captain came upon a party of Turkhanas, the savage giants sprang to their feet and gazed at him in profound astonishment, making no sign either of hostility or terror.

Then, all of a sudden, without any visible cause, they turned and fled, leaving everything behind them but their spears.

Somewhat these gentle giants seem to have overcome their fear of white men.—London Star.

Neglect of Patent Models.

"I have one criticism to make," said a stranger who had been praising Washington. "You do not treat the models of great, ingenious or otherwise interesting patents with consideration. Many of these are crowded in cases in an ill-lighted room, on the top floor of the Patent Office, and visitors are admitted only between the hours of 9 and 2. Many other models are stored in the old city postoffice building on G street. These ought to be brought together, grouped, properly displayed, labeled and catalogued. The Government should create an inventors' museum. A great deal more space is given to collections of Indian relics, chipped tomahawks and broken arrow-heads than to models of devices with which man has pulled himself up to the present level of civilization."—Washington Star.

French engineers are working on plans to transform the lower Rhone into a gigantic hydraulic stairway.

It is pointed out that the French soldier, with the abundance of marmalade, chocolate, figs, licorice and caramels in his rations, has a larger allowance of sweets than the soldiers of other nations. Sugar now ranks high in favor with military authorities as fighting food. An allowance of pure candy was added to the rations of American soldiers in the Philippines

McCreary as Deboe's Successor.
Former Governor James B. McCreary, of Kentucky, received the Democratic caucus nomination for United States Senator from Kentucky. This nomination is practically equivalent to an election.

But heart courtesy must precede hand and head and foot courtesy. Cultivation of it should begin in the father's house. We often notice that brothers and sisters are often angry and say things and do things that they would not have the outside world know about. Rough things are sometimes said in households which suggest that the family is not a place of discrimination and fault-finding and harsh criticisms, which will have their effect thirty and forty and fifty years afterward. In the sleep driven by the east wind and the showers of kindness and gentleness will grow.

Let children hear their parents picking at each other, and those children will be found picking at each other, and families dis- posed to pick at each other. Better than this habit of picking at children, which so many parents indulge in, would be one good, healthy quarrel between a father and mother, lasting a few minutes that is the cold drizzle of many days. We never get over our first home, however many homes we may have afterward.

Let the children hear their parents show heart courtesy by indulging in the habit of praise instead of the habit of blame. There are evils in the world that we must de-

CLINTON, - - - ALABAMA.

The Swiss military authorities complain that the growing popularity of football in that country is distracting the young men's attention from rifle practice and other useful sports.

The Indianapolis Journal thinks that the transportation problem, already a serious one, is likely to become far more so in the near future. Considering its relation to the prosperity of the country and the price of products, there is no more important problem for American statesmanship and enterprise to solve.

Even worse than usual must have been the "music" rendered by that barn-storming theatrical company's brass band on the streets of Clinton, Mo., the other day. Scarcely had the discordant notes of the first "tune" begun to be audible, when a country horse hitched near by reared up in agony and fell dead on the pavement.

A marked increase in pauperism is reported in London. Last year nearly 4500 more than usual received aid at the almshouses. No cause is assigned for it. Perhaps we do not have to look beyond the South African war for it, because war always brings poverty and destitution in their most aggravated form to the thresholds of the poor.

Experiments are being made in Europe with alcohol which have been so successful that certain enthusiasts declare that it will be the fuel of the future. There is no doubt that means will be discovered to make a better use of the heat-generating properties of alcohol than hitherto. If so, we shall have no cause for complaint, as we have the power to produce an almost unlimited supply of the fluid.

The average increase in the length of railways throughout the world is about 11,000 miles per annum, equal to nearly 3/4 per cent. of the total lines existing, which at the beginning of this century embraced nearly 480,000 miles. Of the increase during the recent years 4100 miles per annum are added to the European system, 3500 miles per annum to the American system, while the addition in Asia is at the rate of 350 miles, in Africa 1100 miles, and in Australia 160 miles per annum.

Russia keeps closer tab on firearms than any other nation. The purchaser of a weapon must first obtain a permit from the authorities. The purchaser's name and the number of the weapon are officially recorded. The authorities must be notified of any subsequent sale or gift of the weapon, and a record of the transfer is entered. Thus a firearm used for assassination or any unlawful demonstration is traceable at once, and the person last recorded in possession is held responsible for the crime in which it has been used. Perhaps no other government except that of Russia could enforce such a law, but it is nevertheless a good one.

The annual mortality lists of men shot by careless hunters in the Maine woods are getting very tiresome. This season twelve men were shot and five of them died. In the Adirondacks the case is very much the same. One trouble is that the invading army of city sportsmen include many persons who are not fit to be trusted with any firearm. Another is that the rifles commonly used carry much too far. There is a new law in Maine under which sportsmen who shoot men may be prosecuted, but it is not enforced. Why not make every sportsman from outside the State put up a bond of $5000, to be forfeited if he hits anything human? queries Life.

Carelessness in letter-writing is a fault unfortunately as common as it is serious. It is annoying in any relation, and in business matters it causes more trouble than anything else except dishonesty. One would think that the most rattled-brained writer would at least remember to sign his name plainly and give his address, but business houses are constantly annoyed by correspondents who do neither. "We have thousands of calls for catalogues," says the head of a firm which manufactures firearms, "yet in many cases the writer's address is left off entirely. One such letter came in this morning." No doubt the writer of that letter wonders why his request was not granted, and blames the firm. A man to buy no careless as he, to better off without a gunnery way.

One of the most terrible catastrophes recorded in Mexico is reported to have occurred Friday afternoon when an extremely violent earthquake shook was felt at Chilpancingo, causing great loss of life and injury. Details from the stricken districts indicate that 300 persons were killed and as many more injured. It is known that the state capitol, the parish church and many business houses and residences are in ruins and there is much suffering. One of the edifices that suffered most was the federal telegraph office which explains the paucity of news. The number of deaths were greater in the parish church as worshippers were gathered there for the afternoon service. The solid masonry walled roof fell. Several people were killed there. The war department has ordered the troops in the neighborhood to co-operate in the work of rescue. In Mexico City the earthquake took place at 5:27. The Pan-American congress was in session at the time and many of the delegates were greatly alarmed. The duration was fifty-five seconds. Damage slight. The state of Guerrero has always been the focus of seismic disturbances. The earthquake was also intense at Iguala, destroying the parish church and many buildings. Among the latter was the sugar mill of General Friabie, an American. The mill had just been completed and fitted up with American machinery at a cost of $200,000. The property loss is immense throughout the state.

A second shock came the following day, Thursday, raising to the ground many houses spared in the first earthquake. The people are camping out on the Alameda and in the fields. Hundreds of families are ruined. The buildings destroyed include the barracks of the Seventeenth battalion, from which the soldiers were marched, thus saving their lives. The parish church, which was being repaired, having been injured in a recent earthquake, is destroyed. The statue of General Nicolas Bravo was thrown down and the town government building was so badly cracked that it is all is momentarily expected. Great fires are running across the streets. The whole region affected by the earthquake of Thursday and Friday has been the scene of marked seismic movements for several years.

NURSE'S CRIME.

When Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Whitaker returned from calling Sunday they found the nurse upstairs in an unconscious condition from a physical attack. She had turned on the gas and inhaled it from the jet. Later they found their dead baby hanging from a gas pipe in the cellar. Mr. Whitaker is a prominent member of the Cincinnati bar.

ITS DOORS CLOSED.

An application for a temporary receiver has been filed by the directors of the Commercial Bank of Albany, Ga. The bank did not open for business last Friday morning. The liabilities are estimated at $123,000, with assets of $101,000 in bills receivable and real estate.

BOER EXECUTION.

Lord Kitchener has confirmed the death sentence upon the Boer commandant Schepers who was captured last October. He will be shot next Saturday.

The boiler of a Rock Island passenger locomotive exploded near Victor, Ia., early Saturday. The engineer and fireman were both killed, while the brakeman and two porters were seriously injured. The Pullman car from Des Moines was thrown from the track and rolled down the embankment. None of the passengers were seriously injured.

CHURCH FIGURES.

Religious statistics of the United States for 1901 have been completed. They show that at the end of 1900 there were 37,330,610 members of all churches in the United States, and 23,090,567 at the end of 1901, a gain of 680,027 or 2.67 per cent, or greater than the gain in population, 2.18 per cent. The Catholics lead with a present membership of 9,158,741, a gain of 488,083. The percentage of growth in the Protestant Episcopal church, 4 per cent, is next to the Roman Catholic church, and was greatest in the Eastern cities. The Disciples of Christ, whose membership is almost wholly in the middle West, has almost doubled its following since 1890. There are twenty-two different kinds of Lutherans in the country. The total Lutheran growth last year was 36,011. The Methodist total membership is 2,762,691; the Methodists (north) increased but 16,500 last year. It is believed there are 300,000 Mormons in or about Utah, and it is stated that 65,000 converts were made last year by 1,140 missionaries in the East. There are twelve kinds of Presbyterians.

ATTEMPTED WRECK.

An attempt to wreck the eastbound passenger train on the Southern Railway near Watauga, Tenn., Saturday was almost successful. Some one placed a spike in the joint between the rails, and the engine of a train carrying forty passengers left the track while running at the rate of forty miles an hour. The engine clung to the ties until it came to a standstill, and no one on the train was hurt. Detectives are investigating.

ALIBI FOR HOWARD.

About a dozen witnesses were heard in the Jim Howard trial Saturday at Frankfort, Ky. F. M. Poore and H. G. Robertson both testified that Howard was in the Board of Trade hotel when they heard that Goebel was shot. Poore said he knew Howard well and described minutely the clothes worn by the latter. He said he was clean shaven and the description he gave did not tally with that of the man named Gains and John Roke said to have jumped over the state house fence.

HOME RULE.

The most important event of the reassembling of parliament was undoubtedly the emphatic declaration of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the liberal leader in the house of commons, that the liberal party is still committed to home rule. This was so utterly at variance with Lord Rosebery's Chest-rified speech that it was taken to completely nullify the other passages of Sir Henry's opening speech in which he endeavored to conciliate the Rosebery faction.

Gates & Brown, wholesale grocers, were burned out early Sunday morning. Loss about $80,000, fully covered by insurance.

FREIGHTS COLLIDE.

Two freight trains met in head-on collision on the Baltimore and Ohio railroad six miles north of Parkersburg, W. Va., Sunday, killing the engineer and fireman of one train and injuring two brakemen. The cars were piled up and both engines were almost demolished. The dead engineer had orders to run at Vienna siding, but he was relieving his fireman, who was new and confused and passed the siding without knowing it.

DOOTHAN LASES IN SCHOOL HOUSE BY FIRE

DOOTHAN SCHOOL BURNED.

Doothan's large two-story school building was entirely destroyed by fire Saturday. The fire was past control when the department arrived, and in less than an hour the building, which was one of the nicest in the state, was a total ruin. The fire is supposed to have caught from a defective furnace. The building was finished three years ago at a cost of from $15,000 to $20,000, and there was about $8,800 insurance. Over 500 children are out of school for the present. Temporary quarters will be arranged at once. Work will begin on a new building as soon as arrangements can be made. It is possible that a much larger building will go up on the same site as the old one was inadequate. Before the fire was out $5,000 was raised for a new building.

POSSIBLE MURDER.

News comes from Florence of the mysterious death of Samuel Jackson, who lived just across the line of Lauderdale county, in Tennessee, near a place called Marbut. Jackson left home a few days ago and has not been heard of since until his body was found Friday in a stream, with many marks of violence. A revolver and $43 in money were still on his person, so if he was foully dealt with, robbery was evidently not the motive. Three women have been arrested on suspicion and are now in jail.

SUNKEN STEAMER RAISED.

The work of raising the sunken steamer M. W. Kelly is completed. The boat is now en route to Apalachicola, where it will undergo a thorough course of repairs. The Kelly is regarded by boatmen as an A 1 steamer and will soon be made as good as new. The work of placing this steamer again on the waves is regarded by all who saw it as a fine feat of mechanical engineering.

KILLED BY ACCIDENT.

Pete E. Florence, of Eufaula, Ala., a highly esteemed and influential citizen, met with an accident Saturday afternoon that caused his instant death. Mr. Florence had been riding over his plantation on horseback and carried his shotgun. Just as he reached the house and was in the act of dismounting, the gun was accidentally discharged and the entire contents of one barrel entered his stomach. He was about forty-six years old and leaves a family of six girls and one boy, several of whom are about grown.

FIFTY BULLETS MISSED.

A pitched battle took place near Broompton Saturday evening between a posse of citizens and a gang of burglars. Over fifty shots were fired but no one was hurt. The robbers were surrounded by a crowd of enraged citizens, and for fear of further trouble the sheriff of Jefferson county was called on for assistance. The burglars entered the house of William Morrison and were discovered. They fled towards Broompton with a posse in pursuit. When the two forces came in sight of each other many shots were exchanged.

AFTER SEVEN DAYS' WORK.

A horrible accident occurred on the gas producer trestle at the Ensley Steel Plant early Friday morning. M. N. Van Horn, who was in charge of several of the gas producers was instantly killed. The unfortunate man was engaged in oiling the machinery necessary to operate the producers and while doing this became entangled in the machinery. His overcoat caught in some cog wheels and he was drawn in and crushed to death. He had been working just a week when killed. He leaves a wife in Huntington, W. Va.

FLORENCE is to have a new railroad.

The Florence Phosphate, Iron & Railroad Co. proposes to build a railroad from Florence, Ala., to Marietta, Tenn., 45 miles, for the development of its coal and iron interests in Tennessee and Alabama. The road will connect with a branch of the L. & N. at Marietta, and the L. & N. and Southern at Florence. Work of construction will begin at once.

ALABAMA THIRD.

Reports to the geological survey on the mineral industry of the United States during 1900 show that the Lake Superior region, embracing Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin, produced more than 20,000,000 long tons of iron ore, or 75 per cent of the total for the United States, more than was mined in the whole country in any previous year excepting 1893. Minnesota is the largest producer, followed closely by Michigan, with Alabama third. In order of the production of iron ore, down to less than 500,000 tons the states rank as follows: Minnesota, Michigan, Alabama, Virginia, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Tennessee. The total imports of ores in 1900 were 897,801 long tons, valued at $1,303,196, an increase of 33.2 per cent over 1899. Cuba was the largest foreign contributor, Spain next and New Foundland and Labrador third. The exports, chiefly of Lake Superior ores and chiefly to Canada, amounted to 51,460 long tons, valued at $154,756.

PLUMS FOR BIRMINGHAM.

It is reported that it is the purpose of the Southern Railway to build a handsome passenger depot and large car shed on its recent big purchase on Railroad avenue and Twenty-fourth street. It is stated that that arrangements have been made to build a magnificent hotel on First avenue on the site of the old Caldwell hotel, the latter project being encouraged by the prospect of the big new depot.

THE PAY ROLL of the Birmingham post office will shortly amount to $1,000 a year. The payroll amounts now to $60,000 a year, and this will shortly be increased by the payment of the salaries of all the rural free delivery carriers throughout the state. There are twenty rural free delivery carriers in Jefferson county and about thirty others throughout the state, principally at Opelika, Oxford, Anniston, Jacksonville and Huntsville.

COTTON MILL FIGURES.

The census report on cotton seed manufacture in 1900 shows that there were 357 establishments for the extraction of cotton seed oil in the United States, using 2,479,386 tons of cotton seed, costing $29,632,616, an average cost of $11.55 per ton. The total value of the products was $42,411,835. The quantity crushed was 53 per cent of that produced. The quantity by tons and cost of cotton seed crushed and quantity and total value of products by states follow: Alabama cotton seed, 172,093 tons; cost $2,019,085; products, $2,952,254; Georgia, 271,833 tons; cost $3,246,814; products, $4,787,100; Louisiana, 250,983 tons; cost, $2,833,767; products, $4,397,891; Mississippi, 304,678 tons; cost, $4,577,995; products, $6,671,081; Tennessee, 16,370 tons; cost, $1,848,820; products, $2,737,038; Texas, 693,604 tons; cost, $7,560,661; products, $11,519,656.

STRUCK A LOG.

The river steamer Frank S. Stone was wrecked by a floating log or "dead head" in Mobile river Sunday night. No lives were lost. The steamer carried twenty-five passengers and a crew of twenty-five, and a large general cargo also, and a barge towed along side was filled with merchandise. The bow of the boat was pierced by the log and the steamer sank in fifteen minutes. The boat was valued at $50,000, fully insured. The amount and value of the cargo is not known.

SAW MILL BURNED.

Mrs. J. A. Lancaster lost $3,000 Saturday by the burning of her gin and saw mill in Elmore county. She carries no insurance.

PANIC STRICKEN.

Panic followed the explosion of a car stove on an L. & N. train Saturday. The car was full of passengers and one unknown young lady jumped off the train despite the efforts to prevent her and was seriously hurt, one leg and an arm being broken, and other injuries being sustained.

HAS HIS NERVE WITH HIM.

When the trial of the case resulting from the Cuban postoffice funds was resumed Saturday, the examination of C. F. W. Neely, chief of the bureau of finance, was continued. Neely said that his "O. K." on bills only signified goods had been received. Not one of Rathbone's private bills for receipts, the witness said, were paid from the postal funds. Neely denied telling C. M. R. K. his assistant, that he (Neely) had saved Rathbone $5000 by including his private accounts in those of the postal department. He denied he had entered into a conspiracy with Reeves and Rathbone to defraud by issuing duplicate warrants. He said all the warrants were drawn in Reeves' office. Neely was confronted with Reeves three times. He maintained perfect composure and evaded no questions explaining all transactions clearly and giving Reeves the lie direct. Neely said Reeves was crazy and that he would show to the court that Reeves was not with him under some circumstances related.

MURDER IN NEW YORK.

Bela Brown, aged 65, a dealer in diamonds was found murdered at Rochester, Sunday night. His legs were tied and he was gagged. In the head was a hole extending into the brain evidently made by a hammer, found near the body, smeared with blood and white hairs from the head of the victim. All about were evidences of struggle, but search failed to discover any positive clue as to the identity of the murderer or murderers. From the position of the body the conclusion was reached that the murderer had placed Mr. Brown before he was killed, which was looked and which contained thousands of dollars worth of diamonds and jewelry, and had tried to force him to open it. The murderer secured nothing of value except perhaps a diamond stud which Mr. Brown wore and which is missing.

DOUBLE SADNESS.

While at his dying mother's bedside, Thomas Vernon Livingston, the four-year-old son of John D. Livingston, of Atlanta, swallowed a poisonous disinfectant and died an hour later. Hurrying from the bedside of his dying wife, the distracted father found his little boy cold in death, and, crazed with grief at the double blow of bereavement, he tried to kill himself to end his troubles. The mother at death's door; the child shrouded in the grave, and the father raving in the delirium of temporary insanity.

DIAMOND ROBBERY.

Robbers secured between ten and twenty thousand dollars worth of unset and set diamonds Sunday at St. Paul, by stealing two trunks from the baggage room of the Northern Pacific. Nothing is missing from the trunk except a bag of unset diamonds and those or four hundred diamond rings. A tray containing twenty-four set diamonds was overlooked by the robbers. The trunks were the property of the traveling representative of Clausen & Co., wholesale manufacturing jewelers of Minneapolis. Four men were in the upper story of the station asleep and the express agent slept in a room adjoining the baggage room but none of them heard the robbers at work.

The cry is still "They are coming to get me." The victims continue to sympathize. I am sorry for an amazed at their stupidity. Now here are needy women in this room and each sent him a five dollar note—not a name. The women know that nobody here would make one sacrifice to a man and went diligently to letters and sending five dollar notes to other places to join the scheme and get payment at $20 a month. Last women sent $25 each writing to a third and so it goes on and on, and chain up all Europe's principle on which all chain schemes are based. The chain will break soon and I am pleased to hear them say he will have but that he will protect his "cannot do it. Lady Dorothy Nevill is one of the wisest women in London today. Some time ago there was a rich and ambitious man in society who went in for everything that was new and especially for making the public interesting and entertaining. A married fellow off began to take place after another in the quality of his guests. Lady Dorothy, commenting on this deterioration, said: "Once we used to meet Browning and Whitman and Henry James and so on; but now we only meet—so on."—Chambers Journal.

ALL CASES OF

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.
F. A. WERNER, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:
"I am entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment. I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.
About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this kept on getting worse, until I lost my hearing in this ear entirely.
I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the head noises would then cease, but the hearing of the affected ear would be lost forever.
I then saw your advertisement, accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used only a few days according to your directions, the noise ceased, and to-day after five weeks, my hearing in the affected ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain
Very truly yours,

Anybody with a queer theory about Shakespeare is at liberty to speak and it may not be improper to suggest that the scrawl handed down as his signature was merely a practical joke on some autograph collector.

More than 1000 cities and towns in the United States have curfew laws, Indianapolis being the largest city. It is alleged that juvenile crime is on the increase in this country, and that 200,000 children are arrested every year.

That a bald eagle should be shot in New York City may surprise some citizens, but they are the ones who do not know that it is possible to find opossums, canvas-back duck, diamond-back terrapin, English snipe, cranes, woodcock and quail all living at liberty within the city limits.

Indianapolis is frightened at the increase of crime among her boys during the past few years. During 1899 eighty-nine boys were arrested by the police. During eleven months of this year 235 boys have been arrested. Of this number 140 were charged with crimes which would send adults to the penitentiary.

It may be assumed that the labor peace committee is organized with entire sincerity and composed of men who are broad enough to recognize right on either side. There is therefore ground for hope that it will not prove the melancholy failure that the peace convention which met at The Hague some time ago turned out to be, think the Washington Star.

Comment has been made on the small amount—between $30,000 and $35,000—left by Sir Walter Besant. It may, however, be safely accepted that besides Sir Walter Scott no novelist has ever made such sums as would be regarded by men in the money market as wealth. Scott's income averaged for years $50,000 a year. Dickens left $400,000; Thackeray less; Bulwer Lytton, with a very keen eye for the main chance, and a considerable but encumbered estate, $400,000.

The greatest of American railroads are tearing down many of their metal bridges and building in place of them stone arches which will not rust, which will have no need of change or repair or strengthening for many generations, and will defy the teeth of the ages. That is a notable going back to the best work of ancient days. The Roman arch in its noblest form, with its sound, strong lines, with the imperishable rock from foundation to keystone, was a model for all time. In dignity, in steadfastness, in calm, serene disregard of the transitory, the fleeting and the unstable, the Roman arch has known no superior.

Few men deliberately shoulder the business burdens which break them down. Their responsibilities are slowly acquired, each success bringing its results in the way of more work. When a man finds that the load has become too heavy the condition of his affairs is apt to be such to require his constant attention. His habit of overwork has taken the shape of a necessity. The men who have by their own efforts acquired enormous fortunes have fewer pleasures aside from their employment of work than their employes may have. They are chained to the desk. It is impossible for most of them to dismiss their business affairs from mind even when they take the air or when they lie down to sleep. Yet they are envied by the great majority of men.

THE NEWS OF THE WEEK.

MOBILE SUFFERS A $350,000 FIRE.

The State University—Dr. Brown Dead—River Improvement—Killed His Playmate—Industrial.

DISASTROUS FIRE.

Fire early Saturday morning in the wholesale business district of Mobile destroyed property to the value of at least $300,000 and caused the death of two people, Mr. Bibeard H. Vidmer, one of the most popular and leading society men of Mobile, and a negro, and three firemen were injured. The fire was under good headway when discovered and it was several hours before it was gotten under control. The firms who suffered are: Michael and Lyons, wholesale grocers, building and stock completely destroyed; loss $50,000; H. Piser & Co., hides; Drago Grain Co., Swift & Company, packers; P. S. McCoy. Partial insurance.

ITS PRESIDENT GONE.

Dr. William LeRoy Brown, president of the Alabama Polytechnic Institute at Auburn, dropped dead Thursday morning. He had been a little unwell, but the ailment was not considered serious. He was 75 years of age and had been president of the Auburn Institute for twenty years, and was one of the foremost educators in the country. He attained the rank of lieutenant-colonel during the war and perhaps gave the last order in Richmond directing the blowing up of the Confederate arsenal.

THE COOSA.

Representatives Bowie, Burnett and Thompson appeared Saturday before the rivers and harbors committee to ask for improvements of the Coosa river. The delegation asked that Congress place the work on the continuous contract list and appropriate $5,000,000 to be spent in six years. The work to begin at look 4 and work down and at Wetumpka and work up the river. The Alabamians made good talks for an appropriation but the chairman of the committee stated it was very doubtful if the committee could see the way clear to do anything. The chairman said the project seemed to have been injudiciously commenced, and to give the amount asked in this would bring the total of the bill up to $150,000,000.

NEW COTTON MILL.

T. C. Thompson, the noted cotton mill builder, will soon begin the erection of a mill in the Birmingham district. It is understood that the new mill is to be a large one, and that it will form the nucleus of a model cotton mill town. The erection of the mill will require the labor of 40 men. While details have not been arranged, the general plan has been agreed upon.

TO HARNESS THE WARRIOR.

A declaration of incorporation is filed by the Warrior River Power Co., capital stock, $500,000. The object is to manufacture electricity and distribute the same to various persons. In their declaration they ask the right to manufacture it by either steam or water power, and they want authority in their charter to buy all the necessary lands needed in their business, and authority to erect dams, etc. The principal office of the company will be in Birmingham.

COURT HOUSE REMOVAL.

The remoteness of Linden, county seat of Marengo county, from all railroads, has been a matter of considerable discussion for the past two weeks, and an effort is being made to move the court house to a point on the B. & N. O. railway. In opposition to this movement ex-Chancellor Taylor, of Uniontown, and Hon. William Cunningham, of Linden, appeared before Judge Anderson and petitioned for an injunction forbidding the proposed removal. The injunction was allowed, although there is promise of a big fight over the matter.

LEEDS IS NOW ASSURED OF A CANNING FACTORY.

AT ANNISTON the Rocky Hollow washer of the Woodstock Iron Company, which has been in course of construction for the past three months, is now in full operation.

GOV. JONES has returned from a week's hunting trip in Mississippi and a visit to Beaumont, Texas.

UNIVERSITY LANDS.

The board of trustees of the University of Alabama met Thursday. The governor was instructed to give a deed for properties sold to the Tennessee Co. in 1887. The board took up consideration of the proposition of the Tennessee Co. to exchange certain lands in Bibb county for lands which the Cahaba Southern Mining Co. has leased. The land commissioners recommend the exchange and the board agreed to make it. The lease of the Galloway Coal Co. was accepted at a royalty of 8 per cent, a minimum royalty of $4,000 a year. The executive committee was authorized to grant right of way to railroads over university lands. Commandant Elmore has been commissioned in the United States army, and his retention is desired.

THE SOUTHERN BAPTIST.

Rev. Frank Willis Barnett's new weekly religious paper, the Southern and Alabama Baptist, has made its appearance and is highly creditable. The paper is a four-column, sixteen-page publication, illustrated, well patronized by sterling advertisers and ably edited. It is a consolidation of the Southern Baptist, the Alabama Baptist, the Baptist Evangel and the Florida Baptist Herald, and as would be expected from such a union the new issue must be par-excellence. The brilliant young divine who is the owner and editor-in-chief of the new paper is already well known in religious, editorial and business life in the South. His new venture has called forth from the press and from private persons expressions of esteem of a highly complimentary nature and well wishes backed by promises of loyalty and help. The Southern and Alabama Baptist has a bright future before it.

FATAL PLAY WITH PISTOLS.

Saturday Nim Curry shot and instantly killed Homer Pittman at Albertville. Curry and Pittman, 18 and 15 years old respectively, were playing with pistols and snapping at each other when the one in Curry's hands fired, the ball passing through Pittman's heart. Curry is the son of Willis W. Curry and Pittman was the son of W. S. Pittman, both prominent business men of Albertville.

REPORT PROGRESS.

The surveying party running a line for a railroad from Birmingham via Trussville, through the Cahaba coal fields and the big brown ore deposits in Cahaba valley have moved their camps up near Branchville, in the Cahaba valley. It is thought this line will be run to Anniston and through the Coosa coal fields, opening up that mineral district. The brown ore mines now being operated by the Castleman Ore Mining Company on Oak Ridge are making improvements so as to increase the output of this excellent ore.

ALABAMA PATENT.

Josh Kashmeir, of Florence, has been granted a patent on a machine to remove lint from cotton seed. It strips the lint from the seed by a delinting and cleaning brush and a series of rollers. George H. Dudley, a brother of Dr. William Dudley, of Vanderbilt University, aids Mr. Kashmeir in the enterprise, and has gone to Bessemer to put up the machine.

CRUSHED TO DEATH.

Henry Farrington was crushed to death by falling rock at Piper last Friday. His neck and one leg was broken. He was well liked by his employers, the Little Cahaba Coal Co.

STORE HOUSE BURNED.

The store house and contents belonging to Capt. James A. Hineshaw, at Estill Fork, Jackson county, was totally destroyed by fire last week. Several adjoining buildings were also destroyed. Captain Hineshaw had just received a large consignment of merchandise, and his loss will amount to $5,000 or $6,000, with no insurance. The fire originated from a defective fuse.

GREATER BIRMINGHAM will be discussed by delegates from that city and suburbs this week.

STILL AT LARGE.

The whereabouts of Frank Duncan and two of his pals still remains a mystery. A. J. Dye was caught after freedom of thirty-six hours but nothing definite of Duncan and the others is known.

HUNTSVILLE is jubilant over what the terms her good chance for securing a United States army post.

EARTHQUAKE IN MISSOURI.

Roosevelt at Head of Spanish-American Veterans.

TWENTY-ONE KILLED IN MINE DISASTER.

Extensive Land Deal—Marine Troubles—Uncle and Nephew—Railroad Tunnel—Boys and Pistols.

MISSOURI EARTHQUAKE.

Two district shocks of earthquake were felt in St. Louis and many towns in the vicinity early Friday morning. The first shock was light, the second more severe. It awakened persons who had slept through the first one. The shocks were accompanied by a rumbling sound.

TWENTY-ONE KILLED.

As a result of a terrible mine disaster at Lost Creek, Ia., Friday afternoon, twenty-one are dead and eight in the hospital. The explosion was what is known as a dust explosion. One of the shots proved to be a fizzle. The burning powder ignited the gas and the explosion followed. Smoke and debris were blown out of the shaft 200 feet high. Part of the top works was torn away, and the fans and cages were partially wrecked.

KILLED PARTNER AT STILL.

At an illicit distillery in North Carolina Saturday Archie Babb, one of the owners, killed his partner, Baker Morelock, who quite recently moved into this state from Tennessee. Morelock cursed Babb during a quarrel about the business and was shot dead with a 44-calibre rifle. Babb fled.

SPANISH-AMERICAN VETERANS.

Members of the different state commanderies of the naval and military order of the Spanish-American war met in New York Saturday and organized a national commandery with President Theodore Roosevelt as commander-in-chief.

FOR THE THIRD TIME.

As the result of an exhaustive examination of the Shamrock I, the first offer of a contract to build the Shamrock III will go to the Thornycrofts. William Fife is so satisfied with the condition of Lipton's first challenger that he wants the Thornycrofts to try again on the Shamrock III.

GEN. H. C. HOBART, the last survivor of the Wisconsin constitutional convention, and one of the, if not the last, survivors of the original five who planned and made the famous Ross tunnel and by it escaped from Libby prison, is dying at the hospital of the Soldiers' home in Milwaukee.

BIG LAND PURCHASE.

One of the largest land sales ever made in the cotton district has just been consummated. Messrs. Shields, of Cleveland, O., purchased 170,000 acres near Vidalia, La., stretching back from the Mississippi to Black river. The purchase includes some of the best cotton lands in Concordia parish, and is heavily wooded. The purchasers will rent all the land to Western settlers, erecting the necessary saw mills, cotton gins and other factories.

PLANS for the protection of Galveston from a recurrence of her recent catastrophe call for a concrete breakwater on the Gulf side of the city. The total cost is estimated at $3,500,000.

IN SOUTH AFRICA.

The London Daily News has published from its correspondent at The Hague, who it claims, is very accurate, the statement that the power of the Boers over Cape Colony is increasing daily; that the rebellion is constantly spreading; that the executions of Lotter and Scheepers have decided the loyalists to join the Boers, whose position is reported more favorable than ever; that the British suffered a dozen defeats from September to November, 1901, of which no mention is made in Kitchener's reports.

FIVE MEN have been drowned in the Chattahoochee river at Columbus, Ga., during January.

MONTANA is complaining of a horse famine. One hundred thousand of the animals were sold last year.

MRS. MARY JOHNSTON, the authoress, is in the hospital in Baltimore.

CAPTAIN KILLED.

While repairing the bark Trojan Friday afternoon in Pensacola harbor one of the masts was broken, fatally injuring Captain William Sims, who died in a few minutes afterward. The bark was on one side and the mast broke while she was being hauled into port. The strain was then thrown entirely upon the second mast, which was also broken.

BIG TUNNEL.

In three or four months a tunnel will begin construction under North and East rivers, Manhattan Island. It will be continuous from the Jersey meadows to a point on Long Island well inland east of the river. The cost will be $40,000,000 and the Pennsylvania Railroad has embarked in it.

TWO WITH ONE GUN.

A deplorable tragedy occurred at Americus, Ga., Saturday noon, resulting in the probable fatal shooting of Henry Oliver by his uncle, A. T. Oliver. Young Oliver was employed in the shops, but was discharged on account of drunkenness. During the afternoon he returned armed and expressed determination to shoot his uncle. In attempting to do this young Oliver was knocked down by his uncle, but not before a bullet from his revolver had grazed the throat of the elder Oliver. The latter secured the weapon after a desperate struggle and shot his nephew through the head. A. T. Oliver is an industrious and well known citizen, and public sentiment exonerates him of the blame.

EXPLAINED.

Alexander Dean Cooper, the St. Louis millionaire, who was mysteriously assaulted some time Wednesday night in the Vista Bath House, of which he was proprietor, died later. The murder was a mystery until a negro attendant, who had been suspected, broke down and confessed.

THE commission to select two Georgians who will be placed in the statutory hall at Washington, met Saturday. The decision will not be announced until July. An informal vote showed a preference for Alexander H. Stephens and Dr. Crawford Long.

ALREADY AMERICANIZED.

The United States marshal has seized $3,000 in counterfeit silver, near Ponce, P. R. The counterfeiters were quarters, halves and dollars. Two men were arrested and jailed. The coins were almost perfect. On Tuesday last a Frenchman was sentenced to ten years' imprisonment, and a $5,000 fine for having been found in possession of and for passing spurious coins.

GONE WITH THE REST.

The obsolete Spanish gunboat Condor has been towed into port in a damaged condition, due to the explosion of her boiler, which killed two men and injured nine others, including the commander of the vessel.

KILLED HIS PLAYMATE.

One man was injured fatally and three others were seriously hurt Saturday morning in an accident at the Wabash railway tunnel at the southern side of Mount Washington. Half a score of men were buried under a land slide of earth and all were extricated with difficulty. The men were employed by the Ferguson Contracting Company and were at work erecting the props to support the entrance to the tunnel when the supports gave way and tons of earth and rock fell upon them.

RAILROAD CHANGE.

Word has been received from New York that W. J. Murphy has been made general manager of the Alabama Great Southern Railway, and that the general offices of that road will be moved from Washington, D. C., to Cincinnati. Mr. Murphy still remains as general manager of the Queen & Crescent Route, of which the Alabama Great Southern is a part, from Chattanooga to Meridian, Miss., but heretofore the latter has been under the separate management of Frank S. Gannon. The appointment of Mr. Murphy in place of Mr. Gannon is regarded as an important change. It is supposed to mean that the increasing business of the Southern Railway makes it necessary for Mr. Gannon to devote his entire time to that line.

FOREIGNERS TO TEACH WAR.

The Chinese court has granted 5,000,000 taels annually to Yuan Shi Kai, viceroy of Chi Li, for the maintenance of an army of 100,000 men in Chi Li province. Yuan Shi Kai has been given practical control of the army and navy of China and purposes engaging Japanese instructors for the army and British instructors for the navy.

WRECK KILLS TWO.

In a rear-end collision between two stock trains early Sunday morning near Keller, Tex., W. T. Stillwell was instantly killed and his body burned in the wreckage, and J. G. Adkins was fatally injured. An orange train was closely followed by a stock train running in two sections.

FIRE IT OUT.

The senate also unanimously adopted resolutions urging the adoption of a congressional resolution extending a vote of thanks to Rear Admiral Schley for gallantry in the battle of Santiago.

BURIED TREASURE.

Chinese officials have found treasure to the value of over 100,000,000 taels in gold and silver which was buried in the women's quarters of the palace before the court fled from Peking.

BILL ARP'S LETTER.

After Hot Pursuit of Fraud, William Is Taking a Rest.

NOTHING DOING IN POLITICAL ARENA.

As a Change of Program Barlow Man Writes Interestingly of a New Liar Who Overtakes Baron Munchausen.

My special pets, the mothers and children of this blessed land, have been neglected of late, for I have had a time of it in taking care of myself.
For a month past I have been perplexed and burdened with a correspondence that I could not avoid. I have answered more than a hundred letters concerning the Monticello fraud, but that trouble is now about over,
and once more I am calm and serene.
It was a most marvelous enterprise.
Nothing equal to it has ever occurred in the south. One woman writes that she has written over a hundred letters. The area covered by it and the victims who suffered is astonishing. My correspondents are all women, dependent, struggling women, and they flock the land from West Virginia to western Texas. I learn that Monticello has surrendered and assigned, which means, of course, that the army of these agents will have to surrender and be resigned. Blessed are they who expect nothing, for they shall not be disappointed.

Just now there seems to be a lull in the excitement that have agitated the press and the public for some time past. The negro has almost returned from discussion and is the same unconcerned creature he has always been. Professor Stone, who has been studying them in Mississippi, says that in the delta where they constitute 87 per cent of the population they are more contented, more industrious and more law-abiding than in any region that he has visited. Maybe Bishop Turner is right and they can take care of themselves if left to themselves.
But my philosophy is, let the problem alone and let it work out its own solution. It may take twenty years, it may take fifty, but it will solve itself.

Politics, too, is somewhat tired and in a dormant condition. The country has ceased to make much ado over the antics and romances of the new president, and is just waiting to see what he will do next. He is a sphinx.
He is going to do what he thinks is right, but the trouble is, he thinks wrong too often. He is what you might call flinky. When a man is flin-ky, he is flinky—that's all. The word is not in the dictionary and has no definition. Flinky is flinky.

Well, our state politics has subsided for a time. The pot boiled over at first, but has simmered down, and we are not making as many governors and other officers as we did before Christmas. I don't feel very anxious about the next governor, for with those who are in the field we can't hardly make a mistake. As Coburn would say, "It's all optional with me."
There is nothing left hardly to fuss and fume about except the Atlanta depot. This is enduring stock. I have not been in Atlanta since last March and I am not going until they build a new depot. Nevertheless, we still have the usual amount of horrors and wrecks and homicides. It takes all the big type to keep the head lines going. Forty years ago there never was a displayed head line nor the picture of a woman in a newspaper. The Richmond Whig and The National Intelligencer did not even have a caption to their editorials. You had to read it to find out what the article was about.
Now we glance at the heading and read nothing else, and as for the pictures we old men can't tell the difference between Lydia Pinkham and the belle of Froctown.

But the mothers and their children are still left us. I was ruminating about the books we boys had to read in the olden time and how they had disappeared and gone out of print.
There was the "Arabian Nights" and "Robinson Crusoe" and "Gulliver's Travels" and "Baron Munchausen"— all were made up lies, but the bigger the lies, the better we liked them, for children are all imaginative, and the little stories of "Jack, the Giant Killer" and "Jack and the Bean Vine" and "Cinderella" have to be told over and over again to the little ones before they go to bed. There are two little ones that I have put to sleep many a night repeating these same old stories.
But the "Baron Munchausen" type of lies passed away, although it went through many editions, and I have seen nothing like it until recently, when I received a little book called,
"I'm Something of a Liar Myself," published in London and New York and manufactured by Baron DeVore, of Edgely, S. C. I think he is a lineal descendant of Munchausen and has improved upon his great ancestor. It seems that he fell in with a dwarf in Kansas City, whose name was Ran.
This Ran had lived nine years on the banks of the Amazon river and told Baron DeVore how the ammonia of that region produced forests of great trees that were two or three thousand feet high and big around in proportion.
He says it took him eleven days and six hours and thirty-nine minutes to walk around one of them. Ran says the ammonia dwarfed him. It enlarged his head and lengthened his feet, but shrank up his shanks and neck.

We wore a No. 10 hat and No. 7 collar.
His feet were 12 inches long and flattened like a duck's bill and his legs about the size of a hoe handle. His feet grew long on purpose, for the soil was so soft an ordinary foot would have sunk down in it. Everybody knew him in Kansas City and it is dangerous to doubt or dispute his stories. Ran says that some of those trees are awfully crooked, and one day he came across one that had fallen down from old age. It was hollow from the butt to the top and was 3,700 feet long and one of its big limbs had stuck in the ground, and he noticed that millions of bees were going in and coming out of the hole in it. So he got help and cut into it to get the honey and suddenly the limb broke and the crooked tree commenced rolling and the honey commenced pouring out.
The tree was so crooked it could not stop rolling and it got faster and faster with its own momentum and crushed down the forest for 50 miles and rolled over towns and villages and crushed the people, and the honey marked its way in a stream big enough to turn a saw mill, and the tree finally got to the sea and rolled in. Then he tells about sitting on a log one day to rest, and after a while the log began to tremble and rise up in the middle, and suddenly bowed up in a spasmodic motion like one of these measuring worms or like the loop that Schley made at Santiago and threw him fifty feet in the air, and he found out it was a snake, and the snake opened its mouth wide for him to fall into it when he came down, and he did fall in, all but his right arm, and with that he opened his big knife with his teeth and cut the snake's head off and crawled out.

Well, it is strange that we like to read these lies and how we become fascinated with them and read on to see how he got out of the scrape that he got into. But still the world is full of lies and if we have got to read them, it is best to read these whoppers that Baron Munchausen and Baron De-Vore tell us. This dwarf Ran has a surname of Isom, which letters, the baron says, stand for "I'm somewhat of a liar myself." That is the title of the little red book, and at first I took it as a reflection on my character that the book was sent to me. It was an insinuation and so I have given it to a friend who has more reputation in that line than I have and is proud of it. All this, of course, is for the children and maybe will keep them from sitting on an old rusty log in the woods. There is no harm in a lie that is told as a lie. Until Baron De-Vore came forth Edgar Poe was the most refined and plausible liar this century ever produced. His "Goldbug" and his murder in the Rue Morgue have never been equaled—Bill Arp, in Atlanta Constitution.

There is hardly a village in the whole country where at least a dozen phones are not found, and in the very woods you may, during your travels, find a telephone put up for the accommodation of chance travelers or tourists.
In these wild and deserted places there are no people living for miles around,
still the tourist might be able to communicate with friends far away. He is expected to pay the charges, which he will find in the guide books hung up at the telephones.

In Norway there are many less telephones, owing probably to the vast desert places in the northern and middle counties. In Christiania there are about 10,000 phones in a population of 175,000 inhabitants, but the prices are the same as in this country.

SPORTING BRIEVITIES.

It seems probably that Yale will have good crews on the Thames this year.

Yale has defeated Princeton in an intercollegiate hockey match by seven goals to nine.

John Suthoff, pitcher, and Harry Tenl, catcher, have signed with the Indianapolis baseball team.

From the nature of the entries made by leading American turfmen in English classic events a successful season is expected.

Manager Shetline, of the Phillies, says he will probably take his baseball team to Thomasville, Ga., for spring practice.

Canadian customs officials have consented to admit touring automobiles across the border as sporting outfits, with a refund of charges made.

Another player has been added to the New York baseball team. He is Walter Anderson, shortstop and captain of the Wesleyan College team.

The University of Pennsylvania Athletic Association will spend $325, 000 for the erection of a new gymnasium and improvements on Franklin Field at Philadelphia.

Yale has challenged the University of Pennsylvania to a baseball match.
This is believed to be the opening wedge to a renewal of athletic relations between the two universities.

It has been proposed in future automobile races to allow a handicap to the low-powered machines and to have an official national committee whose duty it shall be to determine the relative speeding merits of entrants in races throughout the country.

The London Sportsman says it is reported that at the next meeting of the Jockey Club a proposal will be made to elect an American patron of racing in England an honorary member of the club, and that the person so elected will probably be James R.
Keene or William C. Whitney.

There is a wonderful power of recuperation and readjustment in the nature of things of which we are a part. When an evil grows until the hearts of men fall for fear, some slight change takes place, and lo, the evil vanishes. Five years ago there were many fears that the "overgrown cities would threaten, if not destroy, all wholesome social life. But just as the city becomes unwieldy and is overcrowded, suddenly "the broomstick train" scatters the population, relieves the congestion, and removes the threatening evil, reflects the Christian Register.

Paris has a deaf mutes' social club.
Would an imitation of its methods be an unwelcome fact?

SWEDEN'S CHEAP TELEPHONE.

Great Number in Use at the Low Rate Charge.

In the latest paper received, says a correspondent of the New York Herald, writing from Nyland, Sweden, I notice that the price of telephones in New York is $250 per year. It may be of some interest to your readers to know something of the telephone business in this country. There are two companies—the Government Telephone Company and the General Telephone Company (formerly the Bell Telephone Company). The former charges per year eighty crowns, or $22, in every city, and ninety crowns, or $25, in the country. The latter company charges sixty crowns, or $16, per year in cities, towns and villages, except in Stockholm, where you pay only thirty-six crowns, or $9.75, per year.
By paying these charges you are entitled to have your telephone repaired whenever needed, besides having them inspected twice a month.

The number of telephones may be a surprise to you. In the city of Stockholm alone (with a population of 290, 000) there are no less than 36,000 telephones. Outside the city limits in any town you pay for telephoning a distance of thirty English miles fifteen up to thirty, or for four to eight cents, for three minutes' conversation. From this place to Stockholm, 300 miles, you pay thirteen cents for three minutes' conversation. The telephone system has been extended to the northernmost town in this country, Haparanda.
From this place to Stockholm, a distance of 730 English miles, you can communicate by telephone for just twenty-seven cents.

There is hardly a village in the whole country where at least a dozen phones
are not found, and in the very woods
you may, during your travels, find a telephone put up for the accommodation of chance travelers or tourists.

In these wild and deserted places there
are no people living for miles around,
still the tourist might be able to communicate with friends far away. He
is expected to pay the charges, which
he will find in the guide books hung up at the telephones.

desert places in the northern and middle counties. In Christiania there are about 10,000 phones in a population
of 175,000 inhabitants, but the prices
are the same as in this country.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Fear is the mother of foresight.—H.
Taylor.

Experience teaches slowly, and at the cost of mistakes.—Fronde.

A good man is kinder to his enemy than bad men to their friends.—Bishop Hall.

Knowledge is the treasure, but judgment is the treasurer of a wise man.— Penn.

A man of integrity will never listen to any plan against conscience.— Horne.

Greatness lies not in being strong, but in the right using of strength.—
H. W. Beecher.

There never was yet a truly great man that was not at the same time truly virtuous.—Franklin.

Many things are difficult and dark to me; but I can see one thing quite clearly, that I must not, cannot seek my own happiness by sacrificing others.—George Eliot.

Let it be our happiness this day to add to the happiness of those around us, to comfort some sorrow, to relieve some want, to add some strength to our neighbor's virtue.—Channing.

Muscle and No Ks.

Physical culture as it is taught in the public schools of to-day comes delightfully near to meeting with all of the requirements planned for it a score of years ago by progressive educators, who were, at that time, looked upon as idealists. Until 1890, though much had been accomplished in this way of contriving novel modes of teaching, and study, it was plainly to be seen that the increased demands of the school curriculum, however beneficial mentally, tended to endanger the child physically. The burden was becoming greater than the strength to bear it. In latter days it has grown to be a well recognized fact that every child mind is co-ordinated with a body to be properly developed.
That the physique should be carefully looked after is now as freely conceded as that the verb should be made to agree with its subject in person, and number. Appliances have been put into the high schools all over the city for the furtherance of physical training that leave little to be wanted in this direction. The apparatus is perfect in the most minute detail. The gymnasiums are large, well lighted and well ventilated.—Chicago Tribune.

Fixed the Dead Man.

The following story of a former county magistrate was told at Townson:

The body of a man who had been dead for some hours was found by the police, and the magistrate, acting as coroner, was notified. He made an investigation, and after finding a revolver and $5.30 in the clothes of the dead man, decided it was a case for a magistrate and not for a coroner, and ordered that the body be brought before him at the station house. Here the magistrate charged the dead man with carrying a concealed weapon and stole him just $5.30, the amount of money found in his pocket. The revolver was taken for other purposes of the trial, and the body was turned over to the county authorities to be buried at the expense of the county.

REV. DR. TALMAGE.

DISCOURSE BY THE EMINENT DIVINE LAST SUNDAY.

Subject: The Wilderness of Life—Duties and Trials Which Belong to the Disciple—Advice to the Trembling
The Waiting Age—The Last Harvest.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—From an unusual standpoint Dr. Talmage in this discourse looks at the duties and trials which belong to the different decades of human life; first, Psalm 26, 30. "The days of our years are threescore years and ten; and if we be fortunate, fourscore years and seven." The seventieth milestone of life is here planted as at the end of the journey. A few go beyond it. Multitudes never reach it. The oldest person of modern times expired at 160 years. A Greek of the name of Stravardie lived to 132 years. The highest of the name of Thomas Parr lived 152 years. Before the time of Moses people lived 120 years, and if you go far enough back they lived 900 years. Well, that was necessary, because the story of the world must come down by tradition, and it needed long life safely to transmit the news of the past. If the generations had been short lived the story would so often have changed lips that it might have got all astray. But after Moses began to write it down and parchment told it from century to century it was not necessary that people live so long in order to authenticate the events of the past. If in our time people live only twenty-five years, that would not affect history, since it is put in print and is no longer dependent on tradition. Whatever your age, I will to-day directly address you, and I shall speak to those who are in the twenties, the thirties, the forties, the fifties, the sixties and to those who are in the seventies and beyond.

First, then, I address those of you who are in the twenties. You are full of expectation. You are ambitious—that is, if you are honest—for some kind of success, commercial or mechanical or professional or literary or agricultural or social or moral. If I find some one in the twenties without any sort of ambition, I feel like saying, "My friend, you have got out of the world. This is not a good world for you. You are going to be in the way. Have you made your choice of poorhouses? You will never be able to pay for your cradle. Who is going to settle your debts? There is no one to do it except the fact that you were born at all."

But, supposing you have ambition, let me say to all the twenties, expect everything through divine manipulation, and then you will get all you want and something to boot. Are you looking for money?
Well, remember that God controls the money markets, the harvests, the droughts, the caterpillars, the locusts, the sunshine, the storm, the land, the sea, and you will get wealth. Perhaps not that which is solid, but that which is liquid, and in the United States securities, in houses and lands, but your clothing and board and shelter, and that is about all you can appropriate anyhow. You cost the Lord a great deal. To feed and clothe and shelter you is a lifetime requirement. You cost money, and if you get nothing more than the absolute necessities you get an enormous amount of supply. Expect as much as you will of any kind of success, if you expect it from the Lord you are sure to get it in any other resource, and you may be badly chastened, but depend on God and all will be well. It is a good thing in the crisis of life to have a man of large means back you up. It is a great thing to have money, but money is not a great thing in your undertaking. But it is a mighty thing to have the God of heaven and earth your coadjutor, and you may have Him. I am so glad that I met you while you are in the twenties. You are laying out your plans, and all your life in this world and the next for 500 million years of your existence will be affected by those plans. It is about 8 o'clock in the morning of your life, and you are just starting out. Which way are you going to start? Oh, the twenties!

"Twenty" is a great word in the Bible.
Joseph was sold for twenty pieces of silver; Samson judged Israel twenty years;
Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities; the Zachariah saw a vision of twenty cubits; when the sailors of the ship on which Paul sailed sounded the Mediterranean Sea, it was twenty fathoms. What mighty things have been done in the twenties! Rome was founded in the twenties. Keats finished life at twenty-five. Lafayette was a world renowned soldier at twenty-three; Oberlin accomplished his chief work at twenty-seven; Bonaparte was victor over Italy at twenty-six; Pitt was prime minister of England at twenty-two; Calvin had completed his immortal "Institutes" before the time he was twenty-six; Grotius was attorney general at twenty-four. Some of the mightiest things for God and eternity have been done in the twenties. As long as you can put the figure 2 before the other figure that helps describe your age
I have high hopes about him. Look out for you will be guided; you make your home

Next I address those in the thirties. You are at an age when you find what a tough thing it is to get recognized and established in your occupation or profession.
Ten years ago you thought all that was necessary for success was to put on your best suit, the sign of physician or lawyer or attorney or broker or agent and you would have plenty of business. How many hours you sat and waited for business, and waited in vain, three persons only know-God, your wife and yourself. In comparison with the twenties, you are a poor thing; you fix your habits. Lord God Almighty, for Jesus Christ's sake, have mercy on all the men and women in the

at thirty years of age, Jesus said that he had thirty years of life to live. Oh, the thirties! What a word suggestive of triumph or disaster!

Your decade is the one that will probably afford the greatest opportunity for victory because there is the greatest uncertainty for struggle. Read the world's history and know what are the thirties—good or bad. Alexander the Great closed his career at thirty-two; Frederick the Great made Europe tremble with his ar-nies at thirty-five; Curtius conquered Marcellus at thirty; Grant fought Shiloh and Vicksburg in thirty-one; Napoleon died at thirty-seven; Luther was the hero of the reformation at thirty-five; Sir Philip Sidney got through by thirty-two. The greatest deeds for God and against Him were done within the thirties, and your greatest battles are now and between the time when you cease expressing your age by putting first a figure 2 and the time when you will cease expressing it by putting first a figure 3. As it is the greatest time of life, it is the most dangerous. It is God's name and by God's grace, make it the greatest achievement. My prayer is for all those in the tremendous crisis of the thirties. The fact is that by the way I decide the present decade of your history, but now it comes down to you to allolutely decide all the following decades.

Next I address the forties. You are in the decade of discovery. I do not mean the discovery of the outside, but the discovery of yourself. No man knows himself until he is forty. He overestimates or underestimates himself. By that time he has learned what he can do or what he cannot do. He thought he had commercial genius enough to become a millionaire, but now he is satisfied to make a comfortable living.
He thought he had intellectual power enough to bring him into the United States Senate; now he is content if he can successfully argue a common case before a petit jury. He thought he had medical knowledge to make him a M.D. or a Grosse or a Willard Parker or a Sims, now he finds his sphere is that of a family physician, prescribing for the ordinary ailments that afflict our race. He was sailing on in a fog and could not take a reckoning, but now it clears up enough to allow him to find out his real latitude and longitude. He has been climbing, but now he has got to the top of the hill, and he takes a long breath. He is half way through the journey at least, and he is in a position to look backward or forward. He has more good sense than he ever had. He knows human nature, for he has been chastened often enough to see the bad side of it and he has met so many gracious and kindly and splendid souls that he knows the good side of it. Now, calm yourself. Thank God for the past and deliberately set your compass for another voyage.

You have chased enough thistles down, you have blown enough soap bubbles; you have seen the unsatisfying nature of all earthly things. Open a new chapter with God and the world. This decade of the forties ought to eclipse all its predecessors in the history of the world. It is the decade of the world to work. There remains a rest for the people of God, but it is in a sphere beyond the reach of telescopes. The military charge that decided the fate of the world, the battle of the battle of Waterloo was not made until 8 o'clock in the evening, but you propose to go into camp at 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

My subject next accords those in the seventies. My hero is beyond the age of congratulation. You have got nearly if not quite through. You have safely crossed the sea of life and are about to enter the harbor. You have fought at Gettysburg, you have been in over here and there a victimish with the remaining sin of your heart and the sin of the world, but I guess you are about done. There may be some work for you yet on a small or large scale.
Bonaparte of Germany vigorous in the twenties, in the thirties, in the forties, strong at seventy-two. Haydn composing his oratorio, "The Creation," at seventy years of age. Isocrates doing some of his best work at seventy-four. Plato busy until he was eighty. Which way are you going to start? Oh, the twenties!

"Twenty" is a great word in the Bible.
Joseph was sold for twenty pieces of silver; Samson judged Israel twenty years;
Solomon gave Hiram twenty cities; the Zachariah saw a vision of twenty cubits; when the sailors of the ship on
which Paul sailed sounded the Mediterranean Sea, it was twenty fathoms. What mighty things have been done in the
twenties! Rome was founded in the twenties. Keats finished life at twenty-five. Lafayette was a world renowned soldier at twenty-three; Oberlin accomplished his chief work at twenty-
seven; Bonaparte was victor over Italy at twenty-six; Pitt was prime minister of England at twenty-two; Calvin had completed his immortal "Institutes" before
the time he was twenty-six; Grotius was attorney general at twenty-four. Some of the mightiest things for God and eternity
have been done in the twenties. As long as you can put the figure 2 before the
other figure that helps describe your age
I have high hopes about him. Look out for that figure 2. Watch its continuance with

Capt. William Selden of the Honest Elections.

Now that the elections are about to be listed, it is time to begin the organization in each and every county of Honest Election Leagues.
Every county in the State needs them, every city, every beat for that matter, for every part of the State has become rotten, politically speaking. Elections are and long have been a farce, but under the registrations that will soon be made every county, city and locality can have honest elections if it be so minded.

But it cannot have them by sitting still. Activity is needed, and activity of an organized sort will be the more effective. Let every county seat at least organize an Honest Election League, and a membership be sought that will reach every beat.

The rascality and rottenness of long standing cannot be stamped out except through the most determined and effective action on the part of all honest men in a county. Let the league gather a fund, and let the ballot-box rascals be told that any repetition of their rascality must be accounted for in the courts. Let them know that arrests will follow ballot-box trick-ery of any sort. Give wrong-doers of the past fair notice to quit, and if they persist lock them up and see that they are fully prosecuted.

For this purpose organization is better. It is absolutely needed in some counties, and there is not a county in the State that cannot be benefited through an Honest Election League. Put the rascals out.—

Cotton and Cotton Seed.

In the census year the 357 cotton seed oil mills in the South—there are none in the North—crushed 53 per cent of the total product. This leads to the belief that in the long run the entire seed crop, less that needed for reproductive purposes, will be crushed.
Such a result seemed wildly impossible twenty years ago, but it is no longer so now. In some distant and scattered localities some seed may be wasted, but when seed is worth from 20 to 30 cents a bushel not much of it will be overlooked.

The average price paid for the 2,479,386 tons crushed in the census year was $11.55 a ton, or nearly 20 cents a bushel. The seed used in that year cost the mills $28,632,- 616. This sum may be said to represent the amount the planters threw away before the mills were built, although the seed was to some extent utilized in the days when oil mills were unknown, but the extent of its use was neither great nor valuable. The comparative loss was certainly $20,000,000 a year, leaving $8,600,000 to represent the use of the seed in its un-crushed state.

The mills turned the seed they purchased in the census year into products worth $42,411,835, which brought the entire value of the crop of that year up to $49,208,- 266. Such an aggregate makes any other cash crop grown in the United States look insignificant.

In Alabama 172,093 tons of seed were crushed in the census year, for which the farmers received $2,- 019,065, or about $30,000 to the average county. It is no doubt possible to increase this sum to about $50,000, and in fact the increased price of the present year may have carried the average total per county up to about $50,000.—

Some Women's Ways.

Every girl wants to marry. She is thoroughly satisfied that a man is necessary to the proper development of a woman's life. Her ideal usually is tall with classical features, and the frame of an Achilles. He must be brave, yet gentle; a Christian in manners, a Dewey in penetration, a Winston Churchill in ambition. In thought and speech he must be as unsullied as Schiller or Goethe; withal he must be strong and brave; a lion among men, a knight among ladies. But for fear she might die an old maid she will take most any lath-framed youth with mouse-colored hair and batwing ears that comes along, smoking a coffin nail cigarette that smells worse than a burning rubber boot, and thus waste her precious life trying to love one she never admired.

HOME AND CHILD

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference.
Children are not alike either.
One is rosy, bright-eyed, full of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion.

Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow.
Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

Growing Hay.

Those of us who have had to buy feed during the present winter have learned a lesson we shall not soon forget. Not only have prices been extravagantly high, but in many places it has been almost impossible to procure feed at any price.
The few who have had feed to sell are very well satisfied with their management, as they have had good reason to be but a large majority of farmers are obliged to use money for the purchase of feed which they had hoped to use for new buildings and other improvements. It is now too late to rectify any mistakes made last year, but it is just the time for making plans to avoid the same mistakes this year. There are very few farms on which hay cannot be made at less cost than it can be purchased, and on many farms it is the most profitable crop which can be grown. We have known many cotton planters who failed to make expenses, but have never known a hay farmer, a man who made hay his principal sale crop, who has not realized a handsome net profit every year.

Even the man who makes a good profit on his cotton cannot afford to neglect making at least sufficient hay for his own teams, as that amount can be made for little more than the cost of cutting and saving it. There are always places on which cotton cannot be grown profitably, but which will make heavy yields of hay; every acre of good corn land can be made to yield at least two tons of peavines, the very best of hay; many old fields which are not grazed will give a heavy yield of lespedeza; heavy crops of alfalfa can be grown on nearly all alluvial lands, and melilotus makes a rank growth on lime soils which are too thin and barren for other crops.

When land is more clear than labor it is often profitable to sow some kind of grain for hay, as two such crops can be grown in a season, and both be made to yield heavily.
For an early crop probably there is nothing better than oats, which can be sown during the next month and be off the ground in May or early in June, in time to be followed by cow peas, millet or sorghum.
If hay is not needed before July or August sorghum is very satisfactory.
When the seed is sown thickly, from two to three bushels per acre, the plants make such a weak and spindling growth that the stems are little thicker than those of Johnson grass, and the hay can be baled with no more trouble. When cut early the second growth will make nearly or quite as heavy a yield as the first, and the hay will be richer in quality. Second growth sorghum is perfectly safe when used as hay, though far from safe for pasturing.
In the dry regions of the West kaffir corn is more popular than sorghum, but in the South, where severe drouths are exceptional, sorghum is the better crop. Even the despised crab grass makes a heavy yield when given a fair chance, and excellent hay when cut before it is too ripe.

In the South the making of a hay crop is not a question of soil or climate, but simply one of care and ordinary forethought. A crop of alfalfa or red clover cannot be made without preparing the ground and sowing the seed, and even peavines will not make good hay unless they are harvested and stored away.
Nearly all of us were caught "short" last year, but there is no need for such a thing to happen again. There is no probability that so many will drop cotton and grow hay as to bring the price of forage down below the cost of production this year and the few who do make the change will find it greatly to their profit. The man who does not grow enough for his own use deserves to fail.—Memphis Commercial-Appel.

DEER AS SMALL GAME.

INTERESTING DISCOVERY MADE IN NEW YORK STATE.

Bones Found From the Animal Could Not Have Been More Than Six Inches High—Very Leg and Feet of the Skeleton Remains Intact.

Bones of a tiny deer, five and one-half inches high at the shoulder, and small enough to be stowed away in a coat pocket, have been found in a ploughed field in Rensselaer county, near Troy, N. Y.

A fore foot and leg of the skeleton remain intact. From these it is possible to determine the exact proportions of the remarkable creature, and to know, beyond question, that the skeleton is that of a deer.

The bones prove that the deer had matured, but whether it belonged to a diminutive species, or was a dwarf, is not known.

The epiphyses, or ends of the bones, are firmly united to the shaft by osseous tissue, showing that the leg found belonged to an adult deer.

This tiny deer doubtless lived in that middle age of animal life when ever the horse was represented in a species of little creatures with five toes. It was an age in which the animal kingdom ran to extremes. The great Irish deer, which was probably contemporaneous with the little deer of New York, was even larger than the largest deer of this day. On the other hand, there were the little horses and the diminutive creatures of many other species, one of which is probably represented by the extraordinary deer

Deer Under a Foot Rule, whose remains have been found in New York.

How to Sustain a Pose.

Professional models, in posing for artists, appear at first glance to remain perfectly still, but a closer inspection of them always shows that they sway continuously and regularly from side to side, says the Philadelphia Record. In discussing this swaying movement and its advantages, a model said the other day:

"We sway because, somehow, it rests us, and because through it we can hold a pose quite ten times longer than we could if we kept ourselves rigid and still. A model, as soon as he strikes an attitude, begins unconsciously to sway, moving in the tempo, as investigation has shown me, of his heart beats. Why this swaying helps him, I don't know, unless it be that it keeps his limbs from getting cramped and from falling asleep. It does help him, though, immensely, as without it he could not possibly hold a pose for an hour, a test of endurance to which any good model is equal.

Amateur Photography in Mexico.

Amateur photography has taken a firm hold on the City of Mexico. Cameras are now almost plentiful there as burros, and they are being put to strange uses. The Mexican Herald tells how one Jacinto Rivas earned a large stake with a small picture. Suspecting that a girl living near him was about to elope with a sweetheart who was particularly objectionable to her parents, he lay in wait for them with his camera. When they met he followed them to the railroad station and secured a snapshot of them as they were boarding a train. Then he went home and waited until the angry father had offered a reward for the name of the man who had stolen his daughter, when Rivas called upon him and mentioned that he had taken a photograph of the elopers. He thought that it was worth $50 under the circumstances, and he parted with it for that sum. Up to date the angry father has not realized on his investment.

Landslide Threatens Villages.

A great "slide" is threatened in the mountains near Nancy, in France, where the entire district of Ayse is threatened with destruction by a great mass of earth many thousands of cubic meters in volume, which is slowly slipping down the slopes and, must surely overwhelm the valley. The population looks forward with dread to the autumnal rains.

Care of Japanese Children.

Japan has only one orphanage, yet in no other land are fatherless children better cared for. Every family cares for the sick, destitute or orphan nearest to it. There is a superstition that a childless house is accursed, and people who are not blessed with children of their own never rest until they have adopted some waif.

QUEEN WILLS OF RICH MEN.

Some Extraordinary Bequests That Have Passed Into History.

It does not necessarily follow that because a man has been shrewd enough to amass a great fortune he is wise enough to dispose of it in a sensible manner. The records of the probate courts show that bequests fraught with onerous, even impossible, conditions are not uncommon. It is as though the testator, resenting the scramble for his property which he foresees will follow his death, desires to make the lot of his heirs as hard as possible.

Within the last few months there have been several of these eccentric wills. A brother left his sister $25,000 under the express condition that she should neither marry nor become a nun. In default of carrying out the stipulations the money is to be distributed among other relatives.

Very different toward marriage was the attitude of a wealthy Italian who died recently. To each of his three daughters he left $500 a year if they remained single and five times as much, $2,500 yearly, if they married.

A member of the English parliament just deceased bequeathed to his two daughters his entire estate of $720,000 with the provision that they can only inherit if they attain the age of 35 without wedding either a Hebrew or a citizen of the United States.

A curious evidence of the foresight of Benjamin Franklin is furnished by one of the items of his will. A small sum of money was left with the proviso that it should not be used until the twentieth century, and that meanwhile the accumulating interest should be added to the principal.

The gift has now become available, with the result that the trustees of the Franklin fund have at their disposal $375,000, which will be used to erect a Franklin institute in Franklin square, Boston.

More singular even than any of these odd bequests was the obligation that Lord Bute imposed on his heirs. As he lay dying he expressed the wish that his heart should be taken to the holy land and buried there, adding that unless this was done his relatives would never rest happy in possession of his estate. So strong was this appeal that the order was carried out to the letter.

RIDING ON AN AUTOMOBILE.

Racer Describes His Sensations During a Fast Spin.

What are the sensations of a racing automobilist? A good many people have, no doubt, asked this question mentally the past week, especially those who saw the races at Oakley last Monday. A Cincinnati Commercial Tribune man put the query into words on that day and while the crowd was waiting for Fournier and his "Blue Devil" and Mr. John Duttonhofer, who had made a good race in the first event, answered it by inviting him and two others to take a spin around the track in his automobile.

As the machine whirled out of the paddock and onto the track the wind struck it with full force, but the speedy little racer seemed not to mind that a whit. In a moment it had spun past the grand stand and was taking the first turn like a thoroughbred. People, fences, and the landscape in general now seemed to be a rapidly moving panorama, so fast and smoothly did the auto run, while a look at the ground made the riders think that yards and yards of dun-colored ribbon were being reeled off beneath them. Almost before they realized it they were half way round, whirling softly over the course and leaving a little cloud of snow-white steam in their wake.

As they turned into the home stretch the wind caught them again, and those who rode let go their hold on the seats long enough to turn up their coat collars.

"It is more like sleighing on a packed road of snow than anything I can think of," said one.

The next minute the quiet little auto had come to a stop at the paddock gate and the race against the novice's ignorance—for there was nothing else to race against—was at an end.

"Yes," said Mr. Duttonhofer, "it is like sleighing, especially on a day like this. Take a look at the rear of the machine as we run in; even the auto can see its breath."

Things One Cannot Do.

A man cannot raise from a chair without bending forward, or putting his feet under the chair or outside of it. Many a man will back himself to give another a start of fifty yards in a race of 100, provided the man having the start hops all the way. But no runner, however swift, can give that amount of start to an ordinary man. For the first five yards they go at practically the same pace. Therefore the runner, to go ninety-five yards while the "hopper" goes forty-five, would have to run more than twice as fast, and it would be a weak man who could not hop forty-five yards at a pace equal to twenty seconds for 100 yards; and that would mean the runner would have to beat all previous records.

Deal in California Redwood.

A great business is being built up in shipping California redwood to Central and South America and the Orient. It is soft and easy to work. Many trees are 16 feet in diameter and 300 feet high. Redwood resists decay and fire and is one of the most enduring woods. All the Pacific coast railroads use redwood ties, and large quantities have been shipped to Mexico, South America and India.

NOVEL OCEAN VESSEL.

INVENTION OF A NAVAL ARCHITECT FIFTY YEARS AGO

What would the engineers of today think of a proposition which was made half a century ago, to build a vessel 700 feet long, which would maintain a speed of 30 miles an hour and would make the voyage from New York to England in five days? Yet such a vessel was proposed, by one Darius Davison, a naval architect and engineer of New York in 1852.

Mr. Davison proposed to build a vessel, the greatest length of which would be under water. The upper portion would appear distinctively as another boat and the whole effect would be that of a smaller hull carried on a larger one, or, as one of the reviewers of Mr. Davison's book, published in 1852, said, "As though mounted upon the back of a fish."

The inventor's theory was a better and easier entrance of greater length on the same beam, a reduced proportionate displacement and surface friction, and a consequent increase of speed.

Whether through impracticability or the fear of failure of such an immense undertaking, his plan failed to receive the support he was seeking, and ocean going steamers or even any other kind of craft built upon his ideas, are unknown quantities at present.

The dimensions of his monster steamship would have been as follows: Keel 700 feet, deck 500 feet, depth of hold 60 feet, beam 80 feet, draft 15 to 20 feet. When loaded she would displace 16,500 tons. She would be propelled by 16 engines, each aggregating about 3,000 horse power, each to be placed in a watertight compartment. The division of the hull into these watertight compartments was also calculated to make her unsinkable.

In those days ocean going steamers were propelled by paddle wheels, a feature which Mr. Davison proposed to do away with. In fact, he had an idea of propelling his vessel entirely

CRANBERRIES UNDER SNOW.

Northeastern Canada the Greatest Place on Earth for the Berry.

It is a curious fact in nature that many of her products arrive at pre-eminence where they have their severest struggle for existence. Just where the season is barely long enough to ripen wheat is where the hard grain which produces the finest flour is grown, for instance. As one crosses the Rockies and descends from their frosty altitudes toward the semi-tropical delights of modern California and Colorado, it is the fruit which grows nearest to the snow line that pleases most by its flavor and size.

And it is where the summer, untouched by frost, is never more than two months long, in northeastern Canada, that the low-bush cranberry—the concomitant of the succulent turkey—is at its very best. The great swamps near the height of land, where thousands of bushels of these acid berries ripen every year, are all unknown to commerce. Quite secluded, far away from roads, nourishing no fauna of any kind, known only to a few hunters and explorers, the so-called economy of nature becomes an empty dream in the face of the immense waste of acres of good fruit, often three or four inches deep, which has been going on for centuries.

The writer has pushed away the snow in midwinter so that he might thrust his hands down to the bed moss, and bring them up laden with fruit, which, though frozen, was still very acceptable to one traveling light with fat pork and hardtack biscuit for an unwavering diet. Once in August a sack was filled with fine berries in twenty minutes, and from all appearances thousands more might have been filled without depleting the supply.

One swamp, the most southerly of a prolific chain, was visited this year by an enterprising band of French-Canadians, who carried out to where was a canoe route a few score of bushels, which they peddled about the outskirts of Montreal early in the season for 18 cents a quart—double the price ordinary cranberries usually bring.

Gold in Sea Water.

Within the last few years a number of inventors have attempted to find means for extracting gold from sea water, in which the precious metal is known to exist in appreciable quantities—some authorities say as much as 3 cents' worth to a gallon. Naturally, the idea offers temptations, but the difficulty thus far seems to have lain chiefly in the problem of separating the gold economically.

The latest attempt in this direction is made by an Englishman, who has just taken out a patent in this country. He says that the gold in sea water exists in the form of an iodide (I. e., in chemical combination with different than any that had at that time been used. He did not state specifically just what the principle was other than that "the propelling apparatus would be distributed at various points in the vessel, below the swells of the sea, where it would have a direct and constant action in rough as well as smooth waters, thus eliminating strain."

There was also a new plan of generating the propelling power, which was rather vaguely explained as a light and simple apparatus combining heat, steam and the pressure of the atmosphere, by which the pressure of 5,000 horses can be produced at a small expense.

It was expected that the steamer could accommodate 3,000 passengers and an immense amount of freight.

Mr. Davison's invention of hull was not to be confined to steamers alone, but also intended in the designs of sailing ships and even yachts. In this latter field, he proposed to build a yacht of 100 feet on deck, whose cost would be about $30,000 and would sail her against a vessel of any other known model, also 100 feet on deck, the winner to take the loser's yacht.

It is not known that Mr. Davison received any answers to his proposal, but it is likely that very few would consider it, for while his yacht would be just the same length as his rival, on deck, she might be half again as long below the water line and could carry a sail plan in proportion.

As ocean steamers of the type he proposed are not known at the present day, nor can any yachts of such dimensions be found in any of the registers, it is safe to say that the idea was not successful. What the scheme was for propelling power, is not known, but it is possible that Mr. Davison had hit upon, in a crude manner, the principles that control the speed producing machinery of to-day.

King of Kreigden Island.

Thus it happens that the settlement of all troubles arising among them must be settled among themselves. As they are not the sort of men who will get along with a republic, they have to have a king. He is generally the strongest of their kind, and he rules them. He is their interpreter of right and wrong, their judge of fact and their counselor. If one-half his subjects are arrayed against the other half and all of them up in arms, he must put shot cartridges into his own gun and go out with the faction he thinks best for him to lead.

Troubles that end in that sort of thing frequently arise. Whatever is done in the way of patching up the troubles after the feud is settled, so far as the community is concerned, is done by the king. He declares who shall contribute to the support of this widow and of that child, and whatever he says goes.

So far, Kreigden's title to his throne, and his kingdom is not in the least danger. Three counties in as many different states lay claim to the right of taxation, but there is no way of getting the matter settled, and it is altogether likely he will end his days there, a king with a country, but without a crown, and one in fact, though sneered at as a mere duck hunter, fisherman and catcher of skunks.

China's Elaborate Apology.

The letter of apology recently sent by the Emperor of China to the German Emperor is described as an exquisite work of art. It is painted on a single piece of yellow silk over four yards in length, and is beautifully illuminated with dragons, flowers and arabesques, embroidered in gold thread and silk of various colors. The work is so perfectly executed that at first sight the embroidery is mistaken for enamel. The letter is enclosed in a yellow silk envelope, which is also elaborately embroidered, and fastened by ivory studs of the most ingenious character.

AN UNCROWNED KING.

KREIGDEN ISLAND IN THE MISSOURI HAS A MONARCH.

His Subjects a Turbulent Set, but Completely Under His Control—Troubles That Arise Are Settled in a Primitive but Effective Manner.

There are within the borders of the United States several localities at least that, while they nominally constitute a part of the whole nation, in reality bow to no law save that imposed by the strongest of the community. The Dominion pays not a cent of taxes to any county or state, and no county or state looks after the administration of its affairs. The hunter, trapper, fisher king does that.

All this has come about because the Missouri river is always changing, and the states in interest have in several instances been unable to come to an understanding regarding certain changed tracts. It is these where the jurisdiction is unclaimed that have become the little monarchies within the borders of the republic.

Kreigden island, so called because a man of that name is the master of it, lying in the middle of the river, half way between Nebraska City and St. Joe, is one of the biggest of the kind, and the management is typical.

The island came into existence away back in the early '70s, and was covered with squatters long before the question of state jurisdiction was raised. At the first intimation of the intention on the part of some to establish state authority, Kreigden took the leadership of the party that didn't want it, and, though his efforts may really have had no effect in the matter, he thinks they did, and he makes his fellows think so, and for him that is sufficient. That is what makes him king.

His kingdom is three miles long, and varies in width from a hundred yards to a little more than a quarter of a mile. It would seem the management of such a little spot, especially when settled by only a few dozens of people, would be easy enough. But that is not so, for when you come to understand the conditions there is more of interest.

In the first place, these island folk are the sort that try in other places to get along without work; the shiftless man with a gun, a pack of dogs and a host of children and a slovenly wife. He is the type. Generally speaking, he has come to the island because there was no very gentle regard for him in the community in which he lived. It might have been unjust to accuse him of stealing or some other petty crime, but, generally, he was under suspicion.

Under no circumstance will he ever file complaint against a fellow islander for any offense, anywhere committed.

King of Kreigden Island.

Thus it happens that the settlement of all troubles arising among them must be settled among themselves. As they are not the sort of men who will get along with a republic, they have to have a king. He is generally the strongest of their kind, and he rules them. He is their interpreter of right and wrong, their judge of fact and their counselor. PROTECT ITALIAN VINEYARDS.

New Threat Grows Fight Threatened Danger from Storms.

Big, funnel-shaped canons that look like gigantic speaking trumpets set up on three legs are objects of wonder to the traveler passing through the vineyard districts of Italy. Some of them stand as high from the ground as the roof of an ordinary house, while others are not more than ten or fifteen feet high. The largest could hold three or four men in their bell-shaped openings and still have room to spare.

When dark clouds begin to gather and drift toward the vineyard districts, men may be seen hurrying toward the canon carrying rolls of ammunition. They are going to drive off the threatening thunderstorm if possible.

As the storm approaches, a dull boom, like the discharge of a piece of heavy artillery, is heard, and a ring of smoke rises from one of the trumpets nearest the cloud bank. More canon are discharged as the storm clouds draw closer to the vineyards until it seems as if the battery was engaged in a contest with the elements.

If the storm promises to be heavy all the available canon are called into action in the effort to prevent the thunder and high storm from sweeping over that part of the country and doing enormous damage.

Even these determined efforts to fight off the thunderstorms are sometimes ineffective. The elements come off victorious, with the result that a mass of hailstones descends, cutting down the vines and other vegetation as if hewn with knives. In five minutes the work of a year may be destroyed, and every bunch of grapes in the vineyard ruined.

The weather canon have been in use for about two years in northern Italy, as well as in some parts of Spain and southern France. The idea originated in the French Republic, where winemakers near Marseilles discovered that the rapid discharge of a field piece tended to ward off hailstorms.

JAPAN AND RUSSIA.

Little Nation in No Way Afraid of Its Mighty Rival.

About Japan Russia thinks night and day. When she, with the help of France and Germany, had unconsciously kicked Japan out of Port Arthur and off the mainland of China, Russia probably thought that she had done with the little island empire for a long time. But Japan thought otherwise, and proceeded to lay out a program of naval and military expansion due to mature a short time before the Trans-Siberian railway was to be completed. Many things have conspired to hinder the progress of the great railway, but Japan's military and naval schemes have gone steadily onward in spite of all financial difficulties.

To-day she has a magnificent navy, including the most powerful battleship afloat, stronger than any fleet Russia could safely send to the far east, while her army is at least equal in numbers and superior in equipment and scientific training to the land forces Russia could muster on the eastern side of her vast dominions. And between the two nations there lies Korea—a territorial deadlock, a political antimony. Russia cannot allow Japan to have it, for that would give her eastern border a land frontier to a military power. Japan cannot allow Russia to have it, for that would leave her island home almost within gunshot of the troops and the naval bases of the Colossus of the north, and deprive her of an outlet for her overflowing population. At present Japan is gaining, for her influence and her people and her trade are increasing in Korea every day.

It is a very dangerous situation indeed, says Henry Norman in Scribner's, and Russia would give much for a diplomatic exit from this military and naval anxiety. So, too, would Japan, whom it has nearly ruined, and the situation would inevitably hatch out a treaty, except for the simple difficulty that neither country will relinquish the only thing—the other wants.

Meant to Cause President's Death.

The recent assassination of President McKinley has brought into prominence a queer relic in possession of the London police. About a year ago a crowd collected around the American legation in Victoria street, watching the queer performances of an Italian. He had placed a little wax figure of the American president on the doorstep, and set fire to it. He was just lighting up the second figure when the police came up, and he ran away. He left behind him the second figure, which represented the American eagle, and was stuck full of pins. The man was a brother of Guido Mazzare, who was lynched in Louisiana. His belief was that he was avenging his kinsman's death by entailing upon the President a slow and lingering death. The coincidence of Mr. McKinley's death within the year was a strange one.

Much Killing in Russia.

As many kisses as shots are exchanged on a big field day with the Russian army. The emperor kisses his officers, the officers kiss each other, the soldiers kiss lovingly; old generals kiss; in fact, everybody is kissing and being kissed when the war reviews his troops.

On a public holiday the mistress of the house salutes all her servants, both male and female, with a morning kiss, while her lord and master scarcely enters or leaves the room that day without first bestowing a kiss on the forehead, cheek or hand of his spouse.

Literature is at present in the hands of the historical and novel writers.

New $2,000 Contest on Savannah Cotton Receipts

From September 1, 1901, through April 15, 1902.

CONTEST CLOSES APRIL 10, 1902.

Special Premium Offer for Subscribers for First Quarter of 1902.

The Atlanta Constitution proposes to distribute $2,000.00 in prizes among those complying with the rules of the contest, upon estimates submitted for the net cotton receipts at Savannah Georgia from September 1st, 1901 to and including April 15, 1902. Estimates to be received from Jan. 1, to April 10, 1902.

For the exact estimate accompanied by a yearly subscription to The Atlanta Constitution (Weekly):
$1,000.00 in cash to the person estimating correctly the number of bales of cotton received at Savannah, Ga. from September 1st, 1901, to April 15th, 1902, provided the estimate is received by us before February 1st, 1902.

$500.00 in cash, to the person sending in the exact estimate on the number of bales any time during February.
$250.00 in cash, to the person sending in the exact estimate on the number of bales at any time during March, or up to April 10th, 1902, received by us on or before April 10th, 1902.

For the nearest estimate accompanied by yearly subscriptions to The Atlanta Constitution (Weekly):

$250.00 in cash, for the nearest estimate to the number of bales of cotton received at Savannah, Ga., from September 1st, 1901, to April 15th, 1902. This prize and all the following will be awarded without regard to the exact estimate going to the nearest in their order, whatever they may be, received at any time during the contest.

$100.00 in cash, for the second nearest estimate on the number of bales.

$75.00 in cash, for the third nearest estimate on the number of bales.

Great consolation offer: $500.00 in cash to be divided equally among those not taking any other prize who comes within 500 bales either way of the exact figures, thus allowing a margin of 1,000 bales between the limit on each side of the correct figure. This will give several perhaps a very nice check.

$2,000.00 in cash represents our total liability hereon. You will note the highest prize for the exact estimate is $1,000.00, and all the prizes for the nearest estimates add up another $1,000.00, making a total of $2,000.00—this being offered in addition to our agents' premium offer of $1,500.00 for the same period—the two offers covering a cash distribution of $3,500.00 to subscribers and agents for work early in 1902.

Note especially—Sunny South combination: Two estimates to every combination subscriber to both papers. Every subscriber to The Weekly Constitution and The Sunny South, the two papers at only $1.25 per year, will be entitled to send two estimates in this contest one for each paper. The regular price of The Sunny South is 50 cents a year, and The Weekly Constitution $1.00, but every yearly subscriber to both papers during this contest will be entitled to two estimates in the New Orleans contest. The Weekly Constitution covers the news of the world; The Sunny South is distinctively a literary paper, and the only one of its kind in the southern states. The two papers should find their way in every southern home.

The exact official figure to decide this contest will be furnished to us by Mr. J. P. Merrihew, the secretary of the Savannah Cotton Exchange. Please note especially there will be five day's cotton receipts at Savannah counted after our contest has positively closed. The Constitution market page each week will give you the port receipts at Savannah since September 1st 1901, up through Friday immediately preceding publication.

Should there be more than one correct estimate for the exact number of bales, the date upon which we receive the estimate will decide to which premium sum the party making it shall be entitled.

Should there be more than one correct estimate received, the money will be divided into fractions whose denominators will be the total number of correct guesses received and whose numerators will be the prize sum for the period in which the correct estimates fall; those each successful estimate will receive its share of the prize sum for its period. For instance: Should A send his correct answer during January, B during February, and C during March, A would receive one third of the $1,000 prize, B one third of the $500 and C one third of the $250 prize. The day upon which we receive the estimate decides the standing of the contestants. To those who have the longest time against them the largest rewards are offered. Those who wait until the time has almost expired will have the chance at only the smaller sums.

The condition precedent to sending a reply to this Prize Contest is that each and every estimate must be accompanied by a year's subscription to The Weekly Constitution; the estimate must be sent by mail in the identical envelope that brings the money that pays for the subscription; forgetting it or leaving it out by accident or otherwise, or not knowing of the contest at the time you subscribe, or any other reason, will not entitle one to send an estimate afterwards. The estimate must come with the subscription or not at all. Should a party send more than one prize estimate he or she will be entitled to a prize on each one.

Persons may send answers as many times as they send subscriptions. Agents' answers allowed as has been usual. The contest begins January 1st, 1902. We record the answers on the day received and will allow no changes whatever in them afterwards. The contest closes April 10th, 1902, after which time we will pay out to the successful parties the full prize amount that has accrued under the foregoing rules of the contest. In making your answers make your figures very plain, and just state simply "Estimate —."

Address all orders and enclose your estimate, subscription and money in the same envelope, by mail to:

ALL CASES OF

HEAD NOISES CEASE IMMEDIATELY.

F. A. WERNER, OF BALTIMORE, SAYS:

Gentlemen:—Being entirely cured of deafness, thanks to your treatment, I will now give you a full history of my case, to be used at your discretion.

About five years ago my right ear began to ring, and this I was getting worse, until I lost my hearing in that ear entirely.

I underwent a treatment for catarrh, for three months, without any success, consulted a number of physicians, among others, the most eminent ear specialist of this city, who told me that only an operation could help me, and even that only temporarily, that the deafness would then cease, but the hearing in the affected ear would be lost forever.

I then saw your advertisement accidentally in a New York paper, and ordered your treatment. After I had used it only a few days according to your directions, the noise ceased, and to-day, after five weeks, my hearing in the deafened ear has been entirely restored. I thank you heartily and beg to remain

Very truly yours,
F. A. WERNER, 210 S. Broadway, Baltimore, Md.

Our treatment does not interfere with your usual occupation.

The London Daily News, in an editorial discussing William T. Stead's pamphlet on "The Americanization of the World," admits that Mr. Gladstone's prophecy that the United States would replace Great Britain as the premier commercial nation has been, on the whole, realized; but it declares it to be utterly impossible that Great Britain, as Mr. Stead extravagantly suggests, could ever enter an American union except after a series of disasters rendering separate existence impossible. The paper considers any kind of an Anglo-American federation equally unlikely, owing to the British insatiable love of caste, which led Cobden to insist that Englishmen were aristocrats rather than democrats. For the rest, it confesses the enormous influence which the United States wield over the British colonies and that a majority of Irishmen would vote for federation with the United States.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT

Will Attend the Charleston Exposition Wednesday, February 12th.

President Roosevelt will attend the exposition on February 12th. He will leave Washington on Tuesday, February 11th and will reach Charleston about 11:30 a. m., Wednesday, February 12th. The president and party will be escorted by the Charleston Light Dragoons to Marion Square where the military will be formed and the parade will move to the exposition grounds where the president will review it. Afterward the party will be conducted to the auditorium where addresses of welcome will be delivered, followed by a brief response by the president and the presentation by the president of a sword to Major Jenkins. Following the ceremonies in the auditorium the president and party will be conducted through the grounds and buildings. Wednesday night a dinner will be given to the president by the city of Charleston. At the same time Mrs. Roosevelt will receive, at the St. John's Hotel, members of the board of lady managers of the exposition. The president, Mrs. Roosevelt, Miss Alice Roosevelt, Miss Carey, Mrs. J. K. Grace, five members of the cabinet, Secretary Cortelyou, Assistant Secretary Loeb and press representatives will constitute the party.

WAGES ADVANCED.

Acting independently of the combines the D. O. Cunningham Glass Company, Pittsburgh, Pa., which is largest manufacturer of window glass outside of the American Window Glass Company, have voluntarily advanced the wages of all unskilled labor 10 per cent. Similar action was immediately taken by several other members of the Independent Glass Companies. It is expected that other independent glass companies, the Window Glass Companies and the Federation Co-operation Window Glass Company will follow suit. The advance will affect 2,000 workmen.

TERRIBLE LOSS OF LIFE.

A special to the San Antonio, Tex., to the Express from Eagle Pass Saturday night says that a dust explosion in the Hondo mine in Mexico caused a terrible loss of life and great damage to the mine. Eighty-five dead bodies had been recovered from the mine at last accounts, and as there were 183 miners at work there, the death toll may go far over a hundred. The Hondo mine is located at the terminus of a branch of the Mexican International road about 100 miles from Eagle Pass. Fifty miners are supposed to be buried beneath the debris. All of the men at work in the mine were overcome by shaft being choked up by falling earth and stones, killed by the explosion.

In Impressive Vein Bartow Man Lauds General Lee.

IMPRESSED WITH HERO'S GRANDUEUR

He Met the General on Two Occasions. Calls Attention to Noble Work of the Daughters of the Confederacy.

"Duty is the sublimest word in our language." That is what General Lee wrote to his son soon after General Scott offered him the supreme command of the northern army. Virginia had just seceded and Lee saw on one side that there were no honors to which he might not aspire. On the other side, if he cast his destiny with that of his state, he saw, or he thought he saw, that miseries and trials awaited him without number. But to seek his duty and, having found it, it was ever the principle of his actions. These strong and beautiful words about duty were not original with General Lee, and in his letter he has them in quotation marks. The expression came from Rev. John Davenport, a famous Puritan preacher of New England—the man who gave shelter to the three regicides who condemned Charles the First to death and after the restoration fed for their lives to New England and were hidden by John Davenport in his barn. When this act of treason became known among his people he neither quailed nor relented, but preached a sermon the next Sabbath from that passage in Isaiah which says: "Hide ye outcasts. Betray not him that wandereth. Let my outcasts dwell with thee and be thou covert about them from the spoiler." It was in this sermon that he made use of this notable expression: "It is my duty to shield them, and duty is the sublimest word in our language."

During the war it was my privilege to see General Lee quite often, but never did I meet him face to face and have a brief conversation with him but twice. Even then we did not know how great a man he was. General Johnston had been wounded at Seven Pines and General Lee came from West Virginia to take his place. He was almost a stranger to the Army of Northern Virginia. He had been in command but a week or two when General Black, of Rome, came to see his boys, of the Eighth Georgia and asked me to ride with him to General Lee's headquarters and introduce him, for he was desirous of meeting him before he returned to Georgia. Of course, I complied, for General Lee was a man of no small consequence at home. He was old and gray and of commanding presence and military bearing. Introducing myself first, I presented General Black, and after we were seated, I said nothing, but paid modest and respectful attention. I was soon impressed with the grandeur of the man before me, and, of course, as he expanded, I very naturally shrank up a little to keep the equilibrium. Not long after this the Seven Days battles began and ended in McClellan's defeat and our army began to realize how great a man Lee was. It was on the sixth day that I was sent to his headquarters near Meadow Ridge to receive orders, and there I met him again. He was standing uncovered and unarmed in front of his tent, and "Stonewall" Jackson was asleep inside upon the straw, and the servant had set the dinner tables over him so as not to disturb his rest, for, as General Lee said, "He needs it, and nothing but artillery will awake him now."

education has been and still is and we trust long will be as declared in Article 2 of their constitution: "To preserve, to collect and preserve the material for a truthful history of the war between the states—to honor the memory of those who fell in our service and to record the part taken by southern women during the war and its aftermath, their patient endurance of hardship, their patriotic devotion during the struggle and to fulfill the duties of sacred charity to the survivors." All of these are noble objects but the greatest of all is the preserving of the truth and preserving it. The poet said that "Truth crushed to earth will rise again," and it has risen and will continue to rise. Even that popular magazine, Frank Munsey's Monthly, in its last number, has forever blotted out the malignant and fanatical story of Barbara Freitlein, and only the last week the ban the drama of "Uncle Tom's Cabin." It was the Daughters of the Confederacy who did it and to their widespread and influential organization the south must look for the maintenance of the truth. Just think of it. Within the past nine years twenty-two states have been chartered as grand divisions, including California, New York, the District of Columbia, Oklahoma and the Indian Territory. In all these there have been chartered an aggregate of over three hundred chapters with a membership of 26,000 good, loyal southern women. The largest federation of women in the world. Of this membership, Texas has the largest number, 2,435. Georgia comes next with 1,750 members. But my friends, this great army of daughters and mothers who, whether alive or now dead, instilled this love of truth and unstained confederate honor in the hearts of their children. They are the ones who sacrificed and suffered and still were strong. For more than fifteen years I have observed a trait in woman's nature that is lacking in most men. She never gives up. The sad results of the war that wrecked the fortunes of southern men hastened thousands of them to untimely graves, but their widows still dot the land from Virginia to Texas. The mothers of these daughters endured more hardships and privations than their husbands and sons who were in the army, but they never complained. Goldsmith wrote:

Nor wants that little long."

But some cynical old bachelor paraphrased it:

"Man wants but little here below,
For so the poets say,
But woman wants it all, you know,
And wants it right away."

Well, she does want all she can get and wants it as soon as she can get it, if not sooner, but if she can't have it she surrenders cheerfully and accommodates herself to the situation. During the war they actually smiled at their own pitiful and distressed condition. They belied down the dirt from the smokehouse that had long been spattered with the droppings of the hanging meat and made pretty good salt out of it and divided with their neighbors. They parched rye and gubbers for coffee and sweetened it with sorghum and bragged how good it was. They cut up their old garments and made clothes for their children. Indeed, it is always an amusing entertainment to listen to these good old mothers as they recite their makeshifts and their trials after Sherman had passed through on his march to the sea. Not long ago four or five of these matrons by chance met at our house and it was nip and tuck between them as they told of the most amusing experiences. One told how her two boys and a little girl had worn out their shoes, until they would not hold shucks much less feet and she found an old calf skin that had long been hanging in the barn and she soaked it in lime and red oak bark and got about half the hair off and took it to an old shoe cobbler and he made three pair of shoes that would hold shucks, and they at the children pretty well, but the red hair stuck out in little patches all over them, and she laughed and laughed until the children did not want to wear them, because she laughed so much. That was the origin of tan shoes, though these were made of untanned leather. Another told how two of her children never saw a raisin until they were 5 and 7 years old, and were afraid of them, and said they were bugs. Another told how she and her boys built a fence around the garden by boring holes in the plank and the posts with an old brace and bit that her husband left when he went off. And they made pegs and drove them in, for there wasn't a nail in the country. But good old Mother Akia, whom everybody loves and likes to listen to, told how three of her neighbors got out of meal and had some how got hold of three bushels of corn and they rigged up a little rickety wagon and a blind army mule and all three started to the nearest mill, which was 7 miles away. They started early and got to the creek, and the creek was up, but they drove in, and sure enough the wagon came uncoupled right in the middle of it and let them all down where it was knee-deep, and let the corn down, too, and the mule went on with the force-wheels and stopped when he got over. But they never saw us the ship, nor the corn.

It took them about an hour to get the corn and the wagon together again, and with dripping garments they hurried on to the mill. A photograph of the scene would sell as the champion picture of the women of the war. The good miller gave them dry meal for the wet corn, and by sundown they were all at home again and laughed over it, and everybody laughed who heard of it. Almost every family within Sherman's belt have stories to tell that would fill a book. They are a curious medley of the sad, the pathetic and the amusing, and excite more fun than sorrow. How blessed are they who still live, and how sweet are the memories of those who are dead, for it is the mothers of the confederacy who have perpetuated the love of truth and the love of southern patriotism in the hearts of the children and inspired those principles that have in recent years developed that grand organization known as the Daughters of the Confederacy. Our northern brethren may boast of the Grand Army of the Republic, but our mothers smile and say, "I don't see where the grand comes in, for all who came this way were low Dutch and blundering Irish who feared not God nor regarded women." Well, it is all over now, and we are at peace, that blessed peace that hath her victories more renowned than war. And thrice blessed is the woman whom the dark ages kept subdued for centuries, but has come to the front and now stands first by side with man and is always first in every good word and work. For two thousand years she was called by name but twice in the Bible. Mother Eve, and next came Sarah, the wife of Abraham, and for another two thousand years was mentioned by name only a few times, but at last she was honored as the mother of our Savior and was "last at the cross and earliest at the grave."

Within the last half century she has made more progress in establishing her natural and God-given rights than in all preceding time. She is the acknowledged head of all religious, missionary and charitable institutions. She is the school teacher of the world and in these United States constitutes nine-tenths of all the public school teachers in the land. In several states she has the right of suffrage and is eligible to office on the school boards. Time was when she was almost a dead letter in literature and hardly ever noticed in the press of the country, but now a great metropolitan paper or magazine could not exist without a large space being devoted to her service and her fair pictures made to adorn the columns of every issue. Woman in this southland is a power and woe be to the men who scorn it, for they are always on the side of religion and good morals and purity in private life. Without them, the church, the prayer meetings, the Sabbath-schools and even the home would speedily decline into that state that Grover Cleveland called an "inconceivable desuetude." In truth, she is the hope of the world and her progress the best sign of the coming millennium. As to her influence for all that is good in educating and refining mankind, no man ever wrote a more beautiful sentence than that of Sir Richard Steele, when he penned that: "To look upon and love a fair and virtuous woman and be loved by her is a liberal education." And so let me say to the young men, these sons of confederacy, don't despair; don't grieve for a college education; don't lament your poverty; but get married and your education will be big. Sometimes the course is long but it is happy. My own has been running for nearly fifty-three years and is not completed, for I have not yet received a diploma nor taken the first honor. I am still a school boy.—Ell Arp in Atlanta Constitution.

THE ENGLISH HUSBAND

MASTER OF THE HOUSEHOLD IN FACT AS IN LAW.

Custom Fashions Him to Have Better Food and Clothes Than His Wife—The Woman as Housekeeper—Position of Working Women—Home Comforts.

The English law recognizes the husband as the head of the family—a law that still obtains in some parts of our own country—and the estimate of the law is obediently reflected by the family. In nine households out of ten the best of everything is reserved for "the master," the best chair is placed in the most comfortable corner of the fire-side, and it would be little short of sacrilege for wife or child to occupy either. If the fare is plain there must be something "tasty"—to use the English expression—for the man of the house. An English woman who lived in a London suburb said to the writer: "The family dine upon a leg of mutton on Sundays, and it comes upon the table daily until it is all gone." The husband, in the meantime, dines in town, ordering the dishes he most prefers. The greater part of the economizing falls upon the wife; if retrenchment is necessary her brougham is sacrificed, that her husband may retain his cab. Everywhere in London, even in the most fashionable quarters, elegantly dressed men accompanied by decidedly shabby women may be seen, and it is the rule, rather than the exception.

An Englishman's clothes are well chosen and well made, while the dress of his wife or daughter is very often "a thing of shreds and patches." It is in her home, however, that the English woman particularly shines—if the husband is not abnormally domestic, as frequently happens, taking her rightful authority into his own hands. In this event she is only a humble subordinate, who business it is to see that the wishes of her lord and master are carried out. The British husband and father superintending the purchase of a gown at the army and navy stores in the "American girl in London," and his stern command, "I will not have you in stripes," is no figment of the imagination. Such incidents are common enough. When the masculine will takes this turn there is nothing with which "the head of the family" does not meddle—the gowns of wife and daughter, the employment and discharge of servants, the ordering of the five meals daily with which the English constitution needs to be nourished in the depressing dampness and chill of the climate.

When not interfered with, the women of the educated classes, it may be said, are practically trained for house-keeping; almost all are good accountants, keeping a careful note of every farthing of expenditure. Even the lodging and boarding house keeper sends in the weekly bill—with its puzzling list of extras properly set down—an illustration of accuracy and ingenuity alike. They think it worth their while to consider saving a farthing a pound upon a joint at a butcher's; a halfpenny a dozen upon the eggs at the poultryer's, and all such matters that the American housekeeper so often considers too petty to discuss they never fail to bear in mind.

The English method of rearing children, but for the fact that the daughters are too subservient to the sons, is altogether commendable. The law of primogeniture is partially responsible for this, since the whole fabric of English society revolves around the eldest son and heir.

In a great many instances the education of the daughters is curtailed because the sons must be trained for professions by which they may earn a living, but it is hoped that the girl will marry, and every effort is made by the mother to secure suitable husbands for them. There is no pretense of letting this important consideration take care of itself; it is worked for and planned for from the time the daughter reaches a marriageable age. Much greater thought is given the wherewithal—the income for the maintenance of the newly established family—than in the United States, and when the wife's fortune is settled upon herself and her children by the marriage contract, it cannot be touched by the husband or diverted from the object to which it is to be applied.

English children, if somewhat shy, are delightful. Simple, natural, unspoiled, they are taught respect for their elders and obedience to their parents from the time they are old enough to understand anything. In a well-to-do family they are kept in the nursery, except when their presence is requested in the drawing room, given plain food and dressed in simple, comfortable clothing. They take their meals at regular hours, and have a great deal of out-of-door exercise.

The position of working women of all classes is one of the important problems of the hour. There, as here, the field of teaching is overcrowded. There are thousands of governesses in England competent to teach Latin, mathematics, music, drawing and the continental languages, whose salaries do not exceed $100 a year. A lady advertised in a London newspaper for a governess possessing these qualifications, offering a little less than the salary above named, and she received over 1,000 replies. An exceptionally well qualified cook is paid about twelve shillings ($3) a week, a housemaid half as much, and there are few conveniences in any but the most modern English houses, such as are to be found almost everywhere in our own country.

Water for the morning bath must be carried to the rooms and coal for the fire—a furnace or steam-heated house being exceptional—and for this work a man is never employed. All the rooms are furnished with beds, which must be answered, and the maids run up and down the stairs on errands or in answer to summons all day long. This has induced a disease, a swelling of the knee joint, recognized by physicians as "housemaid's knee." English servants are not expected to share the delicacies of the family table, a separate table being spread for them below stairs, provided with plain, although abundant, food, and any luxuries they desire they must get for themselves.

The American is impressed always with the homely comfort of an English house, notwithstanding the bedroom candles, the primitive bath and the lack of various conveniences which we consider essential. Everything is clearly arranged and perfectly understood; even the card for the opening of Parliament bears plainly printed in one corner: "Morning Dress." This definiteness saves much embarrassment, and misunderstanding. Splendor is reserved for splendid occasions. An "at home," even at a grand house, is a very simple affair; there is an abundance of tea, cakes and flowers—the latter always, whatever may be wanting. There may also be some good music, or some other entertainment provided.—Chicago Record Herald.

Men Who Make Beds.

Making beds is commonly considered a woman's work, but there are nevertheless quite a number of men who follow bedmaking as a calling, finding regular steady employment at this work in many of the lodging houses for men. This is especially true of those in New York City. For many years all the bedmakers in these places of many beds were men. For example, in a big lodging house, with from 400 to 500 beds, there is a bedmaker to every floor, having perhaps ninety beds to make daily. Incidentally he sweeps the floor and keeps it clean and in order. The bedmaker goes on duty at 6 a. m. and works until 6 p. m. The bulk of his work, however, is over by 3 p. m. Some men bedmakers, like women, make untidy beds, and some not only quick but careful, and make a bed that looks inviting. The pay of the man bedmaker is small, and commonly he sleeps in the house where he is employed.

Six Cents For a Holland Shave.

In a recent report to the State Department S. Liston, United States Consul at Rotterdam, states that the average Hollander is shaved from two to six times a week by a barber, either at the barber shop or shaving parlor or at his private residence. The present average tariff of a first class barber and hairdresser is fifteen Dutch cents (six American cents) for shaving, twenty Dutch cents (eight American cents) for shaving and hairdressing, and from twenty-five to thirty Dutch cents (ten to twelve American cents) for hair cutting. Tickets good for ten shaves may be bought for forty American cents, while one and one-half shaves on such a ticket are charged for shaving and hairdressing. The prices of the annual tickets for shaving, hairdressing and hair cutting range from fifteen to thirty florins ($5 to $12), according to the number of times a customer is shaved during the week.

Achievement of the Prince of Wales.

At the Court of St. James', present, the King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council. His Majesty was pleased, by and with the advice of his Privy Council, to order that there be added to the achievement of the Prince of Wales the badge of the Red Dragon, to be borne in the following manner: (1) The Royal Crest, as Her Apparent, in the center; (2) The badge of the Plume of Ostreich Feathers, on the dexter side; and (3) on the sinister side a representation of the Badge of Wales, namely, on a mount vert a Dragon, passant guardant, differenced (as in the Crest) with a label of three points argent; the same to be borne in conformity to the drawing annexed. And that the Most Noble Henry, Duke of Norfolk, G. G., Earl Marshal of England, do forthwith cause the necessary directions to be given herefor accordingly.—London Gazette.

Missouri River Leaking.

Civil engineers and river men who have been watching the course of the Missouri River for some time, endeavoring to account for the extremely low stage of water, believe that some subterranean waste of the waters that were formerly drained by the Missouri River is gradually lessening the volume of water. What was once a mighty stream is gradually dwindling until now the river is so low that it has much the appearance in places of a sluggish creek, with only a narrow stream of water between its banks. It has been suggested that the opening of artesian wells through the Dakota and the great combined flow of these wells is the cause of the lessened volume of water in the river.

Forgave Sir Francis Jones.

Lady Jeune is well known for her work in the east end of London, and she is actively connected with many of the societies that aim to better the condition of the poor. Many a home has she assisted, and in view of this an amusing story is told of a prisoner sentenced to a long term by her husband, Sir Francis Jeune, on one occasion when he was doing assize duty. The prisoner was rather indignant, but he ceased his protestations when one of his companions whispered in his ear: "Never mind, old man, you deserve it, after all. And just think what the bank's minus did for the youngsters!"—London Answers.

SCHLEY IN NASHVILLE

Is Given a Royal Welcome by the Citizens of the Capital City.

The first day's entertainment of Admiral and Mrs. Schley in Tennessee's capital culminated Saturday night in a banquet to the one and a brilliant reception to the other. While the Nights Templar had the admiral as their honored guest at the Duncan hotel, Mrs. Schley was introduced at the Maxwell House by the ladies of the patriotic societies of the city, the latter being a social function of especial note and largely attended.

At the capital in the morning, where welcome was formally extended by state and city, the crush was at great as that at the station, thousands being unable to gain entrance to the hall of the House of Representatives, where the speeches were delivered. Upon arriving at the state house the party passed under the swords of the Knights Templar escort, two companies of uniformed Confederate Veterans and the Fifth Regiment, N. G. S. T., keeping back the crowds on either side, and proceeded to the Governor's office. There Governor and Mrs. McMillin, the Governor's staff, ex-Governor Buchanan and others extended greetings.

Meantime Representative Hall was packed, and as the visitors entered the band from the State Industrial School struck up a lively air. United States Circuit Judge H. H. Lorton acted as master of ceremonies, and after the demonstration was over the appearance of the admiral had somewhat subsided, introduced Governor McMillin, who spoke the state's welcome. Following the governor were a number of other speakers, Admiral Schley coming last.

Admiral Schley said:
"I have all my life long aimed to serve my country, my people and my flag. I have had no other view and no other ambition. If I served you acceptably in the nearly one-half of a century in your service, I am satisfied. The memory of your welcome today will sweeten the every hour of my life I have yet to live.

"I have no other hope but to live always in your love and esteem and fill no place in which that might be placed in jeopardy."

It was nearly 2 o'clock when the admiral concluded, his remarks evoking continuous applause.

At the banquet in the evening Admiral Schley was vociferously applauded upon being presented by Postmaster Stahlman. He said:

"Out of the fullness of the heart the mouth speaketh, and on this occasion, after the eloquent remarks of your postmaster, I feel my heart is almost too full to give any utterance. The thousands I have met on my way through Washington, Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and Tennessee have amply testified to their love, respect and confidence. I have served you all my life. I have had no guiding star except your interest. I have lived somewhat on the outside of the country and at times it has been hard for me to keep the interest of patriotism burning in my heart. It has been my great honor to serve you from pole to pole and from sun to sun, throughout the tropical zones and I have never met a man who was more devoted to his flag; the one under which he served."

He said naval officers had to live apart from their wives, but that he would now enjoy a belated honeymoon. He said he returned the love of the people of Nashville and would carry away lasting remembrances that he would cherish all the sweet days of his life.

DISASTROUS BLAZE

The most disastrous fire in the history of Waterbury, Conn., broke out in the heart of the city shortly before 3:30 Sunday evening. A large section of the business part of the city has been wiped out. The fire originated in the upholstery department on the third floor of the store of Reid & Hughes, Dry Goods Co., at 108-112 Bank street. That store and many other adjoining buildings are in ruins.
Insurance men estimate that the property damaged will be found to be considerably over one million.

The senate committee on forest reservations has authorized a favorable report on the bill authorizing the purchase of a large national reserve in the Appalachian Mountains of Virginia and North Carolina and Tennessee. Senator Burton, chairman of the committee, will file a written report on the bill, giving the reasons for creation of the reserve.

BRADSTREET'S WEEKLY REPORT

Current Weather Conditions Tied to Check Buying.

Bradstreet's report for the past week says:

The future may be said to have profited at the expense of the present.
In other words, current weather conditions, such as heavy snowfalls East, West and North, tend to check the buying, except of purely seasonable goods at retail, and to limit slightly the volume of demand for wholesale lines. On the other hand, the covering of the entire northern half of the country, with a blanket of snow has bettered the condition of the winter sown crops, and the outlook for spring trade, as a whole, has therefore greatly improved. No diminution in confidence in a large spring business is reported, though Southern trade advices continue unsatisfactory. Northern and Western buyers are calling for deliveries on spring account much earlier than usual, an encouraging feature as indicated that unsold stocks of winter goods are not excessive. Other developments of the week are in the main favorable.

Considerable irregularity is noted in prices of cereals, hog products and cotton. After the late heavy decline in prices has come several reactionary movements in wheat, which tends to discourage export demand. Wheat strengthened early on Bradstreet's review of a heavy decrease in the visible supply, but weakened later on improved winter wheat crop prospects.
Corn has displayed rather more strength than wheat, a number of diverse influences operating while in cotton the feature was a spectacular break of 5 cents per barrel on one day, most of which was, however, later regained.

Uncertainty still rules in the cotton market. Confidence in small yield is still undiminished, though current receipts throw discredit on minimum estimates. Trade advices at home and abroad continue good, and the foreigners are certainly buying the staple freely. Stable cotton goods are still rather quiet but reports from the jobbing trade East and West are favorable.
Business failures for the week number 330 as against 282 in this week last year.

Failures in Canada number 48 as against 27 in this week a year ago.

ENGLAND'S REPLY.

In Answer to the Dutch Note Great Britain Made a Polite Refusal.

Writing from The Hague the correspondent of the London Daily Mail says that the reply of Great Britain to the Dutch note concerning peace in South Africa is a polite refusal to the request that permission be granted for a commission to proceed to South Africa.

London January 31.—The British reply to the Dutch note in regard to bringing about peace in South Africa was dispatched yesterday to The Hague. The contents of the note are kept strictly secret as the first publication of the text is intended to be made in parliament on Monday. Great Britain's reply is not in the nature of a direct negative, though it is not unlikely that it will have that effect.
While Lord Lansdown probably left a loophole for further suggestions, he doubts the ability of the Boer delegates to control their fellow countrymen, and there seems little likelihood that the Dutch government can secure guarantees in regard to the powers of the Boer delegation sufficient to induce Great Britain to accend to the original request. The war secretary, Mr. Broderick, in introducing a supplementary army estimate of £5,000,000 in the House of Commons today, said this brought the total of the cost of war for the present year up to £81,070,000. On January 1st, Mr. Broderick said, there were still 237,800 British troops in South Africa. The expenses of the war had now been reduced to about £4,500,000.

THE RECORD of the first month of the fusion administration of New York city shows much important work accomplished. The principal achievement is the reduction of offices and salary saving of $500,000 a year.

Dr. Fausto Matias Dahan, former governor of Panama, has left on the steamship Orizaba for Washington to act as special commissioner to assist Minister Martinez Silva in regard to the necessary treaty arrangements in the event of the purchase of the Panama Canal by the United States.
Senator Burton, chairman of the committee, will file a written report
on the bill, giving the reasons for creation of the reserve.

EMPLOYEES FORBIDDEN TO ASK MORE PAY

W. H. Taft, Civil Governor of the Archipelago Takes a Statement Before the Senate Committee.

The investigation into the conditions in the Philippine archipelago sponsored of the effort to secure legislation for the Government of those islands was begun by the Senate committee on the Philippines last week.
W. H. Taft, Civil Governor of the archipelago, was the first witness called. Governor Taft said that in all he Filipino or Christian provinces there is a form of civil government.
There are thirty-four of these provinces. The Moros are all friendly except a few who had never been otherwise than hostile to the Spaniards.
Even these were now being brought over by the prospect of trade of which they are very fond. Governor Taft described at length the commission's tour of the islands to establish provisional governments. These governments consist, he explained, of a Governor, Secretary, Superintendent, Crescenter and a Fiscal or Prosecuting Attorney. In all cases where the selection could be made without arouning jealousies, natives had been chosen. All these appointments are temporary, and next month their successors will be elected. When the actions were too strong, Americans were placed at the head of each provisional government. In all cases the treasurer and superintendent were Americans.

Governor Taft said it had been found impossible to put Filipinos over the Moros. They are subject to their chiefs and refuse to recognize the authority of a Filipino. There were, he said, two Sultans, one in Mindanao and the other in the Jolo group, but he Sultans do not always control their latos or chiefs. The Sultan of Mindanao is, he said, very poor, but the sovereign of the Jolos is a thrifty man, who is constantly trying to increase his income and constantly getting into a row about it.

The president has issued the following executive order: "All officers and employees of the United States of every description serving in or under any of the executive departments, and whether so serving in or out of Washington, are hereby forbidden, either directly or indirectly, individually or through associations, to solicit an increase of pay, or to influence or attempt to influence in their own interests any legislation whatever either before Congress or its committees or in any way have through the heads of the departments in or under which they served on penalty of dismissal from the government service."

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

The report that Miss Roosevelt will attend the coronation of King Edward VII. is not confirmed at the White House. Miss Roosevelt has requested her father's permission to accompany the Reid party, but the president has not given his consent, and Senator Hanna and others have warned him that such consent would be a fatal political blunder. Miss Roosevelt has not abandoned her campaign and has asked her father to grant her request as his gift to her on her approaching eighteenth birthday.

Resolutions adopted at a meeting held in the Isle of Pines, urging that the formal acquisition of that island by this government, under the cession from Spain, be speedily accomplished, were presented to President Roosevelt by T. J. Keenan, of Pittsburgh. Mr.
Keenan presided over the meeting on the island, at which many American property owners and residents were present.

Senator Stewart has announced that he will introduce a bill to increase the salaries of senators to $7,500 and an amendment to raise the pay of district and circuit judges.

The house committee on ways and means has unanimously authorized chairman Payne to report a bill repealing all the Spanish war revenue taxes except the tax on mixed flour.
The repeal is to take effect July 1, 1901 except the duty on tea, which is to take effect January 1, 1903.

The Pan-American Conference at Chicago adjourned last Friday.

All 2 o'clock last Saturday in the presence of the chief officials of the Treasury Department Senator Dol-liver and nearly all of Iowa's delegation in the lower house of Congress and other friends, former Governor Leslie M. Shaw, of Iowa, took the prescribed oath of office as Secretary of the Treasury, succeeding Lyman G. Gage. The oath was administered by Justice Shiras of the United States Supreme Court, in the largest of the secretary's offices rooms in the treasury building.

The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business January 31, 1902, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $185,926,898, which is a decrease for the month of $4,707,388, which is accounted for by the increase of the amount of cash on hand and the retirement of bonds purchased for the sinking fund.

The comparative statement of the government receipts and expenditures shows that during the month of June, 1902, the total receipts were $46,582,148, and the expenditures $58,548,277, leaving a surplus for the month of $8,033,866. The surplus for the corresponding month last year was $7,500,000.

The president has appointed the following board of visitors at the Naval Academy: William Butler Dan-can, New York; Francis Bawle, Philadelphia; James B. May, Portsmouth, N. H.; L. W. McGruder, Vicksburg, Miss.; Eugene L. Zimmerman, Cincinnati, O.; George Winston, Raleigh, N. C.; Francis B. Galt, Tacoma, Wash.

The Navy department has issued an order announcing that Rear Admirals Wm. T. Sampson and B. J. Cromwell will be placed on the retired list on the 9th inst. on account of age. Admiral Cromwell is in command of the European station.

TO BUILD NEW LINE.

Men Interested in the Memphis Line of the Frisco System Meet.

A meeting of gentlemen interested in the St. Louis, Memphis & Southern Railroad Company, which is to build the new Memphis line of the Frisco system, was held in St. Louis the other day. It was stated that the meeting was to arrange the final details for financing the new road, which will follow the west bank of the Mississippi river for the greater part of the distance between St. Louis and Memphis. Several small pieces of road already built will be utilized, but most of this will be rebuilt with heavier rails. The new road will be operated by the Frisco system.

TUSCALOOSA IS PREFERRED.

Ben Catchings was in Tuscaloosa last week looking for a site for a rolling mill plant that is controlled by New York and Birmingham capitalists.
The company desires the citizens to donate a site on the Warrior river.
Birmingham and Columbus, Ga., have made sufficient inducements, but Tuscaloosa is preferred an account of her water way. The machinery for the mills is already being made, and will be shipped when finished to the site selected. The output of the plant will be between fifty and seventy-five thousand tons of steel bars daily.
Forty thousand dollars worth of common stock has already been sold.
Thirty-five thousand dollars worth of preferred stock is for sale, and is offered to the citizens of Tuscaloosa.
This stock is guaranteed to yield 8 per cent per annum.

BIG STILL RAIDED.

Deputy Collector Root and Deputy Marshal Glas, together with Henry Pitts, Henry Arnold and Jim Roscoe, of Scottsboro, raided and captured a large copper still of forty-five gallons capacity on Sand Mountain, near Tally post office one day last week. They destroyed six gallons of moonshine, whiskey and 25,000 gallons of mash. They arrested Boat Harrison and son and E. J. Poe. The officers also captured five small stills, but made no arrests where they were found. Harrison and his son and Poe were taken to Fort Payne and tried before the commissioner at that place and in default of $500 bond were placed in jail. The place where this large still was captured has become noted on Sand Mountain, as a place for wild cat whiskey, and has given the officers no little amount of trouble.

MT. VERNON ANNEX.

Dr. James T. Searcy, superintendent of the Bryce Insane Hospital, recently visited Mt. Vernon in interest of the institution. The annex at Mt.
Vernon is for negroes and will accommodate six hundred patients. In speaking of his trip, Dr. Searcy states that he is very much pleased with the building and the spacious grounds that surround it. The 400 negro patients which still remain in Tuscaloosa will be moved to Mt. Vernon sometime in April. The space made vacant by these patients will be taken at once by white applicants. Dr. Searcy says he is receiving daily, applicants which will more than fill the vacancy.

HUNTSVILLE SCHOOL BONDS.

Hon. John B. Weakley, of Birmingham, has closed the deal for the new issue of $40,000 in city of Hunte-sville school bonds. The bonds were delivered to the purchaser, the New National Bank of Columbus, O., and a check was given for the purchase price, including a handsome bonus.

MAYOR A. B. WALKER, of Florence, has received a letter from Chairman Mercer of the house committee on public buildings and grounds notififying the mayor that a bill has been introduced to appropriate $70,000 for a federal public building in Florence.

THE TUSCALOOSA Telephone Company has sold out to the Southern Bell Company.

TELEPHONE WAR.

A telephone war is on in the city of Decatur. For many months it has been attempted by the Southern Bell Company to secure an extension of its franchise from both towns, without success, several schedules having been proposed and rejected by either the city or the company. No settlement was ever reached, and at the December meeting of Decatur Council a new license schedule was adopted fixing the rates allowed for telephones at $18 for business houses. When the schedule went into effect the telephone people refused to accede to the terms and the city caused the arrest of the local manager, H. C. Calvin, proposing to test in the courts its right to fix telephone rates. Calvin gave bond.
Several telephone companies are negotiating with the city.

THOUSANDS EXPENDED.

Birmingham's city engineer, Julian Kendrick, is working on his report for the year 1901, which will soon be ready. This will show that Birmingham paid out in actual cash for street improvements during the year the sum of $314,433.38. This is the actual amount paid out, some contracts still running which were made in 1901, so that this sum does not really represent the total amount of work begun by the city last year.
For curbing sidewalks $48,022.87 was spent; for paving sidewalks the sum of $43,700.52, for vitrified brick paving $35,073.56, for sanitary sewers $14,273.48; for storm sewers $13,- 775.57, and for street grading and macadamizing the sum of $119,587.48.

SILVER SERVICE FUND.

Treasurer Charles F. Morris, of the Battleship Alabama Silver Service Commission, said the other day in Montgomery that he now has $1,635.53 in the bank to the credit of the battleship fund. This does not include about $1,000 which has been raised in Birmingham and will soon be remitted to the treasurer. The amount in the bank consists of $314.38 raised in Mobile, $50.93 raised in Montgomery and $90.25 raised in Selma. Mr.
Morris says several Alabama cities are to be heard from.

A. J. DYE SENTENCED.

Judge Samuel E. Greene in the Jefferson county court last Saturday sentenced A. J. Dye, one of the prisoners who recently escaped from the county jail and was retaken, to six years in the penitentiary. Four years of this sentence was for burglarizing the Birmingham Arms Company and two years for larceny from the May & Thomas Hardware Company.

SUPERINTENDENT ABEROON- BIE

Has written Mayor W. O. Goeh-ran, of Tuscaloosa, president of the board of education, urging him to send the superintendent of the public schools of that city to the National Educational Association to meet in Chicago, on February 27-28th, and that the city pay his expenses. The letter will be brought before the board at their next meeting.

THE NEW city school building at Russellville has been about completed and will be turned over by the contractor at an early date. This is one of the handsomest buildings in the city. There will be no public city school till next fall, and all of the funds will then be put into the school and it is hoped that the pupils will get ten full months of free school.

THE FOLLOWING postoffices are discontinued in Alabama: Dominick, Hale county; Glendon, Clarke county; Grantley, Cleburne county; Level Plains, Parle, Dale county; Le-cas, Conecuh county; Maxton, Etowah county; Milligan, Autauga county; Teressa, Barbour county; Warwick, Greene county.

MR. WILLIAM EAST, an old and one of the most highly respected citizens of Russellville, died at his home last week. Mr. East has for thirty-five or more years been one of the most important factors in the politics of the county. He was a man of large means, and was a man of great charity.

IT IS now settled that a state fair will be held in Birmingham this year.
At a meeting of the directors several days ago a committee of five was appointed to manage the fair.

THE POSTOFFICE at Tuskegee will undergo a change in a few days, when the new appointee, Mr. J. O.

WITH regret we report in another place the death of O. M.
Martin at his home in the Indian Territory, where he moved from Clanton several years ago. To many of our readers he was well and favorably known as an honest, upright man, always striving to do right, and an earnest worker on behalf of the people. He served two terms in the legislature as representative of Chilton county and made a good reputation there. He now rests.

THERE appears to be a prospect of a cotton mill for Clanton. Some capitalists, with headquarters at Birmingham, are in correspondence with some of our leading citizens.
They are looking for a location for a cotton mill, and Clanton is one of the places on the list. That our town is pre-eminently fitted for such an enterprise there is not the slightest doubt. We have the raw material right at our doors, and one of the best railroad systems in the United States to haul off the manufactured product. Several sites are offered for the factory and abundant labor could be readily secured. We understand that the parties interested will shortly visit here and come to a decision. They will be heartily welcome and our citizens will do everything possible to induce them to locate their factory at Clanton.

TAX COLLECTOR T. J. Hubbard says there is a very small number of men who have failed to pay their poll tax, and have thus disfranchised themselves, but he was unable to say how many.

The following figures have been furnished by Deputy Collector H.
A. J. Harris: In Beate 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6 and 9, 1051 white men and 63 colored men have paid poll tax.
Beate 7 and 8 have not yet been heard from, but will, probably add 400 names to the list. This, in round numbers, makes 1500 men who are qualified to register and to vote. In addition to this number we think there must be at least 600 men in Chilton county who are over the poll tax age (45) and are consequently entitled to register, making a total list of 2100 registered voters. We believe the old registration list contained about 2600 names, and of these probably some 500 were colored men. As only 63 colored men in seven beate have paid poll tax it is evident there will not be much over a hundred colored men in this county who will be eligible to register, and when the Registrars have completed their work we expect the registration list of Chilton county will comprise fully 2000 white voters and a very small sprinkling of colored. So far as the white man is concerned the new list will be practically the same as the old but the colored man will be conspicuous by his absence.

A Farmers' Grain Trust.

The farmers who marketed grain at Solomon organized a cooperative shipping association, with a capital stock of $2,500, divided into shares of $12.50 each.
No member could own more than sixteen shares, and the majority held only one share each. No stockholder was allowed more than one vote in meetings of association, no matter how many shares he held. This was to prevent any individual or corporation from securing a controlling interest in the stock of the association and running it contrary to its original purposes. An experienced grain buyer was employed on a salary as manager of the business.
An elevator was leased, and on June 15, at the beginning of the harvest of 1901 the elevator was opened for business.

Under the by-laws of the association, every member is required to sell his wheat to the farmers association, but a provision is inserted whereby he may dispose of it outside of the association by paying into the association treasury a rebate of one cent a bushel on all so sold. This provision is regarded as the bulwark of the association, and prevents the syndicate from forcing it out of business.

Within two months after the association had opened its elevator, it had handled over 100,000 bushels of wheat, paying its members from seven to nine cents below the Kansas City price, although the normal price was 10 cents below, while the syndicate price was below 14 cents below, a clear gain to the farmers' of from five to seven cents a bushel. As a result, the syndicate received very little grain, and kept its elevators running at a loss. Soon after the farmers' elevator opened one of the syndicates ordered the price advanced to a point that would make the farmers dissatisfied with what they were receiving at their own elevator and tempt them to bring their grain to the syndicate, thus keeping the farmers' elevator from getting any grain, which, under ordinary circumstances, would force it out of business. The syndicates had been paying 48 cents a bushel, but this one syndicate advanced the price to 55 cents, while the farmers' elevator was paying 52 cents. Instead of attempting to meet this advance, the manager of the farmers' elevator simply weighed the wheat for the farmers as fast as they brought it in and then sent it to the syndicate elevator to be sold for 55 cents a bushel. The farmer then returned to his own elevator and paid in one cent a bushel of what he had received thereby netting 54 cents, considerably more than he would have received had it not been for the competition caused by the farmers' elevator. The one cent a bushel received from this source not only paid the expenses of the farmers' elevator, but it gave it a profit besides, so that the syndicate, in addition to doing business itself at a loss, actually paid the expenses of,
and a profit to, the very institution it was endeavoring to destroy.
The attempt was soon given up, and at the end of three weeks the syndicate had looked its elevator and gone out of business at Solomon. From "A Grain-Buyer's Trust: How Kansas Farmers Are Meeting It," by C. H. Matson, in Reviews for February.

DEATH OF O. M. MARTIN.

Mr. J. C. Laporte was overcome from Wetumka Thursday and gave the regrettable news of the death of Mr. O. M. Martin near Wetumka last Monday of acute pneumonia, after only one day's sickness. He had been feeble for some days but did not take to his bed until Sunday, when his sickness became very acute and he died the next day. Mr. Martin was white Creek by blood and was a prominent, useful man of intelligence and culture. He was a native of Alabama, where he was a man of prominence, having been a member of the Alabama legislature and the incument of various offices of honor and trust. From Alabama he came to the Creek nation and established his rights as a member of the tribe in 1895, settling near the mission ford on the North fork, where he has since resided, a prosperous and industrious farmer. He leaves a wife, an adopted son and a sister, Mrs. J. C. Laporte.—Holden-

KICK A DOG

Kick a dog and he bites you.
He bites you and you kick him.
The more you kick, the more he bites and the more he bites the more you kick. Each makes the other worse.

A thin body makes thin blood. Thin blood makes a thin body. Each makes the other worse. If there is going to be a change the help must come from outside.

Scott's Emulsion is the right help. It breaks up such a combination. First it sets the stomach right. Then it enriches the blood. That strengthens the body and it begins to grow new flesh.

A strong body makes rich blood and rich blood makes a strong body. Each makes the other better. This is the way.
Scott's Emulsion puts the thin

Honest Election League.

Each Honest Election League, as it is formed, should include a skillful lawyer who has the courage of his skill and tongue—one who will not hesitate to prosecute any man that strikes at the purity of the ballot box—one who will never cease his efforts until the offender is landed in the penitentiary. This must be a labor of love to him, for the League cannot afford to pay the lawyer's fees. It should pay all other needful expenses.

But behind this patriotic lawyer must be built up a public sentiment that will be potential in the jury room. No lawyer can accomplish much if the public sentiment of his county be rotten, and in many of the counties of this State the condition of public sentiment touching the ballot box is far from sound. It is the first and chief duty of each Honest Election League to create a healthy public sentiment—a sentiment that demands the punishment of every man who assails the ballot box or the count in any respect.

To accomplish such a revolution in public sentiment after so long a period of ballot box devilitry, calls for some time and much missionary work, and this is why we urge the organization in each county at once of Honest Election Leagues. Let the honest men in each county get together. You will have the law and a registration behind you. You will have the honor of a state to defend and uphold. Pick your lawyer and organize at once. There is much work to be done in every county of the State. Not a single county in the State has had since 1875 an honest ballot—not one.

This county is perhaps one of the worst, and there should be an Honest Election League in every beat. The ballot box experts of the past should become marked men. They are known. The men who were counted in should now be counted out of politics. Jefferson county must reform itself. The election of next November and the city election of the following May must be honest elections, and the change will be both refreshing and revolutionary.—Age-Herald.

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY FEBRUARY 13, 1902

NO. 17

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Signs He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

To-morrow is St. Valentine's day, when the birds begin to mate, and the first man or woman you meet in the morning will be your Valentine and you will be married before the year is out—perhaps. So keep your eyes open, and be sure to meet the right one, if you can. Then you can sing:

"Will you be mine, pretty bird, pretty bird.
Do not decline, but say the word;
I'll buy a nice little cage, pretty quick.
If you'll be mine, pretty dick, pretty dick."

St. Valentine's day is the harbinger of Spring. Winter is about over and we begin to think about gardening. The days are lengthening and Old Sol begins to make his power felt. Nature takes on new life, the trees are getting ready to burst into leaf, and mankind is shown by a Beneficent Creator the principle of eternity. After death comes new life. Childhood is our Spring; maturity our Summer; our declining days the Fall and old age our Winter. With Winter we fade away to rise again in a new and better world.

Speaking of Spring and garden- ing reminds me of something which is going to be of inestimable value to our growers of garden truck, and it looks as if it would be ready for business by the time the grower has raised the truck. The canning factory at Thorsby is approaching completion. The walls are up and the roof is on. It is a fine large building and I understand will be fitted with the latest improved machinery. It will be a great help to this part of the county and I wish it the greatest success.

The cash and door factory is also well on the way to a finish. These two factories at Thorsby will be a great help to that thriving city. Besides these two factories there are new dwelling houses and stores going up in all directions; it is hammer, hammer, saw, saw, all around until you can't hear your- self think. The Messrs. Gerald at the Thorsby Savings Bank are now ready for business, and the Normal College has nearly two hundred students. Altogether, Thorsby is moving right along. Good luck to it.

I am glad to notice that Will Sartor is making a display in his store window. Our merchants do not, as a rule, make as good a show of goods in their windows as they should. Will Sartor is putting on metropolitan airs, and is making a pretty show of shoes on silver cups (I don't know whether they are free silver or not, you must ask him) and fancy shirts at ridiculously low prices. Make your windows attractive, and as we pass by, something catches our eye, and we walk in and buy; the goods speak for themselves, not like you, they don't. Hullo, there's getting too much "poetry" in this composition, I had better stop.

The new double building of Tipton Mullins is going to be one of the prettiest in Clanton. By the way I hear that Stewart & Middleton are going to enlarge their store- house, their present accommodation being insufficient for their business. Ne Stewart has worked up a large business since he opened a few months ago, and now with Jim Middleton to aid him, not to men- tion their highly efficient staff of clerks, they intend to do as much business again. They propose to build an L at the rear of their present store, and I wish them continued prosperity.

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 10, 1902
Editor Banner.—What has be- come of the Reynolds move to land the Populist boat in the Re- publican harbor? I am not much versed in politics, but I am not able to see how that move will help the people in Chilton county. The Republican party in the South and in Alabama, is divided so much so that it is hard to tell where the Republican party is at. Reynolds says the People's Party is dead, and that we must go to the Re- publican party for relief. Well, I wish to ask what will the Re- publican party relieve us of? If we take Mr. Reynolds' advice, I be- lieve we would be relieved of one or two important things, and first of all if we follow Reynolds into the Republican party we will at once be relieved of the organiza- tion that we now have, for the Re- publicans will not disband their organization and adopt the People's Party organization. So you see, do you not, number one. And second we would have just the same hope of success that the Re- publicans have now, and that they have had in the past twenty-five years. So you see number two, do you not? What sane man who wants to see the people recognized and their interests respected, can ad- vise them to join the Republican party in Alabama? Alabama in the future will be strictly a white man's state, controlled absolutely by white men, and I believe the votes of the people will be honest- ly counted, and to my fellows who have stood for principle in the years passed, let me beg you to still stand, and stand as a unit. We can never stand as a unit in the Republican party, but we can stand together as we are. Yours for the people. POPULIST.

No use losing sleep and walking the floor with Baby at night because it has the colic. A dose of Dr. Tichenor's Antiseptic (diluted and sweet- ened) will relieve it in a few min- utes. A very pleasant taste and odor free from opiates and perfectly harmless. Ask your druggist for it.

Verbena, Ala., Feb. 7, 1902
Editor Banner.—I take up my pen again to write about this stock law in Beat 5. I see a correspond- ent from Burwell says no one has tried to enforce the stock law in Beat 5. Well, I was told to-day by a man in Verbena to put my cow up, that he was going to test the stock law in Beat 5. He said he did not wish to take my cow up to test the law with. I am opposed to this stock law on general prin- ciples. In the first place I do not believe the people want it; the second is this county is too poor to have stock law. I call on the voters of Beat 5 to have a meeting right away and see how they stand on the stock law. Let us settle that question right away. I do not condemn a man because he is a stock law man. This is a free country and a man has the right to believe as he pleases.

This stock law is causing a great deal of trouble and worry in Beat 5. The people do not know what to do. Some are building pastures and some are not. Some are going to put up their cattle and some are not; some swear that a stock law man shall not live in their commu- nity. Well, what are we going to do about it? The stock law men say it is the law, and they are go- ing to enforce it.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL

PLANTERSVILLE, ALA.

Is a training and strictly private school for boys and girls. Correlated to the University of Alabama and to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute. Has fitted more pupils for college, more pupils for teaching, more pupils for advanced business positions than all other schools in Chilton county combined. It is the only school in Chilton county whose pupils have a First Grade Certificate under the present school laws.

Its course of instruction is the best arranged, its methods the soundest, most thorough and up-to-date; its scholarship the most advanced; its location, buildings, grounds, furniture, equipments, the most attractive and best adapted of any school in Chilton county.

Its pupils enter any college in the South on certificate of the Principal. It deals honestly with the public, adheres to professional courtesy, and performs its promises. Its mission is to build up, not to pull down. It is not, as some are, a mere common school called "College," "Normal," etc., by which misnomers the uninformed are misled.

$101 pays all expenses of board, tuition, fuel, lights, etc., for session of nine months. School opens September 25, 1901. Write for catalogue.

THE county Registrars have made their list of appointments, which will be found in another place in this issue, and it disposes of one more of those erroneous statements in connection with the new Constitution. It has been said the Registrars would only have one day in each beat, and that one day would not be sufficient to enroll all the voters in a beat. The Registrars have made at least two days appointments in each beat, in several beats four days, and in Beat 8 six days. It simply remains for a man to go out and register on the days appointed.

THE latest report from the sick room of Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., the eldest son of the President, who is very ill with pneumonia, is to the effect that the crisis would take place Wednesday. The country sympathizes with the President and his family in this their hour of trial, and prays for the recovery of the young fellow.

The Populists of Marion county, Kansas, have a profitable fusion scheme on hand. They have decided to join the Democrats, and as that county has three Populists to one Democrat, it is easy enough to foretell the result. As one of them expresses it, "they will put the Democratic name over Populist principles." This is a brand of fusion that will doubtless be popular with the Populist brethren.
—Advertiser.

This is another instance of the recognition of the indisputable fact that the Populist organization is dead. Populists everywhere are returning to the Democratic party, and in their return eject new life into that organization. The Democratic party of to-day will be none the worse for the infusion of a few of the best Populistic ideas.

The State election is to be held this year at the time of the election for Congressmen in November.
The time was changed from August to that time by the late Constitutional convention. The election for State officers has been held in August since 1876, the change being made by the General Assembly of that year for the reason of the menace of the prevalence of Federal bayonets at the polls, State affairs being divorced as far as possible from those of the Federal government in the State. It was deemed wise and safe to go back to the old time. The people were heartily sick and tired of so frequent elections, the reason for the severance having long since disappeared. It must be remembered that the elections this year are all to be held then in November and there are to be elected at that time all the State officers, who are to serve for four years and who are ineligible to re-election in the succeeding term; a member of Congress in each of the nine districts, Senators in the even districts, and from the Thirty-fifth district. Representatives from the various counties to the lower House of the Legislature, justices of the peace and constables. The new constitution extends the terms of those Senators who represent the odd numbered districts until the day after the general election in the year 1906, and until the expiration of his term so extended, each Senator shall represent the district by this constitution bearing the number corresponding with that for which he was elected.

Millions put to Work

The wonderful activity of the new century is shown by an enormous demand for the world's best workers—Dr. King's New Life Pills.
For Constipation, Sick Headache, Biliousness, or any trouble of Stomach, Liver or Kidneys they're unrivalled. Only 25c at Clanton Drug Co., and F. A. Gullage, Verbena.

West Clanton.

Little Bessie VanDerveer, daughter of our esteemed Mayor, is slowly recovering from a severe spell of pneumonia.

La grippe seems to have the greater part of our population in its "grip." It is almost as bad as whooping cough. No fatalities up to the present.

The morning service at the M.
E. church was well attended last Sunday, notwithstanding the cold was so intense. Evening service was called in account of illness of our Pastor, Bro. Stevens—who, while he is up, continues to suffer from grippe.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church met at the home of the President (Mrs. Higgins).
After routine business was concluded, Mrs. Stevens was elected honorary member of the society.

One of our avenues is taking on quite an improved appearance under the supervision of our town marshal, in the matter of a brand new foot bridge across a ravine; also other things. Give us more street improvements.

The annex to the hotel is rapidly nearing completion, which means more room for guests.

Along with the adage "every dog will have his day," St. Valentine will soon have his, making glad the hearts of many—natural to enjoy attention even in a comique.

Our part of town is lamenting the removal of two of our citizens to other climes, Miss Williams gone to Cullman in North Alabama, Dr. Matthews to Atlanta.
Why can't Clanton bolder to the good? Let us wish them success in their new homes.

Mr. Higgins is having a tenement house built on the alley back of his lot.

Mr. Stanfield is preparing to build a two-story residence on his lot next to Masonic Hall.

Mr. Rollins intends putting more buildings on his property as soon as the weather permits. So our side of town grows—more houses, more folks.

We have a squad of youthful tourists in our town that take a trip to Swift Creek and other minor places of interest to them now and then, much rejoicing is indulged in when they return.

breath, if it habitually picks its nose,
if it is cross and nervous, if it does petite and digestion improve, and its health be better. Price only 25 cents. No other worm-killer so effective.

A Danger Signal.

You have got a cough and you don't worry. Don't you know a cough is something terrible. It leads to consumption and consumption is killing thousands. Better cure that cough, better cure it quickly. Get a 25 cent bottle of Gooch's Mexican Syrup. No other remedy so nice to take.

That Cough Hangs On

You have used all sorts of cough remedies but it does not yield; it is too deep seated. It may wear itself out in time, but it is more liable to produce la grippe, pneumonia or a serious throat affection.
You need something that will give you strength and build up the body.

SCOTT'S EMULSION

will do this when everything else fails. There is no doubt about it. It nourishes, strengthens, builds up and makes the body strong and healthy, not only to throw off this hard cough, but to fortify the system against further attacks. If you are run down or emaciated you should certainly take this nourishing food medicine.

ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The field is being picked for the THIRD TIME; notice that the stalks are bowed down by the weight of the bolls; a marked characteristic of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER—it produces ABUNDANT FRUITAGE, which is the best proof of its excellence.

The consumption of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER has steadily increased until now more of it is used than any other one brand in the U. S. It is the oldest brand sold in the State of Alabama. It is estimated that of the intelligent and independent farmers of the State who use fertilizers, about 80 per cent. of them are consumers of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER is exclusively put up in the famous "MUMMIA VEGETABLE FIBRE" PRESERVED BAG. This bag is endorsed by the DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, transportation companies, farmers and merchants.

Every genuine sack of Alabama Fertilizer has the trade mark, (map of Alabama) on it and is manufactured solely by THE ALABAMA FERTILIZER COMPANY, Montgomery, Alabama.

For sale exclusively at Jemison and Thorsby by I. N. Langston; at Clanton and Lomax by W. I. Mullins; at Verbena by D. L. De-ramus; at Mountain Creek by the Cash Supply Co.

NO. 18

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Signs He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

A real good hardware store in Clanton could do a real good business. There is a splendid opening for such a store and the wonder is it has been neglected so long. However, at last a long-felt want is in the way of becoming filled. Messrs. Smith & Gamble, the well-known merchants of Wetumpka, are contemplating opening a hardware store here, and are now negotiating with New Kicker to build them a brick store next to Will Sartor's. While nothing definite has been decided upon, the prospects are good for the negotiations coming to a successful conclusion.

Business is business, and time is time. You have probably heard that before, and there is no denying the truth of those statements. A lack of appreciating their proper value brought two members of the Farmers' Mutual Insurance Association before Justice Deason this week. When a man joins the Association he obligates himself to pay any and all assessments within a given time, and these two gentlemen had neglected to come up to the scratch. There is no doubt but that they would have paid alright, but the rules of the Association require assessments to be paid on time. That's business. Be prompt, be accurate, "be sure you are right, then go ahead."

For years much talk has been indulged in respecting a home for indigent and disabled Confederate Veterans in Alabama, and at last it appears highly probable that such a home will be located in Clanton county through the liberality of Col. J. M. Falkner.

At a called meeting of Camp Jeff. Falkner, U. C. V. No. 1382, at Montgomery on Monday night the Commander, Judge Purifoy, stated that the meeting was called for the purpose of inaugurating the enterprise. Col. Falkner stated that after mature deliberation he thought he had found an ideal spot for a home for old Confederate veterans. He said that he owned about 400 acres of land near Mountain Creek in Chilton county, and he proposed to donate from forty to one hundred acres of this land on which to build such a home. He, in company with Comrades Ruth, Jackson and Purifoy, had visited and inspected the locality and it was entirely suitable for the purpose.

A committee of three was appointed to prepare suitable resolutions of thanks to Col. Falkner for his liberality to be presented at the next meeting of the camp.

A motion was made that the Commander appoint three trustees to receive and manage said property, to be announced at the next meeting of the camp. A committee on building and grounds was appointed with Col. Falkner as chairman, and it was ordered that a committee on ways and means be appointed by the Commander to be announced hereafter.

"It is understood," says the Advertiser, "that a large quantity of lumber has been offered for the construction of the home, and it is said the L. & N. railroad company will furnish free transportation for the building material. The members of Camp Falkner and other camps of Confederate veterans, as well as the citizens at large, are enthusiastic in their praise of the liberal donation of Capt. Falkner, and it appears that a home for the old heroes is at last in sight."

Chinese Old Iron Imports.

One of the peculiar features of the trade in China is the great quantity of old iron imported—plates, tubes, wagon tires, horseshoes, railway spikes, wire rope, hoops, and general scrap iron. This is worked over, welded together and put to various uses in the small blacksmith shops throughout the country. It illustrates the intense economy of the people and the small value of labor.

One Source of Fertile Land.
The selection of live stock depends

Select plum, cherry, apple or pear trees for the poultry run, taking care that good varieties of commercial fruit be obtained from a reliable nursery. Plant these far enough apart so that the trees will have room to grow and expand. If dwarf varieties are selected they can be planted much closer together. Plum trees should not be planted closer than twelve feet, and the apple and cherry trees nearer than twenty feet. The chicken run should be planted with blue grass and clover, and the grass will add greatly to the fertility of the soil. When the trees are first planted they should be surrounded by a fence of chicken wire, but when they have become well established they will not need this protection. The fowls will do no damage then to the roots. Indeed, it is well to cultivate the soil around the trees and let the chickens scratch and wallow in it. The chickens will actually do all the cultivation that the trees need, and if we add a little rich manure every year around the roots little further attention will be needed. The chickens will keep down apple tree borers, grubs and worms, and where caterpillars and other insects get on the leaves and branches, it is only necessary to dislodge them by shaking. The chickens will then attack them. In this way one can make the fruit yield almost as much profit as the chickens. It is certainly a profit that we cannot overlook.—Annie C. Webster, in American Cultivator.

not worth anything in another place. The man who has only a day's wages in his pocket as certainly needs the guidance of religion as he who rattles the keys of a safe and is well provided with a hundred thousand dollars.

There are those prominent in the churches who seem to be on public occasions very devout who do not put the same religious religion in their homes. They are the most insidious of impostors. They are the most grasping of dealers. They are known as charpers on the street. They fleece every sheep they can catch. A man goes to a store where they are selling or fall goods, and he gets into the store and one of these professed Christian men who have really no grace in their hearts, and he is completely awinded. He is so overcome with the goods that he does not know how to get out. He stays in town over Sunday, goes into some church to get Christian consolation, when what is his amazement to find that the very man who has made him the poor wretch, is now preaching the word of God to him of his money! But never mind; the deacon has his black coat on now. He looks solemn and goes home, talking about "his blessed sermon." If the wheat in the never offered your heart to God. On the contrary, you have been so busy that you have not even had time to give a sense of the divine goodness shown you in everyday blessings melt your heart, and if you have never before uttered one earnest note of thanksgiving let this be the first. Now you are ready to say: What say to me I say to all. Take this practical religion I have recommended into your everyday life. Make every day a Sabbath and every meal a sacrament and you will be ready to say: I have done all I have work to do; let me be willing to do it. We all have sorrows to bear; let us cheerfully bear them. We all have battles to fight; let us courageously fight them. If we are ever to be saved let us be diligent. Negligence and incoherence will win the him of everlasting scorn, while faithfulness will gather to his garlands and wave its sceptre and at upon its throne long after this age has passed away. We have begun their march. You go home to-day and attend to your little sphere of duties. I will go home and attend to my little sphere of duties. Every one in his own way. We will march on to the triumphal march, and the humblest footstool on which we are called to sit will be a conqueror's throne.

13. "False witnesses." Their falsehoods consisted in the perverted terms which they gave to the words of St. Paul.

14. "All-say his face." All eyes turned upon Stenger. As he had been inspired by the Spirit in his arguments, so now in the hour of trial, the Spirit shone forth upon his face, to testify of his presence within. "An angel," God's people shine brightest in severe trials.

DR. R. M. Cunningham of Jefferson has announced himself a candidate for Lieutenant Governor, the new office created by the Constitution. The Doctor is a strong man and stands a good show for the nomination.

At the instance of President Roosevelt a bill has been introduced in the Senate for the retirement of Capt. Richmond P. Hobson from the navy for disabilities incurred in the line of duty. "at the rate of pay provided by section 1588 of the revised statutes in the case of officers retired on account of incapacity resulting from long and faithful service." His retirement will probably revive the rumor that he intends to run for congress against Bankhead in the sixth Alabama district.

THE total number of white men who have paid poll tax in Chilton county is 1275, and the total number of colored is 110. Deputy Collector T. G. Milling sends us the following figures for Beats 7 and 8. Whites who have paid poll tax 234, and colored 47. These figures with those already published in THE BANNER for the other seven beats make the totals as given above. It is generally conceded that there is fully six hundred white men above poll tax age in this county, so it appears probable there will be about 1900 white voters on the new registration list.
We hope to see it reach at least 2000.

THE munificent offer of Col. J.
M. Falkner to donate the land for a home for indigent Confederate Veterans of Alabama will be highly appreciated by the people of the State. Such a home has long been desired, but the expense was great and there was apparently no way of raising the necessary funds. By the generosity of Col. Falkner, a large part of the difficulty is already overcome, and there can be no doubt but that many other citizens will follow his public-spirited lead.
Already, it is said, a large quantity of lumber for the building of the home has been donated, and the L. & N. R. R. Co., always liberal in its policy, will transport the material free.

The effects of a generous action, like that of Col. Falkner, is to stimulate others, and for such a noble purpose as the establishment of a home for old Confederate Veterans there should be no difficulty in raising a large sum by popular subscription. Where is the poor man who would not add his mite to such a fund? Where is the man of means who would not contribute liberally?

To us in Chilton county the appeal should meet with a ready and hearty response. The site of the home offered is in our county at Mountain Creek, and it should be a labor of love to our people to aid in this noble work.

We would like to see a public vote of thanks made to Col. Falkner by the citizens of Chilton county, and respectfully suggest that Camp John W. A. Sanford, No. 1298, U. C. V., take the matter up.

Cuba's First President.

Tomás Estrada Palma is sixty-six years of age. His father was a wealthy planter in the easternmost province of Cuba, and the son was well educated in Cuba and in Spain, and became a lawyer, with a view not so much to the practice of his profession as to the better management of the affairs of a large estate.
His patriotic sympathies led him to active service in the ten years' struggle for independence which began in 1868 and ended in 1878, and early in that period he became a general in the insurgent army.
Toward the end of the war, he became the president of the provisional government, a position which at least indicated the confidence in which he was held by the Cuban people. He was made a prisoner, taken to Spain, at the risk of his life refused to swear allegiance, withdrew in consequence, the confiscation of his estates, and some time after the final termination of the struggle regained his personal liberty, at the loss, however, of his Cuban property and home. When he goes to Cuba, two or three months hence, to assume the duties and high honors of the presidency, it will be after an absence of twenty-four years.

After his release, at the end of the Ten Years' War, Palma traveled in Spanish-American countries, and settled in Honduras, where he married the daughter of the president of that republic and became postmaster-general. Subsequently he came with his wife and one little child to New York, and saw an opportunity to establish a school for young people from the Spanish-American countries. His institute was located in the little town of Central Valley, in Orange county, N. Y., some forty miles from the metropolis. He has now lived in Central Valley for eighteen years, and his six children, five of whom were born there, have known no other home.—From "A New Republic and its President," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for February.

The Boer Bores.

The rise in the Berlin and Paris bourses every time news comes from South Africa indicating that the war is drawing to a close is a little incongruous in view of the sympathy so freely expressed by the French and German for the Boers. Still, it is a fact as the financial cables plainly show, London leading in the rise in prices only because of its very much greater commitments in every quarter. The buying of mining shares particularly is said to be of the best quality both on the Continent and in Great Britain, investors paying for the stocks and locking them up in their strong boxes. This shows not only their conviction that the war will soon be over, but that all material interests will benefit by the security of English rule.

The news of General De Wet's escape from the elaborate trap set by Lord Kitchener was construed from the start as meaning that organized resistance by the Boers was on the verge of collapse. Later details confirm this impression, and the gallant De Wet escaped he carried off only a few of his men, according to the cablegrams published in London yesterday. The conclusion is inevitable that the South African war may now be regarded as a negligible quantity. Brave as the Boers are and skilful as are their leaders, they have to face heavy and increasing odds. The offer of the Dutch government was proof that the Boer leaders are beginning to open their eyes to a situation that was apparent to the whole outside world from the beginning. The lack of practical wisdom shown in protracting a struggle which only meant extinction has always served as an offset to the sympathy so freely extended the brave and daring Dutch.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Pale, Pale Children.

If a child has a bad smelling breath, if it habitually picks its nose,
if it is cross and nervous, if it does not sleep soundly, if it is hollow-eyed, if it has a pale bloodless complexion, if it is growing thin and lifeless, give it Mother's Worm Syrup and you will remove the cause of its distress quickly. Then will its little cheeks get red and rosy, its appetite and digestion improve, and
its health be better. Price only 25 cents. No other worm-killer so effective.

A Resource in Increasing Value in the South.

A recent report of progress in the stream measurements in the South, conducted by the hydrographers of the United States Geological Survey, again emphasizes the increasing value of the running streams in that region for water power.

As power producers most of these streams have two important advantages—portions of their courses are steep, and their powers are situated where they can be easily developed and used. Most of the rivers of Georgia, Alabama, Eastern Mississippi, Tennessee, and some in Florida, have their rise in the Allegheny Mountain region at elevations of from 2,000 to 3,000 feet above sea level, and form constant streams, with rapid fall, producing a large amount of power that can be easily developed.

In Georgia and Alabama these powers occur in the heart of the cotton belt, and in many instances near prosperous towns and cities.
Since 1895 the United States Geological Survey has been making a special study of these streams, and has at present forty-five regular stations on the rivers in the four states mentioned. The work is under the charge of Mr. B. M. Hall, whose headquarters are at Atlanta, Georgia. The investigations consist of measurements of discharge, or stream flow, especially to establish the medium and low water flow of streams having sufficient fall for the development of large water powers, which is information particularly needed. The results of these measurements are published from time to time by the Geological Survey, and have furnished engineers and manufacturers a safe basis for water power estimates; they have thus been the means of considerable development.

Some of the powers which are to be utilized will be applied to electric transmission for city light and power, while others will run cotton factories and grist mills direct. In the Gold Belt of Georgia they are to be used for running stamp mills and other mining machinery.

The investigation of the southern rivers is part of the general study of the country's water resources which is being conducted by the Geological Survey.

Barnum's Monkeys

"All well—all happy—lots of fun." That is the regular report from the monkey cage of Barnum's Circus ever since the keepers began dosing the monkeys with Scott's Emulsion. Consumption was carrying off two thirds of them every year and the circus had to buy new ones.

One day a keeper accidentally broke a bottle of Scott's Emulsion near the monkey cage and the monkeys eagerly lapped it up from the floor.
This suggested the idea that it might do them good. Since then the monkeys have received regular doses and the keepers report very few deaths from consumption. Of course it's cheaper to buy Scott's Emulsion than new monkeys—and that suits the circus men.

Consumption in monkeys
and in man is the same disease.
If you have it or are threatened with it can you

the introduction of electric power in Great Britain is bringing about interesting economic changes. London, Manchester, Liverpool and other large towns, but in the rural England. According to Short, Technical Director of the Electric Manufacturing Co., the most extensive electrical works in Great Britain, the grid system in England by electric transmission is shifting the mass production, subdivision of great English estates, and an increase in the output of agricultural products. It converts pleasure grounds into sites. The congestion of the London, that wonderful metropolis of six million souls, in which over millions spend the business day, become so serious a problem is solved by the introduction of electric railways promises to be one of the most surprising developments in the future, says Harper's Weekly.

WOMAN'S GENTLE NATURE CALLS FOR GENTLE TREATMENT

Delicately formed and gently reared, women will find, in all the seasons of their lives, as maids or wives or mothers, that the one simple, wholesome remedy which acts gently and pleasantly and naturally, and which may be used with truly beneficial effects, under any conditions, when the system needs a laxative—is—Syrup of Figs. It is well known to be a simple combination of the laxative and carminative principles of plants with pleasant, aromatic liquids, which are agreeable and refreshing to the taste and acceptable to the system when its gentle cleansing is desired.

Many of the ills from which women suffer are of a transient nature and do not come from any organic trouble and it is pleasant to know that they yield so promptly to the beneficial effects of Syrup of Figs, but when anything more than a laxative is needed it is best to consult the family physician and to avoid the old-time cathartics and loudly advertised nostrums of the present day. When one needs only to remove the strain, the torpor, the congestion, or similar ills, which attend upon a constipated condition of the system, use the true and gentle remedy—Syrup of Figs—and enjoy freedom from the depression, the aches and pains, colds and headaches, which are due to inactivity of the bowels.

Only those who buy the genuine Syrup of Figs can hope to get its beneficial effects and as a guarantee of the excellence of the remedy the full name of the company—California Fig Syrup Co.—is printed on the front of every package and without it any preparation offered as Syrup of Figs is fraudulent and should be declined. To those who know the quality of this excellent laxative, the offer of any substitute, when Syrup of Figs is called for, is always resented by a transfer of patronage to some first-class drug establishment, where they do not recommend, nor sell false brands, nor imitation remedies. The genuine article may be bought of all reliable druggists everywhere at 50 cents per bottle.

CORRESPONDENCE.

[We are willing to publish our subscribers' views at any time, but it must be distinctly understood we do not hold ourselves responsible for these opinions.—KERRA.]

Clanton, Ala., Feb. 24, 1902
Editor Banner.—Please allow me a small space.

On last Friday afternoon I was one of a number of visitors to the Clanton High School. I had been promising for sometime to visit the school but carelessly failed to do it, and I can truly say that I am sorry indeed for neglecting it as I did.

The school had nothing in the line of a special program to offer us but went forward with its routine work, which I am glad to say was well rendered and greatly enjoyed by all present. I had never doubted that the school was doing good work under the management of Prof. J. M. Collier, ably assisted by his wife and Prof. Dickinson, but when I entered the rooms and saw on the blackboards Geometrical figures and demonstrations, along with the solution of various Algebraic problems, I felt doubly that everything was being done along the line of education that could be done this side of a well and modern equipped college. Another thing that I noticed, and which I think is very helpful to the pupils, is the society known as "The Clanton High School Literary Society," of which Mr. J. N. Goss is president and Miss Nellie Mullins, secretary.

The subject for discussion on this occasion was "Resolved that poverty is not a blessing." The leading speakers were Prof. Dickinson for the affirmative and J. Toy Williams for the negative. The judges rendered in favor of the affirmative.

While being entertained by the school in a grand and commendable manner, and as I have already stated, enjoying it fully, I almost caught myself in deep grief over the fact that I never had such advantages as the pupils that were then so skillfully exhibiting to us the many good things their efficient teachers had so thoroughly instilled into their minds. It did me good beyond expression to witness all this and I say, boys and girls, young men and young women, continue your efforts for an education and never let up until you reach the topmost round in the ladder of learning. Appreciate your opportunities and improve by them, ever remembering that obedience is the great essential to success in all things.

Respectfully,
E. B. DEASON.

A Danger Signal.

You have got a cough and you don't worry. Don't you know a cough is something terrible. It leads to consumption and consumption is killing thousands. Better cure that cough, better cure it quickly. Get a 25 cent bottle of Gooch's Mexican Syrup. No other remedy so nice to take.

Jemison, Ala., Feb. 19, 1902

Editor Banner.—I find there is an impression that only those that have paid the poll tax can register. Now, there is nothing in the law that requires a man to pay his poll tax before registering, and it is the duty of every white man to meet the registrars at their appointments and register whether they have paid their poll tax or not. We all understand they cannot vote at the next election, but they are registered for life and can pay their poll tax and vote at future elections. Let's all appoint ourselves a committee of one to see that every white man meets the registrars—not as some Democratic congressman have done—only urge Democratic voters to turn out.

Well, I believe it was said all over Alabama that not a single white man would be disfranchised by the new constitution. I wish you would tell us how a man can vote this fall that is subject to a poll tax and has not paid his poll tax. Of course you can say that he has disfranchised himself, but nobody said that they would make it possible for a man to disfranchise himself. Suppose a poor fellow was sick and did not have the $1.50 to pay with, could he vote?

Well, I noticed a short, sweet piece from Clanton signed Populist; he asks what has become of Reynolds' move to land the Populists in the Republican party? Now, permit me to say that I have made no such move. I said at a mass meeting at Clanton that the Populist State and National organization was dead, that most of the leaders had sold out, and it seemed to me the course for us was to go into the Republican party. I said this on my own responsibility and I certainly have a right to express my opinion on public questions without consulting anybody, the Clanton writer not excepted. When I made this statement I did not expect to scare anybody to death. I stated that I was with my party (the Populist) and I would do what ever a majority of them agreed on, except one thing, I would not go into the Democratic party. Populist said the Republicans would relieve us of our organization. I did not say anything about us surrendering our organization, I said if the Republicans would reorganize, I meant to call best meetings and let each best elect a committeeman and could not the people elect the same committeemen that we have now?

Topographic Maps of Southern States.

The progress of the topographic mapping of the states of Alabama, Georgia and Tennessee by the United States Geological survey is represented by sixty-nine sheets or quadrangles. Each sheet includes a quarter of a square degree, or about 1,000 square miles. The section in general covered by the maps is that included in Eastern Tennessee and Northern Alabama and Georgia. They are drawn on a scale large enough to show all towns and settlements, rivers and smaller streams, and all highways and railroads. In addition to these features, they indicate the topography or relief of the country by the use of contour lines, which show the shape of the valleys and the slopes and altitude of the mountain ranges. Each sheet is named from some well known place or feature appearing upon it. Recent issues of these maps are the Dahlonega and Marietta sheets in Northern and Western Georgia, and Rhoad Mountain, Loudon, Morristown and Briceville sheets in Eastern Tennessee. Other recent sheets are the Chattanooga and Cleveland sheet of the country about Chattanooga in Southern Tennessee and the Stevenson sheet in Northern Alabama adjacent to them. The maps may be had at the usual government rate, five cents each, on application to the Director of the U. S. Geological Survey, Washington.

Stop the Blight

It is a sad thing to see fine fruit trees spoiled by the blight. You can always tell them from the rest. They never do well afterwards but stay small and sickly.

It is worse to see a blight strike children. Good health is the natural right of children. But some of them don't get their rights. While the rest grow big and strong one stays small and weak.

Scott's Emulsion can stop that blight. There is no reason why such a child should stay small. Scott's Emulsion is a medicine with lots of strength in it—the kind of strength that makes things grow.

Scott's Emulsion makes children grow, makes them eat, makes them sleep, makes them play. Give the weak child a chance. Scott's Emulsion will make it catch up with the rest.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle. Send for free sample. SCOTT & BOWNE, 409 Pearl St., New York. 50c and $1. all druggists.

Fertilized with the Celebrated

The field is being picked for the THIRD TIME; notice that the stalks are bowed down by the weight of the bolls; a marked characteristic of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER—it produces ABUNDANT FRUITAGE, which is the best proof of its excellence.

The consumption of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER has steadily increased until now more of it is used than any other one brand in the U. S. It is the oldest brand sold in the State of Alabama. It is estimated that of the intelligent and independent farmers of the State who use fertilizers, about 80 per cent. of them are consumers of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER is exclusively put up in the famous "MUMMIA VEGETABLE FIBRE" PRESERVED BAG. This bag is endorsed by the DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, transportation companies, farmers and merchants.

Every genuine sack of Alabama Fertilizer has the trade mark, (map of Alabama) on it and is manufactured solely by

THE Age-Herald is of the opinion that a primary some time about next August would be quite soon enough, and we are inclined to agree with it. It is too soon to begin discussing measures and candidates now. At all events let the registrars get through with their work before we think about a campaign.

THE Registrars will begin their work in this county at Mineral Springs in Beat one, on Monday week next, March 17, and it is a timely suggestion to every man to go and meet them at their different appointments and register. Once you are on the registration list you are there for life, and to neglect the opportunity now is only to make trouble for the future. An idea prevails to some extent that if a man fails to pay his poll tax for last year he cannot register, but this is a mistake; go and register whether you have paid your poll tax or not. You may want to pay poll tax and vote in some future election, even if you don't feel like it now. Go and register!

Representatives Wiley, Thompson, Burnett and Bowie of the Alabama delegation believe they were not treated fairly by the action of the rivers and harbors committee in failing to provide an appropriation for the Coosa river. About $15-000,000 has already been expended for improving this river, and the four Alabama members realize that unless the present bill carries an appropriation for this work it will be difficult to continue the work in future congresses. The bill, as reported to the House in the last congress, carried $124,000 for the Coosa. This was increased to $175,000 by the Senate. Those interested in the improvement will make a fight for a Senate amendment. The action of the House committee is believed to have been based on a recent report declaring it would cost about twelve million dollars to complete the scheme of improvement in the Coosa.

The eventual opening of the Coosa to navigation is of such vast importance to this section of the country that we earnestly hope the amendment will be carried in the Senate, and the improvements in the river continued. That our congressmen and senators will do their utmost to carry the appropriation goes without saying and we hope they will succeed.

Minutes of Chilton County Teachers' Institute.

Held at Clanton, February 28 and March 1, 1902.

On Friday, at the school building, the Institute was called to order by the Supt. at 4:30 a.m., and opened with devotional exercises conducted by Judge S. M. Adams.
A welcome was extended to the teachers by Prof. Collier and responded to by Prof. Carmichael.

After enrollment of members, Miss Zemma Samuel read a paper upon "How should a teacher open school?" Several teachers followed with short discussions. Adjourned for noon recess.

Called to order again by Supt. at 1:43 p.m. The Supt. appointed a committee on resolutions, consisting of Messrs. Martin and Tidwell and Miss Hinton.

"How may the teacher instill habits of politeness and good manners into the minds of his pupils?" was discussed by several teachers, the discussion being opened by Prof. Carmichael. The discussion of "The Bugbear of discipline" was begun by Prof. Means; he was followed by several teachers.

A very excellent paper upon "Education the keynote of civic pride," was read by Mr. Wm. M.
Adams. By resolution of the institute, it was requested that the paper be given to the program committee who are to have it published. Adjourned to meet again at 7:30 p.m. at Baptist church.

Called to order again by Supt. at 7:45. The Institute very highly enjoyed the witty speech of Prof.
Willingham, President of Wetumpka Agricultural School, and the earnest remarks of Judge S. M.
Adams. The Institute was also delighted with excellent music furnished by some of Clanton's most prominent citizens.

The work of Saturday was begun at 9:25 a.m. with devotional exercises conducted by Prof. S. Thornton.

The subject of "What does education do?" was well discussed by Prof. Walker, McKee and others.
The subject of "School buildings" was discussed by Prof. Means, Dickinson and others. Prof. Willingham spoke very instructively upon "Civil Government in our schools." Adjourned for noon reccess.

Opened again at 1:48 with singing.

Next followed a discussion of "Graded system of public schools," introduced by Prof. Willingham.
"Moral and religious training in education" was discussed by Prof.
Speer, Dickinson and others.

Resolutions of thanks to the people of Clanton for their hospitality and to President Willingham of Wetumpka for his earnest and appreciated work with us, were gladly passed by the Institute.

The Supt. was instructed to correspond with the Supt. of Bibb county with a view to holding a joint institute of the two counties at some convenient point. Adjourned at 3:34.

J. W. MOORE, President.
R. D. CARMICHAEL, Secretary.

The Danish West Indies.

These islands are small in territorial extent, in population, and in resources; but they have strategic value, and our Government has preferred that they should not pass from the control of Denmark to that of an ambitious European naval power. The harbor of Charlotte Amalie is probably the most frequented port in the West Indies, many vessels of various nationalities using it for coaling purposes.
The group consists of the three principal islands of St. Thomas, St.
John, and Santa Cruz, with numerous smaller islands and rocky points.
The total population of the group is said to be about thirty-two thousand, of whom perhaps only one sixth are of pure white blood. The negro population, however, is said to be exceptionally intelligent. The English language is commonly spoken in the islands, and general conditions are reputable and orderly, the climate being healthy and the productions those of the West Indies in general. The island of St. Thomas is important solely on account of the great excellence of the harbor of Charlotte Amalie. The island of Santa Cruz, however, has an agricultural character, and at one time its sugar plantations were prosperous.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for March.

Many Wonders

Many wonder how it is that pin worms and stomach worms get into little children, or how a tape worm, 300 feet long, can get in and exist
and grow inside of a man, as it sometimes happens. They may well wonder, for it is a great mystery.
However, many now know from experience that Mother's Worm Syrup will rid one of intestinal worms and greatly improve the health after the worms have been destroyed and expelled. It is absolutely a harmless remedy to take, and as it only costs 25 cents, all should try it who suspect worms to be the cause of their ill health.

The next session of the Legislature will be one of the most important ever held in Alabama. It will have the duty and privilege of inaugurating and setting in motion a practically new order of things in Alabama. The machinery of government must be made to conform to the new constitution and in some respects that will necessitate important changes in our laws. It will require the talents and the courage of the very best men we have, and only such men should be chosen.

It is with the people of Alabama to act in the interests of the State, and to do this they must exercise what is both a sacred right and a solemn duty. The next Legislature will be no place for the demagogue and the trimmer. No man should be elected because he has a pull or is popular with the voters, unless he can show better qualifications for the work to be done. Let the people of Dallas and of all other counties select good men and elect them.
So shall Alabama start off with good laws under which good government will be permanent and the people prosperous and contented.—Advertiser.

Help... Nature

Babies and children need proper food, rarely ever medicine. If they do not thrive
on their food something is wrong. They need a little help to get their digestive machinery working properly.

will generally correct this difficulty.

If you will put from one-fourth to half a teaspoonful
in baby's bottle three or four times a day you will soon see a marked improvement. For larger children, from half to
a teaspoonful, according to
age, dissolved in their milk.
If you so desire, will very soon show its great nourishing power. If the mother's milk does not nourish the
baby, she needs the emulsion. It will show an effect at once both upon mother
and child.

Scene from a Cotton Field
Fertilized with the Celebrated
ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The field is being picked for the THIRD TIME; notice that the stalks are bowed down by the weight of the bolls; a marked characteristic of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER—it produces ABUNDANT FRUITAGE, which is the best proof of its excellence.

The consumption of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER has steadily increased until now more of it is used than any other brand in the U. S. It is the oldest brand sold in the State of Alabama. It is estimated that of the intelligent and independent farmers of the State who use fertilizer, about 80 per cent. of them are consumers of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER is exclusively put up in the famous "MUMMIA VEGETABLE FIBRE" PRESERVED BAG. This bag is endorsed by the DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, transportation companies, farmers and merchants.

Every genuine sack of Alabama Fertilizer has the trade mark, (map of Alabama) on it and is manufactured solely by THE ALABAMA FERTILIZER COMPANY, Montgomery, Alabama.

For sale exclusively at Jemison and Thorsby by I. N. Langston; at Clanton and Lomax by W. I. Mullins; at Verbena by D. I. Deamus; at Mountain Creek by the Cash Supply Co.

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY MARCH 13, 1902

NO. 21

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Signs He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

And we continue to grow! Work was commenced this week on three new brick storehouses, this time west of the railroad between the post-office and Latham's Hotel. The three new houses are being built for J. B. Downs, Elijah Rollins and Tom Tyus. Mr. Thompson of Montgomery being the contractor. As they are on the rise of the hill they will show up well from the railroad and will greatly improve that end of town.

The addition to the hotel is finished, and at last Clanton can boast of possessing a first-class hostelry. The new hotel now offers a No. 1 accommodation to travelers and boarders, and (this is on the quiet) the boarders tell me that the table is something superlative. Everything is up-to-date, and under the able management of Mr. O. E. Latham there is a fine future for the hotel.

Tipton Mullins' new two-story building is nearing completion, and the handsome pressed brick front with two heavy cornices is a pleasing addition to the architecture of the town. Jim Jones has ordered his stock of goods and is ready to start business as soon as he can get possession of his part of the building. Mr. Mullins will occupy the remainder of the first floor, making his law offices there, and the upstairs will be rented for offices.

Not to be in the rear in the march of improvements The Banner this week has put in another job press. With the big cylinder press recently put in and two job presses and new type The Banner printery is now up-to-date and a better equipped office is not to be found anywhere in the State. The new job press makes it much easier to turn out job work in short order and I hope you will remember that when you are in need of job printing.

On Wednesday messrs. Speigner and Jones, two prominent business men of Goodwater, were in town, with a view of investing here. One gentleman is thinking of starting in the hardware and furniture business here, and the other is contemplating the erection of a warehouse. Both businesses would be good investments and I hope the gentlemen will both locate here.

John Stanfield is the proud father of a little girl. May she live to be the delight of your old age, John.

Chancery Court was in session Monday and Chancellor Kelly finished all the business on the docket and adjourned Tuesday.

Having a Run on Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Between the hours of eleven o'clock a.m. and closing time at night on Jan. 25th 1901, A. F. Clark, druggist, Glade Springs, Va., sold twelve bottles of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. He says, "I never handled a medicine that sold better than this. It gave better satisfaction to my customers. This Remedy has been in general use in Virginia for many years, and the people there are well acquainted with its excellent qualities. Many of them have testified to the remarkable cures which it has effected. When you need a good, reliable medicine for a cough or cold, or attack of the grip, use Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and you are certain to be more than satisfied with the quick cure which it affords. For sale by Hopkins & Co., Clanton, and D. I. Derr, Verbeena.

Mapleville.

Now since the floods have ceased farmers are getting in earnest with their most honorable of all work. Most housekeepers have early salads on the way. Peach and plum flowers are here again giving us visions of their luscious fruition.

We are glad our sportsmen are turning their attention to rid our county of rabbits and English sparrows. Your correspondent has greatly enjoyed some savory dishes of the former, being doubly enjoyable from the fact they were eating an enemy. Willie Eather of Selma has greatly enjoyed this sport while the guest of T. U. Crumpton.

Mrs. Mary Campbell has lately visited her sister here, Mrs. N. A. Goodwin. The latter was hurriedly called to Selma by the death of Fitty Goodwin, who died very suddenly of heart trouble.

Miss Nora Claughton has returned to Verbeena, her home.

Mrs. J. Adams is convalescing from a serious attack.

We are pleased to state that Dr. Parnell has pronounced Miss Ada Blalack better from a serious attack of grip.

Mrs. Mary Raspberry is now with her sister here, Mrs. Blalack, as is Mr. Ed Blalack and Master Owen.

Dave Garner, wife and infant are visiting relations here.

Rev. W. B. Dennis preached a most excellent sermon his last appointment here, the 2d Sunday.

Mr. Houston Cooper, by his very urbane manners made many friends here several years since, has been a pleasant visitor here lately.

Several of the mill company have lately enjoyed a very pleasant ride into the pine forest to see the wonderful twin pine tree from which the company is named.

Many strangers are coming and going, like the contents of the country store, they are "too tedious to mention."

Mr. W. B. Brand of Randolph delighted his friends lately by a visit here.

Mr. Myrk Smitherman has returned from King's infirmary greatly improved. Mrs. Moreland has been a visitor of the family.

Our improvements is not like Solomon's temple, because the sound of the hammer is making merry music to the tune of our improvements. SUBSCRIBER.

Macedonia

Farm work in this section is progressing very slowly. Almost corn planting time and no land prepared. Well, we hear of one Mr. Smith who has his land ready for planting, but he is an exception to the rule. It looks now as if we will have some pretty weather. If so, farmers will soon all be ready for planting, as they are all ready to go to husking.

Rev. J. H. Thomas filled his appointment here last Sunday. Prof. G. L. Speer has secured a school at this place and will begin teaching the 15th of April.

Mr. J. P. Nix has built him a pasture of about two hundred acres. It seems that he is preparing to keep up his stock, stock law or no stock law.

Messrs. S. N. and S. E. Waldrup have a pasture also. Taking every thing in consideration, we don't think that we are ready for this stock law we hear so much talk of. One of our neighbors says he will sell his farm at half its value to get out of it if it comes.

Well, I didn't start out to talk stock law, but I have heard it talked so much at log rollings, etc., I just forgot myself and said this much. Well, if it should come it might not be so hard after all; it might save a few rails and they are hard to make, sure. TRICK.

Randolph.

I would be glad to see more letters from our correspondents. We can make the paper more interesting if we write interesting letters.

The writer visited Macedonia church Sunday and was pleased to see a large congregation attending.

The Sabbath-school is moving along nicely now. They have elected new officers and teachers.

We wish them success and hope they will continue to go on with the with the good work.

The ladies may look out now, our young men have several new buggies and spring is coming and they will surely get to go to church now.

Mr. T. I. Ward has had a spell of lagrippe, but is now improving.

Everything is moving along nicely now in the little city of Randolph except we have too much rain for farmers. We hope spring will bring better weather, better health and better times.

As it is my first time I will not worry you. With best wishes to the Banner and all its readers.

The Best Time.

The best time to cure a cough or cold is when you are first affected. A pleasant and sure remedy for sore throat, weak lungs, bronchial soreness, coughing spells, etc., is Gooch's Mexican Syrup for coughs and consumption. Be wise in time and keep a bottle in your medicine chest, always handy for immediate use, remembering the old adage, "a stitch in time saves nine." Its course of instruction is the best arranged, its methods the soundest, most thorough and up-to-date; its scholarship the most advanced; its location, buildings, grounds, furniture, equipments, the most attractive and best adapted of any school in Chilton county.

Its pupils enter any college in the South on certificate of the Principal. It deals honestly with the public, adheres to professional courtesy, and performs its promises. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral certainly cures many cases of asthma.

And it cures bronchitis, hoarseness, weak lungs,

winter coughs, night
coughs, and hard colds.

Three sizes: 25c. enough for an ordinary cold; 50c. just right for bronchitis, hoarfor chronic cases and to keep on hand.

NEW IDEAS IN TOILETTES

New York City.—Tucked blouses are in the height of style, and are simply charming, both in delicate wash materials and such soft silks and wools.

TUCKED BLOUSE.

as crepe de Chine, crepe Ninon, peau de cygne, taffeta mousseline, wool crepe, veiling and all-tosses. The very pretty May Manton model shown is made of white Persian lawn, with a finish of beading run with black velvet ribbon, and is unlined, but silk and wool fabrics are more satisfactory made over the fitted foundation.

The lining is snugly fitted and closes with the waist at the centre back. The front of the waist proper is tucked at the upper portion to give a triple pointed yoke effect, and again at the waist to simulate a pointed girdle, but the backs are tucked for their entire length to give a tapering effect. The sleeves are entirely novel and in the fashionable elbow length, but can be made long and the deep cuffs added when preferred. The upper portions are becomingly full and soft puffs are formed at the elbows, but between the two the sleeves are tucked to give a close fit.
The neck as shown is collarless, but the stock can be added when desired.
To cut this blouse in the medium size three yards of material twenty-one

A loop and a ring also finish the row of braid that finishes the narrow, turned back cuff.

Golden Rod Brocade.
Flower designs are beautiful upon rich brocades. They rival the geometric figures as patterns and are much preferred for satin-ground brocades.
Care is taken to have the flowers broadly apart, well spaced from one another.
The flowers are raised sometimes in velvet, sometimes by the broche process. Among rather new ideas in velvet brocaded flowers are the chrysanthemum, carefully copied, and spikes of golden rod. In rich brown and amber the golden rod is a superb specimen of a brocaded velvet.

New Rose Bow.
Later and larger than the already favored rose bow for the hair is the new rose bow which is equally stunning at the corsage or on a hat. Indeed, three of these bows are displayed on some hats. Most of us, however, would find a single one would give more chic.
Tightly looped satin ribbon in a very pale pink forms the centre, while the outer, looser petals are of more deeply shaded ribbon. This gorgeous rose is the size of a corsage head, and may be had in any color.

Foliage Hats.
Very distinguished and usually pretty is the dress toque composed of foliage, or having a wreath of foliage for its finishing touch. White velvet foliage is very dressy, making a lovely crown for a white dress or one of dark or black velvet, or even a handsome dark cloth costume. With green foliage, a toque takes on more general usefulness, as it does also when the leaves are the lovely dead browns with their innumerable though shaded lights of ashes and gold and bronze.

Cranberry Red.
Keeping up with the vogue of red is no small matter. Ox-blood, cardinal, pomegranate, Pompeian, Turkish, half yard thirty-two inches, or two yards forty-four inches wide will be

Woman's Morning Jacket.
Tasteful morning jackets are essential to every woman's comfort and become an economy, inasmuch as they take the place of waists that can be reserved for the latter part of the day.
The pretty May Manton model shown in the large drawing is well suited to dimity, lawn, batiste and all the fam-ilar washable fabrics, but in the original is made of old blue challie dotted with black, the trimming being stitching with black corticelli silk, and narrow ribbon frills. Closing the front and holding the cuffs are carved gold buttons with a tracing of black, and at the waist is black lousine ribbon bowed at the centre front.

The jacket is simplicity itself. The fronts are gathered at the neck and fall in soft folds that are held by the ribbon belt. The back is plain across the shoulders but drawn down in garders at the waist line that are arranged in a succession of shirrs. Connecting the two are under-arm gores, that render the jacket shapely and trim at the same time that it is loose. The neck is finished with turn-over collar and over the shoulders falls a deep round one, that gives a becoming cape effect, but which can be omitted when the jacket is preferred plain.

To cut this jacket in the medium size three and three-eighths yards of material twenty-seven inches wide, three yards thirty-two inches wide, or two and one-half yards forty-four inches wide will be required.

Break Loose and Rings.
A very handsome new silk, loosely woven and heavy looking braid trims many of the tailor rigs effectively. In addition to its richness it curves into graceful forms. An example in navy brocade cloth shows three rows of black braid as a heading to the faced bow-ties. These end at the narrow front gore in a loop, each being pulled through a black silk ring. Three rows are round the shoulders in Carriac cape effect, ending each side the front in loops and rings.

ing pink and the rest have all had their day; for our latest favorite we have chosen pale cranberry red. While it is good in very many goods—notably those for summer wear—it is just now desired in velvet, a rich material which exploits the shade tremendously.

Misses' Shirt Waists.
Waists with deep tucks at the shoulders are in the height of style for young girls, as they are for their sisters. Pique, duck, chambray, madras and Oxford make the favorite washable fabrics, but taffeta; peau de sole and such simple wools albatross and veiling are all in use for the cold weather waists. The admirable model shown is of white mercerized duck with handsome pearl buttons, used for the closing, and is unlined, but the fitted foundation is advisable for all silks and woolen materials.

The lining is carefully fitted and closes with the waist at the centre back. On it are arranged the front and backs proper, laid in two deep pleats that extend over the shoulders, but are stitched to yoke depth only.
The sleeves are in shirt style with deep cuffs, and at the neck is worn a plain stock collar with a bat-wing tie.

To cut this waist for a miss of fourteen years of age three and threeeighths yards of material twenty-one inches wide, two and five-eighths yards

Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a con-treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and restoring nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hun-

Is More Valuable Than Gold.
The price of platinum, one of the rarest of the precious metals, now exceeds that of fine gold, being $21 an ounce. In 1895 the price was only $10 per ounce, but owing to the gradual increase in demand it has been steadily rising. Platinum somewhat resembles silver in appearance, but has a rather duller luster. It is extremely resistant to acids and atmospheric agents tending to corrosion, and would be much more largely used were it not for the rather limited supply and resulting high price. The demand is in excess of the supply, and its price will probably continue to rise.

bluff has ever been known to fail."

We notice that some of the brethren of the Press are discussing the next meeting of the Alabama Press Association and offering suggestions for the annual excursion. With all due deference we would like to offer our ideas upon the subject. The annual meeting of the Association is to be held at Mobile sometime in May. The hospitality of Mobile is proverbial and the Association will without doubt have a royal time. Mobile being one of the extreme southern points of the United States, and at that time of the year getting to be extremely warm, it appears to us the annual meeting should be confined to business, allowing sufficient time for all local courtesies. But as regards the annual excursion of the Association, Mobile is not a good starting point. We cannot go South, although at another season either Cuba or Mexico would make a grand ultima thule. For the last two years the Association has gone West. Three years ago we went North, so why not this year take the other point of the compass and go East, and make New York or Boston our destination? Why not have a business meeting in May, and request Secretary Rountree and the Executive Committee to arrange the annual excursion in September, the pleasantest time of the year in the East? A trip across the State of Georgia, and a voyage from Savannah to New York would make one of the most memorable excursions in the annals of the Association. We make the motion, who will second it?

The Situation in Alabama.

Under the pressure of many necessities the people of Alabama have recently reformed their state constitution and are now in the process of adjusting their government to the requirements of the new instrument. Except, perhaps, in the article affecting the suffrage, the reforms introduced do not appear to have been so radical as to excite anything more than sporadic opposition. Such friction of sentiment is always expectable whenever there is a readjustment of fundamental laws. Yet time, trial and orderly amendment usually suffice to right incidental errors and prune the supreme charter into operative consistency.

It is regrettable, therefore, to note that there are restless political spirits in Alabama who are seeking occasion by the suffrage reforms of the new constitution to embroil the people in factional opposition to the instrument and the government now in charge of its application and enforcement. Such agitation can have no probable chance of success and yet can be made the vehicle of much untimely and aggravating mischief. Alabama needs a long era of peace and harmony between her citizenship in order that a new vitality may strengthen within her body politic and fruit in the development of her opulent domain into a commonwealth of intelligent order and irreversible prosperity.

The new constitution was ordered by the people. It was framed patiently and sincerely by the most experienced and patriotic men of the State. It was expounded and vindicated by Alabamians whose justice, integrity and statesmanship are honored throughout the nation. It was adopted by a large majority of the ballots of the people. It is now the supreme law of the State and is in the hands of its friends that it may have fair and full trial in the governance of the legislation and administration of the commonwealth.

Governor Jelks and those associated with him in the State administration are the representatives of all the purposes and events above enumerated. In his and their care the State is assured of getting all the benefits of good government that the constitution-makers believed they had embodied in the charter and that the people demanded when they adopted it. If defects shall be found in it, friendly counsel and hands can best correct them. If radical errors are discovered in the course of its operations, its friends can best eliminate them. If the document is a competent, operative and wise scheme of government, those who are confident of it can most safely and happily develop it.

It would be manifestly unfair to overthrow those who are the partisans of the new constitution and commit it to the hostile handling of its avowed enemies. No greater political unwisdom could happen in Alabama than to agitate the abandonment of the new charter before it has been tested by the only real touchstone—that of honest and sufficient experiment. When that is had, even after another two years, will be time enough to move for its reformation, should it need any.

In the meantime it is greatly to be hoped by all persons interested in the welfare of Alabama that factional agitation may cease and that every patriot of that State will unite to give the new constitution and the present administration of it the fullest indorsement and fairest trial.—Atlanta Constitution

Alabama Sunday-school Convention

The Nineteenth Annual Convention of the Alabama Sunday-school Association will be held in the town of Troy, Ala., Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, April 22-24, 1902.

The basis of representation is as follows, to-wit: Five delegates at large from each county, all ministers of the gospel, the Superintendent and two delegates from each Sunday-school.

The railroads of the State have granted reduced rates to delegates attending the convention. Each delegate desiring to obtain the reduced rate must purchase a ticket to Troy at the regular tariff rate and at the same time procure from the ticket agent a certificate of the standard form. If through ticket can not be procured at the starting point, the person should purchase at which such ticket can be obtained and there repurchase to Troy, procuring a certificate from each agent from whom a ticket is purchased. Tickets for the return home will be sold at one-third the first-class tariff fare to persons holding certificates properly signed by the officers of the convention.

The delegates attending the convention will be entertained by the Sunday-school workers of Troy, and should send their names to JONI D. MURPHY, JR., Troy, Ala., chairman committee on entertainment.

Mr. Rufus Sorrells and wife were pleasant visitors of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Deloach last Sunday.

Mr. John W. Neely and wife spent the day Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Deloach.

Glad to say our much esteemed brother, J. L. Neely, is about to recover after a severe spell of grippe. Our community is about clear of sickness at this time.

We are sorry to say that our school at Entersprize will close next Friday, the 21st, but we are glad to know that Prof. A. L. Grant has implanted in the young minds of our children the great importance of an education, that they may reach a higher station in life.

Many Wonder.

Many wonder how it is that pin worms and stomach worms get into little children, or how a tape worm, 300 feet long, can get in and exist and grow inside of a man, as it sometimes happens. They may wonder, for it is a great mystery. However, many now know from experience that Mother's Worm Syrup will rid one of intestinal worms and greatly improve the health after the worms have been destroyed and expelled. It is absolutely a harmless remedy to take, and as it only costs 25 cents, all should try it who suspect worms to be the cause of their ill health.

Repairing Neatly Done

Never thought of such a sign for a medicine did you? Well, it's a good sign for Scott's Emulsion. The body has to be repaired like other things and Scott's Emulsion is the medicine that does it.

These poor bodies wear out from worry, from over-work, from disease. They get thin and weak. Some of the new ones are not well made—and all of the old ones are racked from long usage.

Scott's Emulsion fixes all kinds. It does the work both inside and out. It makes soft bones hard, thin blood red, weak lungs strong, hollow places full. Only the best materials are used in the patching and the patches don't show through the new glow of health.

No one has to wait his turn. You can do it yourself—you and the bottle.

This picture represents the Trade Mark of Scott's Emulsion and is on the wrapper of every bottle. Send for free sample.

A Printer Greatly Surprised.

"I never was so much surprised in my life, as I was with the results of using Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says Henry T. Crook, pressman of the Asheville (N. C.) Gazette. "I contracted a severe case of rheumatism early last winter by getting my feet wet. I tried several things for it without benefit. One day while looking over the Gazette, I noticed that Pain Balm was positively guaranteed to cure rheumatism, so I bought a bottle of it and before using two-thirds of it my rheumatism had taken its flight and I have not had a rheumatic pain since." Sold by Hopki's Drug Co., Clanton, and Horn, Thorsby.

Scene from a Cotton Field Fertilized with the Celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The field is being picked for the THIRD TIME; notice that the stalks are bowed down by the weight of the bolls; a marked characteristic of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER—it produces ABUNDANT FRUITAGE, which is the best proof of its excellence.

The consumption of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER has steadily increased until now more of it is used than any other one brand in the U. S. It is the oldest brand sold in the State of Alabama. It is estimated that of the intelligent and independent farmers of the State who use fertilizers, about 80 per cent. of them are consumers of the celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER.

The celebrated ALABAMA FERTILIZER is exclusively put up in the famous "MUMMIA VEGETABLE FIBRE" PRESERVED BAG. This bag is endorsed by the DEPARTMENT OF AGRICULTURE, transportation companies, farmers and merchants.

Every genuine sack of Alabama Fertilizer has the trade mark, (map of Alabama) on it and is manufactured solely by THE ALABAMA FERTILIZER COMPANY, Montgomery, Alabama.

For sale exclusively at Jemison and Thorsby by I. N. Langston; Swift Creek, Strasburg and Clanton by W. I. Mullins; Coopers and Verbena by D. I. Deramus; at Mountain Creek by Cash Supply Co.

CHINESE REBELLION

Government Troops Suffer a Stinging Defeat.

TRANS-CONTINENTAL RAILROAD PLAN

A Cold Wave—Paid the Wage—American Horsemen Victor—Tennessee Storm.

CHINESE REBELS WIN

And are Now in Possession of Fang Chong

Hong Kong, March 18.—General Ma has been defeated by Kwang-Si rebels who have taken possession of Fang-Chong (Fang-Chuan). They have killed or captured all the Mandarins and have looted the town.

General Ma attacked the rebel strongholds, but after an engagement lasting two days, was forced to retreat. The rebels then established their headquarters at Fang Shang. The rebellion is spreading rapidly in the provinces of Kwang-Si, Kwang-Tung and Yun-Nan.

A letter received here from Tien-Pai fifty miles from Kwang-Chou says all business is suspended there owing to fear of the rebels.

Marshal Su is at Lien-Chou and General Ma is at Kao-Chou (both in Kwang-Tung province). Both of these commanders are awaiting reinforcements. They wish to join their forces but the rebels are holding all intervening passes and prevent a junction of the government troops. Many of the imperial soldiers are joining the rebels, owing to the superior pay offered them and the opportunity for looting. The rebel leader is Hung-Ming, relative of the celebrated Hung-Sou-Chuen, leader of the Tai-Hung rebellion.

STORMS HAVE ABATED.

Colorado Trains Now Running On Schedule Time.

Denver, Col., March 18.—Reports from the mountain towns indicate that the storms of the last few days have abated and the prospects are for clear weather. All the mountain railroads have cleared their tracks of snow and trains are running on schedule time. No loss of life or serious damage by the storm has been reported.

ACROSS THE CONTINENT.

A New Railway from San Francisco to Savannah.

Los Angeles, Cal., March 18.—President B. F. Youmans of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railroad Company, who is at present in Los Angeles, has strongly intimated that his company will build to the Pacific coast with San Francisco as the ultimate terminus. President Youmans recently completed a tour of Southern Arizona, where it is said he looked over the field with the view of selecting the most inviting route for his road. He acknowledged that the St. Louis and San Francisco now have surveys east of Albuquerque, N. M., with the idea of extending the Oklahoma and Western road, a recently acquired property.

It is said to be the intention of the St. Louis and San Francisco to control a trans-continental line reaching from Savannah, Ga., to San Francisco. President Youmans declined to enter into particulars, but gave it to be understood that the company had financial backing to carry out its plans without seeking connections with any of the already established trans-continental lines.

SWAM THE OHIO

With the Thermometer Hovering About Zero.

Louisville, Ky., March 18.—Edward Dameron paid a bet that he lost on the McGovern-Sullivan fight yesterday afternoon by taking a swim in the Ohio river with the thermometer hovering around zero. Dameron swam seventy-five feet through the icy waters and when he reached the bank his pants were frozen stiff and he lay on the ice with his hair. Dameron made a bet with Henry Vance, a fellow employee of the Norman Lumber Company, that Sullivan would win and made the proposition that the loser should take a swim in the river on St. Patrick's Day. As McGovern landed the big end of the purse, Dameron paid the bet yesterday according to agreement.

HANKEE JOCKEY WON.

London, March 18.—The Lincolnshire Handicap, run at Lincoln, was the first big race of the season, and drew good crowds. The preliminary races were not very exciting. The Haindon plate was won by Sir R. Walsley Griffith's brown colt, Rice, ridden by "Skeets" Martin, the American jockey.

The Handicap of 1,000 sovereigns, added to a sweepstakes of fifteen sovereigns, each for 3-year-olds and upwards, the straight mile was run to-day and was won by Col. H. M. Calmont's bay colt, St. Macdon; R. S. Stevier's Scotch pie was second, and Mr. Blinding's Over Norton was third. Twenty-three horses ran.

JAUN GRIEGO CAPTURED.

Port of Spain, Island of Trinidad, March 18.—A force of Venezuelan insurgents, supported by the revolutionary steamer Bolivar, captured the town of Juan Griego, on the island of Margarita, yesterday morning, and afterwards moved on the town of Asuncion, capital of the island. The Venezuelan government troops were defeated, and there was every indication that the insurgents would soon be masters of the whole island.

WAR REVENUE TAXES.

Senate Favorably Reports Bill to Repeal Them.

Washington, March 18.—The Senate Committee on Finance today concluded the consideration of the bill repealing the war revenue act, and authorized a favorable report on it. The bill is greatly changed in phraseology, and it is announced that it will probably not be in shape to be reported before tomorrow.

KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE.

New York, March 18.—Narcissus Quillen, 49 years old, editor of the Journal Official, was run over Monday evening in the Boulevard Port Royal by an automobile, says a Paris dispatch to the Herald. M. Quillen was taken to a hospital, but died a few minutes after his arrival.

COLD IN ATLANTA.

Atlanta, Ga., March 18.—The sudden fall in temperature has effectively checked any further rise in the swollen streams of South Georgia, Alabama and Florida. Farm work of all kinds is behind two weeks. The railroads have restored traffic which was interrupted in several places by washouts. The lowest temperature recorded in the South today was 20 degrees in Atlanta, a fall of 24 degrees since yesterday. Freezing temperature reaches into middle Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi, and snow is falling in Wilmington, N. C.

SMALLPOX IN NEBRASKA.

Lincoln, Neb., March 18.—Following a meeting of the State Board of Health at which it was announced there were 764 smallpox cases in the State, the Secretary of the Board was ordered to communicate with the Federal authorities as to the best means of stamping out the disease. It was decided to telegraph the navy and marine hospital marine corps to send a special messenger to Nebraska, and the message will go to Washington sometime during the day.

STORM IN TENNESSEE.

Trenton, Tenn., March 18.—News has just been received here of a severe storm which swept over the southwestern portion of Gibson county Saturday night. Many houses were demolished and much damage wrought to fences and farms.

The two story frame building on the Gray Barker place near Gibson Wells, nine miles south of here occupied by Samuel Hutchison, son and daughter, was blown to pieces and scattered like chaff.

Mr. Hutchison was severely injured, his daughter was killed by falling timbers and was unconscious when found. The son is seriously hurt and not expected to live.

PRESIDENTIAL APPOINTMENTS.

Washington, March 17.—The President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: Postmasters, Alabama—Sanford B. Strout, Evergreen; Florida—Joshua Mizell, Punta Gorda; Kentucky—James H. Happy, Mayfield; Mississippi—William F. Elgin, Corinth; North Carolina—John M. Mull, Morganton; Texas—James A. Gammon, Calvert; Florence Shensby, Elgin; William P. Fleming, Georgetown; Fritz Ahearns, Grantsbury; Oklahoma—Ida McKean, Lexington.

SNOW IN NORTH CAROLINA.

Wilmington, N. C., March 18.—Snow began falling here at 7:30 o'clock this morning and continued for three hours. It is the third snow of the season, and its lateness is almost unparalleled in the history of the Weather Bureau here.

GENERAL SHERMAN'S STATUE.

New York, March 18.—A site for St. Gauden's statue of General Sherman, presented to this city by the Chamber of Commerce, has been chosen by the Park Commission. It will be placed at the southeast entrance to Central Park.

"FREE RUSSIA," THEY CRIED.

Over 10,000 Students Riot in Streets of St. Petersburg.

St. Petersburg, March 18.—A student riot here yesterday, which over 10,000 people participated, kept a small army of police and cavalry busy throughout the day. Probably 100 arrests were made, but the repressive measures were not so strict as on the corresponding Sunday of 1901. While many persons were injured no fatalities were reported.

The students placarded the city last night, announcing that they intended to hold a grievance meeting and the authorities, taking the hint, made extensive preparations. The crowds increased in the main thoroughfares until noon, when the cavalry officer in command of a squadron in front of the Hotel D'Europe, begged the crowd there to disperse and go home. The demonstrators refused and the mounted troops began slowly clearing the streets.

At 12:30 p. m. the students attempted to organize a procession in front of the hotel mentioned, singing revolutionary songs and shouting "Free Russia!" "Down with the autocracy!" The police and cavalry then charged, but used only their cocked whips and the flat of their swords. Many persons were hurt, but only a few were seriously injured. The fighting continued during the remainder of the afternoon.

Quebec.—Colonel Gaylor made it clear to an Associated Press representative that neither he nor Captain Greene entertained a thought of returning to the United States today. Colonel Gaylor stated a week ago that he might return to Savannah voluntarily on the 17th and appear before Judge Spear. Both men had a long conference with their counsel today, after which Colonel Gaylor intimated that they have no intention of leaving Quebec until forced to do so.

OTIS BEFORE PHILIPPINE COMMISSION

H. Clay Evans to Get Better Position—May Be Made Secretary of the Interior.

GEN. E. B. OTIS.

Tells the Philippines Committee All About It.

Washington, March 18.—Major-General Otis again appeared before the Senate Committee on the Philippines today. When he left the Philippines in May, 1900, General Otis said that he had disposed of all of Aguinaldo's army. Quiet prevailed during the months of May and June, and hard work was done. It was safe to go to all parts of Luzon and other islands, and a very large trade had been established. A civil government had been set up; also the Supreme Court and courts of first instance in seven of the nineteen provinces of Luzon.

NATIVE OFFICERS BAD.

General Otis, answering a question by Senator Culberson, said he never trusted native officers, because they were too cruel to their men. He said he could trust their loyalty, but they treated their captives with too much cruelty. "They were as bad as the insurgents," he said.

WAR OVER WHEN HE LEFT.

When he left the Philippines, he said, "the war had ceased." Answering a question by Senator Hale, General Otis said he saw no difficulty in withdrawing a material number of troops from the islands. The native force he declared to be very necessary, and he said there was no peace in Manila until the native police was organized. General Otis said that when he left Manila he apprehended further trouble because there was a certain element which dominated the ignorant class.

WHERE THEY GOT ARMS.

Asked by Senator Hale where the supplies, money, arms, etc., of the insurgents came from, General Otis said he received 2,500 rifles from Admiral Dewey, and they also received from Hong Kong certain arms shipped aboard an American vessel which landed at Brangas. They had received some arms from Japan and had captured some from the Spaniards at small garrisons which they attacked. He said the merchants who hid more trouble than the insurgents themselves. The troops of the United States, he said, had treated the Filipinos with the greatest kindness. Every statement of harsh treatment he heard of had been investigated.

"IN FACT," SAID HE, "WE WERE LAUGHED AT BY THE SPANIARDS AND THE EUROPEAN ARMY OFFICERS FOR THE HUMANITY WE EXERCISED."

NOT FIT FOR FREEDOM.

As to the capacity of the Filipinos as self-government, he said that Aguinaldo's former Secretary of State told him that it would take one hundred years to accomplish this, General Otis said the Filipinos were of capable of self-government. The Filipinos, he said, understand that they must have protection because other nations would divide up the islands, but they were desirous of making the best possible terms they could with the United States. Their idea was to have control of the internal affairs of the island, but protection outside.

General Otis testified, in response to questions by Senator Rawlins, that he new very little of the correspondence between General Merritt and Aguinaldo, but he recalled Aguinaldo's reply to a communication to an agreement that the insurgent forces should withdraw to a certain designated place. He had himself directed Aguinaldo to withdraw to the suburbs of Manila outside of the American defenses, according to the terms of the protocol with Spain. This was not only a military necessity, but in accordance with light and duty. No country in the world, he said, allowed those people to have armed in the way they did. The order for their withdrawal was made solely in the interest of peace. The actual occupancy of Manila, General Otis said, he considered dangerous. He based his whole action on the proposal as he understood the committee advised until tomorrow.

COMMISSIONER EVANS

Will Retire but Will Be Given a Better Place.

Washington, March 18.—There is no longer any doubt that Pension Commissioner Evans will, within the next few months at the least, sever his connection with the Pension Bureau to accept from the President a position which will be a substantial promotion, but which has not yet been definitely settled.

It is well known that Mr. Evans has the entire confidence of the President and the latter will not consider the question of his retirement until a position entirely satisfactory to the Commissioner has been provided. No decision has been reached concerning a successor to Mr. Evans, nor will any action be taken until the President is thoroughly convinced that he has found a man of the same high character and sterling worth possessed by the present commissioner in so high a degree.

REVENUES OF CUBA.

Figures for January Show a Large Increase.

Washington, March 18.—The division of insular affairs of the War Department gave out for publication today a statement showing the custom revenues of Cuba for the month of January, 1902, to have been $1,401,717, an increase over the same month of 1899 of $411,280; over 1901 of $385,776 and a decrease as compared with 1900 of $38,720.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

London, March 18.—The Board of Trade has ordered an inquiry into the case of the collision between the Red Star line steamer Walsland and the British steamer Harmonides, which occurred March 4th, about forty miles southwest of Holyhead, resulting in the foundering of the Walsland and the death of two of her passengers.

London, March 18.—Prince Francis, of Teck, called for South Africa today, to resume his duties with the remount department of the army.

SHIP SUBSIDY BILL.

Has Passed the Senate by a Vote of 42 to 31.

Washington, March 18.—After prolonged debate the Senate late yesterday afternoon passed the ship subsidy bill, the final vote upon the measure being 42 to 31. Senators Allison and Dooliver, of Iowa; Spooner and Quarles, of Wisconsin; and Proctor and Dillingham, of Vermont, Republicans, voted against final passage of the bill, and Senator McLaughlin, of South Carolina, voted for it. The voting on amendments began at 3 o'clock, and such a flood of them was offered that a final vote upon the bill as amended was not reached until just before 6 o'clock. Amendments offered by Mr. Vest, of Missouri, providing for "free ships" and for the application of the provisions of the anti-trust law to the shipping industry, were rejected, as was the amendment proposed by Mr. Patterson, of Colorado, providing that no Chinese person should be a member of the crew of a subsidized vessel.

PETTY AMENDMENT LOST. Mr. Pettus, of Alabama, offered an amendment, providing that the total expenditure under the bill should not exceed $9,000,000 in any one year. It was adopted in committee of the whole, but later in the Senate was rejected by a decisive vote.

TITLE OF THE BILL.

The title of the bill passed by the Senate is: "To provide for ocean mail service between the United States and foreign ports, and the common defense; to promote commerce and to encourage the deep-sea fisheries; and to provide for the construction, operation, and maintenance of mail steamships and their subsidies. RIOT AT FT. MORGAN

Mobile, Ala., March 18.—It is reported that a big riot has occurred at Fort Morgan between soldiers and civilians. One man was killed and ten or fifteen injured.

There has been no communication between the barracks and this city since Sunday afternoon. The news was not learned until a private boat came in today.

About forty to fifty soldiers were drinking in a saloon called the "Blue Goose" on the outside of the reservation when the fight started between the soldiers in uniform and a crowd of civilians who are making repairs at the barracks. Pistols and knives are said to have been used. INCORPORATED.

The Warrior River Light and Power Company.

Birmingham, March 18.—(Special). A new declaration of incorporation was filed this morning by the Warrior River Light and Power Company, capital stock $1,000,000. One filed some days ago was withdrawn.

The incorporators are Robert R. Zell, John L. Burns, A. L. Esell, J. E. Adams and Charles J. Zell, and the purpose of the corporation, as set forth in the declaration, is to manufacture gas and electricity by steam or water power, and to distribute and sell the same for lighting, heating and power purposes. To this end the corporation seeks the power to purchase lands, erect dams, tunnels, power stations, bridges, etc., and transmission lines.

STATION ON WARRIOR RIVER.

This company proposes to erect a station on the Warrior river about twenty miles above Birmingham, and to utilize the water for the generation of power. The electricity will be conveyed to Birmingham by means of huge cables. The prime purpose of the corporation is to furnish power for the operation of the system of street railways to be erected by the Steel Cities Railway Company, which corporation is to build a number of lines diverging from Ensley. It will also furnish light and power for commercial purposes.

The company expects to obtain 10,000 horse power from the waters of the Warrior river, and it claimed that with this natural power, which will be much cheaper than steam, electricity can be supplied at a very low cost.

TO HANDLE THE BONDS.

The Maltby-Hornaday Banking & Brokerage Company, of Cincinnati, which is to handle the bonds of the Steel Cities Railway Company, will also handle the bonds of the Warrior River Power Company, it is said. This concern now has an expert engineer at work looking into the feasibility of the project and it is said that if it proves practicable the money will be forthcoming.

In the event of the successful launching of this enterprise, it will be consolidated with the Steel Cities Railway Company with a joint capital of $2,000,000. However, the Steel Cities Railway Company will not be affected, in so far as the construction of the lines is concerned, whether the Warrior River proposition proves feasible or not. If the project to secure power from the Warrior River proves impracticable the Steel Cities Railway Company will erect and maintain its own power station, the same to be built at Ensley.

DISTINCT PROPOSITION.

Thus the two are distinct propositions at the time and the construction of the proposed system of street railways is a practical certainty, while with the other proposition all depends upon the feasibility of the scheme. However, it is confidently believed that the proposition will stand the severest tests and it will prove true then both propositions will be carried through jointly.

FIVE NEW PLANTS

To be Inaugurated by the Tennessee Company.

The Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company has ordered five new hoisting plants, four to be used in the operation of the ore mines in the Red Mountain district, and one at the Johns coal mines. The entire cost will be $59,000.

The officers of the company are bending every effort toward enlarging the output of the ore and coal mines. As it is now the supply of stock is not as large as adequate, and every day's more than adequate, and there is a consequent delay at one of the mines, either coal or ore, there is a consequent delay at the furnaces. These new hoisting plants are expected to bring about a large increase in the productiveness of the mines at which they will be located, as they are of the latest and most improved plan. They are constructed with a view to utilizing not only the power at hand but the time and material will be raised to the surface with economy and dispatch.

The work of getting in the purification plant at Ensley is being pushed ahead and in a few weeks will be commencing at a total cost of about $35,000. This will, it is expected, save a lot of money in the course of a year in the protection of boilers from the effects of water containing injurious matter.

Candidates for city honors in Birmingham are springing up now. The present incumbents in each of the wards of the city will have some opposition in the next election. So far there are but two announced candidates, Mayor W. M. Drennon and Capt. Frank P. O'Brien. Mr. J. H. McCarty has not as yet given up the idea of running for the office. This campaign is promising to be quite interesting in promises to make many questions which are now being more or less discussed promise to make issues in this campaign.

REGISTRATION IN LAUDERDALE.

Florence, Ala., March 18.—The Lauderdale County Board of Registrars, in their first two weeks, have registered 546 voters. Of these twenty-five are colored men, nearly all of whom are veterans of the war. The board has about sixty-three more applications from colored men, and these will be examined Wednesday and Thursday. The number of voters in the county who paid poll tax this year was 1,000, and the beginning made by the registrars compares well with this. The first man to get his name on the registration list was Allen W. Huffman, who was also the first man to cast a vote for the new Constitution in the Spains beat.

NUMBERING THE STREETS.

Tuscaloosa, March 18.—The work of posting and numbering the streets has begun. The streets are divided into blocks and avenues, and at every intersection a post is erected with the number or name of each.

BISHOP BARNWELL AT FLORENCE.

Florence, Ala., March 18.—Rev. Robert W. Barnwell, Bishop of the Diocese of Alabama, held divine service in Trinity Episcopal Church Sunday morning. A large congregation was present and listened to an able, sound and practical sermon from the text, "Except the Lord build the house, ye labor in vain, ye build in the air." He also confirmed a class and administered holy communion. The music was especially good. Mrs. Guy Carpenter sang the offertory solo.

FOR MINE INSPECTOR.

Governor Jelks will have the appointment of an Assistant State Mine Inspector in May. The term of Inspector S. M. Meigs expiring the last of April, Mr. James Hillhouse, now mine foreman at Adger, in the Blue Creek region, is a candidate for the position, among others, and it is asserted that he has a number of friends doing some work in his behalf. He is father of former State Mine Inspector James Hillhouse, Jr., and is a practical miner, well versed in the operations of mines. He has been in charge of the mines at Adger for a number of years and his output has been successful in the extreme. Mr. Meigs is from Dolomite. He is a good inspector and has done well in the office.

The active work on the Home for Confederate Soldiers on the land donated by Captain Jefferson M.
Falkner at Mountain Creek began on Monday and the camp has been at work for a successful start of the great undertaking.

Captain Falkner has issued a circular letter to all the Judges of Probate of Alabama enquiring if in their county poor houses there are old Confederate soldiers. It is the intention of the members of the camp to have these removed to the home as soon as possible. Captain Falkner's letter is as follows:

Montgomery, March 21, 1902
Dear Sir:—Will you please inform me if there are any old Confederate soldiers in the poor house in your county, and if so, how many.

I will also be glad to have any other information in reference to them that you can give me.

We are building a Soldiers' Home with a view of getting all such men out of the poor houses of the State.

The work on our buildings will actually commence on next Monday, March 24. Yours truly, J. M. FALKNER.

CONGRESSMAN Sydney J. Bowie the point, the ability to express them. The interests of his con-hands. He knows what they want, what they are entitled to, and what they should have, and he stands up in his place in congress and boldly states his views. The committee on rivers and harbors is fighting shy of further appropriations for the Goosa river. In this section the people fully appreciate the importance of the Goosa opened to navigation, and Mr. Bowie very ably expressed in a speech in congress last week the necessity for continuing the improvements in the river. We hope that an amendment to the committee's report will be carried in the senate and an appropriation be made.

REGISTRATION in this county continues in a very satisfactory manner. Up to the present time the white voters are registering in practically the same numbers as have been turning out to the polls in the past. But we would urge upon EVERY man to take time by the forelock and go out and register in his beat on the days set by the Registrars. Register NOW. You may possibly feel indifferent about voting at the present, and you may feel differently sometime in the future. Registration now means registration for life—register now and you will have no trouble about voting in the future. You may not perhaps want to vote at the next election but you may desire to vote at some other election, so register now and put yourself in a position to vote whenever you want to. Up to this time not one solitary colored man in Chilton county has registered.
In Beat 1, 144 white men have registered; in Beat 9, 196; in Beat isters of the gospel, the Superin-

granted reduced rates to delegates attending the convention. Each delegate desiring to obtain the reduced rate must purchase a ticket to Troy at the regular tariff rate and at the same time procure from the ticket agent a certificate of the standard form. If through ticket can not be procured at the starting point, the person should purchase to the most convenient point at which such ticket can be obtained and there repurchase to Troy, procuring a certificate from each agent from whom a ticket is purchased.

properly signed by the officers of the convention.

Gen. Fitzhugh Lee at Montgomery.
Headquarters Camp Lomax, Confederate Veteran Camp No. 151
Montgomery, March 17, 1901

Dear Comrade: The cause and beginning of the war between the United States and Spain, and the achievements of our diplomacy and arms relative to the Island of Cuba, are not generally understood by the people. Therefore it is with great pleasure that Camp Lomax of the Confederate Veterans, has been instrumental in bringing Gen. Fitzhugh Lee, distinguished as a patriot, diplomatist and soldier, to Montgomery, to deliver his celebrated lectures upon "Peace and War of the United States in Cuba."

In order that our citizens should have the opportunity of seeing and hearing Gen. Lee upon this subject, at the earnest request of Camp Lomax, the companies operating railroads leading to Montgomery have generously agreed to charge only one fare for the round trip upon that occasion; children between five and twelve years of age at half rates. This benefit will be extended to all persons residing within one hundred miles of our capital.

The Lecture will be delivered at the Auditorium in Montgomery on the night of April 9th 1902.
The price of admission is only fifty cents.

It is hoped that our fellow-citizens will come in vast numbers to see and hear one of the most accomplished statesmen and soldiers of America, relative to public transactions in which he was most conspicuous. Yours fraternally,

Many Wonder.

Many wonder how it is that pin worms and stomach worms get into
little children, or how a tape worm, 300 feet long, can get in and exist
and grow inside of a man, as it sometimes happens. They may well wonder, for it is a great mystery.
However, many now know from experience that Mother's Worm Syrup
will rid one of intestinal worms and
greatly improve the health after the worms have been destroyed and expelled. It is absolutely a harmless remedy to take, and as it only costs 25 cents, all should try it who suspect worms to be the cause of
their ill health.

Does your horse "feel his oats"? What a difference between the grain-fed and the grass-fed horse! The first strong and full of ginger, the second flabby, weak and tired
out before he begins. The feeding makes the difference.

Children are not alike either.
One is rosy, bright-eyed, full
of life and laughter, another is pale, weak and dull. The feeding again is responsible.

Sickly children need special feeding. They don't "feel their oats". Scott's Emulsion adds
just the right richness to their diet. It is like grain to the horse. The child gets new appetite and strong digestion.

Scott's Emulsion is more than food. It is a strong medicine. It rouses up dull children, puts new flesh on thin
ones and red blood into pale ones. It makes children grow.
Scott's Emulsion makes ordinary food do its duty.

This picture represents

Emulsion and is on the

A Printer Greatly Surprised.

"I never was so much surprised in my life, as I was with the results of using Chamberlain's Pain Balm," says Henry T. Crook, pressman of the Asheville (N. C.) Gazette. "I contracted a severe case of rheumatism early last winter by getting my feet wet. I tried several things for it without benefit. One day while looking over the Gazette, I noticed that Pain Balm was positively guaranteed to cure rheumatism, so I bought a bottle of it and before using two-thirds of it my rheumatism had taken its flight and I have not had a rheumatic pain since."

CLANTON, — ALA.

The countries of the world will continue to use francs, shillings and other coins. But the American dollar bids fair to become the real unit of value.

"Men should try men and women should try women," says Minister Wu. As it is many men try women and many women try men.

The so-called diamonds discovered in Ferguson county, Mont., turn out to be white sapphires, so a diamondiferous field on the North American continent still remains undiscovered.

It is authoritatively stated that the United States is fast adopting systems of agriculture that will enhance the value of its land by constantly making it become richer, thus increasing its productive capacity.

Building activity in the last year in all parts of the United States, as shown by the statistics gathered, exceeded all precedent. There was in the representative municipalities in different sections an increase of from 15 to 200 percent over the preceding year in the amount of money invested in all kinds of building.

The Western railway of France is about to try a device by which passengers may retain their seats in a railway carriage without resort to the expedient of placing luggage on the place adjacent. Over each place in a compartment is placed a dish, and as each is occupied a number is placed on the dish and a compartment is handed to the passenger by the guard. By a recent judicial decision no passenger can claim a seat by placing objects upon it.

Next year Japan will hold its fifth national industrial exhibition at Osaka, in which, it is represented, some novel and interesting features never witnessed on similar occasions in the past will be presented. A special building will be erected on the grounds for the display of samples of foreign manufactures, for purposes of comparison with similar manufactures of native production and for reference for the improvement of Japanese industries. The Imperial government has issued an invitation to all the nations to send exhibits under regulations which are notably liberal and afford perfect protection to exhibitors. The exhibition opens March 1 and closes July 31, 1903.

The Berlin electric elevated railway, the first of its kind in Europe, has been announced as open for traffic, and great is the rejoicing. The line is six miles long and cost, including the purchase of land, about $5,000,000. Its chief difference from similar lines in this city, Chicago and Boston is that an effort has been made to have it not only useful but as ornamental as it is possible for such a structure to be. Cars have been taken to make the work seem light and graceful. The pillars and supports on which the railway rests, the railings along its whole length, the handsomely carved stonework and, above all, the architecturally satisfying stations are said to make it really an addition to the city's beauty. Eminent architects were called in to design the more important stations. The results have fully justified the expenditure.

At a meeting of the Federation of Labor in Chicago the other day, many delegates complained that a man more than 45 had no chance to get work. One delegate said that the Illinois Central will not hire a mechanic who has exceeded that not enormous age. Another delegate declared that work at the Chicago and Northwestern car shops had been refused to 25 first-class mechanics simply and solely because they were more than 45. "A man should be dragged out and shot when he has reached the age of 45 years," said one delegate bitterly. So Abraham still has the call, as is natural; but are the men just in the prime of life so much shut out as the Chicago speakers think? The old race of mechanics used to work, still clear of eye and strong of limb, in their sixties and seventies. In judgment, in skill, in experience, in actual usefulness to his employer, the man of 45 ought to be superior to the man of 25. The employer learns and becomes more valuable to himself as he grows older. Does the employer wear himself out, get into a rut or what? Why should 45 be a dead line, if it is a dead line? Why should a man be at his worst in a manufactory at an age when he would be at his best in most trades and professions, asks the New York Sun.

STRONGER CARS NEEDED

Where the Railroad System of America Is Defective

The appalling disaster on the Wabash which caused such heavy loss of life involuntarily sets human invention at work. It is recognized that the human equation must be taken into account and that in spite of every precaution employed accidents will occur. Men are bound to make mistakes, and when they are dealing with destructive agencies mistakes prove costly. Our great volume of commerce, the thousands who ride daily in the cars on business or pleasure bent, crowd the railroads with traffic, and occasionally, in the midst of this mighty rush and bustle, somebody blunders and calamity follows.

In earlier days train traveled at slower speed, coaches were more fragile in construction. They were lighted by kerosene lamps. They were heated by car stoves. A slight collision served to telescope the weaker coaches. The broken lamps poured kerosene over the combustible ruins, and the deadly car stove communicated fire to the heap, which soon became the funeral pyre of the maimed and imprisoned passengers.

The lamp gave place to the Pintsch gas system and that is giving way to electric lighting, which employs no combustibles at all. The car stove has given way to steam heat, supplied from the locomotive, but still collisions occur, and with fearful loss of life, at times. The principal trouble appears to be that some of the coaches, especially the day coaches, in service are too fragile to stand the grinding, crushing force brought to bear upon them during a collision. The instant that one of them yields to the pressure of the car ahead it is crushed or telescoped and all its passengers are killed or crippled. Those who are fortunate enough to be in the Pullmans and other strong coaches usually escape with bruises and a few cuts from broken glass.

If any lesson is to be drawn from the disaster at Seneca, says the Detroit Journal, it is that every car in the train ought to be as nearly proof against collapse as the best material can make it. Then, in case two fast trains should meet, the cars would only be tumbled about on the ground, like so many strong boxes. In such a case the passengers would have a show for their lives, because the natural instinct is to hold fast to something at such a time. The danger of a fire horror would be lessened, because there would be less kindling wood to be lighted.

Ways of Misers

Hoarders of Money Find Queer Hiding Places For It.

It may not be entirely sanitary or perfectly convenient to wear the same petticoat eleven years without ever taking it off, but there are probably many people who would do it for $1,000. That is what Mrs. Lee of Jersey City did, and now her son William, who found the money after she died, is trying by law to get it back from the man he loaned it to. If he had followed his mother's example and worn the petticoat he would have his money still.

It is not on record that the possession of the money did Mrs. Lee any good. She saved her earnings while employed as a nurse in a hospital in Baltimore and when she left she put the money in a chambray bag and sewed it into her petticoat. There she kept it continually, night and day, for the next eleven years, and when she was lying she took the petticoat off, handed it to her son, and said:

"Here, William, is your heritage. Search it well. It is worth more than you would think."

William searched accordingly and found the funds, but a wily man got them away from him, and now he is poor again.

William's mother had a somewhat unusual method of preserving her savings, but she was only following a tendency which crops out in strange ways in many people. There is something of the squirrel in half of humanity. A squirrel in a park will catch a peanut from the hand of a bystander, run a few steps, and hide it in the ground so securely that the man who saw it hidden cannot find the place where it was put. So these squirrel people will take odd coins and hide them so that not the bystander nor that professional finder, the burglar—sometimes not the finder himself—can find them. Harry B. MacLean, who lived in Wheeling, W. Va., for many years, was one of those who cannot find the hiding place again themselves. For the first time in his life he was to leave town. For some reason he could never explain he feared that his bank would fail while he was gone, so he took the money he had saved out of it and hid it. That was the last time he ever saw the money, though he broke down from worry due to his search for it and died a year later. He had not been in his grave two days when his son's wife began housecleaning. She found some odd shoes in a closet and had her husband try them on before throwing any away, and in the toe of one he found an obstruction. Sure enough, there was the lost money—$226.18—rolled up tight and securely concealed.

PLACE OF PENANCE

Alcatraz Island Where Frank Rakowski Will Suffer.

"Ten years' imprisonment in the military prison at Alcatraz Island will be likely to cause regret in the heart of Frank Rakowski, the common soldier who threatened the life of President Roosevelt," said an ex-regimental. "The telegraph dispatches tell the story of the remark that will cause this soldier years of hard work and then a dishonorable discharge."

"Alcatraz Island is a rock in San Francisco Bay. It is some two or three miles from shore, and rises high above the mainland. But one boat, that a government charge, lands there, and this only at certain times of the day—never at night. No one is allowed to go near the island, and no one lands unless he has permission. Sentinels guard the rock-bound coast and perch high in the center of the island is a tower, in which there is always a sentinel on duty. He can see every part of the little island from this post. Guard duty only comes to the soldiers of the two batteries of artillery stationed there, but the prisoners work during the day.

"A load of them is taken daily to the Presidio, well guarded, and work throughout the day around the post, in the national cemetery, and out toward the Golden Gate in the big piece of rolling land, a beautiful spot, with a view of the outer bay and the ocean. It was near here that Consul Wildman, coming home from Hong-Kong, lost his life. Many lives were sacrificed by the boat striking a rock in the night, while trying to enter the harbor. There is an old Spanish fort near. Some 250 government prisoners are usually kept at Alcatraz Island. They are known by numbers, and their names are almost forgotten even by themselves. On their uniform overalls are great white or red numbers that denote whether they are in for long or short terms. These numbers are on their backs, just above one knee, and on the back of the leg. The sentinels are instructed to shoot to kill if calling once to the prisoner to halt.

"Frank Rakowski will pay dearly for his offense against the nation which he had taken oath to defend."

Relic Found in Scotland.

An interesting relic of the Roman occupation of Scotland has just been discovered during building operations at Falkirk, in the form of a large stone, about nineteen inches broad, ten inches thick, over four feet high and weighing probably half a ton. It is beautifully sculptured in high relief. The ornamentation is divided into two panels, the larger one being at the top. These panels are separated by a band about one and a half inches broad, which is carried round both panels, meeting at an angle at the top of the stone. Under the angle is a beautiful shell-like device, delicately executed. The upper panel is completely filled by a horse and rider, the warrior carrying a sword triumphantly aloft. The figure is pictured in full armor and bears a shield. The lower panel represents a naked man—a wild Celt, presumably—prone on the ground, his shield and weapon lying beside him. The profile is perfect and the stone is in a complete state of preservation.

Willing to Pay the Money.

Readers of Jacob Grimm's beautiful stories will remember that one of his prettiest tales ends with the words, "Whoever refuses to believe this story owes me a thaler." One winter morning a little girl rang the doorbell and asked the servant if Herr Prof. Jacob Grimm was at home. When informed that he was not she said, politely: "Will you please hand him this thaler when he returns?" The servant took the coin, glanced at it curiously and was inquired who sent it and what it was for. "I owe him the money myself," said the little girl. "Why? What for?" "Because I don't believe the story about the wolf."

If your religion does not sanctify your life, your life will secularize your religion.

The church founded from wrong motives can never do right work.

Gigantic Engineering Scheme

The proposed draining of the Zuyder Zee, which has been under discussion for the past century, is popularly looked upon as an engineering problem in land reclamation without a parallel in contemporary history. The land that would be reclaimed by this work would be about 750 square miles.

In comparison the Engineering News refers to a work in this direction now being carried out along the Mississippi which will reclaim a tract of land 2,500 square miles in extent. The work of reclaiming the St. Francis basin, which lies on the west bank of the Mississippi between New Madrid in Missouri and Helena in Arkansas, is already well under way, only a few additional miles of levees being necessary to complete the artificial banks which are to hold in check the flood waters of the Mississippi. The soil is an alluvial deposit, and therefore remarkably fertile and capable of the highest cultivation.

A comparison of the extent of the St. Francis basin with the combined areas of Rhode Island and Delaware gives a good idea of its magnitude. All of this area was recently overflowed by the waters of the Mississippi. With the exception of a few gaps there has been constructed in this work a continuous line of levees some 212 miles in length. The work has been done under the supervision of the St. Francis levee boards of Missouri and Arkansas, acting in conjunction with the United States government. The expenditures of the two boards together to date amount to about $1,500,000 while the government has expended about $750,000 additional. Already the reclaimed land has appreciated in value many times its original valuation, and a new bid at $60 an acre. Railroad now interest the reclaimed area in several directions, numerous industrial establishments have been built, the population has been doubled, and a general prosperity has appeared where formerly there were only waste swamps.

It is, however, not only in the extent of the undertaking that the St. Francis basin reclamation is notable, but in the very low cost at which it has been accomplished. The work of reclaiming about 2,500 square miles of the Nile valley in Egypt is now being carried out by the building of dams at Assuan and Assiut at an estimated cost of $25,000,000, while the entire reclamation of the 2,500 square miles of the St. Francis basin will not cost more than $300,000 all told, or only $14.30 per square mile, compared with $10,000 in the Egyptian reclamation.

GLORY OF TENNESSEE

Flowery Oration of a Southerner on Jackson Day

The Hon. J. D. Frazier spoke in response to the toast "James K. Polk" before the Tennessee society at St. Louis on Jackson day. His peroration was as follows:

"To you, sons and daughters of Tennessee, who have left the old homes and cast your fortunes with this splendid and prosperous city, and linked your lives with the destinies of another state, it may be that, as revolving years bring gray hairs, dimmed eyes and tottering footsteps, you will turn again with longing looks toward the blue mountains of Tennessee. Tennessee! that sleeping beauty of undeveloped empire, whose head is pillowed where the morning sunlight kisses the summits of the Unaka mountains! whose body is clasped in the sinuous arms of the Tennessee and Cumberland, and whose feet are bathed in the turbid waters of the mighty Mississippi! Grand and majestic she lies—her bosom heaving with the consciousness of undeveloped riches and power, her head crowned with the glory of the Appalachian forest! Fair and well-beloved Tennessee! I have seen her when her towering mountains seemed to stand on tiptoe to kiss the passing clouds. I have seen these same clouds gathered together in battle array, and with streaming banners and flashing fires, and roaring cannon, I have seen them beat and storm, and rage against her rocky ribs, but impregnable battlements. I have seen them driven back and with a scream of rage seek their haunts amid the deeper defiles of her mountain gorges. I have seen her again when all was calm as a Sabbath day—when the morning sunlight was tipping her mountain tops with its golden glory, and gilding the dewdrops from every forest and leaf and flower. I have looked down in the beautiful valleys, and have seen her winding rivers flowing with clear, translucent waters on their peaceful journey to the sea. I have seen her fertile fields rich in the exuberance of her golden harvest. I have seen her green meadows dotted with lowing herds, and I have listened to the music of the tinkling bells on the browsing sheep under her hill-sides. When I have thus seen her in all her pristine beauty and loveliness, and have known her people—so brave and generous and progressive, and patriotic—I have thanked my God that I was born by the laughing waters of one of her beautiful rivers, and that my ancestors sleep beneath the shadows of Tennessee's majestic mountains."

Canned Horse Meat

REGULAR INDUSTRY CARRIED ON AT LINNONT, OREGON.

The horse-pickling works at Linnont will probably resume operations by the middle of next month. This statement, in face of the fact that Oregon cayuse ponies are meeting a better demand now than for many years, seems odd, but it is true—and there is good reason for it.

While 10,000 or more cow ponies have gone from the ranges of eastern Oregon this year to supply the needs of the British armies in South Africa and thousands are yet to go, and the price paid has been very satisfactory to the producer, the fact remains that great numbers of scrub ponies are left on the ranges—ornery, unbroken, intractable, useless little brutes, consuming feed that ought to go to the fattening of meat cattle. The British army will take smaller animals than scrub ponies, but they must be sound and well broken to ride. Thousands of the cayuses will not meet these specifications. Not only will they not bring $35 each from the British, but they are not wanted at any price—by the British or anybody else. They are either not sound of wind and limb, or are untamable, or both. They are a drug on the market. They belong to anybody who cares to put a brand on them. They are wild horses, and nobody wants them; but each of these animals takes as much range as would be required for the sustenance of a steer that will dress 1,000 pounds. The stockmen want the range for their cattle, and the railroad companies are glad to assist in taking the useless cayuses out of the country, so there will be more room for stock that will yield money to producers and carriers. Therefore the railroads are willing to make a very low rate for carrying the cayuses to the Linnont abattoir, and the movement thither will soon be resumed.

The average cayuse pon, taken to the Linnont abattoir yields only about sixty pounds of merchantable meat, the rest of the carcass going into fertilizer, glue, leather, etc. This meat is carefully pickled in tallow, and is shipped to market in France and Holland, where the prejudice against horse meat is not so strong as it is in this country. These horses bring from $2.75 to $3 each, delivered at the railroad. They are mostly owned by the Indians, the animals owned by white men seldom being so useless as to find their best market at the shambles.—Portland Oregonian.

CIVIC PRIDE

Town Trustees Wanted to Cover Up Educational Limitations.

The town trustees of Pikesville ordered the building of a hexagonal chimney for the water works. It was to be paid for by the cubic foot, and after the work had been done, the contractor asked the principal of the high school to compute the solid contents of the chimney. The principal complied, and the contractor presented the bill at the next regular meeting of the town board.

"How do we know these figures are correct, Mr. President?" asked one of the trustees.

"If I may say a word, Mr. President," said the contractor, "he knows as well as I do. We've got to take Mr. Guffey's figures. He's the only man in town that's an expert in mathematics."

"Wouldn't it be well, Mr. President," asked the same trustee, "to employ some outside expert to make the calculation?"

"I think not," said the president of the board, with a solemn shake of the official head. "That would be a confession that we haven't even one man in town who is good at figures."

Monks Got Back Their Land

South Germany's oldest monastery, the Benedictine abbey of Wessobrunn, founded in 725 and confiscated in 1803, has been restored to the Benedictine order by Baron von Cramer-Klett, a Protestant, and will soon be reoccupied by the monks. The baron bought all the lands and remaining buildings of the old abbey for $90,000 marks from the Bavarian state and sold them to the Benedictines for a nominal sum.

Bits of Knowledge Gathered From the Coats of New England Cooking School.

A pretty sure test of whether a cake is done is to touch it gently with the finger. If your finger leaves a mark, the cake is not baked. If your finger comes back it is ready to take a bite.

When it is a cake, it is popularly said that it is a cake, but it is not. It is a cake, but it is not a cake. It is a cake, but it is not a cake. It is a cake, but it is not a cake.

Thick soup is a good thing to eat when you are very hot, and a very light soup is a good thing to eat when you are very cold.

Real Boston is not a city, it is a flavor imparted to food by the use of dry mustard. It is a flavor that is imparted to food by the use of dry mustard.

In making a cake, it is popularly said that it is a cake, but it is not. It is a cake, but it is not a cake. It is a cake, but it is not a cake.

Remembering that a cake is a cake, it is popularly said that it is a cake, but it is not. It is a cake, but it is not a cake. It is a cake, but it is not a cake.

Good food is a good thing to eat when you are very hot, and a very light food is a good thing to eat when you are very cold.

Two apples of a tree variety, a fine flavor and a good size, as it is popularly said, are a good thing to eat when you are very hot, and a very light food is a good thing to eat when you are very cold.

Wash the apples, and then cut them in quarters and core, but do not peel them. Roll for half an hour in the cups of water, and then make up the quantity in a bowl.

Strain until clear, add these blocks of sugar and let cool. This will be palatable at any temperature, but is best liked cold. When it can be taken, a few drops of the juice added to each glassful of the beverage, after cooling, make it doubly acceptable to fever patients whose taste is dulled.

Chocolate Souffle. Mix four ounces grated vanilla chocolate, one-half pound caster sugar, and the stiffly-whipped whites of two eggs with just enough fine flour to form a smooth paste. Now roll this paste out as thin as a penny, and cut it out into little rounds with a plain or fluted cutter; lay these on the baking tin, and bake twelve to fifteen minutes at a slow oven. When cooked slip a palette knife under them to detach them from the tin, and set them for a minute or so in the oven to dry.

If preferred, these may be rolled out into three or four inch cakes, and then when lifted from the tin, roll each quickly round the finger of the hand of a wooden spoon, and dry as before.

Hints for Housewife

The best cleaning medium for furniture is a mixture of white and diluted ammonia.

Vegetable soups are nourishing, and not so heating as those made from meat stock.

Rub a little butter on the fingers and on the knife when seeding raisins, to avoid the stickiness.

Gold decorated china for use and ornament was never more in evidence than at the present time.

Water can be kept ice-cold by putting it in a common earthenware pitcher wrapped with wet flannel.

To lighten a dark hall or room hang a good-sized mirror in a gilt frame in the most conspicuous spot.

If there is not better enough to fill the gem pan put cold water in the empty space before setting the pan on the oven.

Plain or ornamental varnished work may be made to look like new by rubbing with petroleum applied with a soft duster.

To clean a kettle in which onions or other rank vegetables have been cooked, rub with a cloth dipped in hot strong soda water, then wash in soap water.

Washing soda should not be used indiscriminately all over the house. In pouring boiling water into the bathtub pour through a funnel, so as not to affect the metal.

Use cheap varnish to attach labels to maple-syrup cans, to cans of coffee, to boxes of spices, seasonings, etc., and all glass bottles. Never use a glass bottle without a label.

Straw canvas, such as is sold by the yard, makes excellent covers for flower pots. An especially fine quality is used for wrapping bouquets that are to be placed in jardiniere or wicker baskets.

DIED.

MRS. MITTIE CHANDLER.

On Friday night, March 28, at 10 o'clock, Mrs. Mittie Chandler, aged 50, departed this life, after an illness of several months. The funeral took place at the cemetery at Clanton on Sunday afternoon, a large number of friends paying their tribute of respect to the departed. Rev. W. J. Armstrong preached the funeral sermon. Four children survive her, one son and three daughters, whose grief is lessened by the reflection that their mother is now free from pain and sorrow. Her two brothers, Messrs.
J. T. and W. L. Brooks, and her sister, Mrs. John Hyde, all of Newnan, Ga., were among the mourners. Mrs. Chandler was loved and highly respected by everyone, and the bereaved family have the sympathies of the entire community.

MISS LILLIE ADAMS.

Early on Saturday morning, about five o'clock, Lillie, daughter of Judge S. M. and Mrs. Adams, passed to the great beyond. She had been in fragile health for some time and the end was not unexpected. Scarcely twenty-one years of age, her young Christian life had made an indelible impression upon all who knew her. The obsequies took place on Sunday morning, the fair young body being laid in the cemetery at Clanton, Rev. W. J.
Armstrong preaching an impressive sermon. While her life had been short she had many friends, who thronged in great numbers to bid a last good by in this world. The floral tribute was grand, the casket being covered with rare and costly flowers. In such a bereavement, words count but little, but Judge Adams and his family can rest assured of the earnest sympathies and condolence of all who are acquainted with them.

The Review of Reviews for April is as usual, full of interesting material on various subjects. Beside "The Progress of the world," treating of the important topics of the month, there is an article on the Anglo-Japanese Alliance from the Japanese point of view, a rapid review of our great "Captains of Industry," a description of the new Lyng-In Hospital in New York, and a character sketch of the late Col. Frances Wayland Parker.
Other articles are "Educating the Deaf-Blind," "A New Factor in Lake Shipping," "Can Rural Social Forces be Federated?—A First Step," and a sketch of the late Charles Lewis Tiffany, the New York jeweler. The "Leading Articles of the Month" Department gives a glimpse of much that is good in other magazines.

and the Lord taketh away." Sometime it is the mother called to leave her children, and at another the child is called to leave the parent.

all that we mortals can do is to tender our deepest sympathies to those bereft. "God be with them

The Chilton County Medical Society met pursuant to the call of the president on the 31st ult. The society was reorganized. Nearly all the physicians in the county were present. The following officers were elected for one year: W. E.

Stewart, President; J. B. Adams, Vice-President; J. P. Hayes, Secretary & Treasurer. The Board of Censors, which is the Board of Examination for the county, elected as follows: W. E. Stewart, President, H. M. Martin, Clanton; C.
N. Parnell, Maplesville.
Delegate to the State Medical Association, R. B. McNeill, of Jemison; Dr. P. I. Hopkins, Clanton, alternate. The society will meet every three months. The next meeting will be at Clanton, Monday, at 8 p.m., June 16th. Drs.
A. J. L. Dennis, H. M. Martin and R. B. McNeill were appointed as a committee to select a subject for discussion at the next regular meeting.

The Great Dismal Swamp

Of Virginia is a breeding ground of Malaria germs. So is low, wet or marshy ground everywhere.
These germs cause weakness, chills and fever, aches in the bones and muscles, and may induce dangerous maladies. But Electric Bitters never fail to destroy them and cure Malarial troubles. They will surely prevent typhoid. "We tried many remedies for Malaria and Stomach troubles," writes John Charleston, of Byesville, O., "but never found anything as good as Electric Bitters. Try them. Only

A very merry crowd of children and grown folk met at the grove near Mr.
Middleton's residence on Monday, at 3 p.m. for an Easter egg hunt. It was evidenced that the rabbits had done their work well—some of the children finding as many as fourteen eggs in one nest. The children expressed their pleasure by peals of laughter loud and long. Prof. Dickinson took part of the school girls and boys out to the wild woods to search for flowers, and brought back some green leaves as convincing proof that spring was here, notwithstanding the Old Boreas was doing his best to keep winter over us.
The cottage beside Mr. Higgins' residence will soon be completed and no doubt will find an occupant immediately. Mr. Middleton is ornamenting his place with a new cottage in front of his residence. The sunshine is giving the brick corner a regular mushroom growth to-day. The picnic planned for last Friday by Mrs. McKusick's S. S. class was rained out but they will try it next Friday, April 4, at Dennis' pond.
Mrs. Thomas has her mother with her for a visit. John VanDervoer is visiting his home. Bro. Stevens spent one day in Jemison this week. A revival service will be begun at the M. E. church at this place Wednesday night, April 8. Visiting ministers will assist.
We hope everybody will attend. Let's have a good meeting. We are glad to see our friend Broadhead Sr. out again, even on crutches. The mad dogs have not crossed the railroad yet—all on east side. A mad tramp bobbed up Sunday we hear. Dr. B. A. Matthews, who has been stopping with Mr. Ben Teel, left Tuesday for his home in Atlanta. The relatives of our lamented friend, Mrs. Chandler, left Tuesday for their home in Georgia. Dr. Joseph Johnson from Chattanooga, who visited his brother and sisters here this week, returned Monday. GEORGE.

Some favor, it is said, county action instead of State action, each county to select, say, in primary delegates to a convention. But what the people most desire to abolish are conventions of all sorts, with their deals and dickers. The Southern States in which there is practically but one party have outgrown the convention system. They see the swapping and trading that goes on under system, and they have become very tired of it. And when one thinks of it, why should there be a resort to the representative system when direct vote is feasible and eminently practicable? Does any one on the face of the earth prefer to act through a representative when he can step up to the ballot box and act for himself?

In a State that has a new constitution calling for primaries—that has a statute protecting and guarding them—that possesses a choice and select electorate expressly fitted and qualified for direct action—that desires to get out of the rut of dishonest elections—in such a State shall direct action be denied when press and people alike demand it? Surely not, and we believe the State Committee will rise to the occasion by giving the new electorate an opportunity to act directly in the making of party nominations.—Age-Herald

Well, we are back again after so long but haven't much to say, except farmers are bad behind with their work owing to the rainy season of the past week; but we hope it is over now for awhile so we can plant some corn.

Mr. J. C. Veazey and wife of Macedonia visited relatives here Sunday. Mrs. T. I. Ward, we are sorry to say, is suffering from lagrippe. We are glad to see our Sabbath-schools improving, now since spring has come, but there is room for more improvements and we long to see it. We feel that Sabbath-schools have done a great deal for the Master's cause and we would like to see more of our older people attend them; if I understand what Sabbath-schools are for, they are for all—both old and young to study God's word and let's all come together and we will surely make a success. It is high time we were about the Master's work. With love to all, I am a SUBSCRIBER.

How To Gain Flesh

Persons have been known to gain a pound a day by taking an ounce of SCOTT'S EMUL-SION. It is strange, but it often happens.

Somehow the ounce produces the pound; it seems to start the digestive machinery going properly, so that the patient is able to digest and absorb his ordinary food, which he could not do before, and that is the way the gain is made.

A certain amount of flesh is necessary for health; if you have not got it you can get it by taking

Scott's Emulsion

You will find it just as useful in summer as in winter, and if you are thriving upon it don't stop because the weather is warm.
SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

Active.

The farmers of this part of Chilton are making slow preparations for another crop; it looks like it is going to be nothing but log rolling all the time, for we are having plenty of them around here; that must mean to live at home in future.
We are having lots of rain, but that is none of our business, it is the Lord's work. We are having lots of sickness around here.

We live where it is thickly settled and we can see the plow boys and hear their sweet songs again as was in 1901. We have very good roads. We have plenty of neighbors around us, and I love them. I love my fellowman. We all must come together and bind ourselves as one and make plenty at home. I agree with Mr. W. A. Fountain in his recent letter; it don't pay to raise 4 and 5 cent cotton.

A bulletin issued recently from the Department of Agriculture, commenting on the food frauds offered to the public, has one encouraging item, at least. This is that sugar is rarely adulterated. Granulated sugar and the quality known as a sugar are usually pure, the prevalent notions of an admixture of sand and clay being entirely without foundation.

An Illinois millionaire, dying, bequeathed $1000 to a railroad conductor with whom he had often ridden and who always took pains to answer his questions courteously and fully. It is to be hoped that that thousand will prove an investment by the dead man for the benefit of posterity. The traveling public usually receives kindly treatment from the trainmen, but now and then a crusty chap will be found in uniform whose indifference to the desires of the passengers produces unhappy results. With the possibility of a post-mortem reward coming from some appreciative traveler the unaccommodating railroad man may become more communicative and helpful, remarks the Washington Star.

German influence in Asia Minor, which has grown greater from year to year, will become predominant when the railway to Bagdad and the Persian Gulf shall have been built under the concession just granted by the sultan to a German company. Sooner or later the rotten fabric of Ottoman power must crumble, and when the time shall come for a division of the Turkish spoil a steel roadway from Berlin to the utmost frontiers of the sultan's empire will be of incalculable advantage to its German possessors. Meanwhile the German commercial conquest of Turkey in Europe and Asia goes on apace, and the German consul and merchant may at no distant time be followed by the German artisan and husbandman. It is eastward that the star of German empire takes its way, and the repopulation and resurrection from its ashes of the one-time garden spot of the world and cradle of civilization would be a task worthy the ambition of a great nation, reflects the Philadelphia Record.

A writer in the Forum says that punishment for crime has much to do with making criminals. This statement seems paradoxical, but it is an indisputable fact. Hundreds may be saved from a life of crime by the proper administration of the criminal law, used to be thought that severity of punishment was the wise course, in deed the only method to prevent crime. Fear, no doubt, deters many; but it is not fear that must be chiefly relied upon to save men from crime. Crime existed when men were drawn and quartered, and when death was the penalty not only for murder but for many minor offenses. It existed when the death penalty was inflicted in public places, and when the plucking out of an eye, the cutting off of the hand, and various other kinds of torture were common punishments. No man was ever made better by being put in the stocks. Severity is useful only in cases in which reformation is hopeless, and in which absolute removal from all social intercourse is therefore necessary.

By the official statisticians the exceedingly interesting fact has just been disclosed that during the first year of the new century there were 64,000 marriages in the Empire State. These magnificent matrimonial figures conclusively prove that in the union of hearts and hands, as in all things else, New York is justly entitled to the proud pre-eminence she holds in the great sisterhood of States. They make it certain, so far as reasonable calculation can go, that in the race for first honors in the next census the Empire State is destined to lead all the rest. The spectacle of 120,000 happy men and women, of all ages and wide apart degrees of mental and physical attractiveness, marching up to the minister and the magistrate in pursuit of happiness is indeed an inspiring one. There cannot be too justice; it is a theme for poetry. The standing army, together with the sailors that man our ships, dwindle into insignificance compared with them. May they all live long and happily and keep away from the divorce factories of the States! exclaims the New York World.

MR. STEAD'S NAME

Omitted From List of Rhodes' Executors.

BRINGS OUT VERY MUCH COMMENT.

Declared It Was With Mr. Stead's Knowledge.

London, April 7.—The fact that W. T. Stead's name was not among the executors of Cecil Rhodes' will has given rise to some comment, for it was generally understood that he was closely associated with those designated to carry out Mr. Rhodes' aspirations. In order to dispel any misapprehension, B. A. Hawley, who was counsel for Mr. Rhodes, declares in an open letter that the removal of Mr. Stead's name was not in any way due to differences on the subject of the South African war, but are from other causes quite appreciated by Mr. Stead, and which did honor alike to both men.

South Bend and LaPorte were telegraphed to for help and an engine and one fire company were brought here on a special train from LaPorte but the fire was under control before they arrived. The entire male population of the town turned out to fight the flames. Among the buildings destroyed were the post-office and one hotel. The loss is estimated at between $50,000 and $100,000.

Washington, April 7.—The Department of Agriculture has issued a statement of the foreign trade of the United States in agricultural products. It shows that during the fiscal year, 1901, foreign countries purchased American farm products to the value of $52,000,000, representing the largest agricultural exports in our history. Compared with the record for 1900 they show an increase of over $100,000,000.

Our agricultural imports on the other hand, disclose a considerable falling off when contrasted with the trade of the year preceding. The various products of agriculture received from foreign sources during 1901 had an aggregate value of only $392,000,000, or $28,000,000 less than in 1900.

In comparison with the value of our agricultural imports our agricultural exports shows the exceptionally large excess of $50,000,000.

It is in the nature of a compromise. The court finds that the re-assessment was from 30 to 40 per cent too high on the stock of the companies affected, but declines to enjoin the various officials from collecting the extra money till the corporations shall have paid in the 60 or 70 per cent which the court regards as just.

NEGRO MURDER'S FIVE

Wounded Three Others, Two of Whom Will Die.

WITH RIFLE DEFIED A THOUSAND MEN

His Body Finally Riddled and Burned.

Tusculum, Ala., April 7.—Five dead, two others dying and three others wounded is the result of the deadly gun, formerly of Birmingham, who held a crowd at bay for four hours yesterday defying arrest.

The dead.—Hugh Jones, shot through the head; Charles Gassaway, shot through the body; Charles Gassaway, shot through the stomach; Jesse Davis, of Sheffield.

Wounded.—Will Gassaway, shot through the abdomen, mortally wounded; James Finney, shot through the shoulder, only slightly wounded; Robert Patterson, shot through the leg; Hugh Jones and Bob Wallace were killed almost instantly.

Sheriff Gassaway died last night at 1 o'clock. Pat Prout died at 11:30, and Jesse Davis died at 12 m. Will Gassaway is barely alive this morning. "Payne, who was wounded, cannot survive the day. Finney's wound proved to be slight.

After four hours' maneuvering on the part of the sheriff's posse and a detachment of soldiers, the house in which Reynolds was hiding was burned and the negro, in attempting to escape, was riddled with bullets and his body thrown into the flames. Curio fights in a mad desire to secure some trophy of the Sunday tragedy, rushed into the burning building and cut off the negro's fingers and other parts of his body.

The negro's only weapon was a 45-caliber Winchester rifle, but so deadly and constant was his fire that every man who entered the open space surrounding the hut in which he was barricaded was either killed or wounded. Prout, who was first to advance, was felled by one of the negro's bullets, and it was probably an hour before his body could be recovered.

The settlement in which the battle was fought is known as Knardtown, and Sheriff Gassaway went there about 11 o'clock yesterday morning to arrest Reynolds on a charge of obtaining goods under false pretenses. The officer was met by the negro, who immediately opened fire, mortally wounding Mr. Gassaway. Will Gassaway, a deputy, was waiting about 300 yards away, and Reynolds turned the weapon on him. He was mortally wounded.

Within an hour every man in Tusculum who could procure a gun was in the neighborhood, but none dared to enter the open space around the negro's cabin. Dynamite was procured and thrown at the hut, but without effect. At 1 o'clock Captain Simpson of the Wheeler Rifles, arrived with 12 guns and 1,000 cartridges, which were distributed among twelve picked men.

The company was stationed around the house at considerable distance and it was riddled with bullets. The negro had taken refuge in a cellar, however, and returned the fire, killing Jones and wounding Finney. A large quantity of coal oil was then brought to the sheriff's headquarters and the house adjoining the one in which Reynolds was barricaded was set on fire.

Fully 2,000 persons from Sheffield and Florence were here and every surgeon in the two towns was pressed into service. Several horses were killed in the fight.

Though three of their houses were burned in the effort to reach Reynolds, there is no danger of an uprising among the negroes.

REGISTRATION IN TUSKEGEE.

Negroes Satisfied With Work of Registrars. Few Are Refused.
Tuskegee, Ala., April 7.—Mr. George W. Campbell, one of the oldest and respected citizens of Macon county, Alabama, has been suffering for some time with several forms of disease. Some weeks ago he went to Atlanta to receive treatment and the physicians in Atlanta decided that his left arm would have to be amputated, and the amputation took place the early part of this week. Notwithstanding the fact that Mr. Campbell is over 70 years old, the reports that come from Atlanta are to the effect that he stood the operation heroically and is considered out of danger.

The registrars have been in session in Tuskegee for nearly a week and many citizens have registered. The colored people in and about Tuskegee have little complaint on account of the work of the registrars. The registrars have refused registration to very few, if any, worthy colored people. The white people have been most willing to testify to the good character of any colored people about whom there was any suspicion or doubt. It was the general feeling that if registrars throughout the State would act in the same liberal and praiseworthy manner that the Macon county registrars are acting the colored people would be much encouraged and thereby give little occasion for any ill feeling to exist between the races.

Editor S. E. Wilson of the Marion County News, died at his home at Hamilton Thursday morning after a long, protracted illness. Mr. Wilson had been in the newspaper business for more than fifty years, and has been the editor of the News for six years past.

Clayton is to have a new Methodist Church which will be an ornament to the town. At a special meeting held a few days ago, the sum of $5,000 was raised for that purpose.

The jury at Seale, Ala., late Saturday afternoon found Ulrich Porter guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced him to the penitentiary for life. Several hours were consumed in argument. Gen. George P. Harrison, of Opelika, closing for the prosecution. The jury was out two hours.

CORNER STONE LAID

Methodists of Pratt City Lay Corner Stone of New Church.

Pratt City, Ala., April 5.—The cornerstone of the $10,000 church edifice which the Southern Methodist church is building in Pratt City, on Third street, was laid yesterday, with impressive ceremonies in the presence of several hundred spectators, among them the entire attendance at the District Conference, which is in session at present in the old Southern Methodist Church, on Third street.

Rev. J. D. Simpson, Presiding Elder of the Birmingham District, performed the introductory and closing services at the corner stone laying, after which Dr. R. M. Cunningham, Worshipful Grand Master, Mr. B. M. Hill, Deputy Grand Master, Mr. M. T. Matthews of Montgomery, Grand Senior Warden, Mr. Ben M. Jacobs, of Birmingham, Grand Junior Warden, Mr. H. F. Hill, Grand Marshal, John A. Miller, Treasurer, R. H. Kilgore, Secretary, A. J. Nunnally, Grand Senior Deacon, Judge J. B. Stiles, Grand Junior Deacon, Frank Stoves and Frank Stiles, Grand Stewards, and C. S. Lettice, Grand Tyler, performed the laying of the corner stone with Masonic rites.

In the corner stone were placed copies of the discipline, prayer books and Sunday school books of the church, with other memorials of interest. Immediately after the address a collection was taken amounting to about $450. The church, which is being erected by Contractor H. W. Collier, will be one of the finest in the district when completed, and will mark an era of growth in the history of the Pratt City Church hitherto unattained.

Prof. W. W. Monroe, principal of the High School, has gone to Fayette, Ala., to spend a few days with friends. Rev. John Barnard, of Anniston, who has been doing the preaching at the Baptist Church protracted meeting for two weeks, left for his home yesterday afternoon, being called there suddenly by the death of one of his members. The pastor of the church, Rev. J. F. Watson, preached last night to a crowded house.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Lee have taken up their permanent residence at Blossburg, Ala.

There will be one hundred and fifty houses under construction in Pratt City within four weeks.

MORRISON LEAVES RAILWAY COMPANY.

Ensley, Ala., April 5.—Mr. Norman Morrison, for a number of years trainmaster on the Ensley division of the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company's electric line, has resigned his position effective tomorrow to accept the position of superintendent of electricity for the Senatobia-Solvay Company in this city. For sixteen years Mr. Morrison has been associated with the Ensley line as conductor and trainmaster. He is perhaps known personally to more people than any other man in the immediate district. He will begin the performance of his new duties for the Senatobia-Solvay Company next Monday morning.

HARVEY JOHNSON'S TROUBLE.

In Jail At Mobile Charged With Robbing a Railroad Car.
Mobile, Ala., April 5.—Harvey Johnson, who has been in the county jail here on the charge of robbing a railroad car, as he is known here, says that he is the victim of a plot whereby he is being made to suffer for the purpose of a railroad car sealer in the employ of the Louisville and Nashville road, having his position.

The car sealer locked Johnson and two negroes in a car on February 26 last, and when they found out their position they called for help and the police came and arrested them as dangerous and suspicious characters. After remaining in the police station for several days Johnson was finally charged with robbing a railroad car and bound over to the city court under $200 bond. Not having any friends he was thrown in jail and if some one does not come to his assistance he will likely remain there until the June term of the court.

Last Wednesday afternoon, near Daleville, in this county, Will Kennington, a white man about 25 years of age, shot and instantly killed Russell Moreing, his brother-in-law, who was perhaps a few years his senior. It seems that Moreing married Kennington's sister, and was not very kind to her, and on this particular occasion was whipping her when Kennington interfered.—Ozark Star.

Colonel J. M. Paulkner, who is at the head of the movement in Alabama to establish a home for the old soldiers of the State, has written to the different judges of probate in the State, asking if there were any old soldiers in the poor houses of the different counties. His letters have elicited the information that there are eight or nine Confederate soldiers in poor houses in different parts of the State.

Articles of incorporation have been filed for the Pacific Chemical Company by the Malones of Dothan and Meares, Pelzer and Taber, of Montgomery. The concern has a capital of $100,000, and will not lack for financial support. It will engage in the manufacture of fertilizers and chemicals from the crude material. The plant will be established at Dothan.

Mary Elston, an old negro woman who lived near Rabbahs, in Calhoun county, died last Sunday at the age of 131 years.

A large planing mill, situated on Fourth avenue, New Decatur, belonging to ex-Mayor Edwin C. Payne, was totally destroyed by fire Saturday night, together with considerable valuable lumber. The loss could not be learned but it will probably be about $25,000.

Governor Longino has granted a pardon to Will Rodgers, a young white man of good family serving a two-year sentence in the penitentiary for larceny county on the charge of embezzlement.

which I felt from the very beginning.
I have been very regular since, have no

NEW IDEAS in TOILETTES

New York City—Novelty waists are in demand for all occasions, and some of the latest designs are buttoned at one side. This way of fastening is said to be the most effective.

A FANCY WAIST.

to admit of a great variety of rich embroidery and other effects across the front. White satin, taffeta and povetty silks and light shades of pink, blue or gray are among the materials used for waists to be worn with black triffling silk or velvet skirts. The chiffon separate waist has also come to stay, despite the efforts of fashionable dressmakers to discountenance it. A Paris importation in this line was made with the groundwork of pink satin, veiled first with blue and then heliotrope chiffon, and trimmed with eern lace and touches of silver.

Woman's Three-Piece Skirt.
Skirts with flounces, that produce ample flare at the feet, and that fit with snugness about the hips are in the height of style and appear to gain in favor month by month. This graceful model is adapted to all soft materials, whether wool, silk or cotton, but as shown is made of foulard, in pastel tan color with figures in white, and is singularly effective and stylish.

The flounces curve in a way to give the best results and run up just sufficiently at the back to give a smart effect, their edges being finished with stitching in self colored corticell silk.
The skirt is cut in three pieces, fitted at the waist with short hip darts, and the fulness at the back may be gathered or laid in inverted pleats, that are fast for a few inches below the belt, then form soft folds and fall in ripples to the floor. The flounces are circular, curved to give the fulness desired by fashion, and are arranged over the foundation. One, two or three can be used as may be preferred.

To cut this skirt in the medium size, fifteen and one-eighth yards of material twenty-one inches wide, ten and

FIVE-GORED SKIRT.

The admirable May Manton model, shown in the large drawing, includes an upper portion so shaped and a graduated circular flounce seamed to the lower edge and is shaped to fit with perfect snugness at the upper portion, while it flares at the lower, and the flounce falls in graceful folds and ripples. The original is made of sage green velvet, with trimming of bias folds headed with black and white fancy silk braid that are arranged at the foot in the centre and over the seaming of the flounce and skirt; but all dress materials are suitable, and tailor stitching, with corticell silk, can be substituted for the bands when preferred. Both front and side gores are narrow in conformity with the latest style, and the fitting is accomplished without hip darts. The fulness at the back is laid in inverted pleats that are pressed quite flat. The flounce is curved to give the fashionable fulness, and is seamed to the lower edge.

To cut this skirt in the medium size nine and three-fourth yards of material twenty-one inches wide, eight and one-eighth yards twenty-seven inches wide, seven and one-half yards thirty-two inches wide, four and one-fourth yards forty-four inches wide, or four and one-fourth yards fifty inches wide will be required.

All-Over-on Trimmings.
Dressmakers have discovered that the lace all-overs are possessed of even greater possibilities than the narrow appliques. Hence we see them used for everything from whole dresses to the tiniest appliques—some one figure, a leaf or a flower, being chosen for the latter. Then, too, these cut up into big bands, some of them a dozen inches in width. These are usually edged with the narrowest sort of a scroll applique in the same lace. A band set on

THE WILY TRAMP.

After Years of Wandering, He Settles
the Only Game.
"Same old story of starvation and that sort of thing!" exclaimed the cook as she answered a knock at the kitchen door and found a forlorn looking tramp on the step.
"No, cookie, old girl," he said, with a debonair manner, "you're off your stovoid this time."
"Well, what do you want?" she inquired, bracing herself against the door —"something to buy liquor with?"
"Off again, cookie, thou queen of the starry firmament," he warbled, and tried to chuck her under the chin.
"Get out!" she screamed, "or I'll throw a kettle of hot water on you."
"Prithce, empress of the range," he murmured, "don't do that and destroy my usefulness."
"Well, tell me what you want then, or leave the place."
"You won't tell any of my pals, Pearl of the Pearl river?" he asked, smilingly.
"I don't know any of your pals, and don't want to," she snarled.
"You lovely thing," he twittered; "I fain must tell thee all."
"Why don't you, then, you lazy idiot?" she inquired, with tender emphasis.
"Well, then, oolest of my heart," he whispered, "I want to sift half a ton of clinders—a whole half-ton, mind ye—because, you see—"
But she didn't see. The shock was too much for her and she fainted dead away, and the lady of the house gave him a shilling to run for a doctor.
"It pays better anything I ever tackled," he said, softly, to himself, as he went out of the area gate.

ODD LOTTERY PRIZE.

Proved a Source of much Embarras-ment to its Winner.

At Dieppe a "Lombola" was drawn at the Menagerie Pezon—the prize, a living lion. Immediately the winning number was announced the holder cried out: "This way!" and held up the lucky ticket. "All right," said the manager, "the lion is yours." Thereupon the winner approached the cage a pair of scissors, a hand, and stretched forth his hand, evidently to "mark" the right lion, but was stopped by an employee, who cautioned him to be careful or he might "smart" for his haste.
"Very well," said the winner; "I will sleep over it, and let you know to-morrow how I have arranged for the delivery." "No, no," said the manager,
"the lion must be taken away seance tenante." "Well," replied the winner,
"you have kept your word in offering me a live lion, but I would rather have a dead one! Give me five minutes to get a gun and I will soon settle the matter."

The manager said he had no objection to that plan, but added: "What will you do with a dead lion? You will only get the skin. Now, I have the skin of a dead lion, which I will give you, and you can let me keep the live lion." This arrangement, which saved much trouble to everybody, was joyfully accepted by both parties.

Remedy—I am as Well as Ever."

HON. DAN. A. GROSVENOR, OF THE FAMOUS OHIO FAMILY.

Hon. Dan. A. Grosvenor, Deputy Auditor for the War Department, in a let-"Allow me to express my gratitude to you for the benefit derived from one bottle of Peru-na. One week has brought won-of the very best spring tonics it is an excellent catarrh remedy."

In a recent letter he says:
"I consider Peru-na really more meritorious than I did when I wrote you last. I receive numerous letters from acquaintances all over the Country asking me if my certificate is genuine. I invariably answer, yes."---Dan. A. Grosvenor.

VOL. X CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY APRIL 17, 1902 NO. 26

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

The old Confed. is looking this way,
hurrah! hurrah!
To Mountain Creek his thoughts do stray
hurrah! hurrah!
The old Confederate has a home, no more this weary world he'll roam,
And we'll all feel gay now Johnnie
comes marching home.
When Johnnie comes marching down this way, hurrah! hurrah!
Once he was sad, now blithe and gay,
hurrah! hurrah!
His heart with joy will overflow as he greet his comrades of long ago,
And we'll all feel gay now Johnnie
comes marching home.
When to Mountain Creek the veterans come, hurrah! hurrah!
And take possession of their home,
hurrah! hurrah!
As the hills resound with their martial tramp, they'll bless Jeff Falkner and his camp,
And we'll all feel gay now Johnnie
comes marching home.

The revival meeting at Thorsby, conducted by Judge Adams and Rev. Dr. Martin was brought to a close last Sunday. The good people of that thriving town had shown their appreciation of the services by a large attendance at every meeting, and on Sunday afternoon there was a big delegation from Clanton and a contingent from Jemison. Dr. Martin preached a fine logical sermon on Baptism, and at the close of the service Dr. Simonton and wife were admitted to membership. The Baptists have bought the old schoolhouse building and have already a goodly number of members.
Judge Adams is the pastor. Dr.
Martin remarked that the church had a fine future before it, and earnestly begged all to come to the aid of the pastor in the work of the Lord.

Spring is here! Trees are budding, birds are singing, garden sacks are coming up, fine warm weather and Will Sartor has cleaned his store windows. All these are signs that after a long struggle we have got rid of winter. The farmer now whistles because he feels good, although he has been whistling another tune. Not many people coming to town and nothing exciting going on anywhere. There is just a little political talk occasionally about the next campaign, and whether a state primary is best for nominating candidates or the old style convention.

County Treasurer Alex. G. Dake can now be found in his proper place, that is, in the court house.
He has made his office in the grand parlor room, and when you have a warrant to cash you won't have to hunt all over town to find the Treasurer. Each and every county officer now has his office in the court house, and that is as it should be. How the Treasurer and the grand jury are going to make out during court time is not quite clear. It would appear the best and cheapest way in the long run would be for the Commissioners to build a new room for the grand jury. It ought to be done, it could be done, and should be done.

One of the best improvements Clanton has yet undertaken is now being made on the west side—filling in the hollow just below the steel. It has always been a bad spot and a heavy pull. Pipes have been laid to carry off the water, and the road is being made level. Every one coming that way will appreciate this improvement, and the mayor and council deserve credit for making good progress. Mr.
Thompson, the contractor, is making a very satisfactory job of them.
V. O. Campbell has bought an adjoining Judge Adams' and erecting a dwelling house thereon to be occupied by his family.

A Card of Thanks.

Los Angeles, Cal., April 8, 1902
Mr. O. E. Latham, Clanton, Ala.
Dear Sir—We don't know how we are ever going to pay the debt of gratitude we owe to yourself and the people of Clanton in showing the respect you all paid to our son and brother, Sylvanus Casullo, who came to meet sudden death so far away from home, strangers among strangers. You showed your kindness towards them.

Please have published in your local paper a card of thanks to the people of Clanton in our behalf, thanking them for their kindness in our last sad bereavement. It is hard for us to realize that he is gone;
mother is prostrated with grief.

We are very sorry that Mr. Higgins did not telegraph us, as he told Mr. Moore he would do, therefore we did not know of his death until he had been buried four days.

Mr. Moore arrived home on the 2d and is getting along nicely.
Please let me hear from you on receiving this letter.

Thanking you, one and all, once more from his mother, brothers and sisters. He leaves three sisters and three brothers and a mother who thought the world of him. We have lost a good boy. We remain Yours respectfully

Jumbo, April 14, 1902
Editor Banner—As the late, backward spring is becoming to be a matter of interest to us who plant and reap as the only means of getting our bread, I am glad you published what Moses Robinson had to say. We all recognize him as being one among the successful farmers of Chilton. Some of us do not fail to remember that April 9, 1865, after that some men made their way home partly on boat from Virginia, getting home sometime in May, and with hardly any facilities, worn out from long hardships of soldier's life, but went to work with such determination that in the next fall harvested plenty to make another crop on. I got home and laid off the first corn row that was planted on my father's place the last days of April, finished about the middle of June, had hog hominy the next winter. Have had many anxieties during all these long thirty-seven years but still have bread with only a few teeth to mash it with. So I had better be more careful of my teeth and less concerned about the weather. There is nothing as yet for us in Chilton to be discouraged at. There has always been some way for the lame and lazy.

DEATH OF MRS. P. M. MOORE.

On Friday evening the home of ex-Sheriff P. M. Moore was saddened by the passing away of Mrs.
Moore. She had been in declining health for some time, and while all that affection could devise was done to render the last months on earth happy, the loving hearts around the sick bed knew that the angel of death was hovering near. She was a good wife and mother and the widowed husband and children will never cease to miss her. The funeral took place on Saturday afternoon, Judge Adams preaching an affecting sermon. A large number of relatives and friends followed the remains of this estimable lady to their abiding place until the trumpet sounds. "She is not dead, but sleepeth."

MOTHERHOOD

The greatest ambition of American men and women is to have homes blessed with children. The woman afflicted with female disease is constantly menaced with becoming a childless wife. No medicine can restore dead organs, but Wine of Cardui does regulate derangements that prevent conception; does prevent miscarriage; does restore weak functions and shattered nerves and does bring babies to homes barren and desolate for years. Wine of Cardui gives women the health and strength to bear healthy children. You can get a dollar bottle of Wine of Cardui from your dealer.

WINE OF CARDUI

143 Market Street, Memphis, Tenn., April 14, 1902. In February, 1901, I took one bottle of Wine of Cardui and one package of Theodor's Black-Druggist. I had been married fifteen years and had never given birth to a child until I took Wine of Cardui. Now I am mother of a fine baby girl which was born March 21, 1902. The baby weighs fourteen pounds and I feel as well as any person could feel. Now my home is happy and I never will be without Wine of Cardui in my house again. Mrs. J. W. C. SMITH.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Rights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

That was a good sized delegation from Chilton county which left last Friday for the Confederate Veterans Reunion at Dallas. Considering the distance they have to travel, twenty-one persons from this section is a good representation. It was the double attraction which drew them. The veterans reunion is one of the most popular annual gatherings, and a trip to Texas has a fascination for a great many of our people. That they will have an enjoyable time goes without saying, and they will return with many an anecdote to re-gate us stay-at-homes with. Good luck to them going and coming.

The farmer is so busy now.
He does not come to town:
The merchant has sought to do.
So to the creek goes down:
And there all day he sits alone
Wishing, wishing, wishing.
That customers to his store will come While he stays fishing, fishing.

Everything is very quiet in town now; as our special spring poet says, the farmer has something else to do nowadays and stays at home to do it. Those of our people who have not gone to Texas have gone a fishing. Some of our good friends look as if they were suffering from "that tired feeling," and on the corner we all feel just as lazy as we know how (and that's saying a good deal.) No one talks politics, don't even accuse the Democrats of wanting to disfranchise anybody. The Registrars have come and gone, and it seems they registered all the white men that came to them, but somehow or another the colored brother does not show very strong on the registration list.
Hallo! here comes our spring poet again with some more stuff. (He's got it bad, this week.)

Some mighty fishermen have we,
Will 'Callen, Tom Curry and Hugh Foshee.
They go out a fishing, and 'twixt you and me.
If they catch any fish there's none we e'er see.
And what they do with 'em is a mys-teree.
They don't bring 'em home, O no stree.
A fishing they go and come back with this tale:
"We caught all we could eat, but we thought they'd get stale.
If we brought any home; you'd not like a stale dish."
But the funny part is we ne'er see any fish.

Now I've nothing to say, no excuse to make.
When the fish is brought home there can be no mistake.
But when they're all eaten there's no use denying.
There's just a small chance that some one's been—telling fish stories.

Another stroke of luck. I have just won two prizes in the Atlanta Constitution's cotton guessing contest, coming twice within 500 bales of the right number. O. N. Cooper of Maplesville gets two prizes also, and W. Q. Childers of Clanton and L. D. Riggins of Thorsby one each. They are small, 41 cents each, but the satisfaction of being a winner is worth something. We are the boss guessers.

The Fair Maids of Chilton.
Alabama can boast of her numerous beauties.
Of the loveliest women, petite and tall.
The divinest of creatures with exquisite features.
But the fair maids of Chilton sur-passeth them all.
There's grace in their bearing, in motion a poem,
A charm in their manner which doth us enthral;
Other maids may be fair, but that charm is not there.
For the fair maids of Chilton excelleth them all.
There's a smile in their eye so tender, alluring,
A promise therein that whate'er may befall.
Their love true and pure to the end will endure,
O the fair maids of Chilton eclipseth
them all.

A Sympathetic Letter

North Birmingham, April 21, 1902
Dear Bro. Moore—I am just up from a 25 day's spell of gripe and malaria fever, but I forget my own suffering in my great sympathy for my friends; the sad news brought to us by the Banner of the death of dear Sister Moore, fills us with profoundest sorrow. A good woman has gone to a rich reward, and my entire family join me in sympathy and prayers for you and the children. May God bless you and grant His grace sufficient to this day of calamity to you. How Clanton has suffered since I left, and how I have yearned to be present with you all in your sore troubles, to mingle my tears with yours, and speak words of consolation and enter into fellowship of suffering, but for some cause, I know not what, I have been denied this privilege only on one occasion.
God be with you till we meet again.
With best wishes and earnest prayers, I am yours fraternally, F. M. Woods.

Energy.

The long looked for spring has come at last. We are still in the land and among the living. Everything seems to have put on new life. The song of the blue bird in the distance is heard, partridges are still hallooing Bob White. The recent heavy rains have ceased and everybody has gone to work in dead earnest; no complaining about the wet weather; no idlers about our place. I am glad to say there is no one on the sick list this week. Cotton planting seems to be the order of the day now; the prospects for a crop this year are flattering and I see no reason why we are not a prosperous and happy people. The stock law in our community is as dead as a door nail and I was glad to rejoice when I heard of its death.
Mr. W. D. Courtney has gone to Dallas, Texas, to attend the reunion of the Confederate soldiers.
Mrs. S. J. Stearns of Autauga county is visiting her many friends at Energy this week. We have a fine prospect for a Sabbath-school at Mt. Hilliard. I have heard of several all day dinners and singing on the ground; this shows that the people have hog and hominy. Everybody go the singing and sing, and let us have better singing. Much success to the Banner. D. C. W.

SEVENTY-FIVE DEAD

Steamboat Disaster Near Cairo, Ill.

Horrible Story Told by Survivors

City of Pittsburg Destroyed
By Flames While in Midstream.

Cairo, Ill., April 21.—One of the worst disasters in the history of river navigation occurred shortly after 4 o'clock yesterday morning, when almost one half of the 150 people on the City of Pittsburg were lost when that fast steamer burned at Ogden's Landing, between this city and Paducah.

Many of those who were brought to this city are suffering from injuries, exposure and fright. The number aboard was about equally divided between passengers and crew, the latter suffering the greater loss in casualties. The names of many of the "lost" about were unknown to the "rescue" party.

The fire started in the lower part of the steamer, in the freight material, possibly in the engine room and spread to the main deck, where the passengers were crowded. Within ten minutes of the discovery of the fire at 4 a. m., survivors say, the upper decks were swept by flames and passengers were panned in on all sides, even the life preservers being cut off by the flames.

The fire that followed caused a greater loss of life than would have been caused if the officers could have controlled the terror-stricken people. Some rushed through the flames and perished; others fainted and sank down to be cremated. Many in their night robes, some of them after jumping overboard and were drowned. Those that got into the boats saw others drowning as their overcrowded craft pulled to shore. The barely witnessed horrifying scenes around the charred hull, but also suffered from the cold till relief came in the afternoon.

The captain says there were sixty-six passengers, including a dozen babies. There were many women as men in the cabin and the indications are that the great percentage of losses were among the women and children. As the register with all other records was burned and the survivors scattered in every direction, there is great difficulty in getting a list of the survivors.

It is conceded that many bodies will never be recovered, so there will never be a complete list of the victims. It is thought that many charred bodies will be found in the hull of the burned steamer when the mass of embers ceases burning so that the search for the remains can be made.

St. Louis, April 21.—A special from Cairo to the Post-Dispatch says: The following is a new and revised list of names of missing passengers who were aboard the City of Pittsburg, burned yesterday morning at Turner's Landing, Ky.

Missing passengers:
Capt. Wes Doss, Cincinnati, body recovered.
Miss Mary Tissum, Cannelton, Ind., body recovered.

Three children and Mrs. Fannie McCullum, Leavenworth, Ind., one body recovered.
Patricia Burt, wife and ten children, of Owensboro, Ky., one child only survives of entire family of thirteen.

A child of pilot Al Pritchard.
Clay Breeze, wife and son, of Uniontown, Ky.
Child of A. M. Allen, Pittsburg.
H. Greaver, Cloverport, Ky.
A. R. Coopersmith, Cincinnati.
Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Adams, Jamestown, O.

Mr. Leach, Lasalle, Ill.
Unknown child.
Colored man and wife, Paducah, Ky.
Unknown young man, Paducah, Ky.
Two Messrs. Worthington, of Pittsburg and young lady.
Lady from Bayou Mills.

CREW LOST.
Tom Smith, cub pilot, Memphis.
James Brown, colored fireman, Louisville.
Theo. Nelson, roustabout, Louisville.
John Davis, roustabout, Louisville.
Joe Redding, Cincinnati, striker engineer.
Fred Jones, Newport, Ky., striker engineer.
William Rents Bollinger, Cincinnati, first steward.
Henry Thomas, colored, Cincinnati, second steward.

John Botts, Cincinnati, cook.
Tony Gullifloy, Cincinnati, baker.
Albert McGowan, cook, Cincinnati.
Ed Holley, sailorman, Cincinnati.
Sam Spinkston.
Dank Shore.
F. Cozens.
Ed Thomas.
Ed Hibbert and Calloway cabin boy, Cincinnati.
Two firemen.
Two chambermaids.
Six cabin boys.
Capt. J. M. Phillips, master of the boat, cannot give any explanation of the fire, but thinks it possible the insulation of one of the electric wires may have been cut and the wire exposed. Capt. Phillips floated ashore on a feed trough, his limbs having become cramped, rendering swimming impossible.

Capt. Dan Scott, chief clerk, says all the crew who were lost were good swimmers and he cannot account for their loss. Mr. and Mrs. Allen, of Pittsburg, were taken from the relief boat Kilgus and brought to the Holliday Hotel here. They are suffering from wounds caused by wreckage.

DEATH TO AMERICAN LEAGUE.
Philadelphia, April 21.—The Supreme Court today reversed the decision of the Court of Common Pleas No. 5 in the case of Napoleon Lajoie, vs. the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club. This decision upholds the validity of the reserve clause in the National League contracts. Lajoie, who formerly played second base for the National League Club in this city, signed with the Philadelphia American League Club for the season of 1901 and 1902. The Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, through Treasurer John I. Rogers, entered suit to restrain Lajoie from playing with the American League. The lower court held that the reserve clause was illegal and Colonel Rogers carried the case to the Supreme Court where the decision was reversed. If this decision stands it will affect all players, who were subject to the reserve rule, and who are now playing with the American League.

JELKS WILL JOIN TEAM.
Montgomery, Ala., April 21.—Governor Jelks has accepted a special invitation received this morning from Mr. Robert C. Ogden to join his party while in Alabama. The governor will meet Mr. Ogden Thursday at Athens, Ga., where he goes to attend the Southern Educational Conference. The party will visit while in Alabama, Auburn, Calhoun, Tuskegee and Montgomery.

VETERANS IN SESSION.
Lampasas, Tex., April 21.—The Veterans of the Republic of Texas are in session here, the day being the anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto. The memorial exercises.

NEW COAL OPENINGS.
Bessemer, Ala., April 21.—The new coal mines being opened up by the Alabama Steel and Wire Company, two miles from Buell Shoals in the direction of Adger, are presenting a scene of great activity. Twenty-four houses are erected, Mr. W. E. Christlieb, of this city, being the contractor in charge. The mines will be rapidly opened up. The sixty-five foot drift opened up as an experiment shows two seams of a fine grade of coal, one ten feet, the other seven feet thick.

SHOT IN THE ARM.
Enslay, Ala., April 21.—S. F. Edmondson, of Macon, Ga., was shot in the arm at 6 o'clock this morning in Bruner's saloon on Seventeenth street in this city, by former police man G. T. Thierow. The two men got into a dispute, it is said, over some question and the shooting occurred as a result. Mr. Thierow was arrested in a few moments after the shooting by Police men William Patten and Clarence Rust. He at once made bond. Mr. Edmondson's condition is not serious.

Was Venerable Before the Invention of the Tom-Tom

Benjamin Franklin leaned pensively on the shivering shore and tossed bits of brimstone into the Styx.

"Wireless telegraphy," he observed, "and they say it is a modern invention. Rot!"

He sent a flat stone hurtling out over the wavelets, and it skipped eight times before it finally plunged beneath the surface.

"Rot," he continued, "rot! Were there any wires about my kites? Didn't I telegraph to the skies without the aid or consent of any wire trust on earth? These fellows are always claiming originality for what they do."

And again he heaved a chunk of brimstone viciously at the unoffending waves.

"But, after all," he added, thoughtfully, "I don't know as I have any right to thank God that I am not as modern men. My predecessors gave me a great deal of assistance with my original sayings in Poor Richard's Almanac. And rising with a grunt he dusted off his long-tailed coat and trudged up the bank—Portland Oregonian.

An interesting ethnological discovery has just been made as a result of the observations of Father Jette, S. J., son of Sir L. A. Jette, Lieutenant-Governor of the Province of Quebec. Father Jette is a missionary among the Nulatu Indians who circle.

He has been generally up-to-date of all things among musicians, but why such a subject should threaten to disrupt the Chicago Federation of Musicians is rather difficult to understand. "Drummers have played nothing b ragtime since the invention of the drum. The bass drum is now used only to punctuate or emphasize the heavy beats or pulse of the music, but in the original 'sheepskin band' that has furnished martial music for our soldiers in times of war for centuries the bass drummer used a stick in each hand and helped out the ragtime rhythm of the snare drum.

"Who has not stood on a curbstone watching a passing parade, and noticed how wearily the men in this plodded along to the monotonous 1-1-2-3 of the bass drum? But when the snare drums broke into their merry ragtime beats of 'tick-to-tick' how the marchers immediately leaped up and walked with a buoyant, elastic step! According to good authority the name of rhythm is older by nearly three per cent. than either the sound of harmony or melody. Consequently, any march with a strong rhythmic accent, or a ragtime song with its incessant rhythm, appeals more intensely to greater mankind.

"I have often been asked, 'Why do you play so much ragtime music at your concerts?' and I always reply that ragtime music is what is most demanded, and that my mission is to please—not to educate the masses. It is not a crime to acknowledge that you enjoy ragtime. All the old masters wrote ragtime, and that great poet and wizard of harmony, Richard Wagner, was a past master at it. It is a well known fact that the themes for many of our most popular ragtime songs were taken bodily from his operas.

"I have always delighted in strong contrasts—from the sublime to the ridiculous, as you like—and I invariably follow 'Tannhauser' or 'Lohengrin' overtures with some little street song melody or ragtime march. It frequently happens that two persons will sit side by side at one of my concerts, one a lover of 'high class' music, the other with a desire only for the ragtime piece. By bringing the extremes in close contrast the grand old overtures seem grander, and the street song sweeter and more entrancing. Why should any conductor refuse to play music which causes so much harmless pleasure?

"Ragtime is not a fad, as many have declared, and it will not 'die out.' It pleases the God-given sense of rhythm and will endure as long as the warm blood flows in human veins—as long as the world shall stand. Call it what you will—ragtime is as good as any other name—it existed centuries before our time, and it will go on for centuries to come after we have been forgotten."

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

A Condensation of Newsworthy Happenings of Note.

LIST OF CRIMES AND CASUALTIES

If You Do Not Find It Elsewhere In This Paper, Look In This Column.

San Francisco—San Franciscoans were without the usual facilities of rapid transit yesterday and many walked. The street railway strike has become effective. Only three lines were in operation. California, Hyde and Union streets. The day passed very quietly.

Boston—Victor before has Boston seen such a vigorous enforcement of a law on the statute books as that given the Sunday laws yesterday. Drug stores, bakeries and laundries were the objects of the police. All soda fountains were closed, and candy counters deserted and fruit stores closed. On the other hand the hotels did a rushing business as liquor could be sold by them to patrons ordering food.

Little Rock—Governor Davis last night announced that he had removed ex-Governor James P. Eagle as a member of the State Capital Commission. The Governor announced as his reason for the step that ex-Governor Eagle "voluntarily and offensively assumed such an attitude toward him as will make it impossible for them to work harmoniously together on the board."

St. Louis, April 21.—The public reception proposed for tonight in honor of M. Santos-Dumont will not be held. In deference to the visitor's wishes. He declared himself opposed to so much attention. The trip to Charleston with the World's Fair parade day at the Exposition there will not be participated in by Santos-Dumont as originally proposed.

Washington—The will of the late Rev. Dr. T. DeWitt Talmage was filed yesterday. It leaves an estate valued at more than $300,000. The will gives the widow a third to Mrs. Talmage and the remainder to all of his children and their lineal descendants. The foundation.

Lampasas, Tex.—The veterans of the Republic of Texas celebrated the fifty-sixth anniversary of the battle of San Jacinto yesterday with a picnic. There are only a few veterans, and many are unable to attend the annual reunion, but messages were read from them to their comrades.

Natchez, Miss.—The annual meeting of the stockholders of the New Orleans and Northwestern railway, now a part of the Gould system, was held here yesterday with the Louisiana and Natchez members in attendance. The old directors and officers were elected.

Pratt City, Ala., April 22.—Mrs. Will N. Denton, of Thomas, wife of the poet of that name whose verses have so often appeared in the News, died at her home in Thomas late yesterday afternoon. Death was caused by an attack of heart disease, the fourth of its nature which Mrs. Denton has experienced. The best efforts of the physicians could not diminish the danger of yesterday afternoon's attack, and death came after several hours of unconsciousness. Mrs. Denton's husband with several small children survive her. She was a very popular woman and her sudden death is mourned over this immediate district as none has been for some time.

Wheeling, W. Va., April 22.—The Amalgamated Association today reached the committee stage and for several days there will be little of interest on the floor of the convention. This morning the three trustees, Taylor, of Pittsburgh, Jenkins, of Youngstown, and Ridd, of Newport, Ky., made their report. The all-absorbing topic continues to be President Shaffer's report just submitted to the convention. There is no doubt it has strengthened his position with the delegation. Ben I. Davis says he never witnessed in amalgamated convention such an ovation as that tendered Shaffer when he concluded his five hours' address in which last summer's strike was detailed from start to finish.

PEACE MONUMENT.

New York To Erect Costly One At Chickamauga.

Chattanooga, April 22.—The members of the New York monument commission visited Lookout Mountain yesterday and selected a site for the great peace monument to be built by the State of New York. A site was selected on the extreme point of the mountains overlooking the valley of the Tennessee. Missionary Ridge and commanding one of the most beautiful prospects in America. It was decided to build the monument at once, and have it completed by July if possible.

The monument will be 93 feet high with a circular base. The base will be one solid piece of granite, quarried in Tennessee. On this base of granite will be a large colonnade, with several smaller shafts of granite. Resting on these shafts will stand two large statues, representing the reunited North and South. The statues will represent a Union and Confederate color sergeant grasping hands, and each holding their respective flags.

Washington—Frank R. Stockton, the well-known novelist, died suddenly here yesterday morning. The cause of Mr. Stockton's death was paralysis immediately resulting from a hemorrhage in the brain. Mr. Stockton was a Philadelphian by birth, early in life was an engraver and draftsman, but soon abandoned this occupation for journalism. Many years ago, however, he retired wholly from newspaper work and devoted himself to literature. His reputation as a story writer was world-wide.

HOT WEATHER CONTINUES.

North and Northwest Still Bother. No Rain in Sight.

St. Paul, April 22.—A cloudy and threatening sky this morning gave promise of rain for this section of Minnesota. The mercury was 45 at 7 o'clock, and another hot day was anticipated. North Dakota points reported a drizzling rain, but South Dakota is still dry. Several in South Dakota and South Dakota report damage to crops from dry grounds and hot winds, but the damage is not serious. North Dakota and northern Minnesota have as yet felt no ill-effects from the warm wave.

AT CHICAGO.

Chicago, April 22.—At 10 o'clock today the temperature was 74 degrees and was rapidly rising. The Weather Bureau predicts that the present high winds will continue, but probably by night showers will fall. The lack of rain is not thought to have affected crops.

HOT IN DETROIT.

Detroit, Mich., April 22.—At 10 o'clock today the temperature in Detroit was 74 degrees, and Weather Observer Conger says that it will reach 80 before the day is over. Yesterday the thermometer crashed 72. The thermometer rose rapidly all over the state last night. Rain is needed badly throughout the State. Crops are beginning to suffer for lack of it, and vegetation generally is backward.

STORM SIGNALS OUT.

Cleveland, O., April 22.—The government thermometer here registered 77 early today and the local forecaster predicts that the mercury will mount to 80 this afternoon. Storm signals are displayed for a southeasterly gale. It is stated that crops in northern Ohio are not far enough advanced to be affected by the premature warm wave.

SMALL RAIN IN KANSAS.

Kansas City, April 22.—About a third of an inch of rain fell through the central of Kansas from midnight to 7 o'clock this morning, according to reports received by Colonel Connor, of the local weather bureau.

WARM AT LOUISVILLE.

Louisville, Ky., April 22.—The temperature yesterday reached 86 degrees, and at 7 o'clock this morning was 70. The heat though unusual for this time of the year is having a good effect on vegetation in Kentucky which has been retarded by cold weather. There has been no lack of rain.

AT CINCINNATI.

Cincinnati, O., April 22.—Temperature reached 85 yesterday and will be higher today. Some deficiency in rainfall but crops not yet affected.

AT MEMPHIS.

Memphis, Tenn., April 22.—The weather in the Memphis district during the last three days has been unusually warm and dry, for the time of year, which has been of advantage to farmers. Planting operations are now going forward favorably, though the season is about two weeks later than the average.

A SOAKER AT WICHITA.

Wichita, Kas., April 22.—A good soaking rain fell here after midnight following two days of severe Southern winds.

AT PEORIA.

Peoria, Ill., April 22.—The temperature at 6 o'clock this morning stood at 65, or at 11 degrees less than yesterday morning with partial cloudiness and good prospects for rain. The maximum temperature was 84 degrees. There has been plenty of rain and no apprehension is felt for crops at present.

WILL STILL SHIP MULES.

British General Says Investigation Amounts to Nothing. Chicago, April 22.—"Mules will continue to be shipped to South Africa as long as the Almighty rules America," declared General Sir Robert Stewart, an officer of high rank in the artillery branch of the British army who arrived in Chicago today. "England is not at all alarmed over the investigation at New Orleans," continued General Stewart. "There is no denying that mules and horses are shipped to South Africa by our government and it is nonsense to talk of stopping it. We probably will begin shipping your mustangs to South Africa also."

When General Stewart returns to London he will report favorably on the adaptability of the mustang for the use of the British army. While here he has arranged for the purchase of hundreds of the wiry little animals should his government act favorably on his report.

REPORT CONFIRMED.

New York, April 22.—Late dispatches from Guatemala are to the effect that the whole Republic was shaken by earthquakes from 8:30 o'clock on Friday up to 8 o'clock Sunday with short intervals between the shocks, says a Panama dispatch to the Herald. The dispatches of Saturday concerning the disaster in Quetzaltenango are confirmed. It is estimated that 500 persons were killed and millions of dollars' worth of property was destroyed there. Fires which followed the early shocks added to the loss and many heart-rending stories of suffering are received. The whole country is panic-stricken.

The towns of Patsum and Mazatenango, the latter in the great coffee district, were destroyed. The visitation was spectacular in character. The first shocks were accompanied by terrific thunderstorms. The lightning was followed by a deluge of rain.

Atlanta, Ga., April 22.—Normal weather conditions obtain generally throughout Southeastern States. All danger to fruit by frost is believed to be past and the farmers are proceeding with their planting.

Baltimore—Col. Charles Marshall, military secretary of Gen. Robert E. Lee during the Civil war and for many years one of the leaders of the Baltimore bar, died of apoplexy at his home Saturday night. He had been in bad health for about two years.

THE OLD VETERANS

Annual Reunion In Session at Dallas.

'DIXIE' HEARD IN ALL DIRECTIONS

They Already Number Over 75,000. 50,000 More On the Way.

Dallas, Tex., April 22.—With the music of many bands and cheers from thousands of throats the twelfth annual reunion of the United Confederate Veterans began today at the Auditorium at the fair grounds. Now called Camp Albert Sydney Johnston. The veterans of many an heroic campaign were made twice welcome by speakers representing the State, the city and various organizations of veterans. Their deeds for "the cause that was lost but lives eternal" were enshrined upon words of eloquence and in voices now ringing over some of the bravest of comrades fallen.

GREAT ARMY OF VISITORS.

The crush of visitors was the largest in the history of Dallas. It was estimated in the morning that 75,000 visitors were in the city while information from the railroads was that by night this number would be swelled to 125,000 at least. While thousands of visitors did not leave business section of the city, Camp Johnston, two miles distant, was crowded to the limit. Delegation after delegation from the four corners of the country reported and were assigned to their division in the vast city tents. The great mass tents, seating 2,000, were opened at 10 o'clock. An army of cooks and waiters worked a hunger born of a night in the open. At their best in an able manner to keep the cooks busy. Tea, coffee and milk by the barrels, beans, meat, hard tack and accessories by the wagon loads disappeared in marvelous fashion. The boys are eaten as if they had been paraded from the wagon train for some time past.

VETERANS WERE HAPPY.

When the convention opened the veterans were in high good humor. The building, seating 8,000 people, was filled to the utmost when the convention was called to order by General R. M. Zanand, President of the Texas Reunion Association. From pillar and post hung bunting and flags and pictures of old Confederate chieftains. Electric lights in profusion gave a perfect light and added materially to the ornamentation of the interior. The crowds were composed not alone of veterans of old battles and flags and banners, but of their sons and wives and daughters. Maids of honor from Louisiana—in brass buttons and Confederate gray, but the majority in cool white, lent an air of animation to the scene. No applause was more enthusiastic than theirs and no sympathy more apparent, as they were familiar with the heroic sufferings of the old men they had come to honor.

GOVERNOR SAYERS SPEECH.

Following the opening of the meeting by General Van Zandt the Rev. J. William Jones Chaplain General, delivered a touching invocation. Governor Joseph D. Sayers, on behalf of the State of Texas, then welcomed the visitors to the State. Governor Sayers said in part:

"Today this mighty gathering of so many years from every part of the Southland, attests with convincing emphasis the enduring affection for the land among the living. Of our dead, it may in all truth be said: 'How sleep the brave who sink to rest by all their country's wishes; their graves no system of new fingers could return to deck their hallowed mold. But there shall dwell a sweeter throng. Their names shall live in song. By their hands the turf that wraps their clay; And freedom shall while there they lie.'"

THE REUNITED COUNTRY.

"But magnificent beyond all description, as was the exhibition of American genius, courage and steadfastness in duty in this great conflict of arms, the reconciliation that has taken place between the States, that had warred so long and so long, will give to history a theme with which to adorn its brightest and fairest pages. To its accomplishment, it is gratifying to recall the ex-President of the Confederacy in no small degree. In one of his latest public utterances to the people of the South he said:

"Men whose hands the destiny of our Southland lies, for love of her I break my silence and speak now a few words of respectful admonition. The past is dead. Let it bury its dead with its hopes and aspirations. Let me beseech you to lay aside all rancor, all bitter sectional feeling and take your place in the ranks of those who will bring to a reunited people."

HON. G. B. GERALD'S SPEECH.

Governor Sayers was followed by Hon. G. B. Gerald, of Waco, who welcomed the Veterans on behalf of the Confederate Veterans of Texas. A light shower came like a benediction early in the day, cooling the air and laying the dust, which had been carried into thousands of eyes during the last forty-eight hours. The rain over visitors were in possession of perfect weather. Owing to a delay of trains, considerable apprehension was felt before the meeting opened that the various speakers on the programme would not reach the camp in time to participate in the ceremonies.

Governor Sayers, Commander-in-Chief George Hon. G. B. Gerald and Private John Allen, were among those reported not yet in the city.

ASSUMES COMMAND.

Panama, Colombia, April 22.—General Jeffries, who was recently appointed commander of the government fleet, assumed that post on Sunday. Perry M. DeLeon, former United States Consul General at Guayaquil, Ecuador, sails for New York on the steamer Orias from Colon today. He takes with him a collection of birds and animals for the National Zoo Park at Washington.

BIG MACARONI FACTORY

May Be Erected in Birmingham. To Cost Over $100,000.

Birmingham, Alabama, April 22.—Mr. F. O. Pfaffman, manager of the Cleveland Macaroni Company, is in the city and is registered at the Morris Hotel. His company, which is one of the largest of those independent of the large manufacturers of macaroni in the United States, is building a new factory in the South.

Mr. Pfaffman arrived in the city last night from Atlanta, where he made a thorough investigation of the local market for macaroni and other foodstuffs. He said that the city offers for the location of such a plant. He spent the forenoon with the wholesale grocers of the city, investigating the amount of product used by them and counseling them as to the support which they might give the plant, if located in this city.

"I am surprised," said Mr. Pfaffman, "by the information which I have already received as to the extent of the local trade of Birmingham. Before coming here I had no idea that this market handled so much of a large extent of the goods which we manufacture. The grocers are really a revelation, and my investigations so far have been of the most encouraging nature."

"The plant which we propose to erect will cost upward of $100,000 and in addition to skilled labor will give employment to 200 women and girls. Our company follows the policy of the National Cash Register Company in the treatment of employees. That is to say, wages are adjusted in proportion to net earnings and the health and comfort of the workers are carefully considered."

We will need at least two acres of ground in proximity to the railroads. When I have finished with the trade-inquiry to call upon your Commercial Club and Board of Trade and ascertain if they are prepared to offer inducements for the location of the plant."

"Our company has all the capital necessary to erect the two plants which it has in contemplation, but for sound business reasons would be loath to solicit citizens a certain amount of stock in a subscription. I wish it to be understood distinctly, however, that the location of the plants will be strictly a matter of business, and whatever inducements may be offered by this or any other city will be secondary to its importance as a center of consumption and distribution."

The catalogue of the 'Cleveland Macaroni Company' shows that it manufactures macaroni, vermicelli, spaghetti, egg noodles and all other varieties of past foods.

COTTON MILL TRUST.

Twenty Plants in the Carolinas to Be Consolidated.

Charlotte, N. C., April 22.—A special to the Observer says:

It is reported that Henry F. Freis, of Winston-Salem, is securing options on over twenty cotton mills in this State and South Carolina in order to place them in a combination company under a New Jersey charter. The plan is that this company shall acquire these mills, paying for property at the rate of 60 per cent of the cumulative preferred stock, 40 per cent of bonds and 20 per cent in United States bonds.

It is proposed to issue $7,000,000 of cumulative preferred stock and take the amount of common stock. Stockholders of large yarn mills are called to meet May 7 to vote on the sale.

A BRUTAL MURDER.

Man Finds His Wife's Throat Cut From Ear to Ear.

Charleston, S. C., April 22.—A murder of extraordinary brutality was committed near Ravenel Station, Colleton county, yesterday morning. W. W. Jones, a section master on the Plant system, on returning to his home in the afternoon, found the body of his wife in a doghouse near his home. Her throat was cut from ear to ear and the head was almost severed from the body. A bloodstained sickle, which lay near the corpse, showed how the crime had been committed. As several articles are missing from the house, robbery is supposed to have been the main object. An autopsy will be held by physicians over Mrs. Jones' body.

A band of armed citizens were immediately organized and the sheriff and chief of police of Charleston were promptly informed, but as yet no clew to the murderer has been discovered.

MILL BURNED AT CULLMAN.

Residence Also Burned. Total Loss of $12,000.

Cullman, Ala., April 22.—The large grist and flouring mill of Imbush & Hancock, together with Mr. Hancock's residence, was completely destroyed by fire this morning about 3:30 o'clock. When discovered the fire had made such headway that no attempt was made to save the mill and the loss of the household goods was saved. The property is valued at $12,000 and was insured for $8,000. It is thought that the fire was the result of the work of an incendiary and that oil was used as the building was burned so quickly. The mill had been idle since last Saturday. Only a few days ago the building of the famous old wine cellar was destroyed in the same mysterious way.

NOT IN THE COMBINE.

Glasgow, April 22.—The representatives of the Anchor and Allan Steamship lines say that although their companies are outside the new shipping corporation, they are not unfriendly thereto nor pessimistic as to its effects, adding that if it results in uniform rates the combination will be regarded as an advantage to the other lines.

TROOPS IN READINESS.

Cairo, Egypt, April 22.—British troops are held in readiness to proceed to the Sudan, owing to the fact that trouble is threatening in that part of Egypt.

Vienna, April 22.—Leopold Stein has been arrested here on information received from the New York police charged with an attempt to abduct a Viennese girl. Stein formerly lived in New York, where he married a Miss Ulrich two years ago and subsequently deserted her.

NEWS NOTES FOR WOMEN

Empire Motifs.

Empire patterns in lace are taking the lead, and very pretty some of them are, such as a half-crown wreath of laurel leaves having an inner festoon of flowers, tied with ribbon bows.

The New Loose-Fitting Frocks.

In consequence of the contour given the figure by the low bust, straight front corset, and the bouffant effect of shirt waists and bodices at the front, the fit of coats, jackets and outer garments generally, of the present season, is looser than heretofore. The general principle of this easy fit over the front is similar to that of the present style of overcoat for men. The satisfactory results experienced in wearing a garment of this cut are surpassed only by the feeling of comfort in knowing that a handsome bodice or shirt waist will not be crushed and deprived of its original freshness after being worn only once or twice under a garment cut on lines heretofore fashionable.—The Delineator.

On Brushing the Hair.

The most famous hairdresser in London has startled the fashionable ladies of England by warning them that, in following old traditions, they are brushing the beauty out of their hair.

"The incessant brushing of the present day is ruinous to the hair," he says. "Some women used to give their hair one hundred strokes of the brush night and morning, and have good hair in spite of it. An occasional person might do so now, but the good hair is in spite of the brush, not because of it."

"All new hairs appear first as a soft, delicate fuzz, easily pulled out or destroyed. Stiff brushing will wear them out, just as it will wear out the nap of cloth. The hair roots try to make up for the destruction. They are forced into abnormal growth, and their life force is depleted. The old hair is falling. The new hair is not being allowed to live and grow. The life force is being exhausted. The hair gets thin, straggling, unhealthy, dies out altogether, and there you have the bald woman or man."

A Woman Florist's Success.

I have better success with geraniums than with any other flower, writes Mrs. Leroy R. Wiltner. In July or August I plant cuttings for winter blooming, using four or six-inch pots, tin cans or anything, filled with a mixture of well-rotted stable manure, leaf mold and garden soil. I put one cutting in the pot in which it is to stay and do not transplant. When five or six inches high, I pinch out the top and pinch the ends again later on, until I have a bushy plant. Keep all buds pinched off until November, and then the plants will be full of luxuriant blooms all winter.

I have no pit or greenhouse, but keep my plants in the south and west windows all over the house. In very cold weather I pin a newspaper around each plant, and have never and any frozen, even in our coldest winters. In the spring I put these geraniums in the porches, where they grow very large and bloom profusely, but they are not good for house plants the following winter. I rarely ever keep a geranium more than two years.—Yours and Flowers.

Glove Buying.

"I never patronize bargain counters," remarked a very clever little woman to me.

"Not even glove sales?" I questioned.

"Never," she replied emphatically, adding: "My investigation has proven to me that the so-called bargain articles are cheap and often worthless. We get what we pay for, no more certainly, now of firms whose business life is the ever-existing rush of 'special sales.' For service, 'special sales' and fit the glove should be carefully selected. A well-made, fitting glove does more to determine the lady than any other article of apparel, unless it be shoes."

"Cheapness is not economy. Extravagance is not economy. The best article comes under the name of a code. This code demands a price, which is soft and not stiff to the hand from the wrist. A glove too small cannot attain to perfection. One never in this respect, for the best gloves are made for long, medium fingers."

"Having once secured a fit, it is well to adhere to the make. The 'Suede' is 'chic,' but an extravagant luxury to the average pocketbook, as they do not shed soil readily. Black gloves also cannot claim a recommendation for the careful buyer. Even the best makes often crack at the eye, and the surdes are guilty of too soon an appearance of white or purple larger tips. White gloves when worn should be kept wrapped in soft cloth, or silk handkerchief."—New York Observer.

Some Facts About the Geisha Girl.

"The idea so general here in America," said a woman who has just returned from Japan, "that the geisha is a silly, giggling little girl with a can mean really be corrected. The geisha in reality is a little genius, brilliant as a talker and mistress of the art of dancing. But she shows that the Westerner does not understand her classical dancing and singing, and she is so refined and charming that she will not allow you to feel you are ignorant, but will instantly begin to amuse you in some way that you think you will enjoy and understand. She will, perhaps, sketch paper and draw rapid character sketches of you, and fish, or dance a sort of spring dance that she feels will entertain you. But if, by good fortune, you can persuade a geisha to show you a classical dance, as I have done, the sight is one you will never forget. The dignified movements, the placing of the foot and the hand, the extreme curves and poses of the body, forming a different picture every second.

"There is no rushing about as in cordon skirts and high heels. Sometimes, if the geisha finds that you appreciate her fine work, she will give you limitations of the dancing done on your Western stage, and although it is funny and makes you smile, the contrast to the more classical Japanese dancing strikes you forcibly.

"One never dines out or is entertained in Japan," went on the American woman, "without the geisha forming a prominent part of the entertainment. In fact, she herself decorates the room where you dine, just as a flower or a picture would decorate dining rooms at home.

"And there is nothing more fitting of the decorative sense innate in the Japanese than the little geisha of geisha girls which almost invariably forms the background of every Japanese dinner. The dinner itself is its pretty doll tables, its various assortment of dainty viands set in lacquer bowls, its quaint formalities and the magnificent ceremonial forms of the hosts is an artistic whole, elaborately thought out and prepared. But when, at the close, the geisha of geishas and maikos appears, forming as it were, a pattern of gorgeous tropical flowers, the scene becomes whimsically beautiful as one can well think. The colors of kimono, of fans and head ornaments blend in contrast and produce a carefully arranged harmony."—New York Tribune.

NEW BATTLESHIPS.

Uncle Sam is Preparing to Strengthen His Navy.

TWO GUNBOATS, FOUR BATTLESHIPS.

Navy Department Determined to Keep Pace With Germans—Millions to be Spent.

Washington, April 23.—The naval programme for 1931 as presented in the naval appropriation bill and accompanying report filed today by Chairman Foss, of the House Naval Committee, is one of unusual interests. The report does not take as optimistic a view of our naval prowess as is generally held, and Mr. Foss points out that comparatively few of our ships have any real fighting value. He accompanies his statement with a statement of the enormous naval armament and programmes of other countries, particularly Germany.

FEW REALLY GOOD SHIPS. It is shown by the report that the total number of vessels of our navy built and building is 123, and the total cost will be $235,000,000. The report adds:

"While we have built and are building all told 123 ships, yet comparatively few of them have any real fighting value. Our naval prowess lies almost entirely in our eighteen battleships, eight armored cruisers and twenty-one protected cruisers. The rest of our ships would cut little figure in actual war."

Referring to the foreign naval programme, the report says:

"Of all the countries, Germany has been building during the last few years faster than any of the others. Her ship building programme started in 1898 and will be complete in 1916 as first planned. This programme will give her in all thirty-eight battleships, fourteen large cruisers, thirty-eight smaller cruisers, and ninety-six torpedo boats. After the completion of this programme the plan contemplates new construction to replace ships which, though still serviceable, 'may' have reached the prescribed age limit."

Concerning new ships for our navy the report says:

"The committee recommend that for the purpose of further increasing the naval establishment of the United States, the President have constructed two first-class battleships carrying the heaviest armor and most powerful ordnance for vessels of their class upon the Santa Fe road just south of Joliet, Ill. April 23.—Three people a trial displacement of about 16,000 tons last night. A fast passenger train crashed into a busy freight train and to have the highest practicable speed and great radius of action, and to cost, exclusive of armament, not exceeding $1,212,000 each; two first-class armored cruisers of about 14,500 tons trial displacement, to cost, exclusive of armament and two gunboats of about 1,000 tons trial displacement."

In view of the fact that there is some public sentiment favorable to building ships for our government navy yards, it has been deemed advisable for the committee to insert a provision in the appropriation bill of this year leaving it to the discretion of the secretary of the navy to build any or all ships in government yards.

TOTAL COST, $235,000,000. is an increase of the enlisted force of the navy by 3,000 men; provisions for a new navigation as reported by a naval board; an increase in the number of cadets at the naval academy by 500.

The detailed statement shows that the appropriation bill carries $7,653,336, which is slightly below the appropriation adopted last year.

"The complete cost of the two first-class battleships, two first-class armored cruisers and two gunboats with total tonnage of 63,000 tons will approximate $29,500,000. These battleships and cruisers will be larger than any heretofore authorized by Congress and the plans recommended by the board of construction have already excited favorable comment of the naval authorities abroad. The committee is of the opinion that in recommending the above naval programme it is making a substantial and healthy increase of our navy, one which will meet everywhere with popular favor."

GREAT ACTOR DIES.

Washington, April 23.—Sp. Smith Russell, the actor, who has been in impaired health for several years, is in a critical condition and is not expected to live throughout the day.

PRINCESS TRAIL BEGINS.

Capetown, April 23.—The trial of Princess Radziwill, on the charge of forgery in connection with notes purporting to have been endorsed by the late Cecil Rhodes, but which the latter recanted, began in the Supreme Court here today before the Chief Justice, Sir J. H. Deville. The princess pleaded not guilty, and counsel for the defense applied for a postponement of the trial. The application was refused. There are twenty-four counts in the indictment.

WIND STORM.

Pittsburg.—The wind storm of the most cyclonic proportions which prevailed in this city during the last day and the greater part of yesterday was followed by much destruction of property and loss of life. The loss of at least two lives was reported.

CZAR GIVES PROMISE.

St. Petersburg, Sunday, April 23.—Persistent reports are in circulation to the effect that the czar will shortly issue a rescript giving Russia a constitution similar to the scheme for administrative reform drawn up by the late General Loris-Melikoff when he was Minister of the Interior and which was sanctioned by the late Czar Alexander II.

U. S. SAILOR IN PRISON.

Officers of the Chicago Rebellious Against the Police.

New York, April 23.—Captain Robert T. Wyman, of the Marine Battalion; Robert E. Leebetter, assistant surgeon; John S. Doddridge, lieutenant; and James Chatham Kress, of the United States cruiser Chicago, under arrest at Venice, deny the charge of rebellion against the police, says a Rome dispatch to the Tribune. They say they simply tried to free themselves for defense against some people separated by their involuntary upsetting of tables.

Even their friends fear they will be condemned, as these were further disturbances today when the crew landed. Commander Dayton ordered all of board.

Commander Beecher, the American naval attaché, expressed great chagrin at the affair. He says the officers enjoy no special privileges ashore and must be judged according to the laws of Italy and afterward. If found guilty, he court-martialed for conduct not-existent in Italy. The commander, accompanied by the American consul, visited the Prefect, expressing regret at the incident. He has taken energetic measures to prevent further disorders, and has threatened severe punishments.

"PETER POWERS" SHOWS UP

New York, April 23.—Peter Powers plaintiff in one of the Northern Securities cases, who was popularly supposed to be a myth, has, through a mortgage just filed, been found to be a citizen of New York.

All through the period when testimony was being taken in the case there were loud cries for Peter Powers. It is asserted that he was in court nearly every day when "counsel" were denouncing him as a myth. Twice he was traveling incognito across the continent. Powers' home is in West Ninety-ninth street. He is the son of a wealthy plasterer and with a brother inherited his father's estate. The mortgage in which his identity became known was filed to secure a loan of $10,000 from Attorney George A. Lamb, who prosecuted the Northern Securities case. The deed why he kept the plaintiff's identity secret, Mr. Lamb said:

"I did not wish to have him caricatured and talked about, for that would obscure the real issue. I made him to be silent. It was hard work for him. For Mr. Powers likes to talk. He is the bona fide owner of 100 shares of Northern Pacific stock. He was in court nearly every day. He was often at my side, yet no one recognized him."

Washington.—Representative Crum, of Indiana, returned from a convention of Indians. He said he had not yet received an invitation from Representative Thompson, of Alabama, to accompany the party of Republican members to Tuskegee, but if the invitation was tendered he would accept it.

GEN. WHEELER TALKS

Of Philippines. Says They Appreciated Kindness.

TEXAS TOWN SWEEP BY TORNADO.

Russian Capitalists Visit Texas to Learn Methods of Handling Cotton, Etc.

New York, April 23.—In a lengthy interview published by the Herald, General Joseph Wheeler, retired, who is at the home of his sister in Brooklyn, has discussed the Philippines in the light of recent developments from his point of view after six months' service there in command of a brigade.

"My service was confined," he said, "to that section of the country extending for about 125 miles above Manila and some thirty or forty miles in breadth. It is a thickly populated country. Its cities have schools and the people are more or less educated. The impression I had from these people was that all they wanted was an honest, fair, just government and I found them very appreciative of kindness."

"We had a great many fights with them," he said, "but in no instance was there any cruelty by our soldiers or so far as I know any killing except according to the rules of war."

"I never heard of any water cure, or any other infliction of torture upon the Philippines," he said.

"Is it true," he was asked, "that Sherman's army, its march to the sea, was guilty of such acts as have been attributed to our troops in the Philippines?"

"It is true that Sherman's army did burn buildings, but I never heard of its ever killing or hurting a non-combatant," replied General Wheeler thoughtfully.

"My associations with the Philippines," he continued, "led me to believe that they were not a malevolent people. It is true they were not always frank, and this was due to the fact that the insurgent chiefs were constantly demanding information and money from them and they were afraid to neglect these demands, because as they told me, if they did so they would suffer in their lives if our troops left and there was a constant impression among them that our troops would only remain temporarily in that country."

"There were some instances of cruelty on the part of the Philippines, but they were very few. All the prisoners who were taken by them and who were returned to us to whom I talked spoke enthusiastically of the kindness with which they were treated, with the exception of Lieutenant Gimore. He complained of harsh treatment and almost starvation."

"There was one case of cruelty by General Aiken, who it was said ordered three prisoners to be shot without trial. He was so pressed that he thought he would be taken by us."

"My impression was that the Philippines are responsive to kind methods and appreciate them and their general expressions to me were that they should love to be citizens of the United States if they can be equals of the Americans, but they do not want to be connected with any government, where they will be regarded as inferior."

"In your opinion," he was asked, "the United States assimilate the Philippines without exterminating them?"

"With the exception of a few localities, peace, quiet and order exists in the Philippines, now quite up to the standard of our own territories and I am convinced this condition will be universal throughout these islands in a very short time."

"Americans will go there because they find advantages that are offered by few countries, and in a few years they will be the controlling element in those islands."

RUSSIAN CAPITALISTS IN TEXAS

Dallas, Tex., April 23.—A party of Russian capitalists from Tishkent province of Stradla, Central Asia, consisting of V. P. Polovoy, V. M. Pinsaasky and S. A. Tichonov, are in the city attending the meeting of the Interstate Cottonseed Crushers' Association and studying American methods of handling cotton and cottonseed products. They contemplate establishing a cottonseed crushing plant at Tishkent and if it proves profitable will extend it to meet the demands of trade in that region.

American machinery and methods are much in vogue in that part of the world and Russia has used great quantities of American made machinery in the construction of the Trans-Siberian and Trans-Caspian railways. Tishkent is on the lower edge of Asiatic Russia, on a branch line of the Trans-Caspian railroad, 2,500 miles by rail from St. Petersburg.

STEAMER DISABLED.

Hamburg, April 23.—The American Hamburg steamer Deutschland, disabled at sea by the loss of her rudder, while on a voyage from New York, has been examined and the officials of the company admit that the repairs necessitate laying up the vessel for some time.

CONSUL OSBORNE DEAD.

London, April 23.—United States Consul General Osborne died at 10:30 o'clock this morning. William McKinley Osborne was appointed Consul General at London by President McKinley on March 18, 1897. He was born at Girard, O., in 1842. Later he removed to Boston. Mr. Osborne was a cousin of the late President McKinley.

London.—The war office has made public the following dispatch from Lord Kitchener at Pretoria. "Since April 21 twenty-five Boers have been killed, twenty-six have been taken prisoners and twenty-five have surrendered. There has been desultory firing and fighting in various sections of the Transvaal and the Orange River Colony. The garrison at O'okiep (Cape Colony) successfully held out until it was relieved by the 'alumas'."

TEXAS TOWN STORM SWEEP.

Six Killed and Over Fifty People Injured.

Houston, Tex., April 23.—The small town of Glenrose, county seat of Somervell county, has been nearly swept away by a tornado. As result of the storm, six are known to be dead and between forty and fifty persons are injured. The dead:

Mrs. C. A. Milam, Mrs. James Musgrove, little child of Mrs. Musgrove, little daughter of J. R. Milam, Miss Mary Connell, Reverend Ford.

Glenrose is located on the Paluxy river in a valley. The tornado came before it hit struck the town in the business district and about one-third of the stores were wrecked. A hard rain succeeded the wind and the streets were drenched and ruined, what had not been destroyed by the wind.

The western portion of the residence section of the town was struck. Here was located most of the residences. The town being a small one, but a noted health resort, some of these houses were commodious and well furnished.

The frame houses were simply torn asunder and scattered. Their inmates had no warning of the impending calamity and it was here that all the fatalities occurred. The were many miraculous escapes and many failed to escape. How many cannot be told until communication has been re-opened.

The residence of Mrs. Connell, one of those wrecked, caught fire and with two others was burned.

The property loss is roughly estimated at a quarter of a million dollars. It is a great loss, but greater than all the facts are known, for there are undoubtedly other sections which have been devastated up and down the river. It may be several days before the entire story of the disaster is known.

The town is cut off from wire communication and all the facts have come from neighboring towns which have been reached by the facts as they are in quest of assistance for their stricken people.

Glenrose is the county seat of Somervell county and has a population of about 800 people. It is a noted health resort, there being many springs and wells with medicinal qualities. It is a fine residence for the summer, and means who have taken up their abode there, and this fact alone is a property loss very materially.

The Fort Worth and Rio Grande will run a special train to the stricken town this morning. A boat will be loaded with supplies for the stricken people. The train will stop at the various places and parties at places along the line. Those whose homes have been spared are doing all in their power for the home-les, but according to reports, these are many of the latter.

ARE AT PEACE AGAIN.

Budapest, April 23.—The lower house of the Hungarian Diet today ratified the Austro-Hungarian commercial and consular treaty with Mexico, which lapsed in 1895 and had not since been renewed.

The official friendliness of Vienna announced April 20, 1907, that the friendly rapprochement between Austria-Hungary and Mexico in consequence of the erection of an expository chapel at Queretaro, where Emperor Maximilian was executed in 1867, would result in an early resumption of diplomatic relations between the dual monarchy and the Mexican republic, interrupted since the Emperor was shot.

The same day a bill was introduced in the Congress of Mexico providing for a renewal of diplomatic relations with Austria-Hungary, and an appropriation of $15,000 was made for the salary of a Mexican Minister to Austria-Hungary. June 1, 1901, Count Gilbert Hohenwart was appointed Austrian-Hungarian Minister to Mexico.

The government bill arranging for commercial and consular relations between Austria-Hungary and Mexico was adopted, without debate, by the lower house of the Austria Reichsrath, March 18 last.

SAYS DREYFUS GUILTY.

French Lecturer Says He Acknowledged His Guilt.

Chicago, April 23.—Alleged secrets of the Dreyfus case unknown to many Frenchmen who followed closely the proceedings of the trial were confided to University of Chicago students by M. Hugues Leroux. The French lecturer declared that Capt. Dreyfus admitted guilt at the time he was pardoned.

"Captain Dreyfus not only was guilty of conspiracy against the French government, but he confessed to a number of charges and asked for mercy when signing a petition for a pardon," was the statement with which the French lecturer and lecturer astonished his auditors. "That Dreyfus actually admitted his guilt is a fact which is known even by people who endeavored to follow the case closely in all its phases."

M. Leroux explained that his knowledge of the case came largely from the fact that he was asked by friends of Capt. Dreyfus to take up the defense of the prisoner.

"At the time my aid was sought," added M. Leroux, "I told Captain Dreyfus' friends that I would take up the case if they would show me that the case against him was not a conspiracy. You may ask why it is not conclusively shown to the public that Dreyfus was guilty. It can be shown now, but it will not be on account of the heated public sentiment both in and out of France. It was decided that in 25 years. At that time records will be made clear."

Free from personal personalities. The political records of the three candidates are being quite generally discussed throughout the district. Thus far it is the only Congressional campaign in the State that has fully opened, and the others will not be in full swing until after the adjournment of Congress.

The threat made by Senator Deane that if the resolution providing for the election of United States Senators by the people was adopted that the election in 1913 would be suppressed by the Federal government must be regarded as a conspiracy, according to the New York Times. The Senator's threat was made at the time the New York Times was published in New York with a headline which read: "Deane's Threat."

LATE STATE NEWS.

FARMER'S TRAP CAUGHT THIEF.

Lauderdale Farmers Make it Warm for Allen Martin.

Florence, Ala., April 23.—The people of the St. Florian neighborhood have been complaining of thefts for some time past and now they have fixed the offender on Allen Martin. One farmer missed corn from his crib nearly every night. He fixed up a trap so that when the crib door was opened a heavy rock would fall. That night Martin woke up a neighbor, asking him to dress a deep gash which Martin said an assailant had given him, and the farmer found the next morning that the rock had fallen.

No more corn was stolen, but another neighbor missed a sack of wheat, and identified a sack Martin had taken to the mill as his. He also found several of his plows at Martin's home, but feared Martin would burn him out if he had him arrested. Martin's next act was the theft of a set of harness which was left in the field. No one suspected Martin and went to his house with a shotgun and got the harness. A warrant was prepared Saturday for Martin's arrest but he had fled the country the day before.

TUSKALOOSA NEWS.

Work on City Directory. Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 23.—Work on the city directory is progressing rapidly. About half of the city has been canvassed for the names and addresses of the residents and the work will be pushed through to a rapid conclusion.

The liberal support which the enterprise has received will probably result in a larger and more elegant book being issued.

A number of young men met at the court house Friday night for the purpose of organizing a camp of Sons of Confederate Veterans. The meeting was called to order by A. S. Vandegriff, Commander of the former Camp Hargrove, and E. M. Purifoy was requested to act as secretary.

On motion of John T. Beale it was decided to reorganize Camp Hargrove, as a part of the Sons of Confederate Veterans. A constitution was adopted and a temporary committee on applications for membership was appointed.

MEMORIAL DAY exercises will be held somewhat earlier this year than usual, as many veterans desire to attend, and it is desired to give them sufficient time to return home on the same evening.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES.

Montgomery, Ala., April 23.—Memorial Day was celebrated in Montgomery with impressive ceremonies. The ladies of the Memorial Association furnished tally ho for the veterans to ride to the cemetery—a unique feature which caused much favorable comment. The procession, headed by a detail of mounted officers and the military band, moved to the cemetery under the command of Chief Marshal Barney.

The orator of the day was Judge W. H. Thomas, associate judge of the Montgomery city court, who delivered a brilliant patriotic address. Rabbi A. Messing was chaplain; Miss Katherine Ely, recitationist; and Miss Naomi Carter, songstress. After the exercises several volleys were fired over the graves.

It is given out by the negroes in Montgomery that Wilford H. Smith, the negro lawyer of New York, who appeared before the Alabama Supreme Court last week, is here for the purpose of making arrangements to test the legality of the constitution. It is said that Smith has been employed by a suffrage association in the East to fight the constitution and that he will be filed anything in the Montgomery courts.

Great preparations are in progress for the entertainment of the Shriners, who are winding their way to Montgomery and will reach the city tomorrow. It is expected that the special train bearing the Shriners will reach the city at 11 o'clock. They will parade in the afternoon attired each in an evening dress and a red fez. Twenty-four novices are to be initiated.

SPIRITED RACE.

Three Mississippi Candidates for Congress to Debate.

Biloxi, Miss., April 23.—The Congressional race in this district is now in full swing, and a series of joint debates is being arranged between the three candidates, Messrs. E. M. Barbour, W. H. Hardy and E. J. Bowers. The contest promises to be unusually close, and will contain much fire and spirit before its close, although it is being conducted on a high plane and following the rules of good sportsmanship. The political records of the three candidates are being quite generally discussed throughout the district. Thus far it is the only Congressional campaign in the State that has fully opened, and the others will not be in full swing until after the adjournment of Congress.

The threat made by Senator Deane that if the resolution providing for the election of United States Senators by the people was adopted that the election in 1913 would be suppressed by the Federal government must be regarded as a conspiracy, according to the New York Times. The Senator's threat was made at the time the New York Times was published in New York with a headline which read: "Deane's Threat."

West Point is said to be forgoing the front as a cattle market. There are several kinds of cattle in West Point, but it is said by wild localists, "Tiger," "Columbia," "Pamlico," etc.

The St. Joseph and Grand Island station, and according to report from the railroad officials, every business house and residence in the town have been destroyed. All telephonic and telegraphic communication has been cut off.

CLEVELAND, O., April 23.—

Lynch, arrested a few days ago, charged with the murder of his wife at their home, committed suicide today in his cell at the county jail. The knob was not more than three feet from the door. Lynch and another man stood at the knob and then the other man struck the knob and then Lynch stood on the floor. He had a "sway" a single himself to death.

Holley claims that he was injured by the railroad yard here by the impact of a switch engine against a car in which he was seated.

Hickleton, Pa.—Michael Cherko, aged 38 years, was murdered about a hundred feet from the Greek Catholic Church at Freehold yesterday morning during the progress of the Greek Easter service. George Smith is under arrest charged with having committed the crime. It is alleged that Smith, upon entering the church failed to remove his hat and when requested to do so by Cherko, one of the trustees, drew a blackjack and assaulted Cherko. The latter ran out of the door, followed by Smith. Cherko had not gone far when Smith, drawing a revolver, shot him through the back, death being instantaneous.

BOER OFFICER AT TUSCALOOSA.

Tuscaloosa, Ala., April 23.—The Boer officer from South Africa, Commander Edrie, who is endeavoring to arouse sympathy for his people in this country, made a fine address to a large audience of the best people of Tuscaloosa last night. The court house was packed to its utmost capacity, and his simple but graphically told story held the rapt attention of all for over an hour and a half. His speech was a model of plain, patriotic, humorous and powerful, in good English with a slight Dutch accent. He was interrupted with repeated applause, and received a unanimous vote of thanks, with a liberal free-will contribution for his cause, and an ovation after the close of the address. The meeting was presided over by Mayor Cochran.

MISSISSIPPI NOT POOR.

The idea of a Mississippi farmer who "died" with the beef trust, when he sold his cattle to the trust at 2 or 3 cents a pound and buys them back at four times the selling price, was the subject of a meeting of the "Producers' and Master of the Mississippi Farmers' Association."

CLANTON, — AAL

The Daily Press of Paris, France, has undertaken an active campaign against the custom of milk adulteration, which has reached enormous proportions, and the various reporters of the different journals have brought to light some very extraordinary facts which have created great excitement.

Great Salt Lake has for a number of years been steadily sinking. Several causes for the decline have been suggested, although all are confessed to be more or less a conjecture. The lake is subject to cycles of change which correspond to the variations of rainfall. The decline has also been attributed to the diverting of large quantities of water from the streams which feed the lake to enrich the agricultural and grazing interests. The cutting down of forests is thought to have influenced these streams. The decline in the value of Great Salt Lake property is of so great importance that the United States Geological survey has been asked to investigate the matter.

The new Pacific cable will require for its construction about 2,000,000 pounds of gutta percha which seems liable to "break the bank." As is well known the supply of this most requisite for submarine cables have been yearly growing less and less. Aside from the projected cultivation of the tree, hopes for an ample future supply are brighter by reason of the discovery that the supplies of gutta percha, which for a number of years have come from Singapore, have been gathered chiefly in some of the southern islands of the Philippines. The signal corps of the War Department is investigating this important matter, and if it is found that there are any considerable forests of these trees on the islands they will be brought under the supervision and protection of a forestry commission, so that they can be worked intelligently, and with some regard to the future. The present demand for gutta percha, it is estimated, results in the destruction of 100,000 trees annually.

There were on the occasion of the census in 1900 no fewer than 1,181,773 Canadians living in the United States, this being an increase of 200,840 over the number in 1890, and of 464,621 over the number so living in the states in 1880. In the return just issued, and in which these figures appear, it is further stated that of every 100 Canadians living in North America (Canada and the United States) eighty-two are in Canada and eighteen in the United States. In 1900 these figures were eighty-three and seventeen respectively. The great bulk of the Canadians living in the United States reside just over the border no fewer than 1,047,860 being in New England and the eight border states of New York, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, North Dakota, Montana, Idaho and Washington, while of the remainder the largest number in any one state (29,818) were in California, which might almost be called a border state. Of the total number in the states, 756,581 are English-speaking, and 395,197, French-speaking Canadians.

The literary encouragement of criminals is charged by the Milwaukee Sentinel against some of our modern writers of popular fiction, which is more highly regarded than the old-time "dime novel." It says: "The popularity of Mr. Sherlock Holmes has proved how great an interest the general public has in what may be called the underside of life. In order that his hero might find foes worthy of pursuit, Dr. Doyle was forced to create a number of extremely clever law-breakers, whose finesse and rare art in the matter of carrying out their plots doubtless has encouraged the present vogue for the aristocratic thief in fiction. Raffles, introduced to the reading public by Mr. Hornung, proved to be a fellow of such delightful charm of character, that all who became acquainted with him forgot to find fault with his erratic methods of making a living. In America it is generally recognized that there is a prevalence of what scientists call the contagion of thought. Since Raffles has begun to lead young America astray it is about time his influence should be counteracted by the appearance of more worthy heroes. Dr. Doyle and Mr. Hornung should be condemned to write a series of Sunday school stories in which the heroes resist temptation to become multi-millionaires and voluntarily choose plain living and high thinking."

FOUR MEN BURNED.

New Milford, Mass., Suffers Heavy Loss.

FIFTY BUILDINGS BURNED—TWO BANKS

And Three Hotels Go up in Ashes—Domingo Only Wants Good Government.

New York, May 6.—Leonie Vasquez, brother of the Vice President of Santo Domingo, who has just overthrown the government of President Jimenez, says all his brother wants to establish peace and good government. Vasquez was Consul General here for nearly two years, but recently was deposed by President Jimenez.

Regarding the revolution, he said: "When my brother was provincial President after the assassination of President Heureux, he put down paper money and established a free press. Then he installed Jimenez in power and returned to agricultural pursuits."

AMEND CONSTITUTION. "While Santo Domingo has what might be considered an excellent constitution by liberty-loving people, it is in need of amendment and I believe my brother will bring it about. He does, 95 per cent of the revolutionary spirit will disappear, although during the last fifty years there has been on an average more than one revolt annually."

The present constitution, while granting universal suffrage and a free press, confers on the President of the Republic such arbitrary powers in the control of the army and the finances that an ambitious man, who is neither honest or patriotic is a constant menace.

"I believe that one of his first aims will be to establish a treaty of a reciprocal nature with the United States. Call it a protectorate if you will, but I hope she will support the moral and commercial support of the American people and so it must eventually be with other Republics similarly situated."

TOWN BURNED UP.

Nearly Fifty Buildings, Two Banks and Three Hotels Destroyed.

Danbury, Conn., May 6.—$200,000 to $300,000 is the latest estimate on the fire which destroyed the business section of New Milford, sixteen miles north of here, last night. Nearly fifty buildings, including most of the stores in the place, two banks and three hotels were burned.

The fire was under control at 4 o'clock this morning, but still burning in many places. The origin is unknown.

BURNED ALL NIGHT.

The fire started about 8:30 o'clock last night in the stables of the New Milford House. The cause is unknown. In ten minutes stables, the hotels and several outbuildings were in flames and the railroad station opposite was in grave danger. The flames spread quickly to the Mygatt block. The office of the Southern New England Telephone Company, is in the building and the operator, Miss Bessie Bertram, remained at the switchboard until the flames drove her from the building. From the Mygatt building the fire spread along Bank street, the principal thoroughfare of the village. Twenty different buildings were on fire at one time.

FOUR LIVES LOST.

Caught in Open Hearth Pit by Awful Flood of Boiling Ore.

Harrisburg, Pa., May 6.—Four men were killed, two were fatally injured and two others were terribly burned by being caught in a torrent of molten metal last night in an open hearth pit at the Pennsylvania works, Steelton, near here. All of the men were Austrians. Only the names of two of the dead are known. They are: Yauko Morevich and Alexo Aranjovich.

The men were at work in a pit behind the "chockers" when the iron ore boiled over and the furnace burned out and the entire pit was turned into a pool of fire. The pit boss Charles F. Lockett gave a cry of warning as the iron commenced to flow into the pit, and three of the laborers heeded his cries and escaped fatal injuries. The fourth, thinking evidently that the overflow was a slight one, similar to those which occur frequently at the furnaces, pressed against the side of the pit and was caught in the awful flood.

New York, May 6.—A petition in voluntary bankruptcy was filed today in the United States District Court against Offenbach & Moore, the stockbrokers who suspended yesterday.

The petition was filed by Epstein Brothers, representing claims for $1,500. The petition alleges that the firm has been insolvent for the last four months and has made certain creditors preferred. The appointment of a receiver is requested.

Florence, Ala., May 6.—The sales for April at the two dispensaries here were $1,400 at Florence and $683 at East Florence, a total of $2,083, as compared with $1,942 and $663.54, with a total of $2,605.54 for March, a falling off of $212.54. The net profits for last month were about $800.

BOGGS ACQUITTED.

Decatur, Ala., May 6.—Carl Boggs, who killed Scott Kennedy, colored, had a preliminary trial today before Judge Sheggs and was discharged. The evidence showed that Boggs killed the negro in self-defense.

St. Louis, May 6.—R. H. Henry, executive commissioner of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition for Mississippi, has selected a location for the Mississippi building. Mr. Henry expressed his gratification at the location, which is close to that selected for the Missouri building. The Mississippi building probably will be a reproduction of Beauvoir, the home of Jefferson Davis in Henderson county, Miss.

WYETH'S PORTRAIT.

Noted New York Physician Presented to the State.

Montgomery, Ala., May 6.—The portraits recently presented to the Department of Archives and History by Dr. John Wyeth of himself and the late Dr. Marion Sims are the only portraits of these eminent surgeons in existence. A letter just received by Mr. Thomas M. Owen, the director of the department, from Dr. Wyeth says that the portrait of Dr. Sims was painted by John P. Felt, a New York artist. Dr. Sims having consented to give the artist a few sittings. It is an exceptionally fine painting and though painted in 1867 is in excellent condition.

The portrait of Dr. Wyeth was done in 1887 by John Nelson Marble, and is a speaking likeness. Dr. Wyeth has also sent to the department a picture of the statue of Dr. Sims in Bryant Park, New York, and several of the late surgeon's manuscripts.

The State Board of Health Conference, of which Rev. F. P. Oliver is president, will hold its annual meeting in Prattville, June 17-18.

The Railroad Commission held its regular session at the capital yesterday. A new depot was ordered at Tenville, on the Alabama division of the Plant System, also at Pleasant Hill and North on the Selma and Pensacola division of the Louisville and Nashville. The regular order for maintenance was made for the new depots at Tenville and Pleasant Hill on the Selma and Pensacola division of the Louisville and Nashville. The Louisville and Nashville was excused from maintaining a depot at Millville, a mining place on its Mineral division.

A. H. Merrill of Eufaula filed yesterday with the Secretary of State the certificate of incorporation by the State of Georgia of the Columbus, Eufaula and Gulf Railroad Company, which proposes to build a line of railroad from Columbus, Georgia, to St. Andrews Bay, Florida, about 200 miles.

It is said that work will begin at once. The railroad will traverse several counties in Alabama. The certificate of incorporation was filed with the Secretary of state in compliance with the law in this state.

The inspectors of the R. H. Taylor of the Georgia division of the New York and O. R. R. Co. J. M. T. M. Donald and C. E. Stenger, of Duval county, Florida, R. H. Lee, of Jefferson county, Ala., T. J. Campbell, of Montgomery, Ala., A. H. Merrill, of Barbour county, Ala., M. S. Jerminey and W. H. Hawkins, of Irwin county, Georgia, and F. Mobley, of New Haven, Conn.

The capital stock is $200,000, all of which is common stock. Messrs. Hawkins, MacDonald and Moulder were at the capital yesterday with Mr. Merrill. They announced that contracts had already been let and that ground had been broken near Eufaula by the contractors.

Was She Poisoned.

New York, May 6.—Considerable mystery surrounds the sudden death at Gosport, L. I., of Miss Mariana F. Mason at the home of her father, the Rev. John Mason, pastor of the Orthodox Methodist Church in Oyster Bay. A coroner's physician who performed an autopsy has signed a certificate stating that death was caused by an irritant poison. He added positively that the young woman died from the effects of a corrosive agent, possibly carbolic acid, taken either by mistake or intentionally, but this opinion is not accepted by the girl's relatives.

London, May 6.—A dispatch to a News Agency from Madrid says that advisers received here from Portugal indicate there is danger of an actual revolution in that country. Considerable apprehension is felt in official quarters as to the attitude of the Portuguese troops. The Sixth infantry, stationed at Oporto, has been disbanded and disbanded for fear the soldiers would join the rioters. The military and naval officers are advocating that King Charles establish a dictatorship.

Salem, O., May 6.—R. W. Taylor, of Lisbon, who made the sensational fight in Congress against Roberts, elected to represent the State of Utah in the House, was again re-nominated from the Eighteenth District by acclamation for his fifth term. He represents the old McKinley district.

Carbondale, Ill.—An organization now being perfected in this city, to be known as the Amalgamated Common Laborers of America, is in reality a secession from the American Federation of Labor. Several states are represented by delegates—Michigan, Indiana, Missouri, Illinois, Kentucky, Arkansas and Ohio.

Morristown, N. J., May 6.—Representative J. S. Salmon, of the Fourth district of New Jersey, died suddenly today at his home in Beaconton. Apoplexy was the cause of death. He was 56 years old and was serving his second term in Congress as a Democrat.

COLORS CLUBS BARRED.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 6.—After a two hours discussion of the question of admission of colored women into the Women's Club, the anti-colored women won the day yesterday when the convention voted overwhelmingly to accept what is known as the compromise amendment agreed upon in New York several weeks ago. This means that the negro women will be barred from the national organization and is a direct triumph for the Southern women.

The Army's Sure Cure for Consumption

GENERAL ARTHUR MACARTHUR, FORT BAYARD, N. M.

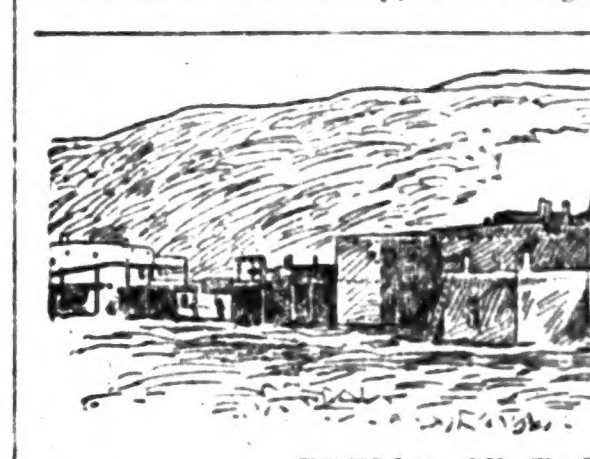

LEUQUERQUE, N. M. In this remote part of the world the longest forward step has been taken toward the cure of consumption, no matter how advanced its stage.

Not by the learned professors in Vienna or London, nor in the clinics and hospitals of New York and Philadelphia, are consumptives being saved from death.

The specialists in the sanitariums of the East claim only that their "topical treatment" will cure those who suffer from incipient consumption.

But in the United States military hospital at Fort Bayard, 200 miles from here, consumptives in the advanced stages are being cured—men who were hopeless, to whom their physicians could promise no chance of recovery. This hospital, where soldiers are being treated for the disease that year in and out scores one-tenth of the number of deaths in this country, is in charge of Major D. M. Appel, of the United States Army. Major Appel was graduated about twenty years ago from one of the best medical schools in this country—Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia. He receives his pay as a medical officer of the Army; he has no axes to grind save those that may be wielded in the aid of medical science.

PUEBLO OF TAOS, NEW MEXICO.

But, be it remembered, he has every condition in his and in his patients' favor.

Of the treatment of consumptives at Fort Bayard Dr. Appel has officially reported over his signature:

"This is strictly a military hospital, and our treatment is similar to that of all well regulated sanitariums. Our success is due to the excellent climate and the discipline enforced."

Dr. Appel said to the writer for the New York Sunday World Magazine a few days ago:

"I don't mean to say that if people come to us with lungs so far gone as to destroy their breathing power we can cure them. But I do say that we can cure what has long been regarded as hopeless, the third stage of the disease."

"I have never made that statement publicly before. I haven't been ready to make it."

"We have been working for these results since the establishment of the sanitarium three years ago, and we have been doing a great deal of original investigation in the treatment of tuberculosis. Our best hopes have been realized, and now you may inform the public that under the conditions which prevail in this territory, the third stage case has been robbed of its terrors."

General Arthur MacArthur was present when Dr. Appel made this statement, and he was glad to bear testimony to the fact that the doctor's judgment had not been based by his enthusiasm and that the results referred to had actually been accomplished in the hospital under Dr. Appel's command.

"Our success is due to the excellent climate and to the discipline enforced," Dr. Appel has reported.

Try to understand all that it means in treating tuberculosis of the lungs.

The "topical treatment" for consumption is now acknowledged to be the best.

Here, in this dry, rare atmosphere of astoundingly equable temperature, a consumptive can remain in the open air day and night all the year around.

Again, Major Appel can enforce his orders by military discipline, compelling all patients to do precisely as he directs.

In a word, Dr. Appel can say: "Take these pills or I'll put you under arrest." Physicians who are in private practice or who are inmates in a military sanitarium for consumptives cannot do that.

And Dr. Appel has laid down for his patients a set of hygienic rules that common sense itself should enforce without fear of the guard house.

To the foolish these rules may seem "ridiculous," but the truly wise will at once appreciate their force against the infection of tuberculosis. Besides, these rules can be advantageously followed by every consumptive wherever he is.

The rules are conspicuously posted throughout the recreation rooms and dormitories:

"Consumption is an infectious disease, caused by a germ which is found in the saliva, therefore the saliva must be carefully destroyed. Should it be allowed to dry, and in the form of dust float around in the air, millions of these germs would be set free and would endanger not only those who are well, but would often infect those who are sick, and thus undo the benefit derived from months of care."

"To be benefited by this excellent climate you must live outdoors as much as possible, and always when indoors keep the windows open."

"Go to bed early, take moderate exercise, when not instructed to the contrary; eat your meals slowly and chew your food thoroughly."

"Do not help yourself to food from any dish except your own plate with your fork or spoon, use those provided for that purpose. Try to refrain from coughing at meals; you can, with slight effort, do much to prevent it."

"The use of stimulants and cigarettes is forbidden. Smoking and chewing tobacco in moderation is permitted. Whiskers and mustaches must be closely trimmed."

"Patients not bedridden must observe the following rules:

"1.—They must occupy their quarters only from 7:30 p. m. to 8 a. m."

"2.—They must make their own beds and neatly arrange their personal belongings, none of which are to be left on the floor."

"3.—They must stay outdoors at least eight hours daily."

"4.—They must not visit in quarters."

"5.—They must bathe at least once a week."

Each patient is provided with a cup, consisting of a tin frame with a spring cover, in which is placed an impervious paper receptacle, and large covered spittoons with paper receptacles are scattered throughout the rooms and porches frequented by the patients. A shelf is fitted under each chair in the dining room, on which the cup is placed during meals. The cups and all other dangerous infectious materials are destroyed in crematories, two of which have now been in use for several months.

Abundant, good and nutritious food is provided and the dairy furnishes an ample supply of milk. Patients are weighed every Friday, the weights are recorded and a report of the gains and losses affords a good index of progress. Several patients have gained more than ten pounds in one week.

About three years ago Fort Stanton was given to the United States Army as a service to the nation. It was the only military hospital in the United States at that time.

Fort Stanton is located in the heart of the New Mexico desert, and is one of the most beautiful and healthful places in the world.

The climate is perfect, the air is pure, and the scenery is of the most sublime and beautiful.

THE bar of Chilton county is to be commended for its thoughtfulness for the best interests of the people. The county and people are saved great expense by the action taken at a meeting last Monday, when the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

Clanton, Ala., May 5, 1902
Be it remembered that at the above stated time and place a meeting of the Bar of Chilton county was held and the following proceedings were had, to-wit: On motion duly seconded W. A. Collier, Esq., was called to the chair and Tipton Mullins, Esq., was requested to act as secretary.

On motion the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

That whereas the Civil Docket of the Spring Term of the Circuit Court of this county has few importance cases thereon and, the farmers of this county are reported to be by reason of bad weather, required with their crops, and that the interest of the entire county financially and otherwise will be subserved thereby.

Be it therefore resolved that all Civil cases and motions pending at the Spring Term of the Circuit Court of Chilton county to convene May 12, 1902, be continued and that all necessary agreements thereto be entered into in writing by the members of this Bar.

On motion the chairman of this meeting was directed to communicate to Judge N. D. Denson the action taken at this meeting.

On motion the secretary of this meeting is instructed to furnish a copy of the proceedings of this meeting to The Banner, with request to publish.

Reveals A Great Secret.

It is often asked how such startling cures, that puzzle the best physicians, are effected by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Here's the secret. It cuts out the phlegm and germ-infected mucus, and lets the life-giving oxygen enrich and vitalize the blood. It heals the inflamed, cough-worn throat and lungs. Hard colds and stubborn coughs soon yield to Dr. King's New Discovery, the most infallible remedy for all Throat and Lung diseases. Guaranteed bottles 50c and $1.00. Trial bottles 10c at Clanton Drug Co. and F. A. Gullege, Verbena.

The Franchise in Virginia.

The Virginia Constitutional Convention, which began its work nearly a year ago, completed it early in April, and adjourned to convene again on May 22, for the purpose either of proclaiming the new organic law or of submitting it to popular vote. The chief problem was solved on April 4 by its adoption of an article dealing with the suffrage question. The Virginia plan adopts a principle that several other States have put into force, known as the "understanding clause," as a temporary expedient for a short period,—that is to say, until January 1, 1904, local registrars may put on a permanent roll of voters all applicants otherwise qualified who are able either to read or to give a "reasonable" explanation of any section of the new constitution when read to them; this in addition to taxpayers and old soldiers or their sons. That the general purpose of this clause is to give an opportunity for enrollment to white voters, while excluding illiterate negroes, is not denied by any one. Yet it does not follow, as many people assert, that there is anything radically unfair in this plan. Generally speaking, the illiterate white man possesses greater political capacity than the illiterate negro. The important part of a measure of this kind is not the temporary but the permanent method that it introduces. The permanent plan in Virginia is to be a yearly poll tax of $1.50, besides which each applicant for registration must be able to write his application clearly and without assistance in the of the registrar. Quite regardless of any favoritism that may be shown to the white voters, the Southern franchise laws render an excellent service to the negro race when they require from the negro voters either educational or property qualification, or both. The ballot is of no value whatever to the negro who is not fit to exercise it. The existence of reasonable qualifications as to literacy and property furnish excellent incentives to progress, valuable on all accounts and harmful on none. The best and wisest friends of the negro race are not worrying themselves at all about new Southern franchise laws.

No Southern State has made provisions which exclude the negro of intelligence and property. The Virginia constitution provides for an improved educational system and advanced methods of control over railroads and other corporations.—From "The Progress of the World," in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for May.

Base Ball at Clanton.

The ball game last Friday resulted in a victory for the First nine by a score of 8 to 5. The game was very exciting up to the third inning, when Pinckard was put in the box. He held the boys down with but few hits. There were many ladies out to witness the game.

All Day Singing at Maple Springs.

The all day singing on the first Sunday in May was quite a success. There was a large attendance. The singing commenced at 10 o'clock and James Grant was appointed chairman and J. E. Devaughn, secretary. N. J. Callaway, D. F. Jacks and P. R. Devaughn were appointed committee of arrangement. After prayer by Brother Cannon the song service began. W. D. Driver led 20 minutes, T. M. Pyron 20, and T. L. Robinson 20, dismissed 10 minutes; were called to order again and James Carlee, R. T. Grant and J. S. Jones occupied the floor 20 minutes each; dismissed one hour for refreshments, when dinner which the good ladies of this community and surroundings (God bless them) know just how to get up, was spread; an invitation was given to all to partake; the blessings of God were invoked and feasting began. For a short time all were partaking of creature comforts. If there was any that did not get dinner it must have been their own fault, for the fragments that were taken up would have filled many baskets. This is proof that neither the excessive rains of the early spring, nor the present drought can diminish the hospitality of our people. The remainder of the hour was spent in loitering and talking in groups in the shade around the grand old spring, luxuriating in its cooling draughts occasionally. The chairman called them to order again and the singing was conducted by Albert Littlejohn, T. L. Robinson and Frank Foshee, 20 minutes each. 10 minutes intermission. Reassembled, T. M. Pyron, R. T. Grant and J. S. Jones led 20 minutes each. The organists were Mrs. Cathy, Misses Martha Pyron and Alma Robinson. The benediction was pronounced by Rev. J. L. Hand and the crowd dispersed. Truly it was a day of days, for we had some fine music, and many old friends met that had not seen each other in quite a while; and although there was such a large concourse of people of all ages, there was perfect order, not a jar to mar the enjoyment of the occasion. P. R. DEVAUGHN, Sec.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it hangs on through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."

Wants Others to Know

"I have used DeWitt's Little Early Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to endorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it," writes Alfred Heinze, Quincy, Ill. They never gripe or distress. Sure, safe pills.

Children's Fertilizer.

That's a good name for Scott's Emulsion. Children are like young plants. Some will grow in ordinary soil. Others need fertilizers.

The nature of some children prevents them from thriving on ordinary food. Such children grow right if treated right. All they need is a little fertilizer—a little extra richness. Scott's Emulsion is the right treatment.

Fertilizers make things grow. That's just what Scott's Emulsion does. It makes children grow in flesh, grow in strength, grow rich blood, grow in mind, grow happy. That's what we make it for.

THE GREATEST.

The financial leadership of The Old Mutual Life is still supreme and undisputed. With approximately the same amount of insurance in force among the three giants, we lead our nearest competitor by over $20,000,000 in assets, while the New York Life is a faraway third. In fact, there are only two companies in the first rank of $300,000,000 or more, but for courtesy we always include both rivals. Contrast helps. Here are the 1902 reports:

What the Wires Are Telling of Peculiar Interest to Alabamians.

A flag said to be the first flag of the Confederacy has been found in Hayville and presented to the Sophie Lee Chapter, U. D. C., in Montgomery. It was the property of Mr. John Spivey whose father, Captain James Spivey, was captain of a company in the Tenth Regiment, General Wade Hampton's Legion. The flag was first unfurled before Fort Sumter. It is made of white silk with a palm-tree broidered in green silk on one side and on the other a star in yellow silk. The letters appear to be "Liberty and Union, Now and Forever, One and Indivisible." A silver tip is on the hoist and a silver cord and tassel.

Whooping Cough

A woman who has had experience with this disease, tells how to prevent any dangerous consequences from it. She says: "Our three children took whooping cough last summer, our baby boy being only three months old, and owing to our giving them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, they lost none of their plumpness and came out in much better health than other children whose parents did not use this remedy. Our eldest little girl

HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A husband's face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Deranged menses, leucorrhoea and falling of the womb result from overwork. Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

American women to-day. It cured Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Gladstone, Ky., Feb. 13, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my work without any help, and I own work. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting better than I ever was before, and sleep good and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I do not think of lying down throughout the day.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—The plant of the Chattanooga Manufacturing Company, which manufactures window shades, blinds, cross arms for porch poles, etc., located at Hoke street, was completely destroyed by fire between 6 and 7 p.m. Saturday evening. The fire started from hot coals dropping from a stove, and it spread rapidly, destroying the entire plant. The loss to the company was estimated at $50,000. It is believed that there is only $30,000 insurance on the plant.

NEWS NOTES FOR WOMEN

Rainy Day Petticoat. A new rainy day petticoat, for use with any walking suit, is black, and has a deep flounce, interlined with ermine and faced with velvet.

The Newest Undershirt. One of the latest designs in black cotton undershirts has the flounce tucked horizontally and perpendicular with machine stitching of white silk.

Ready-to-Wear Hats. Many of the latest ready to wear hats are trimmed with white, gray or black wings. These are especially well adapted for the sides of the new trimmer walking hats.

Good Ruffles Should Be Bought. A good tulle or silk ruffle which is going cheap is by no means to be despised, for when one tries to make it at home she is surprised at the endless yards of stuff it takes and the hopelessly heavy effect obtained. So those who want a ruffle should go to the sales and purchase one.

United Waists. The tucked silks, chiffon and muslin are a boon to the woman who can use her needles as the blouse is now quite fashionable without lining and is easily made from a good pattern. The sleeves are in one part, with the seam from elbow only, and the blouse is in three parts. None of the tucks is disturbed by this fashion of cut, and any yoke or insertions can be readily arranged by tucking the lace out on the pattern.

Elaborate New Sleeves. Anomies of the new sleeves they are more elaborate than ever, and in such an infinite variety of tasteful designs that it would seem impossible to work out a fashion that would not be fashionable, and all sorts of odds and ends of lace, embroidery and fancy materials can be utilized in these beautiful sleeves. But many of the newest end at, or just below, the elbow, so as to allow a fine display of the under-sleeve, that either flows in an open flounce or ends at the wrist in a band of embroidery or lace. One may have many different sets of these under-sleeves, thereby varying the finish of a few rows of good texture and faultless cut into an elaborate richness.—New York Tribune.

Perfect Taste in Choosing Clothes. It was said of the now sorrowful Eugene of France that no one ever said: "How superbly the Empress is dressed," but always: "How beautiful she is to-night." Yet no one ever wore more costly garments at the French court. The materials were of the most delicate texture, the lace was perfection, the cut and design those which only an artist could produce, but they were always subordinate to the wearer. She was never overladen with jewels—she never bought things because they were expensive—she chose what suited the occasion and set forth her own exceeding charm. To-day her feeble figure is still elegant, and her faded, sorrow-lined face still has charm, and even her widow's mournful garb is strikingly suitable and full of grace.—The Ledger Monthly.

How to Wear Rings. The growing fancy for wearing an abundance of rings during the daytime as well as for evening affairs makes special care of the gems they increase very necessary.

If you want your rings to last well, do not wear them under gloves. That is what a prominent jeweler says. But if you decide that gloves are a necessity, as probably you will, he adds, then send your rings twice a year to be overhauled.

The reason for this warning is that the constant friction of the gloves wears the tiny points that hold the stones in place, and the result is that the stones fall out unless they are constantly looked after. The wearer might not detect a loose stone, but a jeweler would at once, and by a little timely intervention might prevent the loss of a valuable gem.—Washington Star.

The Care of the Hair. At night before retiring brush the hair carefully and braid it loosely in a number of strands. Avoid wetting the hair too often to make it glossy, as the wetting has a tendency to make the hair coarse. Avoid putting the hair in kids at night to wave it. They are more harmful than even the much-abused curling iron, as the hair is twisted about the kid so tightly that it actually wears it out, and a bald spot is apt to be the result.

There is a new sort of shampoo just now much in favor with women of fashion. It is known as the perfume shampoo. It consists of sprinkling the hair with orris powder, leaving the fragrant powder on long enough to collect the dust and oil, and then giving the hair a vigorous brushing. The orris shampoo when thus taken is quite harmless and leaves the hair with just a subtle perfume about it.—Woman's House Companion.

Making Calls by Telephone. "Formal calls," said a society woman yesterday, "are becoming obsolete. I mean the running in of an afternoon, waiting for five or ten minutes, leaving your cards, rushing off to the next place on your list, and then expecting these women to do the same thing to you, and praying you may be out when they call."

I make nearly all my calls now over the 'phone. It is so much more comfortable, and saves such a lot of time and bother. I just sit down in my own home and call up Mrs. Jones in her home. I owe her a call. If she is in she comes to the 'phone, and, although I may have nothing in particular to talk to her about, we chatter away for several minutes, and before I ring off I impress upon her the fact that I am returning her call, and that she needn't expect me to come in person. She laughs and thinks it's all right, and then pays some of the calls she owes in the same way. It really does away with a great nuisance.—Philadelphia Record.

A Sunny Presence.

If you had asked her about her accomplishments she would have told you that she had none, and would have been quite sincere in her answer. She did not know how to play a piano and had never tried her hand at water colors or crayon sketching. She had never found time for embroidery. She got off the key when she tried to sing. In fact, one might run through the list of what are called accomplishments without naming one at which she was an expert. Yet this sunny faced, sweet voiced girl had one accomplishment which outweighed all those she lacked. Wherever she went gloomy faces grew cheerful. She was a happiness maker. Children stopped fretting when she came near. Old people came back from their dreams of the past and found the present sweet. Without being wise or witty or beautiful, there was an atmosphere of peace about her like the fragrance of a flower. Her smile had the comforting warmth of sunshine. The tones of her glad young voice stirred the heart like a song.—Woman's Life.

HOUSEHOLD AFFAIRS

A Summer Living Room. A summer living room should have plenty of cane or wicker furniture, lots of cushions and India cotton hangings to make it ideal. Green-stained woodwork is their best accompaniment, too.

An Odd Tea Table. An odd new tea table for the veranda of an out-of-town house, the chrysanthemum as its decorative motif. The stalks of the flower form the supports, and the flowers and leaves are delicately carved on the top.

A Handsome Porch Shade. A new porch shade is something on the order of the old time Japanese shades, only instead of being made of reeds it is made of slats twice as thick; it is colored moss, green, red or mottled, and is very effective. It is not only a porch shade, but makes a decorative accessory to the summer home. They are shown to match blinds or awnings or any other color feature of the house.

New Asparagus Dishes. Asparagus dishes are gorgeous things in color, the body of the platter in green usually, and representing long stalks of asparagus. In some of the dishes the china asparagus stalks are curved up at the sides to hold the vegetable better, and in still other dishes this curved part is separate from the platter proper, and is perforated so that the asparagus may drain on the serving dish. One dish, having the stalks in green, has a representation of red roses at the sides, and at one edge of the platter there is a standard and a pitcher to match the platter for holding the sauce.

Some Modern Conveniences. To keep pace with the modern improvements and conveniences for the home, one would need really to build a house every spring. Wanting that experience, it is a good plan to go through the new house of some friend just as it is ready to be occupied. In one thus visited recently it was noticed that in a compartment in the refrigerator which was, of course, a cold storage box, and finished in white tile that was beautifully clean and attractive, a rack to hold eggs was fitted. This had round holes large enough to hold the eggs standing on end, and thus combat the carelessness of the average cook, who will put them in the ice-box in a paper bag even, and will wonder to find them crushed against heavy jars and dishes. Another innovation in this same house does away with shade cords, those torments of the housekeeper, that have until recently been considered necessary evils. In every room in the house stands a slender rod of wood, tipped with a brass catch, to be used when the shade flies up to the top of the window. These poles are neatly finished, the metal work highly polished. Their use permits a much neater handle or finish to the shade than when the ugly little ring and knotted cord must be relied upon for control of the spring.—New York Post.

There are lawless moments which come to us all if we have no guide but desire, and the pathway where desire leads us seems suddenly closed. The frank confession of a fault emphasizes to ourselves the necessity of overcoming it, and exerts a strong force in that direction. When a man defies existing laws he creates others for himself more rigid and severe than those from which he breaks away. The person who spends his time in hunting down lies will have no leisure for the pursuit of truth. Tell the truth and let others say what they will. You are responsible for but one tongue. Men may be born with fortunes ready made, but character they have to achieve. A cruel story runs on wheels, and every hand oils the wheels as they run.

Sun and Skin. A physician has been investigating some of the effects of direct sunlight on the skin. Painting a band on his arm with India ink, he exposed the member to a scorching sun. The usual painful effects followed, except beneath the band, where the skin remained white and unaffected. He suggests that the tan which continued exposure produces upon the skin is a protective effect. If further experiments establish this interference, a further hypothesis will be rendered probable, namely, that the power acquired by the human skin in the tropics of secreting a pigment is really protective of its lower and functionally active layers. Offhand one would be apt to conclude that a black skin ought to increase the heat effects of the solar radiation. We are required to learn now whether the harm is really done by the heat rays, for conceivably it may be due to any other of the diverse sorts of vibration of which that radiation is now known to be a highly complex phenomenon.—Buenos Ayres Herald.

Deadly Panama Climate. A New Orleans man who spent five years as road master of the Panama railroad testified before the Senate Committee last month that a group of fifty-three men sent to the isthmus as engineers, superintendents and clerks, all but three had died within three months. The mortality among the men employed on the original French canal company was frightful, says the Review of Reviews. It is not pleasant to think of what might happen to a force of Americans sent down to complete the Panama canal—although doubtless the health conditions of the region could be improved. The nearer location of the Nicaragua route, furthermore, renders it much more desirable for our own traffic, especially for our Pacific coast shippers. All these things must be taken into account.

NEWSPAPERS ARE READ.

Now the Late State Senator Smith, of Pennsylvania, Was Convinced of It. George Bartos, private secretary to Collector of the Port of New York, tells a good story of how the late Senator George Handy Smith was forced to bend the knee to the power of the press. It was when that well-known legislator represented a city district in the Pennsylvania Senate at Harrisburg. There were times when Senator Smith was strenuous in opposing the influence wielded by the newspapers. He always maintained that he was invulnerable to their shafts. Despite this, few men were liked so much as the general Senator by the newspaper correspondents. There was one paper in Philadelphia which Senator Smith, in season and out of season, always belittled.

To its representative he was always fond of saying: "Your sheet is never read." There came a day of retribution, however, when the Senator was effectually silenced. "My paper never read," confided the correspondent to his associates. "Well, I'll show the Senator how wrong he is. I'll open his eyes and close his lips," and this is what was done. One night in sending off his batch of news to his paper the correspondent closed his "copy" by adding the following innocent appearing paragraph:

"Senator George Handy Smith has fifty copies of the superb Bird Book lately issued by the Legislature. He will shortly mail them to his friends." That was all, but what worry it cost the Senator! A few days after the publication of the paragraph Senator Smith was in his seat in the Senate. He called a page and requested that his mail be brought. The boy lugged in a huge basket filled with letters. The Senator gazed at it, but said nothing. A minute later the page appeared again with another basket equally full. Then the Senator began the task of opening the missives. They were all alike, and all contained requests from sturdy constituents for a copy of the much-prized Bird Book. Some one shoved a copy of the despised paragraph under the Senator's eye. He read. He was enlightened, not afterward did he have a disparaging word to say against the power of the press. Worse than all, every letter had to be answered.—Philadelphia Evening Telegraph.

WORDS OF WISDOM. Habit is a mighty force, and must either tend toward that which is good or that which is evil. It rests with us whether it shall be one of our best friends or one of our worst enemies. Patience and strength are what we need; an earnest use of what we have now; and all the time an earnest content until we come to what we ought to be. There are lawless moments which come to us all if we have no guide but desire, and the pathway where desire leads us seems suddenly closed. The frank confession of a fault emphasizes to ourselves the necessity of overcoming it, and exerts a strong force in that direction. Good Roads and Public Spirit. Mr. George Gould's offer to pay one third of the cost of putting the roads within driving distance of his home in Lakewood in good condition seems an example for wealthy men everywhere. Perhaps in no other way will the expenditure of money so directly enhance the pleasure of country life for the mass of means as in building good roads; certainly in no other way can he raise for himself a monument of more enduring usefulness to his neighbors.

The northeastern counties of New Jersey have done famous work for highway improvement; and though the heavy grades have prevented any of their roads becoming so well advertised by cycle "runs" and auto scorches as the level "Jericho pike" and "Merrick road" on Long Island, the taxpayers themselves have been well repaid for their investment by the greater joy of living and the added value of their property. But in the sandy and sparsely settled southern counties, where landmanning is even more necessary, its cost is so heavy a burden upon farming communities that it is not strange that they hesitate to assume it. It is to be hoped that Mr. Gould's offer will be accepted and that the success of the experiment will encourage other country dwellers to follow his example.—New York World.

GOOD ROADS

In the South.

The task of arousing interest in good roads work is going on apace in the South. The Illinois Central made an effective campaign some months ago, and now the Southern is pushing on the work. It is costing the railroads a great deal of money, but the expense is lightened somewhat by the fact that it will increase their business many fold to secure good roads for the bringing of freight to their stations. John Stuart Mill, over half a century ago, observed in his "Political Economy" that good roads had the same effect upon agricultural communities as an addition to the fertility of the lands they cultivated, since the reduced cost of transportation might be of equal value to the larger production.

The lesson of good roads is a much needed one in the South. Southern people, with their open, generous natures, are prone to waste and extravagance, and no form of waste has cost them more than bad roads. A system of good turnpikes or even of the modern well drained and well kept dirt road, constructed according to scientific engineering principles, would be worth more than an extra barrel of corn or a fraction of a bale of cotton to the acre. With easy and cheap transportation, every pound of marketable value would be gathered and sold and not left to rot in the fields, as is too often the case now. Besides this, country life would be made more attractive and the value of real estate would advance.

The railroads are doing a great work both for themselves and the country through which they send these good road trains. If they got no other return than the advertising it gives them they would be well paid, but when in addition they take steps that will insure the building up of their traffic year by year, their rewards become large enough to justify heavy outlays.—Courier-Journal.

A Suggestion.

I am nearly seventy-nine years old, have been a practicing physician and surgeon nearly fifty-eight years, and have traveled professionally in my practice more than the average man in Kentucky, writes Dr. James D. Foster, of London, Ky., in the New York Tribune. In order to promote the construction of good roads in our country I will make a suggestion, which, in my opinion, would achieve the desired end. I don't know what the cost of such a road would be, but I believe the roads thus constructed would wear out two generations of people.

Take pine or oak blocks, 4x6x8 inches, square them, and set them on a good solid roadbed, after preparing them thus: Have a large steam generator and steam the blocks for two hours; then boil them in strong salt water for two hours. They would never rot in a hundred years, would be impervious to water and would bear more travel over them than any road of modern construction.

Streets and roads thus constructed would be sterilized; no cholera, typhoid fever or contagious diseases would be found in towns thus sterilized. Road ties treated thus would last forty years and bear the heaviest tonnage. If a man would take two bushels of salt, boil it and sprinkle the single road of his house, it would not have to be shingled for fifty years. Two bushels of salt in twenty gallons of water for house roofs would be a specific, and these tops or roofs would not catch fire from sparks so easily as they do now under the old system. Submit my views to road constructors and see what they think of them.

THE GOOD-NATURED MAN.

Here's to the man who has nothing to do, He chatters and chatters the busy day through. He bothers your work and he hinders your nap, And if you get angry he cares not a rap.

He likes to come "bundled in a casual way, With nothing to do and nothing to say. He tells you the story you don't want to hear, He tells you the news that falls flat on your ear."

Far more that is precious has ruthlessly fled, And the family is waiting at home to be fed. You wish him all joy that a lifetime can give, But you wish that he wouldn't make merry with you.

And he goes on his way with a look of regret, When your work has been spoiled and your plans are upset. And because you're unmoved by his humorous prank, He says it's a pity you're such a crank.

Mosquitoes in Formosa.

The Japanese soldiers in Formosa have discovered that the bite of the mosquitoes in that island inoculated them with malaria. The troops who occupied Formosa were severely afflicted with malaria every summer, and it was thought, in view of the new theory of fever in Europe and America, that the mosquito was the active agent in disseminating the disease germs. An experiment was made last summer to arrive at some definite conclusion. The Kiang regiment was supplied with appliances that completely protected the men from mosquito bites. None of these soldiers had malaria during the summer. The other troops on the island, however, were afflicted with malarial disease, as usual. These had no protection from the bites of the insects. The Government will now furnish all of the Formosa troops with means of protection, and the result will be watched with great interest this summer.

Mystified Scientists.

At the last meeting of the Linnean Society Professor G. B. Howes exhibited a marine organism received from Dr. Gilbert, of South Africa. It is structureless and transparent. After having submitted the object to a dozen trained experts, he put it forward in the hope of obtaining a clue to its significance and zoological position. In commenting upon this exhibit, the President said, he believed the specimen was probably the first in the history of the society upon which an object had been laid upon the table to which no one could give a name.—London Nature.

Five years ago a disease the doctors called dyspepsia took such hold of me that I could scarcely eat. I wrote Geo. S. Marsh, well-known attorney of Nocona, Tex. Maplesville.

On the 11th, at the home of Mr. J. W. Worthy. Mr. T. N. Hicks and Miss Samantha Murphy were most happily and impressively united in the holy bonds of matrimony by Justice B. O. Glover. His friend, H. Hill, acting officially as best holder of our popular Justice while the ceremony was being performed. We believe it is not generally known that we are taxed to support this functionary to a justice while performing a marriage ceremony. Some are so parsimonious as to complain of this officer.

Summer has at last come to stay. Our noble farmers are sitting in full discharge of their duty, but would be thankful for rain. There is prospect for good peach and apple crops; plums are not so plentiful.

Mrs. Mag. Suttles of Centerville has been guest of Mrs. N. A. Goodwin.

We regret to state that Miss Watkins has been on the sick list from severe cold. This last complaint has most distressingly but not seriously prevailed here lately.

Our thrifty housekeepers are enjoying all early vegetables; weather has been too dry for plentiful strawberries.

Miss Minnie Blalock of Bidenville has been to see the old folks here.

Mr. W. C. Dyer of Stanton has been here.

Mrs. Smithman of Brierfield has visited relations here.

Our popular young friend, M. Nix, has gone into business in Bell Sumpter.

Esq. J. Savage is here on legal business.

Mrs. Elzado Taylor of Coopers is visiting relations here, as is also Baily Green of Pitcher.

Miss Mary Foshee from near Lily is with her brother, R. D. Martin.

Miss Fannie Parnell has lately visited relations of Billingsley.

Our T. T. Lumber Co. is being rapidly and very substantially nearing completion.

T. U. Crumpton, our progressive and patriotic citizen, is adding much to the appearance of our town by having his very comfortable tenant houses painted.

We pray against a spirit of arrogance ever having the fable of the frog and ox in mind, and regret to state that city ways are surely but gradually growing on us; our disorderly element on the streets require our laws to be called into force. The detective confidence game has been played on our most exemplary citizen, Wheeler Foshee, when a most earnest man begged the use of a fine gun a few hours to do very important detective work. On going a little he sold the gun for $20.00 cash and took leg bail. Mr. Foshee was fortunate to be refunded for his gun. SUBSCRIBER.

The prosecuting attorney of Natrona county, Wyo., has entered suit against 175 citizens of the town of Casper for the recovery of damages aggregating $100,000 which he claims to have suffered to his professional reputation through the circulation and signature by them of a petition asking him to employ an assistant in a murder trial.

President Angus M. Cannon in a discourse at the Mormon Tabernacle in Salt Lake City, Utah, severely reproved the young people who marry Gentiles. "Look around you," he said, "and you will see that many of our girls have married outside of the faith and many of our young men have married women who are not of this faith. They have forgotten the obligations they are under."

Sir Philip Burne-Jones, the English artist, says every city has its own distinctive odor. The smell of London is particularly pungent and rather unpleasant, due possibly to the smoke. The odor of Paris is entirely different, rather pleasant. The atmosphere of Venice has a peculiar flavor of the sea. The artist's sensitive olfactory found the odor of New York not at all unpleasant. He says it approximates a perfume.

London mothers have in some way acquired the notion that the air of the underground tunnels is good for all manner of infantile diseases, including croup, whooping cough, wind colic and teething, and some of them ride to and fro with their little charges day by day for no other reason than to submit them to its supposed curative influences. The theory, of course, is a pure illusion, and English medical men advance various explanations of its origin, none of them over-plausible.

The New York Times observes that there is to be said in favor of giving, as against leaving, what Bacon said long ago: "Adjourn not thy benefactions till death; for he who does so is liberal rather of another's than his own." To charge a great estate with the postponed charities of its accumulator is to put off his public duties to be done at the expense of his successors. His successors may plausibly ask why they should be expected to pay this expense. The tendency that has so manifestly grown stronger within the last generation in this country for men of wealth to give rather than to leave, is an unalloyed good for all persons and interests concerned.

Eminent physicians continue to send out warnings against the sin of gluttony, but with little effect on the community. The growth of diseases directly attributable to over-eating increases, and the death rate gives solemn warnings that seem to be unheeded. The case is all the worse because most men who are heavy eaters take no exercise and thus double the danger. An eminent physician has just given an argument against business men eating three hearty meals a day without taking any exercise. He says that a man who works in the open air can eat as much as he feels like, but that the man of sedentary habits who partakes of meat three times a day is simply laying up trouble for himself and making it necessary for insurance companies to change the rates.

The wonders of chemistry applied to the production of "fake" foods are easily explained to the public, yet they are in some cases unbelievable. It is difficult to understand, for instance, how the perfect imitations of fruit preserves which are now on the market can be produced from wholly foreign materials. It would seem, too, to the ordinary understanding, that the intricate chemical methods of imitation would cost more than the genuine process. But there is always, of course, some margin of advantage to the manufacturer in the making of an imitation. The difference of a small fraction of a cent in the cost of a pound of the commodity at wholesale amounts perhaps to a substantial dividend to the stockholders of a big packing, preserving or dispensing corporation. The public has at least the assurance that if chemistry can produce these imitations so that the ordinary palate or eye cannot detect their nature, chemistry in turn can reveal the fraud and therefore punish it. If the law is properly framed and energetically enforced, comments the Washington Star.

ARSON AND SUICIDE

Wealthy Pennsylvanian Fires Valuable Hotel

AND THEN HANGS HIMSELF IN JAIL

Was not Suspected of Crime. Accidentally Captured Running Away.

Altoona, Pa.—Monday morning the Hotel St. Charles one of the prominent hostilities of the West-side, was discovered to be ablaze as the result of an incendiary's work. Simultaneously John Osman a prominent citizen and a former owner of the hotel was caught by the police fleeing from the vicinity.

"Please let me go," were Osman's first words to the policemen who captured him. Then he added, "That hotel has been enough trouble to me." Though the officers said not a word to him regarding complicity or connection with the incendiary blaze, the prisoner sobbed out to Chief of Police Tillard: "Don't blame too much. Help me if you can. The hotel was a terrible expense to me."

At 6:30 o'clock in the evening Osman, who had previously been closely guarded, nosed the handcuffs in his pockets, and, tying them to the top bars of his cell, tied them round his neck. With a kick of his foot he sent the support flying from under his feet in a last desperate effort to escape the penitentiary. Day Warden Dowden found him dead five minutes later.

The suicide of Osman throws a weird side light on the death of Frank Kronsider, a supposed suicide, who was found with his brains blown out by a revolver bullet last June on the hotel premises. Kronsider was an applicant for license in the hotel, but his application was held pending investigation of his character. Kronsider was found dead with a bullet in his brain and a revolver lying almost an impossible distance from him. The coroner's jury decided that he had committed suicide, but murder was the generally accepted theory. Kronsider was supposed to have a large sum of ready cash, aggregating $2,000, but this was never found by the coroner, though a thorough search was made for the hidden treasure. Kronsider and Osman lived together at the hotel.

Osman leased the hotel some years ago for the sum of $85 monthly. When the place was refused a license it degenerated into a boarding house, the proprietor paying him only $30 monthly. A desire to rid himself of the extra expense is supposed to have been the cause of his mad act. The fire was comparatively slight. Though a general alarm was sounded the blaze was confined to the inner walls and subdued with small loss. The property loss on the building will not reach more than $5,000.

Osman was one of the best known Germans in the city. He is connected with some of the prominent families of the town and leaves a wife and several children. His wealth is estimated to reach into the hundreds of thousands.

A PECULIAR CASE.

Buffalo, N. Y. The case of Gabriel Bishop, a young student, charged with manslaughter, was called for trial in the Erie County Supreme Court. Young Bishop is charged with causing the death of a young man named Austin on the night of July 8, 1899, at a camp on Lake Cuba. It is alleged that Bishop caused a stick of dynamite to be exploded near the camp, with the result that Austin was killed. While the evidence against Bishop was purely circumstantial, the first trial resulted in finding him guilty of manslaughter. The decision was reversed on appeal and a new trial ordered. Bishop is the son of one of the most prominent and wealthy families in Western New York. He is at present attending the University of Michigan, where he went after being denied admission to Cornell University while the present charges are hanging over him.

STABBED IN THE BACK.

Tullahoma, Tenn., May 19.—Late yesterday afternoon James Dickerson and Elcaney Campbell engaged in a difficulty which resulted in Dickerson being dangerously wounded by a knife in the hands of Campbell. Dickerson was stabbed twice in the back, and one arm was terribly slashed. The trouble arose over a dispute concerning some business matter. Campbell gave himself up to the officers.

ANOTHER MILESTONE

St. Petersburg.—The czar's 34th birthday was celebrated throughout the empire Sunday. Te Deums were sung in all the churches; brilliant court reception was held at the Zarskoi-Selo palace, near St. Petersburg, and every city, town and hamlet was ablaze with white, blue and red by day and with illuminations at night.

Despite these outward manifestations of loyalty, however, there is no disguising the state of unrest among the czar's subjects, and especially among the working people of Central Russia. The alarming progress of the revolutionary agitation forms the main subject of conversation of all classes, especially manufacturers and commercial men. Each day brings fresh reports to the capital of strikes and disorders. First, it is an outbreak of students at Kieff, and the fresh disorders in the Poltava and Kharkoff provinces, where, according to official reports, not less than 20,000 peasants are participating in riots and in the pillage and destruction of estates. It is well known that the czar abandoned his customary Easter visit to Moscow because of the popular unrest in that city.

A GOOD CUSTOMER.

Canada continues to increase her purchases from the United States' despite the tariff advantages accorded Great Britain in the fiscal system of that country. Our total exports to British North America increased from $77,894,138 in the same period of 1901 to $80,999,004 in the corresponding months of the current year. To Mexico the increase during the same period compared with that of last year was but two million dollars and to the West Indies one million dollars, while the Central American States showed a decrease of about 300,000 and South America about $4,000,000 in their purchases from the United States during the nine months of the present fiscal year as compared with the same period of the preceding year.

The continued growth in our commerce with Canada is the most remarkable when it is remembered that ever since April, 1897, the United Kingdom has enjoyed tariff advantages in the Canadian market, the discrimination in her favor having ranged from 12-1/2 per cent in that year to 33-1/3 per cent from and after July 1, 1900. Yet the exports from the United States to British North America have increased year by year.

Some of the leading items exported in the period mentioned are: Agricultural implements, $2,075,609; corn, $1,468,390; wheat, $3,609,577; coal, $5,473,177; cotton, $4,769,202; fruits and nuts, $1,345,230; tobacco, $921,087; lumber, $1,178,139. Total exports, $999,800.04.

A MODERN SAMSON.

Danville, Ky.—Martin Jones, assistant superintendent of the Kentucky Institution for the Deaf, Sunday morning killed a vicious and infuriated bull, with a blow from his good right arm. Mr. Jones had gone into the field to remove a small calf. The bull, apparently taking the position that Jones meant to do the youngling harm, made an effort to save it, and dashed across the field with hoisted tail and lowered head in pursuit of the supposed enemy. When the bull came near, Jones made ready, and at the point when the infuriated beast was about to throw him into space with his horns, he struck him with his fist just below the right eye and the bull fell to the ground dead. Jones is a man of small stature, but well developed muscles. The bull weighed 1400 pounds, and was about three years old.

BEGINNING OF THE END.

Fort de France, May 19.—Ashes from Mount Pelee ceased falling Saturday night, by which time the city and shipping in the roadstead were covered to a considerable depth. A repetition of the shower was threatened Sunday morning, when the crater was covered by a huge volume of smoke. The general panicky feeling which prevailed here has subsided. The ashes have been raining down for several days, but not so hot as those at St. Pierre.

Paris, France.—The Minister of Colonies has received the following dispatch from Acting Governor L'Huerre, of Martinique: Captain Gallaher, delegate to the President of the United States, is expected aboard the Dixie today. The Fontabellia is also expected. Their cars will be exempted from customs port dues.

BLOWN TO ETERNITY.

Most Terrible Mine Fatality In Tennessee.

200 LIVES LOST IN AN EXPLOSION.

Only One Escaped Alive and He Was Mortally Wounded.

Coal Creek, Tenn.—The worst disaster in the history of Tennessee mining occurred at 7:30 o'clock Monday morning when between 175 and 225 men and boys met instant death at the Fraterville coal mine, two miles west of town as the result of a gas explosion.

Out of the large number of men and boys who went to work, developments show that only one is alive and he is so badly injured that he cannot live. This man was William Morgan, an aged Englishman who was a roadman in the mine and was blown out of the entrance by the force of the explosion.

One hundred and seventy miners were checked in for work by the mine boss. In addition to these there were boys who acted as helpers, drivers, roadmen and others to the number of perhaps fifty.

Fraterville mine is the oldest in the Coal Creek district, having been opened in 1870. It is fully three miles from the mine's opening to the point where the men were at work. They had not been at work long before the terrible explosion occurred. There was a fearful roar and then flames shot from the entrance and the air shaft.

News of the disaster spread like wild fire, but as soon as order could be brought out of chaos two searching parties started in, one at the main entrance, the other at Thistle mine, which adjoins but in which no men were at work. The Thistle party was unable to make any headway, as the gas stifled the workers.

WORKED LIKE DEMONS.

The Fraterville party went fully two miles under the earth until a heavy fall of slate was encountered. At this barrier men worked like demons, hoping against hope that those beyond might be safe.

The scenes at the mouth of the mine while the workers were within were beyond description. Business was suspended in Coal Creek and all its mines as soon as the news of the disaster became known, and men, women and children gathered around the Fraterville entrance. Women whose husbands and sons were within were wild with grief.

All day long the rescuers worked and struggled at the barrier and not until 5 o'clock did they force an entrance through it. Up to that hour only five dead bodies had been recovered, and hope was still high that those inside might be safe. The hopes of the living were doomed, however, for once the rescuers could enter and proceed they walked along one continuous tomb of death.

The bodies were not disfigured beyond identification, and each corpse as it was borne from the mouth of the gigantic tomb, was soon surrounded by eager crowds of relatives of men who were entombed. The mine was not on fire except in remote portions.

The Fraterville mine is owned by the Coal Creek Coal Company, of which Maj. E. J. Mamp is president. He was in Cincinnati, but immediately hurried to the scene of the disaster.

In 1901, after inspecting the Fraterville mine, State Commissioner of Labor, R. A. Shifflett, reported that the ventilation was not up to requirements, that the furnace was inadequate to ventilate the mine, and that airways were choked in places. He found that 164 were at work on the day of his visit, requiring by statute 15,200 cubic feet of air per minute. The volume of air entering the mine, he says, was only 8,000 cubic feet per minute.

MINE INSPECTOR TALKS.

Mine Inspector Shifflett, who was at Nashville when the news of the disaster reached him, is on his way to Coal Creek.

BIG BOND ISSUE.

New York, N. Y.—Stockholders of the United States Steel Corporation met Monday at the offices of the company in Hoboken and ratified the plan of the directors for the issue of $50,000,000 bonds. According to the plans heretofore made public the principal for the new bonds will be payable in sixty years, and redeemable at the pleasure of the corporation at the expiration of ten years, and will bear 4 per cent interest. The issue is to be offered to preferred stockholders first, payable $200,000,000 in preferred stock and $50,000,000 in cash.

—Bessemer is laying a new sewer system.

"It is awful," he said, when told of the disaster. "I know personally nearly every man who worked in that mine. I am surprised that the accident occurred. The company has recently installed a big sixteen foot fan for keeping the mine ventilated and this was considered amply sufficient for the purpose. My last inspection was made in January, 1902. The defects I had pointed out in a previous inspection had practically been remedied. Better ventilation was urged in that report and the company replied by putting in the big fan."

The Knoxville Journal and Tribune opened a relief fund for families of the miners. The fund is headed by a subscription from the Coal Creek Mining and Manufacturing Company of $5,000. This company's headquarters are in New York. It owns all the property of the Coal Creek district, and interested in it are E. R. Chapman, C. M. McGhee, Mr. Schley and other New Yorkers, and E. J. Sanford and E. T. Sanford of Knoxville. In addition to this $500 has been raised locally.

The Junior Order United American Mechanics will send $1,000 to Coal Creek, twenty members of their order having met death in the mine.

CRAZED BY LOVE.

Would-be Husband Wipes Out an Entire Family.

St. Augustine, Fla.—Six corpses scarcely yet cold and but one living witness, a helpless infant, to the awful tragedy, is what met the horrified eyes of Mr. John Kellar as he stepped into the house of William Wilkerson Monday morning near Hastings, eighteen miles from this city.

The dead are: William Wilkerson, aged 52; Mrs. Wilkerson, his wife; Miss Abitha McCullough, aged 13; Miss Wilkerson, sister of William Wilkerson; one child, William Austin, the murderer and suicide, aged 25.

Crazed by his infatuation for little Abitha McCullough, a lovely girl of a little over 13, Austin killed the entire family because his advances were refused and his desire to wed the girl was opposed. The tragedy occurred at a lonely farm house at 3 o'clock in the morning. Austin went to the house on Friday night and proposed marriage. He was rejected and vowing he would yet marry her, hurried to this city and procured on Saturday a marriage license.

He went to church on Sunday night and told everyone he met that he was to be married that night.

About 3 o'clock in the morning several pistol shots were heard but no one went to investigate until next morning, when Wilkerson failed to turn up at a neighbor's house, where he was engaged in harvesting a crop of potatoes. Mr. Kellar, a farm hand, was sent to Wilkerson's house and he found the whole family murdered, and Austin with a bullet hole in his breast and revolver clutched in his hand.

Word of the tragedy was brought to this city this morning and Sheriff Perry and the coroner have gone to the scene of the tragedy.

A walling infant who had been unharmed was found in the bed beside its mother.

DIED TO SAVE HER BABY.

Pittsburg Mother Horribly Mangled Under a Street Car.

Pittsburg, Pa.—To save the life of her child, Mrs. Mary C. Hafner, of Troy Hill, went to her death Sunday evening. The little one started to creep across Lowrie street after his mother, who was on her way to a store. A car was thundering down Lowrie street. The baby hesitated on the edge of the tracks. The mother perceived his danger and hurried back to rescue him but before she reached the baby's side the car struck her, rolled her under the fender and ground out her life.

And the baby stood within three inches of the car in open-eyed wonder as to the cause of his mother's disappearance. The dead woman's husband, Andrew Hafner, is a well-to-do butcher, on Lowrie street.

FIVE KILLED, SIX INJURED

Freight Train Result of a Collision on Burlington Line

Lincoln, Neb.—Five men were killed and six others injured as a result of a collision between a freight train and a passenger train on the Burlington line today. The dead are: William Ray, 35, of Springfield, Mo.; M. Tuttle, 40, of Nebraska; John Cox, 30, of Lincoln; Lee Lockheart, 30, of Lincoln; O. F. Phillips, 30, of Lincoln; and an unknown man. The injured are: M. D. Cliven, 30, of Lincoln; M. D. Cliven, 30, of Lincoln; M. D. Cliven, 30, of Lincoln; M. D. Cliven, 30, of Lincoln; M. D. Cliven, 30, of Lincoln; M. D. Cliven, 30, of Lincoln.

The collision occurred on the east of Hyannis between the freight and St. Louis, five miles east of Hyannis. The freight train was carrying an extra stock train bound west, with twenty-five cars and a locomotive. There is nothing to indicate who was responsible for the collision, which was moving in opposite directions on the same track.

MILITIA GUARDS TESTIMONY

Louisiana Sheriff Assisted in Killing Off the Mob

Rayville, La.—The Orleans Parish Guards arrived on a special train at the Vicksburg at 10 o'clock today and escorted the sheriff and his two prisoners, Albert Williams and George Newton to Monroe, La. It is not settled that the mob will not make another effort to kill Albert Williams, and while they have their hand in they might kill George Newton to a nub also.

George Newton is the negro who made his escape until recently and he was captured as the result of the vigilance of Sheriff W. N. Trolley. He has confessed being implicated in the murder of the Indian doctor here about two years ago, and for which crime two other negroes, Sam Parker and Ben McSwain, were legally hanged and Pierce Parer sent to the penitentiary for life. It seems that Albert Williams, from the best evidence that can be obtained, has his statement corroborated that he shot George Newton after Grant had fired on him, and he claimed that he acted in self defense.

NINE ANARCHISTS ARRESTED

Plot to Assassinate the New King of Spain Is Charged

Madrid, Spain.—An anarchist plot against King Alfonso has been discovered and six arrests, including that of Gabriel Lopez, an employee of an insurance company, have been made. Dynamite cartridges were found on the person where Lopez was arrested. Lopez says he received a package of cartridges from another anarchist and instructions to throw them at the moment of the passing of the royal carriage in yesterday's procession.

The discovery of the plot against the king is confirmed by the newspapers here. It is now said that nine dynamite cartridges were secured. Further arrests have been made and the prisoners include medical students, a printer, a carpenter and a mason. The captured cartridges are being analyzed by military authorities.

BLOODY BATTLE EXPECTED

Jim Wright and His Outlaws Surrounded by posse

Bristol, Tenn.—Sheriff Broderick of Scott, Va., has information that Jim Wright and his alleged band of outlaws are surrounded by a posse of citizens in the mountains of Hancock county, Tenn., and a bloody battle is anticipated.

The posse crossed the firing line last night and it is said a member of the pursuing party was wounded. John Temple, one of Wright's party, who was shot a week ago, was thought to have been killed. He has been located at the home of his mother.

McGregor, Iowa.—Three brick buildings were wrecked by a terrific electrical storm that swept over McGregor late last night and accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. Lightning struck the three buildings occupied by Presses, an ely store, the Metropolitan and a billiard hall and all collapsed. Four men were hurt but not severely. Sewers were washed out by the flood.

Had L

Lieutenant Harris, of East

If there are any embryos of revolutionists who are in search of a cause, they are looking for a cause in the Arctic regions. The Arctic regions are of war, in the line of blood and fire, and for them to call on Frank Harris, lieutenant of the Navy, is passing the passing time. Lieutenant Harris has been in the Arctic regions for a long time. He has had a long and hard life and he is now in the Arctic regions. He is the only man who has been in the Arctic regions. He is the only man who has been in the Arctic regions. He is the only man who has been in the Arctic regions.

On this ship he took part with Mexico. When peace was made Harris resigned from the navy and met young Louis. His brother, who was about a prospecting tour to the gold fields had been discovered, a man were supposed to make a night. They went to V and began to hunt and open small trading depot at which Indian tribes of the neighborhood began to purchase their supplies for life. It seems that Albert Williams, from the best evidence that can be obtained, has his statement corroborated that he shot George Newton after Grant had fired on him, and he claimed that he acted in self defense.

He started out one day and to surprise the bravest of which they had chosen as a life came upon them very much than he expected to and time to step behind a tree and opened fire. He waited a moment and his first shot brought a chief enemy with a broken shoulder; not a very serious wound, but one which changed his position from a kneeling one, and made him a good shot that laid out enemies and left the odds to the leader of the opposition, the 520 parallel and Harris. The boat in which the posse ashore touched the beach and ran as fast as he could, the rest and ascended a slight which he planted an 18-star, the name of Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States.

Washington Line

Five men were injured, others injured in a collision on the Washington line today. William Ray, Tenn., W. W. Pitts, El Dorado, Mo., M. Tittle, Whitman, John Cox, Strong City, Kan., were seriously injured; Phillips, engineer, Strong City, Kan., slightly injured. An unknown man, E. E. McDonnell, engineer, was injured. All of these, save one, were riding in the smoking car. This car was overturned and all of the passengers were removed to safety.

A collision occurred a mile between the Fort Leavenworth, east bound, and a freight train bound west, south of Leavenworth, Kan., today. The freight train was carrying a load of cattle, and the collision resulted in the death of the cattle and the injury to the train.

THAT GUARDS PRISONER

Assisted in Escape
Of the Mob

The Ouchita county sheriff today informed the sheriff and his two deputies, Albert Williams and Newton to Monroe, La., that the mob will make another effort to lynch Williams and while they are in the neighborhood they might take Newton to a lynch also.

Newton is the negro who was captured until recently, and was captured as the result of the vigilance of Sheriff W. N. Tray. He has confessed being implicated in the murder of the old doctor here about two years ago, and for which crime two others, Sam Parker and Belle Cain, were legally hanged and Parker sent to the penitentiary. It seems that Albert Williams, from the best evidence that can be obtained, has his state corroborated that he shot Grant after Grant had fired on him and he claimed that he acted in defense.

ANARCHISTS ARRESTED

to Assassinate the New King of Spain Is Charged.

Madrid, Spain.—An anarchist against King Alfonso has been arrested and six arrests, including that of Gabriel Lopez, an employee of an insurance company, have been made. Dynamite cartridges were found on the premises of Lopez, who was arrested. Lopez received a package of cartridges from another anarchist with instructions to throw them at the king during the passing of the royal flag in yesterday's procession. The discovery of the plot against the king is confirmed by the news that Lopez is now said to be a dynamite cartridges were seized. Further arrests have been made and the prisoners include a local student, a printer, a cooper and a mason. The captured cartridges are being analyzed by military authorities.

BODY BATTLE EXPECTED

Wright and His Outlaws Surrounded by a posse.

Cost, Tenn.—Sheriff Brodwell of Scott Va., has information that Jim Wright and his alleged associates are surrounded by a posse of citizens in the mountainous Hancock county, Tenn., and that a body battle is anticipated.

The posse crossed the firing line tonight and it is said a member of the pursuing party was wounded. John Tompkins, one of Wright's party, who was shot a week ago and was thought to have been killed, has been located at the home of his mother.

McGregor, Iowa.—Three brick buildings were wrecked by a terrific electrical storm that swept over McGregor late last night accompanied by a heavy downpour of rain. Lightning struck the three buildings occupied by Frozes jewelry store, the Metropolitan saloon and a billiard hall and all collapsed. Four men were hurt but not seriously. Sewers were washed out by the flood.

Had Lively Career

Lieutenant Harris, of Boston, the Hero of Many Exciting Adventures.

If there are any embryo romantic novelists who are in search of a plot or who are looking for a character to embody into a thrilling romance of the wild plains and wild Indians, or of the Arctic regions, or of war or travel in the tropics, or of most anything in the line of blood curdling adventure, or hair breadth escape, it might be well for them to call on Frank Lafayette Harris, lieutenant U. S. N., retired, who is passing the closing days of a very lively career in the city of Boston.

Lieut. Harris has done most everything that a man can do in an ordinary life and live to talk about it to his own grandchildren, and other people's grandchildren at the age of 80 years. He has had adventures from "Greenland" by mountains to India's coral lands, and at all the intervening points from the 80th parallel of north latitude to Cape Horn and around about the world several times over.

He is the only surviving member of the Hayes Arctic expedition, which created a sensation in the early '90s by penetrating farthest north and by discovering an open polar sea. He is a veteran of the Mexican war, the civil war and an Indian war on the plains. He is an ex-forty-niner, a retired lieutenant of the navy of the early days, and has been round the world many times. He has fought a duel single-handed with three fierce Indians and killed them all. He has been recommended for bravery at Malvern Hill, and smoked his first cigar with Gen. McPherson in the latter's tent after that memorable engagement.

Stevenson would have found in him a tale as absorbing as "Treasure Island" and a character more striking than any of those that speak from the pages of romance.

Lieut. Harris made his first voyage in the U. S. S. St. Louis round the world, and was stationed in the Pacific squadron, of which at that time the frigate Constitution was the flagship.

On this ship he took part in the war with Mexico. When peace was declared Harris resigned from the navy, went west and met young Louis Dent and his brother, who were about to start on a prospecting tour to the west, where gold had been discovered, and where men were supposed to make fortunes in a night. They went to Fort River and began to hunt and opened up a small trading depot at which all the Indian tribes of the neighborhood soon began to purchase their supplies.

Here Harris had a dispute with a powerful Indian chief, Trankilena, and gave him a sound thrashing. The news spread in all directions and it was soon rumored that the Indian and two of his comrades were going to murder Harris, the very first chance they got. Harris was informed and armed himself.

He started out one day single-handed to surprise the braves in a place which they had chosen as an ambush. He came upon them very much sooner than he expected to and had barely time to step behind a tree when they opened fire. He awaited his chance, and on his first shot brought down his chief enemy with a broken leg.

The three kept up the battle for over an hour, and Harris was hit in the shoulder; not a very serious, but a painful wound, that bled profusely. He changed his position from a standing one kneeling one, and managed to get in a good shot that laid out one of his enemies and left the odds two to one, with the leader of the opposition badly hurt and Harris, as the lieutenant, in the boat in which the party came ashore touched the beach, leaped out and ran as fast as he could ahead of the rest and ascended a slight hill upon which he planted an 18-starred flag "in the name of Abraham Lincoln, the President of the United States, and of the union."

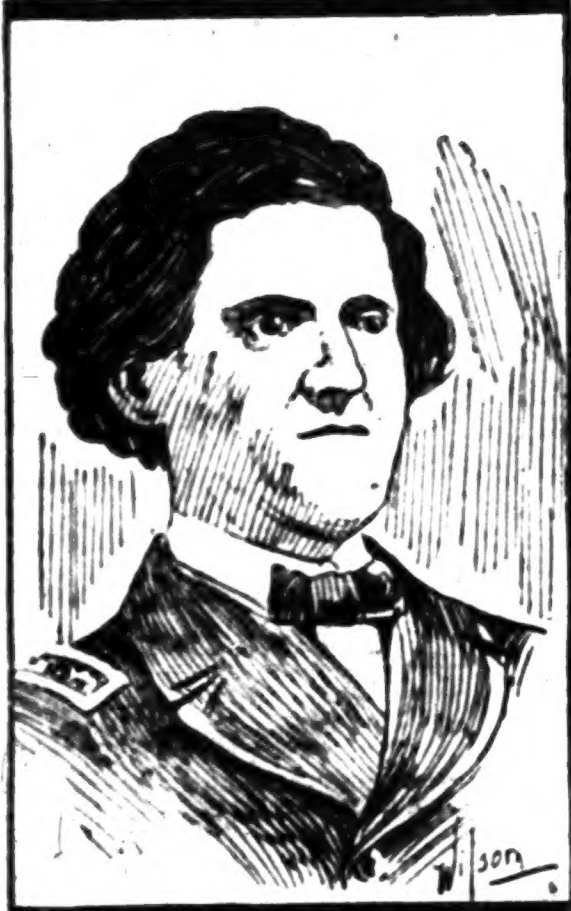

The party had been absent since the preceding July, and none of them knew two trees and killed him instantly. He then slipped round behind the wounded chief and finished him with a single shot. His return to the post was celebrated in a very glorious manner, and the Indians, all of whom hated Trankilena very much, joined in the hilarity with great zest, and during the remainder of their stay Harris was regarded as quite a hero.

The most important part of his career, however, Lieut. Harris considers to have been his trip to the Arctic regions with Hayes in 1890-91.

On March 4, 1891, they reached their farthest point at Cape Lieber, near Halifax two consuls, one for the north and another for the south.

There was some discussion upon the arrival at Halifax as to whether the Lieutenant Harris.

(In his youth.)

party should return to Boston or go to New York, but Hayes decided, since the expedition left from Boston, that it was no more than proper that it should return there, and did so.

Upon arrival Lieut. Harris at once tried to enlist in the navy, but was unable to do so, and went as a noncommissioned officer in one of the Massachusetts regiments and served with great distinction. He was retired as a second lieutenant, and is, therefore, entitled to double honors from both the army and the navy.

Jerry's Little Game.

The United States postoffice department has a violent prejudice against double-jointed names for towns. This prejudice has worked harm to a deserving little town in California which had a Spanish name for nearly a century. This is Corte Madera, in Marin county. The Corte Maderans having no postoffice had to go several miles to get their mail. They put the requisite machinery at work to have the place declared a postoffice, but the most enterprising man in the town was one Jerry Adams, the keeper of the crossroads saloon. To the Washington authorities he represented that "Corte Madera" was too long a name. To this the postoffice authorities lent a willing ear, and the subtle Jerry suggested to them that a more euphonious and convenient name was "Adams." They at once agreed. Now the Corte Maderans have their postoffice, but they have lost their beautiful Spanish name, and their town is named after the keeper of the local saloon.

Man's Great Joke.

One great joke that man has on woman all the time is the way she runs her meetings. Man goes out to a ward association and finds out that if a person can shout loud enough he can always rise to a point or order and thus interrupt the proceedings. After that, man knows all about it without needing to acquire the unimportant information that Cushing's manual didn't contain, but a book of rules. He can then sit and read the paper and chuckle over Sorsolis and other affairs until his wife breaks into violent sobs. No self-respecting man ever condescends to thus joke without referring to her parties. This is a delicate and subtle form of irony that shows not only that woman is man's inferior, but also that woman is much better off in the home circle, where she is not exposed to insults as she would be if she went out to vote.—New York Times.

Stamps Sent from All Lands.

In the postoffice department there is a book that is always kept under lock and key. It is one of the most treasured articles in the department. This book contains a set of postage stamps of every country in the world. These stamps come from Bern, Switzerland. Seven hundred and fifty sets of each United States postage issue are also distributed from that point. Each country comprising the international postal union when a new issue of stamps is out sends a certain number of sets to Bern. The officials at that point then distribute the stamps to the different postoffice departments throughout the world.

The Difference Between Them.

Lady—I have made inquiries at your last place, and your former mistress doesn't speak very flatteringly of you. Applicant—No, I don't suppose she thinks any more of me than I do of her; but I hope I'm lady enough to keep my opinion of her to myself.—Boston Transcript.

Wealth No Comfort

Miner Finally Secures an Immense Fortune, but is Unable to Enjoy It.

With his hand practically clinching ten millions of dollars, for which he gave up all the joys of life, for which he became a recluse in a spot in the northwest, where, even with the society of men and the comfort of modern appliances, living a little more than tolerable at times, Frank Eaton says calmly: "I'll go right on as I have been doing."

This means that one of the richest owners of iron mines will continue to live in a log but that isn't worth pausing apart for firewood; that he will tolerate no man's intrusion upon his solitude, and that he will suffer the pains and pangs of age and infirmity as he has during the long years that he fought for the possession of the millions that are his.

By a decision of the highest tribunal in the land Frank Eaton has at last become the acknowledged owner of the famous "section 30," which may consider the richest, which all agree has been the most extensively litigated, piece of iron property in the world.

For ages and ages it has lain there with its concrete inexhaustible wealth, and yet its discovery and exploitation is but a matter of yesterday.

Then Alfred and Leonidas Merritt while hunting one day chanced to observe the peculiar character of the earth scratched out by their dog from a woodchuck's hole. They investigated and found it to be from ore.

Among the seekers after fortune who flocked to the scene was Frank W. Eaton, a mine prospector and timber explorer, who knew the northwest like a book and was then in the prime of life.

He had in his pocket a power of attorney from Aurelia Moreau, a Sioux squaw, to locate for her land to the amount of 320 acres, which was her due under the scrip issued to her and to all other members of the Sioux nation by the United States government as a return for the vacation of the Sioux reservation in Minnesota.

It did not take Eaton long to decide where he should set up his claim. Close to the shores of Vermillion lake was a stretch of land 320 acres in extent which it needed no very discerning eye to determine was rich in ore. Under the power of attorney and the scrip of Aurelia Moreau he laid claim to it, had his entry filed and then succeeded in having the squaw's interest conveyed to himself.

So far was plain sailing, but it should be remembered there were other prospectors in the field. Thomas F. Hyde was one of them and he, too, recognized the value of "section 30" and decided to acquire its ownership. Having no scrip by which to claim it, he adopted another plan—simply taking possession of it under the laws of preemption, as "squatter sovereignty."

Hyde, being a preemptor, was obliged to live on his land, and he built himself a little cabin for his home during the years which must elapse before he could secure the acknowledgment of his claims.

It was often a question of actual starvation with Hyde in those days. Sometimes for weeks at a time his traps would fail to snare any game, the fish would refuse to bite, he was prevented by storms and blizzards from going forth to seek food. His story of that time, as given in the legal record of the case, is one of almost incredible deprivation and hardship. Once he had nothing to eat for six days save one small piece of moldy bacon. Often he was reduced to a diet of roots and bark.

Eaton had no money and no influence. The best he could offer to a lawyer was a contingent fee, and what seemed a very shadowy interest, and attorney after attorney refused to undertake his defense.

The first trial of the case was held at Duluth before Judge A. H. Moer, now of New York, and resulted in a victory for Eaton. It aroused an immense amount of bad feeling and a great deal of recrimination, but Judge Moer's legal acumen was so well known that for the first time Eaton's prospects began to look bright.

The case was appealed to the Supreme Court of Minnesota and the attorneys on both sides knuckled down to a long and bitterly contested battle. All of them gave up other business and devoted their time to "section 30."

So convinced was Walter Ayres, the lawyer for the land company, that his position was the true one that, even after the decision by Judge Moer, he is reported to have said when approached for a compromise that he did not consider Eaton's claim worth $500.

Nevertheless the state supreme court held that the lower tribunal and the decision was affirmed.

A decision by the United States supreme court on Jan. 12 settles the question once and for all and Eaton is now unquestionably "section 30's" owner.

The tract is variously estimated to be worth from $10,000,000 to $15,000,000, but by proper handling can be made worth much more.

Eaton has disposed of portions of his interest in it from time to time, but he still holds nineteen-thirty-sixths of it and is, consequently, a millionaire several times over.

For the last twelve years he has lived in a little shanty out on Pike lake, a small body of water twelve miles from Duluth, and there he has supported himself by fishing and hunting. Every cent he could make or scrape has been put into "the case," and his needs have consequently been pruned down to the most meager limits.

How Jokes Carried Off the Jam.

A sweet little story concerning a pet monkey and a pot of jam is vouched for by a Johns Hopkins University man.

It was in the country and all on a summer's day the family monkey was seen scudding homeward literally drenched in raspberry jam. He was pursued by an irate neighbor with uplifted broom, but once safe on the home plate he swung himself lightly into the nearest tree and peacefully listened to her tale of wrong.

It seems the neighbor had some hours before been making jam, a great bowl of which sat cooling on a table beneath the trees. This the monkey spied, but had scarcely started liberally helping himself to it when he was discovered. With loud outcry and the broom the lady started toward him, when the mischievous beast, knowing his minutes were numbered, hastily overturned the bowl on the table. Then rolling himself joyously in it several times from head to heels he scampered beyond her reach. During the recital of her woe and in fact for the remainder of the day, the monkey sat scooping the sweetmeat from his body and licking his paws with glee.—Baltimore Sun.

Deserved Better Treatment.

A piece of furniture of great historic interest has been turned to unworthy uses. The old table of the House of Commons was rescued from the great fire which destroyed, in 1834, the chapel of St. Stephen's. It has been for the last seventy years reverentially preserved, and is now located in the members' tea room of the House of Commons. It has lately been converted every afternoon into a tea table, and is decked with a white tablecloth on which are placed a hot-water urn and a tray containing tea cups. It is the table from different sides of which Pitt and Fox thundered, and on which Burke placed his notes when he pleaded for conciliation with America and denounced the excesses of the French revolution.

Kansas Cow Story.

Near Coffeyville, Kan., a straw stack heavily laden with snow fell over on a cow that was feeding from it. The farmer who owned the cow thought she had been killed and so he made no effort to dig her out. But twenty-two days later he detected a movement in the stack and forked the straw away with the result of finding the cow very much alive with a new born calf by her side. On getting her liberty the cow ran howling to the creek for water, but she was lassoed before she got there and was then given warm water in very small quantities. In a few days she was as well as ever.

Had the Opportunity.

An ex-coachman of New York recently retired to the backwoods and set up a boarding camp with the idea of attracting sportsmen. The following extract from the printed circular the coachman's former employers received shortly afterward sets forth some of the attractions of the camp: "As for game, I may say that I have never been out, but that I have shot, or could have shot could I shoot to hit, one or more birds."

In Honor of Prince Henry.

At the Metropolitan opera house, New York, on the night of the Prince Henry gala performance, 6,000 extra electric lights were placed on the proscenium arch and 2,500 others in the auditorium. The illuminated drop curtain weighed three tons, but was handled without a mishap.

On an Ostrich Farm

California Industry Now Proving an Immensely Profitable Investment.

Ostrich farming in California is on the top wave of prosperity. For months the demand for all sorts of ostrich feathers, big or little, soiled or ragged, waving plumes or torn ones, has been larger than the supply. About $500,000 is invested in ostrich farming in Southern California, and all this sums earns good dividends. It takes $35,000 to start a farm nowadays at the least.

The original ostrich farm was that of F. J. Johnson, in Santa Ana Valley. Mr. Johnson spent several years in South Africa studying the ostrich farming as conducted by the French. In 1888 he imported twenty South African ostriches to California at an expense of $22,000. Half of the birds died in two years and more were brought from Abyssinia. A thousand and one facts concerning the keeping of ostriches had to be learned and it cost a lot of money. Mr. Johnson persevered and he is still an ostrich farmer. He has made four importations of ostriches during the last eight years and has bettered his flock by adding Nubian ostriches to it. When the first crop of feathers was ready for market there were no buyers for them because of the prejudice of millinery buyers to feathers from California, but all that has been fought down, until California ostrich plumes command as large a price as any in the market.

The approach of the breeding season is always easy to observe. The male birds grow suddenly restless. As regularly as February comes around the male birds begin trying to get out. When they find they cannot escape to broader fields each finally selects within the corral a spot which suits his artistic taste, and he digs a wide, shallow hole in the sand. Around this he waits until a hen condescends to choose him for a mate. After the marriage there is no divorce or desertion; the two mates stick close to each other until the close of the breeding season.

Flock of Young Ostriches.

IN THE BREEDING PENNS.

The hen lays an egg each alternate day, and a remarkable fact is that she always lifts her first egg in her beak and lets it drop and break on the ground. Instinct tells her that her first egg will not hatch, and so she disposes of it herself. An ostrich egg is about twenty-five times larger than a common fowl's egg. The ostrich hens sometimes begin to lay when 2½ to 3 years old, though they do not get their growth until 4 years of age. The males are full grown a year later. A good hen will lay three nests of eggs a year—from thirty to sixty eggs all told.

An ostrich ten years old is in its prime, but when it is fifteen years old it is much less valuable as a feather producer. At twenty-two it produces only small plumes. The average life of an ostrich is forty years, and one sometimes reaches the age of 100 years. A full-grown ostrich weighs about 300 pounds, and when stretching its neck stands over eight feet from the ground. The legs are always bare, and the neck is covered only with a light "fuzz." The male birds are the black ones, with white feathers in the wings and tail. The female bird is drab; the feathers are equally valuable, as they are almost all dyed before being put on the market. The only feathers sold with their natural colors are the white and black found on the male.

A Full-Grown Male.

The ostrich is first plucked when seven months old, and every seven months after that. All the valuable feathers are found on the wings and tail. Fine ostrich plumes at the farm cost $8 or $10 each, and even more for some fancy grades. All the ostrich plumes of commerce are really double plumes, made by uniting two of the natural feathers. The stems are pared down and the two are sewed together, back to back.

When the proper time has come to pluck the ostrich he is calmed, by means of an orange or a tid-bit, until he is headed for a small, box-like enclosure, just large enough to hold him; a man slips in behind him and, with a sudden rush, shoves him into the pen and closes the door shut. Here the bird has no room to kick and is at the mercy of his shearer.

Leaning over the fence about 70 big ostrich farm at South Pasadena the other day, Henry Jennings, who is a veteran ostrich farmer in Southern California, said: "I had to quit ostrich farming because I was afraid to be among the birds. The craziest, meanest mule that ever existed is complacent and good-natured by the side of a mean ostrich. The ostrich can kick in any direction, and there's no dodging the kicks. It's a wonderful, too, how fast they can kick."

"Nearly every man that knows how to care for and to pluck an ostrich in Southern California gets $50 to $100 a month, a few get $120 a month."

GEORGIA'S FAMOUS OAK CUT DOWN.

Tree Under Which Wesley Preached in 1735, Is Destroyed.

The celebrated "Wesley Oak," at Savannah, Ga., has been cut down to make way for a trolley car track. Tradition clustering about the old tree gave way before the march of progress and unrelenting arms wielded axes that laid low what was once a monarch of the forest. The great live oak was in its prime in 1735, when John Wesley preached to Savannah colonists and to Indians beneath its branches.

Protest against the tree being cut was offered by citizens of Thunderbolt, the town four miles from Savannah in which the tree stood. The protest, however, was ignored. The mayor of the town held that it was public domain and the company was entitled to have the tree removed to make way for its tracks.

Had it not been that there was no time in which to take such action, the courts would have been asked to intervene to prevent the destruction. The tree has long been pointed to with pride and Methodist children throughout the country have been taught that it was beneath its branches that Wesley inculcated the lessons that are followed to-day.

The Peoples of the Earth.

According to recent calculations there are about 1,500 millions of human beings now living on the face of the earth. Of these 800 millions are dwellers in Asia, 320 millions inhabit Europe, more than 100 millions dwell in North and South America, and it is supposed that Africa contains over 200 millions—the rest belong to the islands scattered all over the globe. In regard to color, black men and white men between them dispose of 800 millions, and 700 millions are made up of brown, yellow and red men. One-third of the human race wear clothes, but in spite of the looms of Lancashire, one-sixth wear nothing, and the rest are only partially clad. One-third live in houses, nearly one-half dwell in caves or huts, while the rest are houseless.

Gave Him His Title.

When Representative Otis of Virginia was traveling out in Missouri with a number of orators during a campaign the names of the principal speakers got into the papers, but Major Otis was always just amid the words "and others." At one of the towns where a mass meeting was held he mentioned this fact to the chairman of the gathering. In a little while it came Major Otis's turn to speak. The chairman led him to the edge of the platform. "Ladies and Gentlemen," he said, as he turned his twinkling eyes upon the major, I have now the honor of introducing to you the distinguished Virginia statesman and orator, Colonel Others."

Rockefeller's Beginning.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., began to earn money when he was six years old. His father offered him a fee of one cent for every fence post in need of repairs that the boy could find on the big country place near Cleveland, O. The first day's work netted him thirteen cents.

Governor Jelks on Monday appointed John M. Morgan, of Clanton, Sheriff of Chilton county, to succeed Moses A. Killgore, who has resigned.

Judge Anderson, in discharging the Grand Jury last week, complimented them on the expeditious manner in which they had discharged their duty, and also made some pleasant remarks on their gratifying report. Chilton county is in a flourishing condition, and one of the surest signs of its prosperity is the absence of litigation and serious crime. When people are happy and contented with their lot in life their is little likelihood of the courts having much business. The Judge said it was a pleasure to find they considered the bonds of all the county officers secure and sufficient, as many grand juries had to have the bonds of officials strengthened.
To mark his appreciation of their promptness in getting through with their work he instructed Clerk Deason to make out certificates for one extra day to each grand jury-man who lived more than ten miles from Clanton, as they would not be able to reach their homes on the same day that court adjourned.

It is to be hoped that the County Commissioners will see their way clear to act upon the recommendation of the Grand Jury to enlarge the court house, and promptly provide the means to build the additional rooms necessary for the transaction of public business. The present grand jury room was always too small for the purpose it was intended for, and a larger room next to the sheriff's office would be a decided improvement. A waiting room for witnesses is also greatly needed, at the present they have to stay around anywhere they can find room. The county treasurer is certainly entitled to an office room in the court house where he will not be interrupted, and it should also contain an iron safe. The rooms suggested upstairs would be highly appreciated by the juries, and a private room for the Judge is also a necessity. The county saved a considerable sum last week in jurors and witnesses fees, and there is a substantial balance in the treasury.
It need be but a small burden to the county to build the addition.

The United States has redeemed her promise to the world. Havana and Santiago de Cuba were on Tuesday evacuated by American troops, the reins of power were handed over to President Palma and now the government of Cuba is free and the whole island is delirious with joy.

Dramatic as was the remarkable demonstration when the flag of the United States was lowered and the flag of the new republic hoisted in its place at noon Tuesday on the place from whence Spain had ruled the island for centuries, it was hardly more stirring than the magnificent friendly demonstration which attended the departure of the cruiser Brooklyn as she sailed out of Havana. General Wood stood on the bridge of the cruiser and acknowledged the ovation he received by bowing and touching his cap.

The enthusiasm in the city was boundless. Many persons were mad with joy over their new-born liberty. The streets were full of surging, cheering men and women.
One hundred thousand visitors were said to be in the city.

The Girl's Industrial School at Montevallo.

Clanton, Ala., May 19, 1902
I will tell you something about the Girl's Industrial School at Montevallo.
First, you enter the large chapel, where about 300 girls and faculty go every morning for devotional exercises, after which a bell is tapped and the teachers go to their different recitation rooms.
A march is then played for the girls to go out in order, who have recitations, while those who have nothing to do during that period remain in the chapel and study. The day is divided up into periods, of which there are eleven, each is thirty minutes long; there are six in the morning and five in the afternoon. It is a pretty sight to see the girls going to and fro from the recitation rooms to the Industrial departments every period. The visitors generally go to the Industrial departments first, and then to recitation rooms, where they are always welcome to go through all the departments and see what the girls are doing. First, in the Industrial departments, you come to the Millinery; there you find the girls very diligently at their work; some are making frames and some are trimming. This is under the able management of Miss Sarah Conoley, of Montgomery. Next you enter the advanced Dressmaking department, there you find about twenty machines busy, and some girls are doing fine embroidery and others are doing draws work.
This department is under the skilled management of Misses Burke and Wade. Next you go to the primary department of Dressmaking, where you find the girls less advanced in sewing; in there they have 110 students and made this last season 1853 garments, valued at $585. Misses Sanders and Bibb are the competent teachers.

Then you go to the Stenography and Typewriting department, where you find girls being well equipped along this line. Miss Overton is the efficient teacher.

Next, you come to the Scientific Cooking department. There the girls are taught to cook all kinds of meats, vegetables, breads and cakes, also to make candies of all kinds.
The supervision of this is under Miss Evans. Next, you go to the gymnasium hall, where you see the girls using clubs and dumb bells in any way, in perfect freedom, and also drills of all kinds. This department is successfully taught by Miss Austill.

Then comes the Telegraphy department; there some are learning the alphabet, some are reading messages and some are receiving them.
When you walk in, if you didn't know, you would think you were in a telegraph office, and when the course is finished a girl can get a position as operator anywhere. This is taught by Mrs. Hudson.

Next, you come to the Music department. Here you find twenty-two pianos busy all day. It is very interesting to hear them all playing at the same time and something different. Next, you go to the Recitation department. There you find the girls reading Shakespeare Longfellow, Poe, Riley, Emerson, and all the noted writers. Miss Estelle Barnes is the teacher in this department. Then you come to the Art department, where you find some of the girls drawing, some doing basket work, some doing charcoal and some painting pictures from nature.

Of course, to the one who loves art here is the place to go to see beautiful pictures and hand painted china.
And then if you have time you may go back and visit the recitation rooms. I don't mean to say they are not as important as the industrial, but literature is taught in every school and industrial are not.
First, you enter the English department, and if there are any visitors the teachers always take pleasure in explaining the work they are doing, so it is very easy for the visitors to follow them. The teachers of these departments are Misses Kennedy, Fitts and Harwell.

Next you go to the Mathematics departments; the teachers of these are Misses Callen, Stallworth and Crumpton.

Next, you come to the Pedagogy department, there the advanced girls have practice classes, consisting of about ten little children of Montevallo, and those that are primary study methods for teaching.
French is also taught in this department; Miss Haley is the teacher.
Then you come to the Latin department; it is very interesting to go in here too. Miss Nix has charge of this.

Mr. J. Alex Moore has charge of the Bookkeeping department, where the girls are taught to write a good business hand and everything else that is needed in this line. This finishes all the departments, unless you want to take a peep into the reception room and President's office, and the beautiful dining room. I would advise you for yourself to go and see what the young women of Alabama are doing for themselves with the help of the State. The girls have already within the last week pledged $550 to help get a new library. I, for one, do not think anything that befalls the school is too good for it. May it long live and prosper under the able management of our noble President, Dr. Peterson, but having spent only one session at this great school I feel incompetent to do justice to the institution in an article like this. ANNIE LANE DAVIS.

Sciatic Rheumatism Cured After Fourteen Years of Suffering.

"I have been afflicted with sciatic rheumatism for fourteen years," says Josh Edgar, of Germantown, Cal. "I was able to be around but constantly suffered. I tried everything I could hear of and at last was told to try Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which I did and was immediately relieved and in a short time cured, and am happy to say it has not since returned." Why not use this liniment and get well? It is for sale by Hopkins Drug Co.
and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Cutting Affray

On Sunday afternoon at an all day singing at Highland schoolhouse on the Kincheon road a difficulty occurred between Hall Tyus and Hugh Lockhart, and Tyus was badly cut. Lockhart surrendered to the sheriff and was put under a $250 bond. The preliminary trial will be held next Friday before Justice Deason. At last reports Tyus, while seriously cut, was getting along favorably.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod Liver Oil is the means of life, and enjoyment of life to thousands: men women and children.

When appetite fails, it restores it. When food is a burden, it lifts the burden.

When you lose flesh, it brings the plumpness of health.

When work is hard and duty is heavy, it makes life bright.

It is the thin edge of the wedge; the thick end is food.
But what is the use of food, when you hate it, and can't digest it?

Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil is the food that makes you forget your stomach.

If you have not tried it, send for free sample, its agreeable taste will surprise you.

Reveals A Great Secret.

It is often asked how such startling cures, that puzzle the best physicians, are effected by Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption.
Here's the secret. It cuts out the phlegm and germ-infected mucus, and lets the life-giving oxygen enrich and vitalize the blood. It heals the inflamed, cough-worn throat and lungs. Hard colds and stubborn coughs soon yield to Dr. King's New Discovery, the most infallible remedy for all Throat and Lung diseases.

Don't Start Wrong.

Don't start the summer with a lingering cough or cold. We all know what a "summer cold" is. It's the hardest kind to cure. Often it "hangs on" through the entire season. Take it in hand right now. A few doses of One Minute Cough Cure will set you right. Sure cure for coughs, colds, croup, grip, bronchitis, all throat and lung troubles. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. Children like it. "One Minute Cough Cure is the best cough medicine I ever used," says J. H. Bowles, Groveton, N. H. "I never found anything else that acted so safely and quickly."

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

One of the Signs We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

Two more brick buildings have been contracted for this week—one, Alfred Popwell's storehouse next to P. D. Wilson, and the other offices for A. C. Smith next to Stewart & Middleton, the contractor being Mr. Thompson. This makes sixteen brick buildings that have been erected in Clanton in the last twelve months, and I really don't know how many dwelling houses have been built in the same time. Clanton does move surely.

There seems to be very little interest in the primary question in this part of the State, and those whom I have spoken to on the subject appear to be perfectly indifferent. For one thing, most of our good people are too busy right now to be troubling their heads with politics and it is a good thing, too. We will all stick close to business now, and take up politics when it becomes necessary.

The new sheriff is celebrating his advent to office by a thorough cleaning of the jail. Everything has been overhauled, and the sanitary arrangements thoroughly repaired. The jail is none of the best at any time, and I am glad to see Sheriff Morgan doing all that can be done to make it as wholesome as possible.

Ex-Sheriff P. M. Moore has been appointed marshal of the town of Clanton, and proudly walks around with his staff and shield. Pink is the pink of politeness and it really hurts his feelings to have to run anyone in, but if it has to be done, why then Pink is the man to do it.

Lovers of good music will have an opportunity on Saturday night, June 7, of listening to a grand vocal and instrumental concert to be given by the Thorsby Cornet-Band at Thorsby. The Thorsby people are musically inclined and there is some good talent there, and this concert will be well worth going to.

How is it that we so seldom get up an entertainment of any kind in Clanton? We have plenty of first class material and I believe it only needs some one to take the matter in hand.

Mr. VanDerwee seems to think a wrong impression may have been created by my little account of his experience last week, and as I can see no better way to correct any false impression, I use his own words.

The facts are I was served with a subpoena to appear as a witness, just as the train arrived. I went up on the train intending to return on the local, and arranged to have the case passed until the local arrived. I failed to catch the local train, even after the case was passed, and the Court ordered a forfeiture against me unless I appear at next term of Court and show cause why it should not be done, as a defaulting witness. And this was not even done promptly, but with hesitation by the judge. I have only to explain at the next Court why I failed to return and the forfeiture will be set aside.

Kindly attend the matter for me and oblige. Would call to see you but my men are at work at the quarry and must leave in the morning. Yours truly, J. P. VANDERVEER.

Wants Others to Know
I have used DeWitt's Little Ear-Risers for constipation and torpid liver and they are all right. I am glad to endorse them for I think when we find a good thing we ought to let others know it. writes Alfred Reine, Quincy, Ill. They never slip or distress. Sure, safe pills.

Mr. Killgore Explains.

Clanton, May 27, 1902
Editor Banner—Please allow me space in your columns to speak a few words to the public in regard to my resignation as Sheriff of Chilton County.

I want to say, first, that I thank my friends from the very depths of my heart for their support and for all they have done for me.

I want to say, too, that I was in a quandary some time before I made up my mind to resign. I would have resigned six or eight months ago if it had not been for going back on my friends. Now, a word to them. Gentlemen, I know you will give me hail Columbia, but I hope you will be as lenient with me as possible, for there is no one hates it worse than I hated to do it. I want to say that my principles are not changed at all. I am the same old Moses as ever and will be until death.

I trust and believe that you have a good and conservative man in my place, so I will close by thanking all those who have done me any favors during my term of office. I remain yours as ever, MOSES A. KILLGORE.

I have sold Chamberlain's colic, cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for years, and would rather be out of coffee and sugar than it. I sold five bottles of it yesterday to threshers that could go no farther, and they are at work again this morning. H. R. PHILLIPS, Plymouth, Oklahoma. As will be seen by the above the threshers were able to keep on with their work without losing a single day's time. You should keep a bottle of this Remedy in your home. All Day Singing at Salem.

The third annual singing of Salem church was held Sunday, May 25, 1902. At 9:15 the body was called to order by singing: "Must Jesus bear the cross alone," followed with prayer by Rev. J. D. Hughes.

The officers of the meeting were: T. L. Robinson, chairman; L. A. Callaway, secretary; J. J. Grant, R. Robinson and D. S. Robinson, committee.

The singing was ably conducted by the following named teachers and leaders: R. T. Grant, B. Robinson, T. L. Robinson, T. M. Pyron, N. J. Jones, Moses Robinson, O. Z. Robinson and J. L. Hurst; assistant organists: Miss Martha Pyron, Miss Anna Robinson, Mrs. Cathey and Columbus Robinson.

At twelve o'clock the meeting adjourned for refreshments, which were served beneath the shade of the spreading oaks. The tables were loaded down with barbecued meats, pies, cakes and other delicacies which would tempt the palates of an epicure, for which the ladies of this community should be warmly thanked; at one o'clock the meeting was again called to order for the afternoon session. The singing was well attended from the surrounding communities; the number in attendance was nearly five hundred; at four o'clock the meeting adjourned to meet again the Fourth Sunday in May, 1903.

CLANTON, — AAL

Success in business is like a cloud-capped mountain peak. The climber fearful of bruised hands and torn clothes will never gain the top.

Probably there was never an example of more strenuous life than that of Cecil Rhodes. And yet when he came to die his lament was that there was "so much to do; so little done."

There are 496 salaries paid by the Government of the United States that amount to $4000 and upwards. In New York City there are 446 city officials who receive $4000 or more.

After spending many years in the study of mortality statistics, Dr. J. T. Arledge, a famous British specialist, declares farmers to be the longest-lived of men and laboring men the shortest-lived.

The salutation "Hello" is to be discarded by telephone users in some Western cities as not being sufficiently polite. Telephone etiquette should soon come to the front as a "side talk" feature of current literature.

The Postoffice Department has issued an order that hereafter a written designation on the wrapper—such as "back," "printed matter" or "photo"—shall be construed as a permissible "inscription" upon mail matter of the third class. This revokes a previous construction forbidding such writing.

The boot and shoe industry of the United States is a great one. The completed census returns of 1900 covering that branch of effort shows that the total output that year was valued at $261,028,580. This was an increase of eighteen per cent. over the value of the output of 1890. And the American shoe is the best and handsomest made.

At five years of age boys are mainly taller than girls, but the girls appear to equal them at the seventh year, and continue thus up to and including the ninth year, after which the boys rise again above the girls for two years. At about twelve years the girls suddenly become taller than the boys, continuing until the fifteenth year, when the boys finally regain their superiority of stature.

Doubt is often cast upon electrocution as a system by the fact that persons may survive an accidental shock of 2000 volts. The Electrical World and Engineer points out that the conditions of a chance contact are entirely different from those provided in the chair. It reviews the history of electrocutions in New York, and says: "There can be no question that the subject dies by the effects of the electric shock, and is dead beyond all hope before the autopsy takes place."

Solomonian wisdom entered into the mode adopted by a Chicago justice to determine whether or not a large quantity of beans declared good by the seller and perished by the buyer were edible. He cooked them. For a time they resisted the bubbling of the water in the presence of the court, but after a reasonable subjection to the right temperature turned out mellow and palatable, with judgment against the buyer. The judicial test of ordeal for the beans by fire is not contemplated by the statutes but looked well this time.

Lord Cromer, the British financial agent in Egypt, informs his Government in an official report that the reason why so many orders for railroad plants are being given to United States firms is because they are executed with extraordinary rapidity. His report is backed by the statements of a number of Egyptian railway officials. Another score for American enterprise, and such.

Washington, D. C.—The Senate committee on the Philippines has made public a petition presented by Miss Clemencia Lopez, sister of Sixto Lopez to the President, for the release of three of her brothers of the province of Batangas, who have been taken into custody by Gen. Bell and sent to the island of Iloilo, where she says they are undergoing great hardships. Miss Lopez is in Boston and her petition dated there.

MONTGOMERY LETTER

Interesting Items From the State's Capital City OF INTEREST TO EVERY ALABAMIAN.

Matters Personal and Otherwise About People and Things at Montgomery.

Montgomery, Ala.—The leading event of the week in Montgomery was the visit of the Thompson party, composed of the Secretary of the Treasury, Hon. Leslie M. Shaw, and a number of Republican congressmen. The idea of Mr. Thompson the member of congress from the Fifth Alabama district, was to bring them here to see the negro as he is, being sure that a personal view of the problem would somewhat mollify the attitude of northern republican members of congress on the subject of reducing the representation of the Southern States. He was disappointed that Mr. Crumpacker, the prime mover toward legislation of that sort, could not come. The most prominent member of the House who came was Mr. Littlefield, of Maine, who has come rapidly to the front in his party and is mentioned as presidential timber. The Capital of the State did all it could to make the visitors welcome, showing them all the points of interest, taking them out to dinner at District Attorney Reese's plantation, and giving them lunch and a round of speech making at the Commercial Club. The speaking members of the party came flat out with an endorsement of the proposition that ignorant men should not be allowed to vote. They were all enthusiastic over the welcome given them.

During the last week the Supreme Court delivered an opinion of great importance to the municipalities of the State. The city of Montgomery authorized the First National Bank to erect two pillars on the front of its new building, to extend twenty two inches onto the sidewalk. The adjacent property owner sought an injunction against this as it threw his house into a sort of back ground and injured its value. The court sustains this contention, and denies to cities the right to allow any such occupation of sidewalks. It has long been customary for cities to do such things.

The foundation corner stone of a new hospital was laid with imposing ceremonies last Tuesday afternoon. It is to cost $100,000 and is being built by the Sisters of Charity of the Catholic Church, with the beautiful name, St. Margaret. The Sisters bought the old ante-bellum place of Governor Thos. H. Watts, one of the finest in the State, and changed the old mansion so as to adapt it to hospital purposes. The new hundred thousand dollar building is an addition to that, though much larger. Mr. Phares Coleman, reporter of the Supreme Court, had the honor to preside at the ceremonies, and number of gentlemen made speeches, including Bishop Allen.

Col. Jeff. Falkner, who is at the head of the new Confederate Home at Mountain Creek, expects to make an opening next week. Two of the cottages are ready, and several applications are in from needy old veterans. The most notable contribution to the Home is that made by Mrs. John E. Moore through the Episcopal council. She left $2,500 of bank stock in her will to go to the founding of a Confederate Home, or to aid such an enterprise, the bequest being made as a memorial to her husband. She gave it in trust to the Episcopal church, and that body at its council meeting in Birmingham last week decided to use the money in the erection of a cottage at Mountain Creek. The original amount has now grown to some three thousand dollars, and a very handsome cottage, indeed, can be built with that sum.

The good roads spirit is still at work among the people. Last week three members of the Dallas county board of revenue came over for a look at the improved roads of Montgomery county, with a view to building some in that county. They were pleased with what they saw and with the testimony given by the people here as to the benefits derived.

The use of commercial fertilizers is somewhat short this year as compared with last, the sale of tags by the Agricultural department showing a decrease of some fifteen thousand tons. The estimate of the department is that the cotton acreage has fallen off about six per cent, which would account for the decrease in the sale of tags. In the meantime, the stocks of tags in this city are at the lowest point in the history of the market.

It is a serious problem at the Capitol to find room for the conduct of the business and to store the accumulating records. Every legislature adds to the officers for whom room must be found somehow, so that all the cloak rooms of the House and Senate now have occupants. When the legislature meets they will have to vacate, and there is really no place to harbor them. The new History Department, created by the last legislature, has the only cloak room of the Senate, and while wagon loads of its archives piled on the floor of the Senate chamber itself. The walls of the chamber are hung with the accumulating pictures of the department and new ones are being added every day. The strongest kind of an effort will be made to get an appropriation from the next legislature for enlarging the building. The favorite scheme is to erect a separate house for the Supreme Court quarters, its officers and library, and transfer the present court quarters to the various crowded executive departments.

J. M. Morgan has been appointed sheriff of Clanton county to succeed W. A. Kilgore, who resigned. Kilgore was a Populist and Morgan is a Democrat. It seems to have been arranged to the satisfaction of both parties, that a man agreeable to the Populists would be appointed, before Kilgore handed in his resignation.

During the past week Mr. W. C. Bibb of Montgomery, withdrew from the race for the democratic nomination for Secretary of State, saying his private affairs demanded his attention. This leaves as candidates, James L. Tanner of Jefferson, Frank Julius of Colbert, W. A. Givens of Madison and J. Thos. Hefflin of Chambers.

R. A. Newton, the tax collector of Geneva county, was found by the examiner to be short in his accounts and he has failed to settle the shortage. The matter is now in the hands of the Attorney General who will have to proceed against the bondsmen unless the amount, over a thousand dollars, is paid. In the meantime, Newton's bondsmen came off his bond, and he could not make a new one. Hence the office was declared vacant, and the Governor has appointed Mr. Ward to fill it.

In a little room on the third floor of the Capitol are the most interesting and precious relics of Jefferson Davis in existence. They are purely personal, consisting of his bedroom furniture and little articles of various sorts in use at the Beauvoir home before it was broken up. During the tourist season in the winter thousands of northern people stop over in Montgomery for a few hours and go up to see them. Their ultimate destination is the old house in which Mr. Davis resided while the Confederate capital was at Montgomery. An association of ladies called the First White House Association is raising money to buy the house, and already have nearly half the amount in hand. They will move it to a lot adjoining the Capitol grounds.

On next Saturday, Judge Thos. G. Jones, of the United States District court, will deliver the annual oration on memorial day at the tomb of General Grant at Riverside Park, New York City. This is the first time a southern man has made the address on this occasion.

The Montgomery market is being supplied with peaches raised in the surrounding country, the date being unusually early. A great deal more attention is paid to that sort of thing than formerly.

The Supreme Court still has under consideration the application of Jackson Giles, through his attorney, Wilford H. Smith, colored, of New York, for a mandamus to require the registrars of Montgomery county to register Jackson and other negroes who claim to be qualified under the new constitution. There is no specified time within which the court must act.

The somewhat famous Huntsville Christian church case was the subject of a decision by the Supreme Court again last week. Certain gentlemen were displaced on the board of elders, as they claimed illegally and several members were turned out of the church. Reinstatement has been sought through the courts, but so far both the Circuit and Supreme Courts have declined to assume jurisdiction in the matter, which they seem to think belongs to the class of controversies which churches ought to settle for themselves. What gives to the controversy peculiar newspaper interest is the fact that the mother of O. C. Hundley, one of the most prominent men in the State, gave the land on which the church is built, and the family were exceedingly liberal in as well as prominent in its affairs. They were among these displaced in the church, and the litigation has been conducted by Mr. Oscar Hundley himself with great persistence and determination.

The control of the Street Railway has passed from Capt. J. W. Dimmick to Messrs. Richard Tillis, a wealthy Montgomery lumberman, and Mr. W. C. O'Neil, a Pensacola banker. The whole shares are 3,500, and these gentlemen bought 3,162. The par value of the stock which passed is $316,200, but it is understood that the price paid was about $1800,00. It is quite a large transaction for local people to make, and it is interesting to know that both Mr. O'Neil and Mr. Tillis started life in the poor piney woods country of Southeast Alabama, as poor men, and have made their comparatively great fortunes out of the lumber and agricultural development of that section.

GROW'S MURDERER HANGED.

Mob Entered Jail and Secured Prisoner and Marched Him to His Doom.

Paris, Mo.—Abe Withruff, the white murderer of William Grow, who was killed last month, was taken from the Paris jail at 2 o'clock Sunday morning, marched to the bridge on the north side of the town and hanged by a mob of more than a hundred men, who rode quietly into town at midnight.

The mob went at once to the jail, but were held back for more than an hour by Sheriff James W. Clark and Deputies, Martin Clark and Polk Masterson, who stood before the entrance to the jail stockade with drawn revolvers and threatened to shoot the first man who attempted to force an entrance. They remained in front of the jail nearly two hours parleying with the officers and finally marched away. The officers remained on guard but believed that the mob had disbanded. About 2 o'clock several men approached and engaged the sheriff and deputies in conversation. Then suddenly, before the officers could defend themselves, they were seized, disarmed and carried away. The mob then quickly reappeared, surrounded the jail again and with sledge hammers battered down the big iron doors. This was the work of but a few minutes.

He declared that it should be made criminal to publish the details of crime or of contagious diseases because of the effect of such publication on health and morals.

BLOIS CUT SIX LIVES

Another Tornado Sweeps Over South Carolina.

A MEETING OF TWO STORMS.

Occupants of One Falling House Rush to Another to Meet Same Fate.

Union, S. C.—Six people were killed and several injured by a tornado which swept over this section of the state at 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

The dead are: Miss Sallie Hart of Union; Miss Annie Lawson of Union; Mrs. Maxey Sims of Union; Vera Sims, Miss Lawson, killed at Jonesville. One person name unknown, at Paelet. Injured Maxey Sims, broken fingers; Lee Sims, badly cut on head, and injured internally; William Mabry, fractured shoulder and bruised Mrs. Mabry, bruised, two children of Mrs. Mabry, slightly injured.

The main storm came from the north. It seems that there was also one from the southwest and that both met in this vicinity. The element met having five deaths, several injured and considerable loss of property resulting. The storm from the north was preceded by a heavy rain and what appeared to be a black mass about one hundred yards wide.

It travelled with great speed and people barely had time to get indoors before the storm was upon the town. One wing of the storm passed along Main street and blew in several store fronts doing much damage to stocks.

Knitting Mill Hill, south of the town, caught the full force of the tornado, which blew down the school house and two residences there, converting them literally into kindling wood. The occupants ran from one of the houses before it went to pieces and took refuge in another nearby but this house also was crushed to splinters. In this house Misses Sallie Hart and Annie Lawson were instantly killed. Mrs. Maxey Sims died in an hour, and her daughter, Vera, died about 9 o'clock. Maxey Sims escaped with broken fingers. Lee Sims received several cuts on the head from falling timbers and was internally injured.

Mr. Mabry sustained a fractured shoulder and his leg was badly burned by a stove falling on him. He was also internally injured. His case may prove fatal. Mrs. Lee Sims received a bad, but not fatal cut on the head. Mrs. Mabry and her two other children escaped with slight injuries.

It took some time to get the victims from the debris. Every physician in town was called and were assisted by the citizens in relieving the sufferers as much as possible. Everything that the families had was destroyed. Jonesville reports in a telegram to Miss Lawson, the lady who was killed, that the storm was fearful at that place and that one of her family had been killed here. Miss Lawson was dead when the telegram arrived.

The property damage here will aggregate $50,000, divided among a number of stores and cotton mills.

Later: Paelet reports one killed and several injured.

CHARGE AGAINST ARCHBISHOP

Baptist Divine Says Archbishop Made Political Trade With Roman

St. Paul, Minn.—"Archbishop land wields a tremendous power in politics, which he is using to the benefit of the Roman church," declared the Rev. T. J. Morgan, corresponding secretary of the Baptist Home Mission society at the opening session of the organization today. He was pointing out the obstacles to mission work in America, and linked the "Romanism, Mormonism, Socialism and Christian Science" as the greatest hindrances to progress in the greatest menace to the future of the nation.

He further stated that he was sure it absolutely, but he was not certain that in the future, Mark Hanna, representing a publican party, of whom was an Archbishop Ireland, representing a mass of voters, that in the future of turning over these votes to the Republican party the Archbishop would be given a cross in the Indian schools.

And when issues arose between the Indian officials and the Archbishop, the Archbishop would be given a cross in the Indian schools.

SANKEY TURNS PRESBYTERIAN

Was a Methodist, but Wants to Be With Family and Friends

New York, N. Y.—By reason of his intimate friendship with Theodore Cuyler, and Rev. David Gregg, of the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church in Brooklyn, Ira D. Sankey, the famous evangelist, became a member of the congregation last Sunday. Mr. Sankey had been a lifelong Methodist, and his transfer to the Presbyterian Church was made through the efforts of the Methodist Church in Chicago, to which he had been attached for many years. Mr. Sankey had not made this change in denomination faith through any dissention with the creed of Methodism, but in explanation he said:

"All the members of my own family have attended the Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church for many years, and I have been a regular attendant with them whenever I have been at home. I have known David Cuyler for a long time, and his home is in the same block in South Oxford street. I am a warm friend and admirer of Rev. David Gregg, the present pastor. There are no reasons for surprise or dissent over this very natural step. I have only made the formal announcement of my intention to join the congregation. Since the death of Mr. Moody I have been at home more than in former years and wished to worship with my family. I have had no quarrel or difference of viewpoint with the Methodist Church, and am as heartily sympathetic with that denomination as on the day I joined its ranks. I believe that a man can be a good one of these folds as in the other."

HIS EYE BURNED OUT.

Bad Accident to a Truck Farmer

Florida.—Lake Butler, Fla.—John Brown, a prominent truck farmer, happened to a serious accident which cost him the loss of his right eye. Brown had been suffering some time with sore eyes, and last night he went to bed about 9 o'clock, but could not sleep on account of intense pain in his eyes. He took his wife to get up and hand him a bottle of eyewater that was on the mantel. His wife brought him a bottle labeled eyewater, and he threw his head back and poured a spoonful into his eye. "My God, that's carbolic acid!" he cried and leaped from the bed and ran to a water bucket, where he flung from the effect of the severe pain. His wife, frightened almost to death, ran to a neighbor's house and turned with assistance Brown was carried to bed and a doctor called. It was found that his right eye had been burned fearfully and that the sight had been destroyed.

THERE IS A HITCH

Earlier Reports Seem to Confirm Such Rumors

ENGLAND IS EXTREMELY AFRAID

On Account of Differences Ministry it is Necessary to Act at Once

London, Eng.—Just before parliament rose after midnight Monday night a rumor reached the House of Commons that a "hitch" had occurred in the peace negotiations. Nothing was confirmed, but the dispatching of the Associated Press from Pretoria, which it is said that the peace negotiations were hardly begun, upon solid facts may be regarded as an indication that such a hitch occurred. In the information Pretoria has been able to receive from the censor there. The government yesterday fully and promptly a speedy conclusion of the peace is believed to be shown by the statement from yesterday that the day or later of the budget by the committee stage with the government side of the house. The budget is to be carried out. The tax on grain has proved unpopular throughout the country and had such a severe effect in retarding the harvest with a most effective, very thin cover, most will be sent to the front to get rid of it.

Another strong reason for the government to do away with this tax is that it has had in the collection where it has been regarded as an opportunity to demand a preference—a demand which is strongly pressed at the conference of colonial premieres in London, and which is likely to be the government's consideration for many years. Mr. Sankey had not made this change in denomination faith through any dissention with the creed of Methodism, but in explanation he said:

AGAINST ARCHBISHOP

Divine Says Archbishop's Political Trade With Nations

St. Paul, Minn.—"Archbishop Ireland's a tremendous power in which he is using for the church," declared the Rev. Morgan corresponding Secretary of the National Home Mission Society at the opening session of the convention today. He was discussing obstacles to mission work in a linked together series of addresses. Archbishop Ireland's political trade with nations, he said, was a serious hindrance to the church's mission. He said that the church should not be a political party, but a moral force. He said that the church should not be a political party, but a moral force. METHODIST'S ADJOURN.

Most Important Quadrennial Conference in Years.

Dallas, Texas.—The fourteenth quadrennial session conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, after being in session since May 7, adjourned sine die at 11:15 o'clock today. Delegates began leaving for their homes yesterday and at one point in today's session there was a scurry to gather up a quorum. The most important matter disposed of was the rescinding of part of the report of the committee on missions, adopted last Saturday, the tendency of which was to bring the northern and southern churches' missionary societies into partnership in a joint publishing house at Shanghai, China. Another unusually important matter was the adoption of a report from the committee on church extension, creating a church insurance board.

Wants Help for Miners.

Washington, D. C.—The House committee on appropriations had under consideration today the resolution offered by Mr. Gibson of Tennessee appropriating $10,000 for the Tennessee coal mine sufferers. Mr. Gibson appeared before the committee in behalf of the resolution and stated that there were between 1000 and 1200 people in needy circumstances by reason of the disaster.

Carry Lumber to the Homeless.

Washington, D. C.—The navy department will transport to the homeless people of St. Vincent a large quantity of building lumber which the Canadian government has donated to the navy.

Lightning Strikes Balloon.

Berlin, Ger.—A military balloon was struck by lightning near Augsburg, Bavaria, last night, at an altitude of 500 meters. The only occupant of the basket at the time of the occurrence was Lieutenant von Hiller, who was telephoning his observations to soldiers on ground below. When the balloon was struck it burst into flames and fell rapidly to the ground. Lieutenant von Hiller had the bones in both feet broken, but escaped further injury.

THE NEWS IN BRIEF

A Condensation of Newsworthy Happenings of Note.

If You Do Not Find It Elsewhere In This Paper, Look In This Column.

Washington.—Admiral Schley was initiated into the order of the Mystic Shrine, about 800 members being present.

London, Eng.—Peace in South Africa is regarded as assured, but an official declaration to that effect is still lacking, and there is nothing official to indicate when an announcement may be expected.

Ogden, Utah.—The British camp of horse buyers has finished its work here. The vaqueros were discharged and the buyers returned to Billings, Montana. The camp has been established for four months and 2,500 horses have been bought.

Oklahoma, City, O. T.—A tornado struck six miles southeast of Elk City wrecking a number of houses. Several persons were reported fatally injured, among them a Mrs. Combs. The damage is estimated at $20,000.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Dr. W. H. Watkins, a well-known specialist of New Orleans, died in this city at the residence of a relative from a malignant growth in the stomach. He was an expert in yellow fever cases and was at one time a member of the board of health of New Orleans.

Seattle, Wash.—Count Matsukata, the prime minister of Japan, with the present minister of finance, is now in the United States for the purpose of negotiating a loan of $100,000,000 with which to build ships and railways and to carry on mining operations in Japan.

Ferme, B. C.—A terrible explosion occurred in mine No. 2, which is connected with No. 3 shaft, and also with the high line shaft. All three openings are blocked. One hundred and fifty men were in the mine at work at the time of the explosion. Of this number sixteen escaped from No. 3 shaft before the cave-in. The remainder are prisoners and small hopes are entertained for their safety.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Joseph Pearson, a horse jockey, was shot and killed by his wife Louise at the latter's home in Esplanborough. He was in the act of braining her with a hatchet when the woman, warned of his intentions by numerous remarks which he had let drop, during the day, fired point blank at his head.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—The three anthracite executive committees of the United Mine Workers of America, at their joint meeting yesterday, decided to permit the engineers, firemen and pumping men to remain at work provided the coal companies grant them an eight hour day at present wages. If their demands are not granted by June 2, the men shall then suspend work. At present the engineers, firemen and pumpmen work ten hours a day. Some of the firemen work twelve.

New York.—Developments in Wall Street brought out the fact that the Monon railroad deal as announced by J. P. Morgan & Co., probably cannot be put through unless the firm exercises an option to buy at $150 a share, about 200,000 shares of Louisville & Nashville stock. This stock is held under option. Exercise of that option would call for payment of $30,000,000. If the option is not exercised however, the Gate and Hawley syndicate which hold part of their stock purchases to Morgan & Co., can reclaim the whole of their holdings on repayment of the advances and interest. That would mean a loss of the control of the Louisville & Nashville railroad to J. P. Morgan & Co.

The New York police arrested a professional "fake fit thrower" the other day. It was his practice to fall down on the sidewalk in front of a fine private residence and pretend to have a fit, whereupon he would usually be carried into the house, dosed with restoratives and presented with money by the sympathetic proprietor, after reciting a hard luck story. By this means he sometimes made as much as $15 or $25 a day.

THE MAN-O-WAR'S BELL

VARIOUS USES TO WHICH IT IS PUT ABOARD SHIP.

How the Bell Tells the Time of Day—Nautical Days, Nights and End at Noon—It Calls "All Hands to Bury the Dead"—Telling Bell For Church.

"Strike eight bells!" shouted the officer of the deck on one of the warships a few days ago, and then one of the women visitors remarked: "Oh! this is charming! Have you ever heard the chimes on a navy ship?" The man escort, one of the full of knowledge of nautical knowledge kind, responded: "Oh, yes; I've been a frequent visitor to the ships, for I know so many of the officers, and the chimes are rung beautifully. But they don't have them on all the ships." At that instant the boy to whom the order had been given made eight strokes on the ship's bell, and then all was silent, even the group of visitors who had simply looked inquiringly into one another's faces. But the "chimes" were not referred to. "Eight bells" does not mean that a ship has that number of bells, but it is a nautical term for the hour. The nautical day begins and ends at noon, when "eight bells" is struck, as it is also at 4 o'clock, 8 o'clock and at midnight. The bell is struck half hourly, one stroke being added each half hour, until eight is reached, when the count begins again. And if one is asked the time on board a navy ship the response would be so many bells and not the hour. The bell is of ordinary size only, but it has a sharp tone, and is hung just forward or abaft the foremast. The captain's orderly usually watches the clock and reports to the officer of the deck what hour it is in number of bells, who then orders the bell struck. But at 8 o'clock in the morning this rule is varied, the orderly reporting to the officer of the deck, "Eight bells, sir," when the officer replies, "Report to the captain eight bells and chronometers wound." The captain then responds, "Very well; make it so," which the orderly reports to the officer of the deck, who commands the messenger boy of the watch, "Strike eight bells." But if the captain should chance to remain numb and not say, "Make it so," no one would hear the bell strike eight, and the nautical day would be thrown out of joint.

At noon the "eight bells" is not struck until the navigator has corrected the clock, either by his noonday sight for position of the ship when at sea or from his chronometer. If with a fleet or at a naval station the bell must not be struck until that of the senior officer sounds, and the messenger stands by the bell, with clapper in hand, and as soon as the flag officer's bell begins to strike, the bells on the other vessels are struck. When there is a large fleet lying close together the effect is interesting and agreeable, and one might imagine that chimes were being rung.

Every navy in the world, except England, follows the same custom, and England only varies at the "dog watch," from 4 to 8 o'clock in the evening. In these hours the bell strikes every half hour till 6 o'clock, and then at 6.30 one bell is struck, and so on to three bells, at 7.30 o'clock; but eight bells are sounded at 8 o'clock. Tradition gives this reason for this custom: Before the British naval mutinies of 1797 the bells of the ships were struck as in other navies; but in one of those mutinies the signal agreed upon was the stroke of five bells (6.30 p. m.), and at that hour the mutineers rose to slay their officers. Then, when order was restored throughout the navy, the dog watch system of bells was adopted, to allay superstition.

But the ship's bell has other duties than that of keeping the time. It tolls on Sunday mornings for the services of the chaplain or his substitute; also to call "All hands to bury the dead," and it is a fire signal, when rung vigorously, and then the ship's crew takes the positions to which they have been assigned on the first day each has been detailed to the ship. The bell is not used as a fire signal in an engagement, however, for the reason that the crew might become panic-stricken, and distracted from the fight; in such cases the fire is reported to the captain, and he dispatches an officer with men to extinguish it. The bell is also used in a fog, and when a ship is at anchor it is struck in three, with a short interval between each set of strokes; in the use of the bell for these several purposes no confusion is caused. The half hour signals are struck in pairs, with a couple of seconds between each, and if an odd number is to be sounded, the single stroke comes last. The tolling for church is by slow strokes, while those for a fog are in sets of three, and for a fire they follow each other with great rapidity.—New York Tribune.

His Eye Was a Glass One.

A man the other day went to a Boston dentist to have a tooth extracted, and decided to take gas. The doctor administered the hypodermic and the man soon appeared to be under its influence, and he continued to keep one eye open. This worried the doctor, and he gave the man more gas; still the eye remained open. "Shut that eye," said the doctor finally, losing patience. "Can't," said the man in a drowsy voice; "it's glass."

POINTS ON RAISING DEER.

A Texas Man Who Says It Can Be Done With Ease and Profit.

O. A. Howard has presented the Fur Department of Houston, Texas, with a pair of deer which the Aransas will place in their beautiful park. Mr. Howard has a private park in connection with his residence, and has been successful in raising deer for several years. He at present has nine head, all fat and healthy.

He stated to the correspondent that deer were as little trouble to raise as sheep, and with proper provision and attention could be raised for the market just as successfully and extensively. He feeds his on common prairie hay and a little shelled corn once a day. He further stated that they ate no grass unless forced to eat it, and he found them useful in keeping down all kinds of weeds and shrubs around his lot. Mr. Howard says further that the prevailing opinion that a fence ten or twelve feet high is required around an inclosure to keep deer is a mistake. When captured half grown and wild they will jump a high fence, but when they are raised on the place a fence four or five feet high is entirely sufficient. More, they will become strongly attached to their native heath, and it is hard to make them leave it. Supporting this assertion, he said sometimes his would escape from his park through a gate accidentally left open, and in a few hours would become so anxious to return that they would leap the fence to get back if the opening through which they made their escape happened to be closed.

The only trouble he has ever had in all the years he has been raising deer was with the old stags. In their old age they become vicious, not only toward people, but with each other as well. Several years ago one of his old stags became so refractory that it was unsafe to the home folks as well as to the herd to keep him. He therefore made the hunters around Bismarck a present of him. He was carried to the woods three miles north of town, turned loose, given a good start, and twenty or thirty bounds put on his track. For several hours the woods around town resounded with the cry of bounds and the sound of horns and made the old Texan feel as if the wheel of time had revolved backward, and that the country in respect to game was what it used to be sixty years ago.

Moot Point of Law.

An English writer gives a good example of those quibbles in legal practice that have a sort of fascination for certain minds. Some years ago, while traveling on the Continent, he met the principal lawyer for the government of one of the principalities, who told him of a curious legal question. It had reference to a railway station at the boundary between two principalities.

Some one standing outside the window of the ticket office put his hand through and robbed the till inside. The boundary line lay between where the thief stood and the till, so that he was actually in one territory, while the crime was committed in the other. Here was a nice nut for the gentlemen learned in the law to crack. Which of the principalities should undertake the prosecution of the culprit?

At it they went in good earnest, and the arguments on either side were long and vehement, till the whole case was embalmied in many volumes. At last one side yielded so far as to say: "We will permit you, as an act of courtesy, to prosecute, while at the same time reserving all our sovereign rights."

Protecting Game in Minnesota.

In Outing, Leonidas Hubbard, Jr., has a notable article on game conditions in Minnesota which will also be read with interest by sportsmen in other States. Mr. Hubbard says: "The ingenuity displayed by ship-pers of game is really of a high order. Quail, grouse and prairie chickens cannot be sold lawfully in Minnesota. But they have been shipped from one State in a dozen illegal ways. Once a consignment of rabbits was examined by the officials, and it was found that each rabbit had been opened, and sewed up again after a quail had been placed inside. Likewise quail and other forbidden birds were found in cans labeled condensed milk, in holes of hay and in bedding."

Mr. Hubbard hopes that some sort of co-operation by the Government can be arranged which will prevent game slaughter by the Indians. There are a number of reservations in Minnesota. From these the braves are stealing at all seasons to kill game. Indians are hard men to keep track of, and their influence is bad, for settlers are reluctant to obey laws when Indians violate them with impunity."

An automobile truck is now employed for moving iron safes. It has two propelling motors and a third elevates the safe to its place in the building. It requires three men and six and a half minutes to place a safe on a seventh floor. Formerly it required eight men two and a half hours.

It is reported from Vienna that a resident of that place, named August Matitsch, has devised a law-making machine, which is said to produce law which is indistinguishable from the hand-made article. Many attempts have, we believe, been made to construct such a machine, but heretofore without success. It is now believed, however, that a machine has been devised which will be practically successful, and will supersede hand labor in this work.

One of the German electrical papers recently described an electrical plant in Norway for the manufacture of turf coal. It is stated that about fifty tons of turf are treated daily. The plant consists of twelve retorts, or furnaces in which the heat is produced electrically. Turf which has previously been pressed to free it from the greater parts of its moisture is distilled in these furnaces, producing a number of by-products, as well as a very pure turf charcoal, which may be used as a substitute for charcoal of wood, or for pit coal. The by-products are a gas suitable for heater purposes, a tar residue from which ammonium sulphate and methylalcohol are obtained, a gas oil and some paraffine.

An ingenious device is now successfully used in France by which the speed of a train may be seen at any moment by the engineer. It consists of a centrifugal pump driven by one of the locomotive axles, which sends water from the tender into a small cylinder. There the water raises a piston against the pressure of a spring and moves up or down in proportion to the speed of the train. An automatic registering device records the varying speed, so that it may be read at any moment by the engine driver, or engineer, as we call him in this country. This device is also a safety appliance, for when the speed rises above a fixed limit the piston acts upon a lever, which throws on the air brakes.

The possibilities of such a strike would consider it a forerunner of times depression.

The Weekly Crop Bulletin says:
The week, as a whole, gave very good growing conditions, temperatures being high and favorable, though, while a few favorable showers were received in middle and southern counties, rain is needed in northern districts, particularly in some northwestern counties, where the protracted drought was only partially relieved by the rains of last week, and where field crops are suffering for moisture. Early cotton continues in generally healthy condition, much of it has received a second cultivation, and most of it has been chopped out to fairly good stands; some of the very early is forming squares; late cotton is nearly all up, with some being chopped, though the stands are irregular, being generally fair only, and grass is getting troublesome in many places, it has been mostly plowed a second time, with much of it waist high, some "laid by" and some beginning to tassle;
late corn is not so satisfactory, the stands averaging poor to fair, though a good rain would materially improve it; worms are damaging late corn in many localities.
Wheat continues to mature slowly, most of it heading low, with a little being cut; oats are generally inferior, though somewhat improved as compared with two weeks ago; some oats are being cut, with a light yield. Irish potatoes are being gathered, with fair to good yields, though bugs are damaging the late crops in some places; sweet potatoes are still being transplanted; cane, peanuts and field peas are doing well.

Hon. Champ Clark, member of congress from Missouri, and a popular writer on congressional affairs, in his special Washington letter, has these complimentary remarks to make on Congressman Bowie, who we are glad to note is making a favorable impression in the House:

It is curious what committee assignments enable members to make reputations. As a rule few men seek assignments to any of the three committees on elections because usually such assignments means much drudgery work and little glory. It will be remembered, however, that Henry Cabot Lodge made a great reputation in the house by serving on an election committee. Unless I miss my guess, Mr. Bowie of Alabama is in a fair way to rival the reputation made by Lodge in that line of work. He has made a report in the Butler-Horton case from St.
Louis which for lucidity and strength has never been excelled in the house and which is certain to attract much attention and to bring Bowie into prominent notice. He cuts up the majority report by the roots. Although Butler, Democrat, was elected by 3,553 majority, the Republican majority of the committee brought in a report which says that nobody was elected and declares the seat vacant. Bowie mercilessly analyzes the modus operandi of the Republican majority.

ALABAMA PRESS ASSOCIATION.

The thirty-first annual meeting of the Alabama Press Association was held at Mobile last week and takes high rank as one of the most profitable and enjoyable ever held by the Association.

The meeting was called to order on Thursday morning in the rooms of the Young Men's Christian Association by President W. E. W.
Yerby of the Greensboro Watchman, and after prayer by Rev. A.
C. Harte, the Mayor of Mobile, Hon. Walter F. Walsh made a short but very cordial speech welcoming the editors to the Gulf City. Other welcome addresses were made by Erwin Craighead of the Register, Phil Cosminsky of the Herald and John Cothran of the News.

The response to these addresses was made by Charles H. Greer, of the Marion Standard, who was in his happiest vein and made one of the best speeches of his life. President Yerby followed with his annual address, which was also a good one, and Secretary Rountree made his annual report. Secretary Rountree's reports are always good and satisfactory and this one rather excelled the average.

In the evening a trolley ride was arranged to Monroe Park on the beautiful bay of Mobile. The ride was invigorating, the breeze was delicious, and the park and bay were beautiful. The moon was shining bright across the water, and Mr. Cosminsky was enchanted with the sublimity of the scene.
He was not alone in his enjoyment, however, for others fully realized its beauty. The performance at the theater was very good, and altogether the Monroe Park excusion was exceedingly pleasant.

A very pleasant reception was given at the Battle House the same evening, where we had the pleasure of meeting Congressman Charles W. Thompson and his guests from the North.

On Friday morning the Association concluded its business. A resolution was adopted that the Legislative Committee urge upon the Legislature the passage of an act providing for the publication of all new laws in at least one newspaper in each county in the State.

Another resolution was passed thanking Col. J. M. Falkner for the exertions he had made, and his generous donations, in the establishment of the Confederate Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek.

Resolutions of thanks to the press and citizens of Mobile for courteous extended were also adopted and the Association adjourned to meet next year in Anniston.

In the afternoon a delightful ride was taken on the Mobile river and harbor and at night a reception was given at the Battle House.

As some of the editors were leaving that night Mr. Max Hamburger, Jr., of the Herald, made a poetical and "floral presentation" to the departing delegation" at the depot, which was much admired.

The city of Mobile presents many attractive features to the visitor. It is the largest city in Alabama, and one of the oldest in the Union, having been founded by the French about 1700. The streets are narrow and in many respects resemble those of European cities.
As a cotton mart and place of export Mobile ranks next to New Orleans and is making rapid advances. Its people are highly cultured, frank and hospitable; its climate is glorious, the breezes from the Gulf tempering the heat of the sun. Mobile is one of the wealthiest of Southern cities, and bears a world-wide reputation for its fine society and beautiful women. The "Shell Road" is almost as well known as Fifth Avenue in New York, Rotten Row in London and the Bois de Boulogne in Paris, and for its natural beauty is not surpassed by either.

The deepening of the channels in the harbor now makes Mobile accessible to vessels of large tonnage, and it is doubtful if the U. S. government ever made an appropriation for harbor purposes that made more direct returns than the appropriations made for Mobile harbor. With an increased export trade from the mineral districts of the State, and the further establishment of manufactories in the South Mobile will soon advance to one of the first ports of the United States.

The Three Largest Cities of the World

Greater London contains nearly 7,000,000 people, while Greater New York holds 4,500,000.
Greater Paris is the third city in the world, as a census just taken shows. It has 3,560,179 population. These are the world's three great, rich and fine cities—the three leading focal points of trade, art, science and literature.

Will these three towns be the big three of the world a hundred years hence? It certainly seems so. London's margin is so great it should carry it hundred years farther as the leading city, and it is increasing at the rate of 50,000 a year. If such a rate of gain is maintained it will certainly render London the greatest city in the world a hundred years hence. The British empire shows no signs of decay, and when the mighty empire is prosperous London will be prosperous, for British affairs are and always will be centered there.

New York's position as the second city is assured, because it has the busiest and most prosperous country in the world behind it.
Failure on its part to stay in the "first division" is incredible, well nigh impossible. It will assuredly be a good second a hundred years hence.

Will Paris hold third place?
This seems more doubtful, and yet Berlin or some of the fabulous and uncounted Chinese cities of Chicago and its hogs may crowd it un-comfortably close. But while they are growing Paris will also grow.
It is the capital of the Latin world, and Latinism will outlast several centuries. Paris is a surpassing example of a great city, commanding no sea-going commerce, possessing no supply of cheap fuel, almost innocent of factory chimneys, its only manufactured products being small articles made by hand. When one stands on an elevation overlooking Paris he cannot see as many tall chimneys as a single square in Glasgow would display. The population of Paris under such circumstances is wonderful.

is made.

A REJECTED SUITOR

Murders Young Lady in a Country Church.

MURDERER ESCAPES TO THE WOODS

Posse Searching Woods in Every Direction for the Youthful Criminal.

Atlanta, Ga.—Five or six hundred men, divided into a half dozen posses, are tonight searching the country adjacent to this city for Millard Lee, the son of a well-to-do farmer, who shot and instantly killed Miss Lily Suttle, a young woman of 19. The tragedy took place at Wesley Chapel, Mount Gilad camp grounds, nine miles from Atlanta, Lee firing two bullets into Miss Suttle just as the minister had finished the benediction and before any of the worshippers had started to leave the church. Lee, who is about 20 years of age, came into the church during the services and a seat two pews from the door and almost directly behind Miss Suttle. Just as the services were over and the congregation had risen to its feet, Lee leaned forward and fired at Miss Suttle. The first ball entered her back, but the young lady's corset stays changed its course so vital part was reached. An instant later a second shot rang out in the little edifice and this time Miss Suttle, with a groan, fell to the floor between the seats. The bullet had entered her back above the corset and striking the shoulder blade, fanged downward, entering the heart.

The church-goers were astonished and for a minute or two no one moved. Taking advantage of this Lee backed out of the door and started for the woods on foot. On the way he met a man named Childress, to whom he confessed the murder and asked him to take the revolver and kill him. Childress paid no attention to the young man and passed on. Lee went next to his father's house where he again told the story of the tragedy, and securing $100 from his parents started away. As soon as the worshippers at the chapel realized what had happened they rushed out in an endeavor to capture the murderer, but he was nowhere to be seen. Several posses were soon organized and a call sent in for bloodhounds. Dr. John Suttle, father of the murdered girl, heads one of the posses while his son directs another.

Miss Suttle was a strikingly beautiful young woman and had recently graduated with high honors from a college. This said that she refused Lee's attentions because she considered herself above him socially.

STRIKE IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Will Last Until the Demands Are Granted the Miners.

Huntington, W. Va.—The United Mine Workers who have been in session here for two days adjourned today after ordering a strike of all miners in West Virginia and Virginia to begin June 7th and last until the demands of 10 to 22 per cent increase in wages are granted.

From authentic sources it is learned that the Mine Workers, in case a strike is called, expect to have enlisted 90,000 miners and laborers, beginning in Virginia and West Virginia, which is over three-fourths of the working population of the coal sections, and they will also enlist in their cause the many trades unions and the American Federation of Labor, which organizations are thoroughly organized, especially in West Virginia, which will aid them through sympathy.

This with those who will have to quit work on account of the closing of the mines, will reach a total of 125,000 idle men in the two States.

Santiago de Chili.—The Chilean minister of foreign affairs, Senor Vergara, and the Argentine minister to Chili, Jos Antonio Terry, are completing the details of the agreement which limits Chilean and Argentine armaments and which provides for the general arbitration of disputes between the two countries. Owing to this favorable situation, securities and bonds are very firm. Gold is falling.

ZIONIST HEBREWS AT BOSTON

Will Protest Against Persecution in Foreign Countries.

Boston, Mass.—Three hundred representative Hebrews, coming from as far west as Portland, Oregon, and as far south as Key West, Fla. together with several from the Dominion of Canada and from South Africa, are here to attend the Fifth annual convention of the Federation of American Zionists, which begins its sessions tomorrow in Faneuil Hall. The coming conference is regarded as of unusual importance as it is expected to show just what progress has been made by the Zionists movement in America. The conference also is expected to frame a vigorous protest against the humiliations and persecutions of Hebrews in foreign countries. Prof. Richard Gottheil, of Columbia College, who is president of the Federation, will preside over the gathering.

BUYS SIX WHEAT ELEVATORS.

Purchase Price Said to Have Been $750,000.

Kansas City, Mo.—Walter Vrooman of the Western Co-operative movement has closed contracts for the purchase of six of the largest wheat elevators in the Kansas wheat belt and two of the largest flouring mills. The price paid is said to have been $750,000, and Mr. Vrooman, who has left for New York to complete the financial end of the plan, says the present purchase is but the beginning of a movement to center the farmers of Kansas in a co-operative branch of the Vrooman Co-operative Company. The concern will be known as the Wheat and Flour Western Co-operative Company. The farmers are to be taken into the scheme upon the payment of $100 each for which they are to receive the market value of their wheat sold to the company and in addition will receive one-half of the profit derived, the other half going to the co-operative stores through which the wheat and flour is to be handled.

"The plan," said Mr. Vrooman, "is to eliminate wheat speculators and the middlemen. It is the only way to head off the talked of flour trust that is forming in New York. It is intended to ship to Great Britain to be sold among the co-operative members there, the surplus product not disposed of in Kansas and Missouri."

WAS A GREAT DIPLOMAT.

London Papers Vie With Each Other in Praising Poncefote.

London, Eng.—The deep importance attached here to the friendship of the United States could not be better exemplified than by the unusually sincere expressions published in the London press, of the regret at the death of Lord Poncefote, the British ambassador at Washington, and the high eulogiums of his career in the United States. The papers vie with each other in paying tribute to the inestimable value of Lord Poncefote's work to the empire in the difficult position, which, as the Daily Chronicle reminds its readers, is now the most exacting in the diplomatic service and quite different from the time when Lord Stratford de Redcliffe described the Washington legation as very pleasant socially but not requiring any great talents politically.

Naples, Italy.—The court of inquiry being held on board of the United States cruiser Chicago, to investigate the arrests of certain officers of that cruiser at Venice, April 25, will continue its session by order of the United States government. The strictest secrecy regarding the proceedings of the court is maintained.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

What Is Going On In the Nation's Capital City.

OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

Writes Entertainingly of Men and Matters of National Interest.

Washington, D. C.—The average newspaper men about Washington, especially those who cater to the local journals, find among certain Senators and Representatives fit bases for anecdotal superstructure, particularly when events of no great pith and moment are agitating the news mediums.

In the Washington Post and in the Times of this city appeared on Wednesday morning of last week two different stories of the venerable junior Senator-Pettus—from Alabama, who is a favorite subject for both truthful chroniclers and not unkindly fiction framers.

One of the stories was a reproduction of an incident of the civil war as used by Senator Bacon of Georgia, in his speech the other day on the Philippines question. That Senator told, in order to contrast General Grant's manner of extorting truth from prisoners with the devices employed for the same purpose by American officers in the Philippines, of the capture of Mr. Pettus when he was a Confederate colonel at the siege of Vicksburg and how, when the commander of the Union forces asked him what troops confronted him, his prisoner respectfully declined to answer on the ground that it would be improper for him to give such information. It was then Grant desisted at once from his examination and, turning to one of his officers, directed that the prisoner be treated kindly. The other story was about the Alabama Senator's habits; how he rose at 5 o'clock and was at work every morning at 7 in his office.

Speaking of these matters to a newspaper correspondent, Senator Pettus said that the story which was rehearsed from Senator Bacon was substantially correct. "General Grant," he added, "treated me very graciously; he told them to take good care of me, but I got away that night and was fighting 'em all the same the next day."

The story of his early rising and methodical habits was thus disposed of by the Senator: "That's all a pack of lies; and the biggest in the pack is that I get up regularly at 5 o'clock in the morning. They wake me for breakfast; they have waked me for breakfast for the last fifty years. My habits in this respect are regular—irregular and—defective."

Mrs. Margaret Moorhead, who resides with her son, Dr. H. C. Moorhead, a noted physician at Eshelsville, Pickens county, Ala., who is a widow of a hero of old Indian wars in Florida and other wars, has been granted a pension at last.

Some ten years ago she applied for a pension on account of her husband's military service in Florida. Upon a trifling technicality as to her husband's initials, a mistake lately proved to have been made in the pension office here, her application was rejected. At that time she was residing in Mississippi, but shortly afterwards removed to Pickens county, Alabama. Her new home being in the Sixth Congressional district, she applied to Congressman Bankhead for assistance in procuring a pension for her. Colonel Bankhead did everything possible for Mrs. Moorhead, making repeated visits to the pension office in her behalf as the years passed on. The other day he was enabled to satisfy the exacting of the law and furnish clear proof of Mrs. Moorhead's right to a pension. Today he received notice from the commissioner that Mrs. Moorhead had been granted a pension of $8 a month, to date from July 27, 1892. Thus this widow of a soldier will immediately receive nearly a thousand dollars, the total accumulated since her first application.

Schwab Gives $5,000.

New York, N. Y.—The Rev. George Street, pastor of the First Baptist church, has received a check from Charles M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, for $5,000, to be added to the building fund of the new church which is being erected by the congregation at a cost of $20,000, says a Braddock, Pa., special to the World.

was filed, and hereafter she will be paid $8 a month through the pension agency at Knoxville, Tenn., which pays pensioners in all southern states. After the good woman had hoped and her friends had worked for ten years, justice came at last.

Secretary Root views with satisfaction the transference of the responsibility of our relations with Cuba from the department which he presides to the department of State but he anticipates a fierce attack from democratic sources upon the military administration of Cuba during the year of the United States government intervention. It is reported here that the Democratic Congressional Committee is convinced of the futility of the attacks made by the minority in the Senate upon the conduct of the army in the Philippines and will turn at once its attention to Cuba for ammunition for partisan use at home in the coming battle for control of the House.

Representative Grosvenor of Ohio seems to have declared war on all private bills affecting the State of Alabama. In the House this morning he objected to the consideration of Representative Richardson's bill granting to W. F. Thompson and others the right to construct dams on the Tennessee river at Muscle Shoals for electric power purposes, on the grounds that Representative Underwood of Alabama had recently objected to one of his pet measures. Mr. Richardson declares that unless Grosvenor allows his bill to come before the House the Eleventh Ohio district representative need not ask for another unanimous consent this session.

After a stormy session of two hours the conference committee of the Senate and House on the rivers and harbors bill adjourned, and with the exception of the Senate amendment appropriating $450,000 for the big Sandy river in Kentucky the various items in the bill have been agreed upon. The Coosa river amendment added by the Senate is believed to have been stricken from the bill. Other Alabama and Tennessee River appropriations are unchanged. It is expected that the committee will agree upon the whole bill and report to the House early this week.

Washington.—A notable contribution to the discussion of the Philippine question was made in the Senate by Mr. Hour, of Massachusetts. He denounced the attitude of the government in the Philippines as one of the most wicked and foolish chapters in American history. He sharply arraigned General Funston for the methods he pursued in the capture of Aguinaldo and intimated strongly that had the Senate been aware of the facts Funston might not have been confirmed in his recent promotion.

The bill of Representative Brownlow of Tennessee "to provide a home for aged and infirm colored people" has been favorably reported by the committee on military affairs. This bill proposes to use the sum of $100,000 out of the money due the estate of deceased colored, who served in the civil war, and which was in the hands of the commissioners of the Freedman Bureau and paid into the treasury for the purpose of erecting in the District of Columbia a memorial national home for aged negroes.

The tender upon the part of the Emperor of Germany to this country of a statue of Frederick the Great will be opposed by at least one Congressman. Representative Stepien of Texas has introduced a resolution reciting that "such action on the part of this republic would be a repudiation of the principles of government as enunciated by our bill of rights and contrary to the memories of our revolutionary fathers."

Congressman Hopkins of Illinois has returned to the capital after his remarkably successful contest with Senator Mason, and is every where receiving the most cordial congratulations because of his winning the seat.

TO RAISE COAL PRICES.

Chicago, Ill.—Consolidation of all the coal interests in Indiana, covering 117 mines of an output of 6,000,000 tons a year and of a value of $15,000,000, in one big corporation with headquarters in this city, will be effected within a month, according to the Chronicle. The effect of the consolidation, it is understood, by coal men of this city, will be an increase in the prices of every quality of coal mined in Indiana.

MRS. KATE TAYLOR

Mrs. Kate Taylor, a nurse of prominence, gives evidence with Peruna Tonic. Her position, as a professional standard, is to give special praise to her utterance.

HOUSEWORK

Too much housework wrecks women's nerves. And the constant care of children, day and night, is often too trying for even a strong woman. A haggard face tells the story of the overworked housewife and mother. Derailed nenses, leucorrhoea and falling of the womb result from overwork.
Every housewife needs a remedy to regulate her menses and to keep her sensitive female organs
in perfect condition.

WINE OF CARDUI

is doing this for thousands of American women to-day. It cures Mrs. Jones and that is why she writes this frank letter:

Glendene, Ky., Feb. 25, 1901.
I am so glad that your Wine of Cardui
is helping me. I am feeling better than I have felt for years. I am doing my own work without any help, and I washed last week and was not one bit tired. That shows that the Wine is doing me good. I am getting fatter than I ever was before, and sleep good
and eat hearty. Before I began taking Wine of Cardui, I used to have to lay down five or six times every day, but now I don't think of lying down throughout the day.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Signs He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

These June days are warm and,
I am sorry to say, make one feel lazy. The woods and creeks have a special attraction which is hard to resist. Driving behind a fast horse is pleasant, but driving a stubby old pencil like I am doing this afternoon is anything else but pleasant. I am too lazy to think, too enervated to write, too—oh, bother, too—too, it reminds me of the horns they were blowing at the show yesterday.

Tax Assessor A. C. Mims informs me of a very gratifying increase in the taxable valuation of property in Chilton county. Last year the taxable valuation was $2, 350,221, and this year it amounts to $2,533,236, an increase of $183, 015. There is no mistake about it, Chilton is on the up grade, and going along at a very fair pace.

The County Commissioners are in session this week, examining and comparing the books of the tax collector and the assessor. I understand they are making an exceptionally exhaustive examination.
They will also fix the rate of taxation for this year at this court. It is the duty of the Board to pass upon the assessment of all the taxable property in the county, and to increase or reduce the assessment of any property if they see fit. If an assessment is increased, the owner of the property is notified to appear at the July term and show cause why the increase should not be made.

The foundations are being got out for Alfred Popwell's new brick storehouse. I was told last week that Mr. Thompson had the contract, but it was incorrect, Ben Teel being the lucky man, and he commenced work bright and early Monday morning. He will also go to work right away on A. C.
Smith's new law offices. When these two buildings are up, this will make the first solid block of brick buildings in Clanton, the only wooden structure on the block being Bill Mullins' storehouse.

The Confederate Veterans Home at Mountain Creek is something we all are proud of, and one of the very first inmates to go into the home was John Maxwell, who some years ago resided in Clanton.
There is a number of these old soldiers ready and anxious to get admission into the Home, and no doubt as soon as possible room will be found for all of them. But it takes cash. Clanton should do it proud by purchasing a whole pile of tickets for Gov. Bob. Taylor's lecture, every cent of the receipts going to the Soldiers Home.
Mrs. Mollie Hannon has them on hand, and I hope every man in town will buy at least one—they are only fifty cents each. Put in half a dollar for the benefit of the Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek.

Only four weeks from next Friday and along comes the Fourth of July. For the last two years Clanton has given a barbecue and a good jolly time to all comers on the Fourth, but this year up to the present nothing has been said or done in the matter. How about it? Are we going to celebrate or not?

Clanton, Ala., June 3, 1902
Editor Banner—"We sometimes observe things or happenings that we profit from, and sometimes we observe things that we should not know anything about, but as we are not always in the right place at the right time, we, of course, become objects for observation either for good or bad.

The closing exercises of Clanton High School were indeed good and well attended, the court house being crowded to standing room both nights. The rendition of the whole program showed that the teachers had exerted every effort and the pupils all their energy that we might be highly entertained and I feel sure that everyone who attended the exercises grant that every feature of the program was a success.

It seems to me that Clanton should feel much blessed in having the services in every good work during the past year of Prof. and Mrs. Collier and Prof. Dickinson, and it is to be hoped that the trustees will not sleep over their rights, but will be up and doing and secure the services of those noble and Christian hearted people for au-other year. It is quite a loss to any community in school work, church work and socially, to lose such characters as are found in the persons of those teachers.

Clanton is doing well in many ways. Its churches are getting along smoothly, each having preaching twice a month and good Sunday-schools every Sunday. But my observation is that neither Sunday-school is what it should be.
During the exercises given at the close of our literary school we had,
as I have before stated, the court house full of people, and Clanton people too; and they would sit for two or three hours in attendance upon those exercises and never complain, but when Sunday morning comes they, or a great many of them, say "Dr. Anderson or Rev.
Mr. Stevens preaches too long, and I am not going to church for I just can't stand it, those benches are too hard," and yet they are the same kind they sat on in the court house at the concert.

And another thing they do is to go down town and sit around the barber shop or soda fount and crowd the sidewalk until the little fellows, who can stand more of the hard bench in church and Sunday-school, can't hardly get through the crowd as he moves toward his pew on the hard bench. Is it possible the little ones can stand more than some of the grown up ones?
It seems so to the observer, and if matters continue as they are now the little ones will be able to stand more in the final trial than some of you older people. OBSERVER.

UNIVERSITY SCHOOL

PLANTERSVILLE, ALA.

Is a training and strictly private school for boys and girls.
Correlated to the University of Alabama and to the Alabama Polytechnic Institute.

Has fitted more pupils for college, more pupils for teaching, more pupils for advanced business positions than all other schools in Chilton county combined. It is the only school in Chilton county whose pupils have a First Grade Certificate under the present school laws.

Its course of instruction is the best arranged, its methods the soundest, most thorough and up-to-date; its scholarship the most advanced; its location, buildings, grounds, furniture, equipments, the most attractive and best adapted of any school in Chilton county.

Its pupils enter any college in the South on certificate of the Principal. It deals honestly with the public, adheres to professional courtesy, and performs its promises. Its mission is to build up, not to pull down. It is not, as some are, a mere common school called "College," "Normal," etc., by which misnomers the uninformed are misled.

Does not pay all expenses of board, tuition, fuel, lights, etc., for session of nine months. School opens September 25, 1901. Write

THE MAN ON THE CORNER
Some of the Sights He Saw, and Some He Saw Not.

These June days are warm and, I am sorry to say, make one feel lazy. The woods and creeks have a special attraction which is hard to resist. Driving behind a fast horse is pleasant, but driving a stubby old pencil like I am doing this afternoon is anything else but pleasant. I am too lazy to think, too enervated to write, too—oh, bother, too—too, it reminds me of the horns they were blowing at the show yesterday.

Tax Assessor A. C. Mims informs me of a very gratifying increase in the taxable valuation of property in Chilton county. Last year the taxable valuation was $2,350,221, and this year it amounts to $2,533,236, an increase of $183,015. There is no mistake about it, Chilton is on the up grade, and going along at a very fair pace.

The County Commissioners are in session this week, examining and comparing the books of the tax collector and the assessor. I understand they are making an exceptionally exhaustive examination. They will also fix the rate of taxation for this year at this court. It is the duty of the Board to pass upon the assessment of all the taxable property in the county, and to increase or reduce the assessment of any property if they see fit. If an assessment is increased, the owner of the property is notified to appear at the July term and show cause why the increase should not be made.

The foundations are being got out for Alfred Popwell's new brick storehouse. I was told last week that Mr. Thompson had the contract, but it was incorrect, Ben Teel being the lucky man, and he commenced work bright and early Monday morning. He will also go to work right away on A. C. Smith's new law offices. When these two buildings are up, this will make the first solid block of brick buildings in Clanton, the only wooden structure on the block being Bill Mullins' storehouse.

The Confederate Veterans Home at Mountain Creek is something we are proud of, and one of the very first inmates to go into the home was John Maxwell, who some years ago resided in Clanton. There is a number of these old soldiers ready and anxious to get admission into the Home, and no doubt as soon as possible room will be found for all of them. But it takes cash. Clanton should do itself proud by purchasing a whole pile of tickets for Gov. Bob. Taylor's lecture, every cent of the receipts going to the Soldiers Home. Mrs. Mollie Hannon has them on hand, and I hope every man in town will buy at least one—they are only fifty cents each. Put in half a dollar for the benefit of the Soldiers Home at Mountain Creek.

Only four weeks from next Friday and along comes the Fourth of July. For the last two years Clanton has given a barbecue and a good jolly time to all comers on the Fourth, but this year up to the present nothing has been said or done in the matter. How about it? Are we going to celebrate or not?

Cincinnati, Ohio, has a new baseball grandstand of steel and concrete which is probably the finest in the country. It is called the "Palace of the Fans."

Clanton, Ala., June 3, 1902
Editor Banner—We sometimes observe things or happenings that we profit from, and sometimes we observe things that we should not know anything about, but as we are not always in the right place at the right time, we, of course, become objects for observation either for good or bad.

The closing exercises of Clanton High School were indeed good and well attended, the court house being crowded to standing room both nights. The rendition of the whole program showed that the teachers had exerted every effort and the pupils all their energy that we might be highly entertained and I feel sure that everyone who attended the exercises grant that every feature of the program was a success.

It seems to me that Clanton should feel much blessed in having the services in every good work during the past year of Prof. and Mrs. Collier and Prof. Dickinson, and it is to be hoped that the trustees will not sleep over their rights, but will be up and doing and secure the services of those noble and Christian hearted people for another year. It is quite a loss to any community in school work, church work and socially, to lose such characters as are found in the persons of those teachers.

Clanton is doing well in many ways. Its churches are getting along smoothly, each having preaching twice a month and good Sunday-schools every Sunday. But my observation is that neither Sunday-school is what it should be. During the exercises given at the close of our literary school we had, as I have before stated, the court house full of people, and Clanton people too; and they would sit for two or three hours in attendance upon those exercises and never complain, but when Sunday morning comes they, or a great many of them, say "Dr. Anderson or Rev. Mr. Stevens preaches too long, and I am not going to church for I just can't stand it, those benches are too hard," and yet they are the same kind they sat on in the court house at the concert.

And another thing they do is to go down town and sit around the barber shop or soda fountain and crowd the sidewalk until the little fellows, who can stand more of the hard bench in church and Sunday-school, can't hardly get through the crowd as he moves toward his pew on the hard bench. Is it possible the little ones can stand more than some of the grown up ones? It seems so to the observer, and if matters continue as they are now the little ones will be able to stand more in the final trial than some of you older people. OBSERVER.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Starting proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklin's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. Maplesville.

We hope all encouragement from our teacher's meeting here the 6th and 7th. All patriotic citizens should encourage their efforts in raising our standard of intelligence. Let the old man who has been standing seemingly without fatigue in the old blue-back speller pointing to the hill of science, be our model.

From the account of our worthy citizen, E. Smitherman, Clanton is yet as she has ever been since her birth, the banner county for hospitality. Our friend was the registrar for this county. We think too his very dignified bearing he may have been mistaken for a minister, to whom we always give the best. SUBSCRIBER.

Sardis.

The health of our community is very good at this time; farmers are very well up with their work, though rain would do crops a great deal of good.

We were more than glad to know last Sunday morning that we were all living and going to Pilgrim; our entire crew of young people went; and had a fine time. Good order, nice dinner and fine singing was the program, or at least that was the one we noticed. I tell you there are some fine cooking girls around Pilgrim and I am under the impression that some of us are going again.

Mr. Jeff Deason and family visited relatives near Kincheon Sunday. Mr. John Klinger and wife visited Mr. Short and family Sunday. JUNE E.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks, N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good. I cheerfully recommend Kodol. Don't try to cure stomach troubles by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid."

LOST

A very small black Fice dog, wearing a leather and silver collar. Lost on Saturday, May 31; was last seen at Mr. Joe Marlar's place near Clanton. A reasonable reward will be paid for its return to Mrs. M. E. MADDOX, Thorsby, Ala.

Billingsley.

Mrs. Dan Donovan was bitten by a mad dog last Saturday morning at her home near Billingsley. The dog had been showing symptoms of madness for some days, and while Mr. Donovan had gone into Billingsley it attacked his wife, badly lacerating her arm. Surgical attendance was at once procured and every precaution taken. It was proposed to send Mrs. Donovan to New York, but she refused to go, saying she would rather remain at home.

President Roosevelt has appointed Herbert G. Squires as our first minister to Cuba. As secretary of legation at Peking, during the siege, he showed himself resourceful, brave and wise. We predict that his fairness and tact will help to make Cuba a still warmer friend to the United States.

Good Roads

Maintenance.

THE object of maintenance is to keep the roads in such a state that vehicles of all descriptions always find them in the best possible condition for travel. It is necessary, then, that it be done in a way to remove at every stage every obstacle or source of resistance to traffic, and to prevent or correct, at the beginning, all the imperfections which roads are liable to. This result can be obtained only by means of a constant watchfulness, and by the application of resources constantly at hand. The excellent roads of Europe, of fine, good construction, and of constant systematic, and efficient maintenance, are the result of this policy. On these roads a force of men is continually employed, making repairs, and any defect, however slight, is immediately repaired.
It is considered that the necessity for constant repairs is an evidence of poor construction in the original construction of the road. This prompt and efficient maintenance explains the superior condition of the roadways of Europe.

The men who have these repairs in charge are called in this line of work, and their positions because they are responsible for the maintenance of the roads with them, as it has in this country. These men are removed for any reason. It takes years to educate men in the art of road building and the proper method to be employed in making repairs. Generally in this country cities and towns pay for educating the men in charge of their roads, and then provide them with the tools and equipment necessary to make them right. It is the only way to have good roads. The trained road builder is just as necessary as the trained doctor, manufacturer or educator.

Take, for instance, the method employed in making repairs on dirt and gravel roads with a road machine.
In a great many towns you will find the road officials, once a year at least, at work with this machine, taking the road material which the water has washed from the road into the gutters and putting it back in the center of the road. This is wrong, because the material is worn out. It is soft and it is disintegrating. It is dusty, and when wet makes mud, which holds the water, thus injuring the road. It is necessary to keep a road clean as much as to keep it level. It lengthens the life of a road and it should not be covered with this worn, loose, worthless material.

The proper maintenance of roads is a science. In nine cases out of ten, traveling through the different towns you may find both the horses and wheels travel, and quite often in good natural road material. There is no need for this if a proper system of maintenance is employed, and these roads can be maintained for small sums of money, if promptly and properly attended to and with some discipline. For instance, if depressions are filled and not allowed to develop into deep ruts, it will not only be more comfortable to the traveler, but the water would not be held, but would run off the surface of the road. Standing water is a detriment to any road.
The very best constructed road will soon go to pieces unless it is kept constantly in repair, just the same as a building.

How Progress is Blocked.

Notably the greatest obstacle to the improvement of the country roads in the State of Ohio at the present time is the antiquated law now in force requiring all road work to be done under the supervision of some person who must be elected from among the voters of the road district, without any regard to his fitness, experience or qualifications for the work. No matter how good a road builder a non-resident may be, or how useful his knowledge may be to the roads, the law does not permit him to touch them or to allow the public to avail itself of his skill.
If he were he a resident and voter and is elected to the position of road superintendent, he cannot use his skill in the construction of roads unless he consents to do it without compensation.
The State prevents him from receiving one cent more than the common laborer.

Under the present law there is no possibility of chance for a skilled road builder to get any road building to do.
and there is no inducement for a man to prepare himself for the vocation.
A bill originating with the Portage County Good Roads Association has been introduced into the Legislature by C. F. Suse, of Hudson, repealing the law, and putting the selection of road supervisors into the hands of the township trustees. It gives the trustees practically the same powers with respect to road supervisors that boards of education have in the employment of teachers for the schools.
They can employ the best skill they can find, and pay such wages as they may deem justified in. They can remove them whenever they think the good of the service demands it.

This bill, if it becomes a law, will open up the needed opportunity for road builders. A man can prepare himself for this work with some prospect of getting road building to do. Trustees would soon find themselves supplied with applicants qualified to do this work. The principles of good road building are well established, and simple, but they cannot be ignored or neglected without disaster to the roads.

Portage County Good Roads Association.

SAFES IN CHURCHES.

Uses to Which They Are Put—Steel Boxes
Beware Now.

"Yes," said a safe manufacturer,
"safes are used in churches, to some extent, but not to keep money in, because money isn't kept in churches.
What they are used for here is to keep the church records and papers in for one thing, and for another for the preservation and safe keeping of the church plate and sacred vessels.
A church buying a safe for the preservation of its books and records and so on would very probably buy one second hand. It would commonly be kept somewhere in the basement of the church, out of the way and it would very probably be built into a wall. It would not be essential that it should be burglar proof.

"On the other hand, safes for church plate and sacred vessels might in some cases contain pieces of great value and would be made for protection against burglars as well as against fire. Such safes might be specially designed and built to hold the particular vessels kept in them.

"But while the use of regular safes in churches is confined to the purposes described there are now used in churches of all denominations many strong boxes of steel in place of the old time boxes of wood, poor boxes and gilded boxes for the reception of offerings and contributions, placed permanently in the churches attached to the wall in vestibules or in the body of the church.

"Such boxes, of course, are not intended to keep money in for any length of time, and the amount in them at any time may not be great. But made of wood and locked with an ordinary lock they are liable to be broken open and rifled or the whole box to be carried off, for that matter, by thieves.

"These steel boxes are bolted to the wall, so that they can't be torn loose.
While it is as easy to drop money into this steel strong box is so contrived that money cannot be fished out of it, and it has a combination lock. It isn't intended to be fire proof, and so it serves its purpose and it is moreover comparatively inexpensive."—New York Sun.

WORDS OF WISDOM.

Talking leads to love and love to likeness.
Many words do not make much wisdom.
The braggart deceives no one but himself.
Actual liberty centres in essential loyalty.
It takes a great man to comprehend himself.
Many a man must lose his all to find himself.
The great life is made up of greatness in little.
It is hard to be healed when we hide our wounds.
No man fails of success who conquers himself.
A man may be judged by his judgments of others.
The pearls of truth lie deep in the sea of patience.
It is still worth while to be right no matter who is wrong.
The foolish bark at truth because it is a stranger to them.
The things which make us happy are those to which we have given our hearts.
Hearts that will not melt in the sunshine of love will melt in the flame of wrath.—Rumi's Horn.

Tramps' Gatepost Signs.

"The rude drawings hardly need a key. When on some white gatepost I found the sketch of a gun, I stole further down the road; I had a strong objection so early in my career to being ridiculed full of holes by some intrepid farmer. The outline of a dog with warlike proportions, with wild eyes and ferocious teeth was wont to make me go breakfastless. My summer wardrobe was not in condition to allow of further mutilation. If I felt brave enough to kick a yelling cur, I sauntered in recklessly at the gate which bore a portrait of a toy dog. Once past him one could usually get a bite. A big round 'O' did not make one wild to approach the premises it adorned; it generally portrayed a hostess with a nature of adamant. A single 'X' stood for a cross saw, which with small manipulation might earn a meal; two X's make a tramp of none too vigorous a make-up go farther down the road; it suggested considerable wood-cutting in exchange for a meal. The sign every tramp looks for anxiously is a crudely drawn table with a lopsided coffee cup and a plate upon it.
Beyond that gatepost dwells a sweet, simple, motherly soul, who will welcome the most dilapidated hobo into her spotless kitchen and set before him a good square meal. She may sit beside him inquiring as to the safety of his soul, and she may give him a mother's gentle advice. Or, she may have a story to tell, tearfully, of a wayward boy, lost somewhere in the great world, and all the fee she asks for her gracious hospitality is a simple request that in the wanderings of her quest, he may look for her absent boy and give him a loving message of a mother's longing and watching."—Walter Jones, in Good Housekeeping.

Talks About

Domankind

The Ping-Pong Waist.
The ping-pong shirt waist has arrived. It is made in various stuffs, wash silks principally, but the prettiest model yet shown is of pongee, tucked and stitched, the stitching done in silk of a contrasting color. The stock and cravat are of pongee, but the ends of the latter are ornamented with a ping-pong bat and ball, embrodered in colored silk. Sometimes the deep, turned-back cuffs are amusingly adorned.

Women's Hats Over the Edge.
Most of the new models come well forward over the brow, but a few here and there are intended to be worn off the face. One of these in yellow straw rests on a band of black velvet running round the front and curving back behind the ears. This is concealed by a row of medium-sized pink muslin roses, except in the center, where a bow of black velvet is introduced.
Outside are several larger roses, with leaves made up into a wreath, with points of black lace. Four of these points compose a butterfly bow at the back, fastened in the center by a ca-bouchon made of straw braids.—Millinery Trade Review.

Indian Girls at a Santa Fe School.
The manual part of their instruction is housewifery. They learn to make their blue gingham gowns. They pick their unadorned, little, aboriginal fingers with needles and the threads grow red from the blood that trickles from their wounds. They learn to wash and to iron. Even a knowledge of fluting is not denied them. They are taught the difficult art of bedmaking in the long white dormitories where they take their institutional sleep.
They learn to cook American dishes in the American fashion. Oatmeal, hash, mashed potatoes and pie take the place of the frijoles and the roots they knew about the tepee.

But the Indian girls learn to sew for their Paris dolls. They have toy tubs, toy clothes horses, toy ironing boards and boards that mademoiselles' fine frilled garments may always be kept immaculate and crisp. They have tiny sewing boxes that her ladyship's belongings may be kept in fair repair, and one of the quietest sights in the Santa Fe school is that of the small Indian damsel withdrawn from the games of her companions making doll clothes in the latest fashion.—Ainslee's Magazine.

Fashions in Jewels.

Never has the cult of the jewel been studied with greater zest than it is at present, let alone the fact that jewelry is more worn than ever, and that there is immense scope for the skill of the designer. It is a fact of the owners of fine gems to have them reset occasionally, working out the designs themselves. Louis Quinze and Louis Seize designs are the genres of the moment, and lend themselves particularly well to the setting of the diamonds and em-eralds, while the large cabochons are likewise very much in vogue and give a piquancy to a dainty and elaborate piece of bijouterie.

The huge single emerald is effective in rings, while for the corsage all sorts of birds, fern and flower designs are to be seen. The prettiest style of collure ornament for the regular featured type of face is the little circular bandieu formed of minute, multi-colored gems with a large pearl or diamond just on the forehead. It gives a distinctly Egyptian effect.

Enamelled wreaths sparkling with an occasional diamond like a drop of dew in among the leaves are charming.
They require that the hair should be coiffe to the very best advantage—so arranged, in fact, that the wreath nestles becomingly into it and does not stand out aggressively.

A Return to Past Modes.

Two old friends are to make a reappearance this summer, namely, grenadine and the hat of chipped straw, which was usually trimmed with wreaths of flowers and loops of black velvet ribbon, and will be again. Black grenadine looks beautiful over a color, and proves a really economical purchase, for, if it is of good quality it wears well. It is very charming, too, mounted upon white tulle, and decorated effectively with tulle; moreover, it lends itself to lace insertions, and lawn ones as well, with the lace set into the lawn. A full skirt of silver gray grenadine, worn with a straight and very pointed bodice made after the manner of the Watteau period, with a white fichu, and a floppy white chip hat, with tiny crimson ambler roses for a trimming, would form a truly picturesque costume.
Then, again, the long ostrich feather, it must not be forgotten, was a constant companion of the chip hat away back in the forties, when women played archery and looked so graceful with their big bows and arrows and their full skirts.

All the flimsy summer frocks must have full skirts and flounces—flounces everywhere—wherefore the fichu and the new pelerine bow will appropriately be worn. Neither can be seen to their advantage with a tightly-fitted skirt, for the result of such a partnership is incongruous. The pelerine bow is fastly flounced and ruffled so that it forms quite a cape upon the shoulders and it has long ends in which its resemblance to a lion is traceable. In the skin are discoverable plenty of virtues, the most obvious being the adaptability of the dense folds to the beauty of every age from sixteen to sixty, and still older.—Philadelphia Record.

The Old-fashioned Swing.
A sensible mother said one day, in discussing the methods she had followed in bringing up her children, that the old-fashioned swing would give a growing boy all the gymnastic exercise he needed. She might have added that it was equally good for small growing girls.

This device, one of the simplest and least expensive known to man, has almost gone out of fashion for children.
Anybody who was brought up in a country village, where the swing was as much a part of the furniture of the yard as was the front doorstep, knows what a delight it was to children of all ages and sexes. To one who possesses these memories the modern apology for a swing, with its railed round seat and ugly framework, is positively painful.
Where is the chance for exercise in that machine? What child old enough to have a mind of its own wants to get into a cradle and be swung back and forth by a nurse?

The old-fashioned swing was a rope hung in a long loop, with a notched board placed in the loop, and the child could sit or stand, according to age and ability. Expert youngsters could "swing standing up" until the rope was nearly horizontal, the weight of the body holding it taut, so that the danger of accidents was practically non-existent. The falls which children have had from the swings were, in nine cases out of ten, the result of scuffling or malicious pushing, and not of the amusement itself. It is one of those amusements which look a good deal more dangerous than they are. In acquiring momentum every muscle is brought into play, and the hands and arms are strengthened gradually, without strain, so that all the benefits of athletic training are secured, together with recreation, and that is always a good point to make with children.—

WOMEN AND THEIR WAYS.

In Cape Colony the women vote.

In British Burma women taxers vote in the rural districts.

Miss Helen Gould has sent two fine paintings to the Normal and Industrial

College at Greensboro, N. C. Miss

Gould recently visited the institution.

The Woman's Club, of Flemington

N. J. has presented the city with a handsome drinking fountain, costing $400. It provides water for dogs and horses as well as for human beings.

Emma C. Sicksels, an American, has been awarded a gold medal by the International Society of La Savateur of Paris, France, for exceptional bravery in checking the Indian war of 1890.

At the yearly executive of the International Council of Women, to be held in Copenhagen, Denmark, during the coming summer, Mrs. William Toe

Helmuth will represent the United States Council.

Jenny Hirsch, who recently died in Berlin, aged seventy-two, was one of the pioneers in the movement for securing a better education for German women and superior opportunities for earning a living.

Miss Virginia Meredith is at the head of the girls' department of the agricultural school of the University of Minnesota. She has a large stock farm in Indiana, and is known as one of the most successful breeders of cattle in the West.

Perhaps the only woman known to have discovered a very valuable mine is Mrs. Hortense Adams, of Boise,

Idaho. After locating her claims she studied the methods of an expert man ager, and in a short time assumed the entire management herself. Within five months she refused one-quarter of a million dollars for her property.

—Pretty—Things—To Wear.

Fan shaped motifs form the edgings to many of the laces used this season.

Long sash ends of black tulle with knots half the length are effective on evening gowns.

The feature in the summer goods is the silky finish and the openwork striping in the weaving.

Barege, embellished with lace and gagging is one of the favorite materials for summer gowns.

Little shallow scallops or tiny flounces cut in the form of miniature vandyke decorate some of the newest skirts.

Parisian and home dressmakers have made a specialty this season of simple pretty blouse and skirt suits of lines and ducky in delicate colorings.

Unlined blouses or slips of point d'esprit and ring spotted net are embellished with medallions of lace and threaded with black bebe velvet ribbons.

The faille has not entirely disappeared, but it is treated in new ways.
An illustration that is very effective is a black net worked with black spangles and the most minute steel ones.

The fashionable milliners have discarded Irish crochet lace this season, but the dressmakers have not, and either as entire trimming or in combination with other lace it appears on the majority of the season's handsomest models.

AGRICULTURAL.

Having a Large Onion Crop.

Onions should go in rich ground, but the most important work with growing them is to get them planted early, and to keep the ground clear of weeds at the beginning. It is the quick start that makes the onion crop large.

Selection of Corn Seed.

When planting corn try a few rows with selected seed. No pluff is more readily improved by selection than corn, and the farmer can improve for himself better than can be done for him by others, as the soil, climate and other local conditions influence the growth. While the corn is growing is also an excellent time to make observations and select seed.

Gas in the Cheese Curd.

Formation of gas in the cheese curd gives it a spongy light texture which is very undesirable. When the particles of curd are cut across they are found to be full of minute holes. To prevent the trouble, heat the curd at high 88-90 degrees and keep the temperature from falling. At the same time favor the escape of gas by frequent turning and piling of the curd.
This must continue until the formation of gas has ceased.

A Boy's Strawberry Bed.

Every spring the small boy on the farm has a longing for his own little plot of ground, that he may raise something—he is not at all particular about the crop. A good way to utilize this bit of ground is in putting out a strawberry bed. It will not bring very quick results, as there will be little or no fruit until the following summer, but it will pay in the end.
Certainly it is worth trying, if the farmer lacks this important "small fruit. The farmer may not care to put out a strawberry bed himself, but he will plow up the plot of ground for his son, and instruct him how to go about the work. After the boy has his ground prepared, he can secure thrifty plants from some neighbor who will suggest best varieties for certain localities, and will also give advice about the setting out of the plants and their subsequent care. A little work and a good deal of patient waiting, but the next season will bring good results.
If the bed is large enough and the boy has done his work well, he may not only supply his own family with strawberries, but may have some for market as well. Suppose the boys, who every summer walk miles in search of a wild strawberry bed, will try raising their own berries.—M.
Palmer Sweet, in The Epitome.

Homemade Pole Drag.

For many uses I have found a pole drag a very serviceable implement; better than a roller because it will level and pulverize without packing the soil. The one I use is shown in the accompanying illustration. It is made of three hardwood poles six inches in diameter and seven and one-half feet long. The poles are fastened together about one foot apart by means of short pieces of chains. For a seat bolt a piece of board to the middle of the first pole and allow it to extend slightly beyond the last one. On this fasten an old mowing machine seat. This arrangement will hold the seat in place and allow the poles to work independently. The seat can be easily removed, making it much easier to steer the drag when not in use. The drag may be drawn by a short chain attached to the centre of the first pole or the doubletree may be connected with chains from each end of the first pole.

Homestead.

Concerning Chickens.

The spring and summer eggs are always the cheapest and easiest to get, and in a great many cases they hardly pay for the cost of wintering the layers. Eggs sell for two or three times as much in the late fall and winter as they do from the first of April to the first of October. Two or three dozen eggs in the former season are consequently worth from six to nine dozen laid in the spring and summer.
Our profits consequently must largely come from the eggs laid out of season, I would not give much for the owner of a poultry flock who could not get plenty of eggs in the spring and summer, but I have great respect for those who can get two eggs in the fall and winter where another manages to get one or one and a half. This may not be the time of the year to consider fall and winter laying, but if you will stop to think a moment you will find that it is just the right time to begin laying plans for the fall months. It is only by carefully rearing and selecting a flock of birds which will lay in the fall and winter season that we make a success of it. If any one thinks it is an easy matter to let hens go ahead and lay right along, and then when fall comes expect them to keep it up, he is bound to disappointment.

The first essential for next fall and winter laying is to select our flock of birds this spring. The best layers last winter and fall should now be selected for next year's work. They should form the breeding stock to rear new layers for the cold season. They should be selected carefully, and then be kept in pens or yards by themselves, crossing them with the best males on the farm. Half the battle is fought out by selecting from known good layers

"One Minute Cough Cure" beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Curran of Logansport, Pa. "One Minute Cough Cure is the only absolutely safe cough remedy which acts immediately. Mothers everywhere testify to the good it has done their little ones. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs."

His Luck. A citizen of the city of New York, who had been a member of the city of New York, was found in the city of New York.

Four Alternatives. In his recent letter to me, discussed with dialectical possibilities of "four alternatives." In assuming that there can be more than two, the word of the Treasury is merely the example of Mr. Gladstone, in his "Home" says: "My reference is for the fourth and one alternative." The necessary expression in English would justify the use of the word in a manner. If you are offered one of which you must choose, you are graciously to choose. May you call them "alternatives" or "possibilities". All of these terms are useful, but the word "alternatives" is the most practical in giving an alternative some extra work. Strictly speaking, the word has no plural, but to the common use of giving it one, there is no alternative.—London

Gray Hair

"I have used Ayer's Hair Vigor for over thirty years. It has kept my scalp free from dandruff and has prevented my hair from turning gray."—Mrs. F. A. Seale, Billings, Mont.

There is this peculiar thing about Ayer's Hair Vigor—it is a hair food, not a dye. Your hair does not suddenly turn black, look dead and lifeless. But gradually the old color comes back,—all the rich, dark color it used to have. The hair stops falling, too.

The Oceanic, says a London newspaper, recently had her full complement of passengers. She carried no fewer than 357 first class passengers, thirty-eight maids and valets, 259 second class and 1,300 third class passengers. The first-class passengers, reckoning them at £40 a head, amounted to £14,280. The maids and valets, reckoning them at £12 a head, amounted to £4,656. The second-class passengers, reckoning them at £10 a head, amounted to £2,590, and the third-class passengers, who pay £6 apiece, realized £7,800. The total reaches £25,136. This, of course, is independent of the profit on wines, spirits, cigars and the like. The cost of running the Oceanic is about £7,000.

Mrs. Annie McKay, Chaplain Sons of Temperance, 326 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Cured of Severe Female Troubles by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Being a mother of five children I have had experience with the general troubles of my sex. I was lacerated when one of my children was born and from that hour I date all my afflictions. I found that within a few months my health was impaired, I had female weakness and serious inflammation and frequent flooding. I became weak and dizzy but kept on my feet, dragging through my work without life or pleasure. A neighbor who had been helped by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound insisted that I take at least one bottle. I did so and felt so much better that I kept on the treatment. For seven months I used the Compound faithfully and gladly do I say it, health and strength are mine once more. I know how to value it now when it was so nearly lost, and I appreciate how great a debt I owe you. The few dollars I spent for the medicine cannot begin to pay what it was worth to me. Yours very truly, MRS. ANNA MCKAY, Chaplain Sons of Temperance."

Otho Ogletree, the Luverne merchant who was arrested on the charge of having set fire to his store to rob the insurance companies, has been released on preliminary examination for lack of evidence to sustain the charge. Rolan and Fred Fisher, justices of the peace in Woodstock, Albert Tidwell, a white man, was bound over without bail to await the action of the grand jury, charged with the assassination of P. P. There is a contest on between Birmingham Belt Railroad Company and the Seaboard Air Line. It appears from surface indications that the Belt Railroad is determined to preempt and occupy entirely certain of the streets upon which the city of Birmingham has granted the Seaboard Air Line the privilege of laying tracks and the outlying territory the Seaboard asked of the county.

Fire caught in some shavings in the planing mill of Mr. R. L. May at Cuba, and it soon consumed the entire building, which contained, besides the planer, a ginnery and grist mill. From this the New hotel caught on fire repeatedly, but each time was put out by the bucket brigade. A long row of cotton seed houses by the railroad track were not so easily protected, and soon all were in ashes. One of them, belonging to Mr. W. E. McGowan, contained several hundred bushels of corn. Two cars on the siding were burned several others were pushed out of the way, but there was not room for all on the track.

According to statistics obtained from high sources the number of cars handled by the three railroads operating at Sheffield for the month of April is very near 3,000 mark. This is four times the amount handled at Decatur and Huntsville combined, and over four times that of Florence, Tusculum and Decatur. These figures are compiled day by day, and represent the actual traffic handled at this point by the railroads, not including the large amount of river freight consigned to this city.

TO IMPEACH McEACHERN.

Governor J. J. McEachern, to Institute Proceedings. Montgomery, Ala.—Gov. Jelks has instructed Solicitor Parks to institute impeachment proceedings in the Circuit Court against J. O. McEachern, tax assessor of the county of Geneva. The proceedings are brought on petition of citizens under the statute and the charges are habitual drunkenness and neglect of duty. Newton having been found short and given up by his bondsmen with the result that he has lost the office through failure to make a new bond.

A JUDGE'S WIFE CURED OF PELVIC CATARRH

She Suffered for Years and Felt Her Case Was Hopeless—Cured by PERUNA.

Mrs. Judge McAllister writes from 1217 West 2nd St., Minneapolis, Minn., as follows:

"I suffered for years with a pain in the back of my head and right side. It interfered often with my domestic and social duties and I never supposed that I would be cured, as the doctor's medicine did not seem to help me any."

"Fortunately a member of our Order advised me to try Peruna and gave it such high praise that I decided to try it. Although I started in with little faith, I felt so much better in a week that I felt encouraged."

"I took it faithfully for seven weeks and am happy indeed to be able to say that I am entirely cured. It was a great relief to me. Perfect health once more is the best thing I could wish for, and thanks to Peruna I enjoy that now."

Minnie E. McAllister.

We would caution all people against accepting substitutes for Peruna. Insist upon having Peruna. There is no other internal remedy for catarrh that will take the place of Peruna. Allow no one to persuade you to the contrary.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

THE BANNER

LET THE PEOPLE TALK

CLANTON, ALA. THURSDAY JUNE 12, 1902

NO. 34

VOL. X

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

There was a young man of Clanton.
And he was a very gallant 'un.
On the fiddle he played A sweet serenade.
Now he stands all the time I am saddly afraid.
For the old man with his foot squarely did plant 'un.

Clang! clang! went the fire bell on Wednesday morning a little before eleven o'clock, and there was a catching up of buckets and a stream of men running down the street towards the residence of Mr.
O. R. Bell, but luckily before they could get there the fire was under control and the services of the bucket brigade were not needed.
But it was a goodly turn out on short notice; there must have been fifty or sixty men who were willing to fight fire this hot weather. Good for the boys!

Last Friday night just before the south-bound mail was due at Clanton, a box car on a freight train jumped off the trucks at the junction of the switch and the main line in the cutting, completely blocking the line. The wrecking train from Montgomery came up and for three hours they worked to clear the track, while the passengers on Nos. 3 and 4 waited with exemplary patience. It is a weird sight, the wrecking crew flitting about with lanterns, while the fire light throws a ruddy glow all around. It smacks of "fiends, ghosts and spirits that haunt the night," but anyway the "fiends" worked with a will, and the passengers rejoiced when they resumed their journey.

Never in the history of the world did a town more gladly capitulate than did Clanton last Friday morning when we were assailed and the town carried by storm by a party of beautiful young ladies from Montgomery, whose mission was the disposal of tickets for Gov.
Bob Taylor's lecture at the capital city for the benefit of the Soldier's Home at Mountain Creek.

The attack was sudden and gallant and the capitulation complete.
How was it possible to resist?
Who could be so stoney-hearted as to refuse the terms offered by the fair invaders? Those terms were,
"buy a ticket for fifty cents" and everyone bought at least one, and some purchased more. Judge Adams investing in ten.

The young ladies were imbued with the spirit of their ancestors, which on many a hard-fought field carried everything before them.
Their cause was good, and there was no resisting the artillery of their eyes. When the question was asked, "Won't you buy a ticket?" that settled it. Of course you bought one, and if you stopped at one, it is wonderful how you did it.
Some seventy or eighty tickets were disposed of in the morning, and the ladies were the guests of
Dr. W. E. Stewart and Mr. W.
M. Adams for lunch. In the afternoon they were escorted to the ball grounds by Mr. J. H. Middleton, where a match was in progress between the local nines.

Adams.

The death angel visited our community on June 3d and carried away little Walter King, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. King, aged two years and six months. He was sick only a few days. Weep not, father and mother, for your child is a shining angel in heaven to-day.

Closed are the eyes that looked in ours
With childhood's happy glee.
Silent the voice that fell upon
Our ears so merrily.
Cold is the heart once warm and true.
In death's chilled grasp it lies.
But well we know your darling lives
With God in paradise.
And we know when life is done
And evening shades appear,
That winter's snow nor summer's heat
No more shall vex you here.
And when you cross the cold dark stream
And gain the other shore,
You to your hearts the white robed form
Of your loved one gone before.
O God be merciful to the bereaved
Their sorrows to console.
Help them dear Lord to come to thee
And find sweet rest for their soul.
Help them our Father to believe
In the blood of thine only Son.
In sorrows and afflictions sore.
To say Thy will be done.
A. B. DEASON.

Burwell.

The Boer war is ended, but still the world moves on just the same and it is full of news. To learn this news is to look in the columns of the weekly Banner, which comes to the subscriber 52 times a year.
Mrs. S. A. Pierce has been visiting relatives at Deatsville.
Farmers are busy at work and are needing rain badly.
Health of our community very good.

The oat crop, we fear, is injured for lack of rain.
The Sunday-school is progressing nicely at this place. The young people seem to take great interest in the good work.
Mrs. L. Kendrick returned home from Birmingham last week.
She reports a pleasant time and plenty of rain.

East Chilton.

After wandering many days in the aspiring fields of knowledge seeking, and after meeting with many who have become endeared to me by the ties of friendship, and after suffering the pangs which naturally accompany the parting of loved ones I return as the "prodigal," and ask my old father (The Banner) to once more take me into his loving embrace and let us converse as in the past, from East Chilton.

J. N. Goss began his school here last week with prospects pointing to a successful career;
though the attendance is small.
Those present this week are twenty.
Farmers are progressing nicely, though crops are very much in need of rain.
J. N. Goss visited old friends at Clanton Sunday.
W. N. Pierce went to Clanton
Saturday on business.
Let me say that I disagree with one writer on the suffrage clause, but for fear that I will get up a political discussion, and as I am not much politician I will not say more on the subject.
Fearing this will only find its way to the waste basket, I will wait and say more anon.

Billingsley.

Hon. M. A. Smith of Prattville was a recent visitor here.
Misses Willie Marlar and Alice Broadhead are recovering from a severe attack of fever we are glad to say.
An exchange has the following editorial: "Verily rough streets and sidewalks are evidences of a town's growth." If this is true Billingsley is growing sure.
Capt. W. W. Carter went to Pletcher recently.
Mrs. Price of Vick is spending some days with her son Mr. W. L.
Price at this place.
Born to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Smith a fine boy recently.

Concord.

The co-operation of the Sunday-schools of Concord and Providence in Children's day exercises was a success. The march was arranged, and consisted of the members of both schools, of which there was about 150; marched a short distance and returned to the house to listen to the recitations prepared by the children and the lectures prepared by the young men chosen to represent the different classes of the Sunday-schools. The admonitions given us by our pastor, Rev.
W. J. Armstrong, was very instructive, as was the recitations and lectures of the children and young men. The song service was well rendered. Thanks to all for their aid in the service, and the contribution of $5.15 to aid in carrying on the work intrusted to us by our Saviour. There was some interesting talks made in the afternoon on the importance of Sunday-school work. There was a large congregation and everyone seemed to enjoy themselves. Some of the people of Clanton attended the service, and one of whom was Uncle Patrick Smith. I think this is Uncle Patty's first visit among us; come again, Uncle Patty, and everybody come, and let's have a good time and enjoy ourselves in the Master's work in Children's day exercise and in everything.
All work with renewed energy and zeal to accomplish more next year than we have this. Thanking all for kindness shown us.

A Real Friend.

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says
W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks,
N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good.
I cheerfully recommend Kodol.
Don't try to cure stomach troubles
by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stomach's aid.

Virulent Cancer Cured.

Starting proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, W.
Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious,

Every time an automobile breaks the record on the public highway, the continent of the average citizen is divided between a feeling of admiration and an impression that the owner ought to have been arrested.

J. Pierpont Morgan has Europe pretty well frightened by his schemes of capitalization and control. There is some satisfaction in feeling that the apprehensions on the subject are not to be confined to the United States.

H. M. S. Terrible seems to be the Cragon of the British Navy. She holds the record for target practice, and now, according to a story from Hong Kong, she has made a new coal record—2500 tons in nine hours and ten minutes.

To call another man a liar in parliamentary language is no less an art than a science, and statesmen should make a study of it. Senator Blackburn, of Kentucky, holds the reputation of having made a signal success in the Senate when once he said of a statement just made by a colleague that "it goes without saying that the truth is innocent of any appearance in that statement."

The Census Bureau figures that the area of the United States and its insular possessions aggregates 3,690,822 square miles, which makes it fifth among the nations of the earth in territorial size. Great Britain leads with 11,258,277 square miles; Russia comes second with an area of 8,644,100 square miles; China third, with 4,234,913 square miles, and France follows with 3,944,092 square miles.

In Scotland they are having a controversy over the question of whether or not the boy is assisted in getting an education by a judicious application of the strap once in a while. The controversy is getting hot. One party to it says to another: "Your contention that it is the purest kindness to administer a flagellatory stimulus to the vicious or disobedient child, irrespective of sex or size, lucidly displays either that you are sadly lacking in knowledge of educational science, or that you speak the excuses of the incompetent teacher."

It has come at last—the hitching-post for the automobile. If the machine is guaranteed to stand without hitching, that may be only another way of saying, that—like the horse David Harum sold to the deacon—Hitching-post, states the New York Post. Ordinary iron hitching-posts are used, or rings in the sidewalk, and the hitching-post, which no automobile should be without, is a wire cable with a padlock. So many persons have learned to operate these machines that it is now considered unsafe to leave them free and unwatched in the streets.

The young women at the University of Indianapolis contended in a debate with the young men that "pie is not of greater service to mankind than ice cream." When these young women become experienced wives they will feel shame that they should have decried the value of pie. When there are big hills for spring suits and spring dresses to be paid they will fill their husbands with pie, knowing that under its benign influence all the genial and generous impulses will be awakened, exclaims the Philadelphia Record. The fancy for ice cream is a mere passing characteristic of young womanhood; but the passion for pie which fills the breast of every woman man is an enduring source of happiness to the tactful wife.

OUR STATE BUDGET.

Interesting Happenings in Our Own State.

PUSH, PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

The Cream of State Specials Condensed.—Matters Industrial and Otherwise.

—Old St. Clair county has furnished State superintendents and judges and governors, but Mr. Abercrombie is her first President of the State University.

—The Alabama Baptist Convention will meet in New Decatur, A.A., June 24, 25, and 26. The Baptist churches of the State will be represented. The suggested program is very elaborate.

—Thomas Paulk, of Warner, and H. Stark, of Talladega, have filed petitions in bankruptcy in the United States court at Birmingham. The latter is a merchant. His liabilities are about $10,000 and his assets $2,500.

—Ground has already been broken for the building of the Birmingham Medical College at Avenue F and Twentieth street, Birmingham. It is to cost $19,000. The foundation is being laid.

—The rails have been laid on the car line between Ensley and Wyland are now ready for the poles and wires. Work on the side tracks of the new car plant at Wyland is being pushed rapidly, and the sidings are nearing completion.

—David Knight, a well to do farmer residing in the eastern part of Madison county, was ambushed and probably fatally shot near Gurley, James Mastin, a negro, was arrested and for a time indignation was strained to such a pitch that the officers feared Mastin would be lynched. However, he was safely lodged in jail.

—Interest in the religious revival that is going on in Selma does not flag. The preachers have decided to commence holding services this week upon the street corners. Last week services were held every afternoon at the gates of the Southern shops and good crowds heard the men of God.

—Paul Johnson, the 4-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Johnson, 2179 Highland avenue, Birmingham, died Friday night at St. Vincent's Hospital of injuries received by a fall earlier in the day. The little fellow fell from a second-story window onto a tile floor, and his skull was fractured.

—A barrel just emptied of whiskey was placed in the back yard of Bucheit's saloon, New Decatur, and as Will Baker, a negro, 12 years old, was looking down the bung of the barrel it exploded, igniting the boy's clothing and burning him severely. Heat of the sun had caused the whiskey to ignite, resulting in an explosion.

—The Chattanooga Southern has completed preliminary surveys south of Gadsden for new connections. For several years the owners of the road have been of the opinion that the best thing to do was to build a connection with the East and West, whenever that road shall be extended. The recent purchase of the East and West by the Seaboard Air Line and the prospects of the early extension of the line both to Atlanta and to Birmingham, is now directing the attention of the owners of the Chattanooga Southern more sharply to the work of extension than before.

—The Huntsville Chamber of Commerce is in correspondence with Connecticut parties who desire to establish branch of the non-rustable stove pipe concern there; Delaware people who want to build a button factory in that city; Philadelphia capitalists who want to establish a knitting mill; Rhode Island men who have a manufactory of cheap jewelry for some Southern towns; New York capitalists a cotton mill. Hon. R. E. Pettus, president of the chamber, says that he regards the chances favorable for the majority of the new plants.

A negro giving his name as R. B. Allen, and who claimed to have been born and lived in Alabama until several years ago, when he went to the state of Ohio, was arrested at the White House today and will probably be sent to St. Elizabeth's insane asylum. Allen was one of the first visitors at the White House. When stopped by a policeman he said he was the "Human Electric Battery," and tried to force his way to the President.

—At Wilmer, Ala., it is alleged by the man's wife, an unknown negro shot and instantly killed Willis Tanner, an aged merchant of that place, and escaped. Wilmer is a little village on the Mobile, Jackson and Kansas City Railroad, about twenty-four miles from Mobile.

—The very gratifying news is received in a telegram from Congressman Bowie that the President had approved the bill containing the appropriation of $75,000 for a public building in Selma. Telegrams of congratulation and thanks were sent Mr. Bowie from several citizens of the city.

—Hal C. Manley, a Chicago picture agent, accused of criminal knowledge of Miss Leila Benson, by aid of drugs, was arraigned in the justice court and the case not pressed. Manley was fined $10 for public drunkenness. His parents live in Tennessee and are well to do. When first arrested Manley's life was threatened by a mob, and he was taken to Huntsville for safe keeping. Miss Benson is in Birmingham with her aunt and did not appear at the trial.

—John S. Oldham of Birmingham was awarded a verdict for $5,000 damages against the Birmingham Railway, Light and Power Company for personal injuries. The plaintiff was suing for $25,000 and this is the second time the case has been heard. Suit was brought for the loss of the plaintiff's right arm, which accident he claimed was due to the negligence of the defendants' servants. While alighting from an Avondale car last November, on Eighth avenue and Fifteenth street, the plaintiff was struck by a car going in an opposite direction, which accident caused his arm to be amputated.

TERRELL WINS FOR GOVERNOR

Defeats Estill and Guerry, His Opponents in Georgia Primary.

Atlanta, Ga.—Returns received from the Democratic primaries held throughout this state nominate the following ticket for Governor and State officials:

For Governor, J. M. Terrell; for Secretary of State, Philip Cook; for Comptroller General, W. A. Wright; for State Treasurer, E. Park; for Attorney General, J. C. Hart; for State School Commissioner, W. B. Merritt; for Commissioner of Agriculture, O. B. Stevens; for Prison Commissioner, Thomas Eason; for Associate Justices of Supreme Court, A. J. Cobb, Samuel Lumpkin.

United States Senator A. S. Clay was renominated for the six-year term.

The following candidates were chosen for Congress, each candidate receiving renomination except T. W. Hardwick in the tenth, who won over W. H. Fleming, the present incumbent. R. E. Lester, J. M. Griggs, E. B. Lewis, W. C. Adams, L. F. Livingston, C. L. Bartlett, J. W. Maddox, W. M. Howard, F. C. Tate, T. W. Hardwick and William Brantley. The result of the nomination is virtually an election, as no other political party in the state will place an opposition ticket in the field. The election of the ticket as nominated today will be held in October next.

A heavy vote was polled throughout the state and advices received give Terrell a large majority over Estill and Guerry, the other two candidates entered in the gubernatorial race. Terrell carried this (Fulton) county by a safe majority.

OVER ONE HUNDRED THOUSAND

Sum to Be Devoted to Establishing a Chair of Economics.

Lexington, Va.—Washington and Lee University has received from the committee which raised the William L. Wilson endowment fund for the chair of economics at the university a check for $94,553, which with $60,000, already received makes the sum of $154,553. The paper received bore the signatures of former President Grover Cleveland, chairman of the committee; Herbert Welch, secretary, and was drawn up by former Secretary John G. Carlisle.

Wilkesbarre, Pa.—The miners here are greatly angered at the shooting affray at Stanton colliery South Wilkesbarre, last night, in which 13-year-old Charles McCann was seriously wounded. The condition of the boy today is critical. Four suspected coal and iron police men are in custody. The strikers have the utmost contempt for deputy sheriffs and coal and iron police men and the least provocation will start trouble.

THANKS ARE OFFERED

Impressive Demonstrations Over End of War.

KING EDWARD AND QUEEN PRESENT.

Rode Through the Streets in An Ordinary Landau and Are Warmly Greeted.

London, Eng.—The era of jubilation with which London has sounded for the past week was succeeded Sunday by a more subdued, although not less impressive public demonstration of thanksgiving for the return of peace in South Africa.

The thanksgiving services held in London today were typical of the services held throughout the empire, but the presence of King Edward and other members of the royal family at the principal devotional service in London and the progress of the royal personages to and from St. Paul's cathedral through cheering thousands of British subjects and visitors in London gave the thanksgiving day in the metropolis the added feature of a notable historic occasion.

King Edward and Queen Alexandra did not pass through the streets even in semi-private, but rode to St. Paul's in an ordinary landau drawn by four horses, accompanied by postillions and outriders clad in scarlet tunics. Only those members of the royal family who reside in Buckingham Palace accompanied their majesties. The Prince and Princess of Wales and others proceeded to St. Paul's separately, but by the same route as their majesties. The king and queen were joined at the cathedral by the Prince of Wales and other distinguished personages.

The streets for the entire distance from the palace to the cathedral were thickly lined with people who bared their heads and cheered as the members of the royal family and other notable passed. Lord Roberts was one of the figures most conspicuously greeted with cheers.

The royal personages were driven down the mall to Trafalgar Square and through the Strand and Fleet street. At Temple Bar officials of the city of London, for the first time since the jubilee of the late Queen Victoria, awaited the sovereign in state. The king's carriage was stopped when it reached the city officials and the Lord Mayor of London, Sir Jos. C. Dimsdale, presented the sword of the city to his majesty and uttered a formal welcome. The king returned the sword, smiled, bowed, and simply remarked: "Thank you, very much." The streets leading to St. Paul's cathedral were densely crowded with people and a number of persons fainted in the crush outside the barriers which had been erected within the cathedral. King Edward and Queen Alexandra alighted at the west entrance of St. Paul's. Here they were received by the Bishops of Stephen and London and conducted by them to their seats, which were under the dome of the building and directly in front of the pulpit. The seats in the choir stalls were occupied by members of the present cabinet and by members of former cabinets. Members of the House of Lords and members of the House of Commons were seated on opposite sides under the dome. In addition to the presence of many army and navy officers, the military prowess of the empire was represented by detachments of the Royal Fusiliers, the horse and foot guards and other regiments. Their majesties entered the cathedral to the accompaniment of the hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers," by the organ and choir, and the throng of worshippers rose and heartily joined in the singing. The cathedral organ was reinforced with horns and other instruments. A notable feature of the musical service was the rendition of a te deum composed by the late Sir Arthur Sullivan for the thanksgiving peace service.

Following the thanksgiving collections and at the request of King Edward, the hymn, "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," was sung to the tune of "Old Hundred."

Whaleback Steamer Almost Cut in two By Another Steamer.

Duluth Minn.—The whaleback steamer Thomas Wilson, Captain Cameron, master, collided with and was cut almost in two by the steamer George G. Hadley, Captain Fitzgerald, master, a half mile south of Duluth canal yesterday, and nine men went to the bottom. They were men of the night crew who had not time to get out of the bunks before the vessel sank.

The sermon by the Bishop of Stepheany was short and simple and was preached on the effective text, "The Blessings of Peace."

The service was concluded with the singing of the national anthem. The members of the royal family returned from the cathedral to Buckingham Palace by way of the Victoria embankment and King Edward and the other royal personages received ovations all along the route from the crowds which had by this time become greatly augmented.

JELKS PARDONS LYNCHERS.

Were Convicted of Taking Life of Robert White, Colored.

Montgomery, Ala.—Gov. Jelks has pardoned George Howard, Martin Fuller and John Strength, three of the four white men convicted in Elmore county of lynching a negro, Robin White, and sentenced to ten years in the penitentiary. The negro and John Thomas had an altercation in which no harm was done, and the theory of the people in Elmore is that Thomas grossly misrepresented the affair to his neighbors and by this means raised the mob that did the lynching. They have sent in petitions with 3000 or 4000 names on them asking the pardon of the three men, and many delegations have besieged the capital.

John Thomas, the principal in the mob, was convicted and appealed to the Supreme court which affirmed the case last week. Gov. Jelks has decided that he would take up the applications as soon as the Supreme court acted in the Thomas case, and as he only returned Saturday night he went into the matter on Sunday. There is no application for Thomas' pardon and the people of the county lay the blame to him. The three men pardoned had been in prison a year. The case is famous as the only instance in Alabama where a white man has been convicted of lynching a negro.

TWO MEN KILLED BY STORM.

Several Buildings in Columbus, Ga., Are Badly Damaged.

Columbus, Ga.—A heavy wind and thunder storm which passed over this city this afternoon caused the death of two people, perhaps fatally injured a third, and incurred considerable damage to buildings. The dead: J. J. Willis, a carpenter, Louis McClain. The injured: M. Cochran.

Willis was killed while standing near a large oak tree on upper First avenue. He was conversing with Cochran, who was also struck at the same time. The lightning struck Willis in the temple on both sides, the current passing entirely through his body. Louis McClain met death by the same bolt. He was standing in his back yard at Phoenix City just across the river west of the spot where Willis was killed. The lightning struck a clothes wire he was holding. Cochran's condition is reported as serious. Buildings in the residence portion of the city were unroofed by the storm.

TRIED TO LYNCH NEGRO.

Prisoner to Be Given Preliminary Trial at Once.

Hattiesburg, Miss.—An attempt was made by a mob late last night to attack the county jail here, in which was confined Walter Blankhead, a negro, who is charged with having attempted to assault Mrs. Garner, a white woman living near Hattiesburg. A company of military ordered out by Governor Longino, however, repulsed the mob, which afterwards dispersed. Further trouble is feared and additional troops have been dispatched to relieve the military on duty.

At the request of the Governor a preliminary trial will be given Blankhead to-morrow.

Dr. Brantley Dead.

Macon, Ga.—John J. Brantley, D. D., LL. D., died here today. He was for thirty-five years professor of languages in Mercer University. Dr. Brantley spent his entire life teaching and was one of the most accomplished linguists in the South.

NINE LIVES LOST.

Whaleback Steamer Almost Cut in two By Another Steamer.

Duluth Minn.—The whaleback steamer Thomas Wilson, Captain Cameron, master, collided with and was cut almost in two by the steamer George G. Hadley, Captain Fitzgerald, master, a half mile south of Duluth canal yesterday, and nine men went to the bottom. They were men of the night crew who had not time to get out of the bunks before the vessel sank.

Accepts Invitation and Joins Church His Home People.

Little Rock, Ark.—Governor Davis today accepted an invitation of the Baptist church at Russellville, his home, and resigned that church. The Governor's friends claim this is a vindication of him by some people against the action of the Second Baptist church of Little Rock in withdrawing fellowship from him. It is alleged further that the Governor's friends that the action taken by the Little Rock church was the result of a resentment the part he took in the race for United States Senator.

Work on Veterans' Home.

The contract for the erection of the second and third four-room cottages of the Soldiers' Home at Mountain Creek, have been let and the work of constructing them will begin at once.

The new cottages will be erected on the same general plans as those already completed. Each cottage will contain four living rooms, commodious and comfortable. The new cottages will contain kitchens and bedrooms. The home, it will be recalled, will be a collection of these cottages grouped about on the splendid tract of ground donated to the home by Capt. J. M.
Falkner. At least eight of the old soldiers will find accommodations in each of these cottages.

So far advanced is the movement that the main building of the home will be erected in the near future.
Captain Falkner said yesterday that he expected within the next few days to let the contract for the construction of the building which will be the centre of the home.
The second story of this building will be formed into a splendid auditorium. In this auditorium Captain Falkner will invite the most prominent ministers of the different denominations in the State to preach to the veterans. The auditorium will also be used for all as-semblies of the soldiers. In the lower portion of the building will be located the library and office.
Two rooms on the first floor will be assigned to the ladies who have so generously assisted. There are at present three veterans at the Home—two from Montgomery county, Clay Hall and John Maxwell; and T. L. Williams from Talladega. Mr. Phillips, a veteran from Wilcox county, is expected at the Home within the next few weeks.

Calera, was found terribly mangled

Tuesday night. It is not known whether it was accident or crime.

RURAL FREE DELIVERY.

Many parts of the country are enjoying the benefits of free rural delivery and there is no reason why Chilton county should not also ac-cure one or more routes. A large number of our people live several miles from a post-office and in many cases it is impracticable for them to get their mail more often than once a week. One or two routes in Chilton county would bring us all in closer touch with each other, and we suggest that practicable routes be mapped out and application be made, through Congressman Bowie, for the establishment of free delivery.

The main points to be noticed are embraced in the following extract from "Instructions About Rural Free Delivery":

It should be borne in mind that the intention of Congress in authorizing free delivery of mails in rural districts was not to grant a suburban delivery to cities and towns now having free-delivery service, nor to establish free delivery in villages. The purpose of the rural free-delivery service is to give postal facilities to those who have none; to carry the mails daily to remote communities, the residents of which would have to travel from two to twelve miles to receive their letters and papers.

The roads must be good; this is absolutely essential.

A rural free-delivery route should as a rule be twenty to twenty-five miles in length and serve one hundred families. It should be so arranged that the carrier will not be required to retrace or travel over the same road twice the same day.

There are other details to be observed, and several other conveniences in connection with the service, but this outline is sufficient to give some idea of the advantages of free rural delivery to those living remote from a post-office, and it now rests with those who would like to have their mail delivered at their home every day to interest themselves in mapping out a route and preparing a petition.

BIG FIRE AT CALERA

Last Thursday night Calera suffered a disastrous fire which destroyed almost the business portion of the town.

About 11:20 p.m. a fire was discovered in the back part of Stein's saloon on the corner of Railroad and Main streets. Although the fire appeared to have just started when first discovered it gained headway so rapidly that the saloon was consumed before anything could be saved from
it. The fire then caught on the two story frame storehouse occupied by D. C. Honeycutt, grocer, and from there spread to the adjoining buildings on the west side of Main street, and did not stop until it reached the corner of the block.

Six store buildings in all were completely destroyed. Buildings across on the east side of Main street caught several times and it was only by hard work on the part of the citizens that that side of the street was saved. The citizens did excellent work, however, and prevented the fire spreading outside of the row in which it originated and saved practically everything from out of the buildings, with the exception of the saloon. Birmingham was telegraphed to send aid, and promptly responded by starting a fire engine on a special train for Calera, but before the engine reached there the citizens had succeeded in getting the fire under control and so telegraphed and had the special turned back. The losses are as follows:

S. Stein, loss $3500, insurance $1000.

G. J. Wright, two store buildings, loss $2500, no insurance.

F. Stein, two store buildings, loss $1250, insurance $600.

J. Holcombe, one double store building, loss $1250, no insurance.

H. Aronson, goods damaged by removal, fully covered by insurance.

D. C. Honeycutt, goods damaged by removal, no insurance.

The origin of the fire is unknown.

Spring Fever.

Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels means a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms.
DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleaning the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for
torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Every, Moundville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried."

Which Way Are We Heading?

To the careful observer and earnest enthusiast for a higher and better life on the farm, there comes a thought true and forcible,—are we educating toward the farm or away from it? We look at our primary schools, our high schools, and do we not see the tendency almost wholly against the farm? There is a remarkable development and interest in agricultural education in Europe, where it is common for agriculture to be taught in every grade, from the primary school through the college. What is the tendency in this agricultural nation of ours? To often, we fear, away from the farm.
The common school recruits the academy, the college, the university; but does it recruit the agricultural and mechanical college, or do what it ought to recruit the ranks of good farmers? May we not hope the time is near at hand when agriculture will be taught not only in the common schools, but in the high schools as well?

Governor Hoard says: "Is there any good reason why this farmer's school, the country school, should not teach the farm boy the elements of agriculture; give him some knowledge of the technical terms he must meet in farm journals and farm books, and start him on the road to larger study and stronger love for farm life, and thus save him from deserting the farm? All over Europe there is a great revival of agricultural education in the primary schools; when that is done here, you will have larger use and destiny for the experiment station and the agricultural college."—Dr. C. W.
Burkett, in Agricultural Education.

Good News for Common Schools.

House Committee on Public Lands has decided to favorably report for passage the Bowie bill which gives the common schools of Alabama 90,000 acres of public mineral lands. The favorable report by the committee is the most significant step in the passage of a bill through Congress, and it now looks as if Bowie's bill will become a law. Under the terms of the measure the school fund will very probably be increased by a million or more dollars, as the land is very valuable.
Some of it may be sold for $10 an acre. For the passage of this bill Representatives Bowie, Burnett, Clayton and Thompson have worked incessantly and their success is cause for congratulations by their friends. The bill is one of the most important that Alabama has been interested in this session.

Haystackville.

Our farmers are beginning to be distressed for rain. As showers are daily falling near, we hope our time will come next. None need have twangs of conscience in this, since "the rain falls on the unjust as well as the just."

Though so dry physically we have had a most enjoyable shower of intellect in the teacher's meeting. We felt honored in entertaining such very intelligent people. It would be invidious to speak of any but our women who spoke so very entertainingly: Miss Lillie Faegre of Thorsby held her audience spellbound in a most delightful recitation. The criticism passed was its brevity.

The meeting was too hurried;
there were not enough mother-in-laws to eat all the cold victuals left over, a trait that persecuted class are accused of. Many greatly enjoyed meeting old friends. Our teacher's meeting was altogether a most enjoyable affair.

There were some insinuations that Dr. Parrell was the best entertainer because he fed himself so well; but we believe all entertainers vied with him.

Dr. Claughton has lately had his brother and Messrs. McGuire, father and son from Glendon to visit him.

Mrs. Claughton now is visiting Verbena.

Mrs. Shelton Cooper has returned from a pleasant visit to Texas.

Dr. Smith and wife of Prattville have been guests of Mrs. M. Du-Bose. They were en route to Washington, D. C.

Miss Mattie May DuBose is visiting relatives in Selma.

Some of our people enjoyed the Montgomery excursion.

Miss Jenney Wilson is visiting her kinswoman here, Mrs. Mattie Foshee.

Dr. Frank DuBose and wife have returned from Atlanta, but are now in Selma, where they have gone to attend the marriage of their only child, Dr. Goodwyn DuBose, that we are proud to state was born here. He is one of our "reformed bad boys." The old lady, who proposed "to spin the rope to hang him with for fighting her boys so much," is now repentant since he gives her practice free.

The Disfranchisement of the Southern Negro.

The motive immediately back of the effort to disfranchise the negro was not to suppress him, but to suppress him honestly. The fraud in some of these States was something frightful to the people who dwell in its presence. It had become even more prevalent and far more scandalous in party contests between white men only than in general elections. The motive with good men was honesty. So the last inquiry is, will these new constitutions bring honest elections in their train? In Mississippi, South Carolina and Louisiana, which have held elections under the new schemes, there is ample testimony to the comparative fairness of the schemes. But there has yet been no serious opposition and no motive for a miscount.
When the opposition comes,—not in guise of the more ignorant and helpless classes of the population, as was the case in the Farmers' Alliance upheaval, but with the more intelligent and wealthy classes in hostile array against the party machine,— then, and not until then, can it be known whether that right hand has lost its willingness, its cunning, and its power.—From "Suffrage in the South: Six New State Constitutions," by Chappell Cory, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days
my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished
and she could again take up her

—Mr. W. R. Richardson, tax collector of Walker county, has completed the final settlement of state taxes for the year 1901. He was the second collector to make settlement, the others in the county man being first. The report shows that Walker county is one of the largest tax paying counties in Alabama, the total amount paid into the state treasury being more than $40,000. Mr. Richardson's friends are proud of his success as an officer.

Gasle Language in Canada.
The Hon. John C. Latham, insurance commissioner of New Hampshire, and one of the prominent members of the pension committee of the Grand Army of the Republic, is one of the most accomplished Gasle scholars in this country, and received a degree from Dartmouth college for marked proficiency in the ancient language. The other evening he remarked to the writer: "Up in Canada, not far from old Acadia, there is a large territory, composed of nineteen counties where English is never heard. Gasle only is spoken, and it is taught in the schools and preached in the churches. The people are largely Catholic and Presbyterian, and the old tongue keeps them on excellent terms. It is a country where vice and crime are unknown, and where bolts and bars are never considered necessary."

Description of Martinique's Destroyed Metropolis.

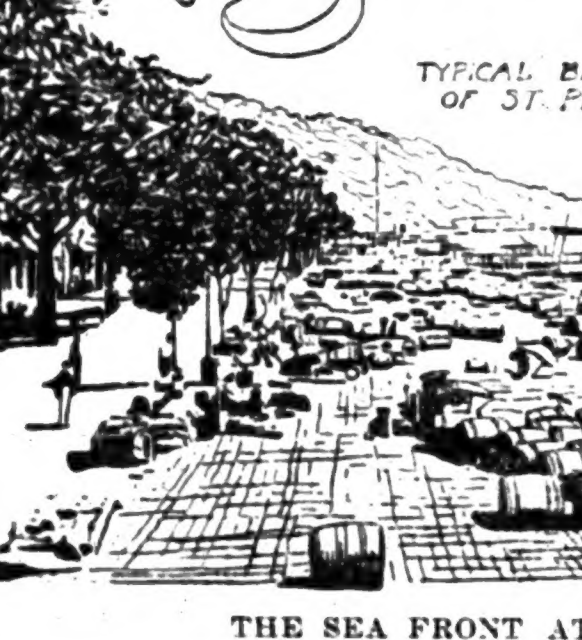

along the great range are the black and ragged cones of old volcanoes. The mountainous interior is torn and gashed with ancient earthquake upheavals, and there are perpendicular cliffs, deep chasms and gorges, black holes filled with water, and swift torrents dashing over precipices and falling into caverns—in a word, all the fantastic savagery of volcanic scenery, but the whole covered with the rich verdure of the tropics.

The total population of the island is reckoned at 175,000, of whom 10,000 are whites, 15,000 of Asiatic origin of the city was the Rue Victor Hugo. The aristocratic quarter extended in a long line of villas and country seats through a luxuriant growth of tropical foliage to the mountain village of Morne Rouge, five miles away. Rue Victor Hugo was the Broadway of St.

There were four banks in the city—the Banque de la Martinique, Banque Transatlantique, Colonial Bank of London and the Credit Foncier Colonial.

There were sixteen commission merchants, twelve dry goods stores, twenty-two provision dealers, twenty-six rum manufacturers, eleven colonial produce merchants, four brokers and two hardware dealers.

The island of Martinique has the same general characteristics as its nearest neighbors, with some peculiarities of its own. Its extreme length is about forty-five miles from northwest to southeast, and the main part of it

Martinique had two interesting claims to distinction in that the Empress Josephine was born there, as was Mme. De Maintenon, the latter passing her girlhood on the island as Françoise d'Abigne. At Fort de France there is a marble statue of the Empress Josephine MARKET SQUARE IN ST. PIERRE, MARTINIQUE.

Martinique became an interesting point in this country during the recent war with Spain. The first news of the arrival of the Spanish fleet of Admiral Cervera came from St. Pierre. At 9:30 o'clock in the morning of May 11, 1898, the cruiser Harvard arrived at St. Pierre, and at 6 o'clock the same evening a correspondent at Fort de France communicated to the Harvard's commander the fact that the Spanish torpedo boat destroyer Furor had put into Fort de France. The destroyer turned out to be the Terror instead of the Furor, but the important fact that Cervera was on this side of the ocean was established.

The city of St. Pierre had an appearance of great solidity. It looked as if it had been hewn out of the solid rock of the mountains. The two-story dwellings were uniformly of stone, with walls three feet thick. In the rather than the exception in Martinique, to the mixture of Carib blood with Caucasian and Negro. One writer says:

"Both men and women are often so perfect anatomically that the artist wishing to create a 'Mercury' or a 'Venus' need only to take a cast of the body of one of these natives without making one modification from neck to heel."

There are several species of the

Many of the widows are children unremarkable thing of the kind thus far invented has been newly patented,

Massage of the scalp is frequently tried nowadays as a remedy for baldness, the rubbing having a tendency to strengthen the growth and improve the health of the hair. The artificial hand described is quite as gentle and effective as the fingers of the human hand, in the likeness of which it is at the roots, so it is claimed, without tangling the hair, and, the rubber fingers being smaller than a person's finger, they reach the surface of the

BILL ARP'S LETTER

Bartow Man Reproduces Humorous Sermon Preached Years Ago.

PARABLE OF A "FLATBOAT" PARSON

Expounded From Uncertain Text of "He Played on the Harp of a Thousand Strings—Spirits of Jest Men Made Perfect."

I have had an occasional request to reproduce and save from oblivion a sermon that went the rounds of the southern press some fifty years ago and was known as the "Harp of a Thousand Strings." Not long ago I found a paragraph from it, and a friend writes me from East Feliciana, La. and says that the author of that quaint sermon lived and died in that parish and his daughters and grand-children live there now, and are his near neighbors. Strange to say, the author was a minister of the gospel, a serious, solemn and devoted to his calling, and for a long time it was not known that the humorous writings under the signature of "Zedekiah the Seer" came from his gifted pen. But preachers can't help seeing and enjoying the ludicrous side of human nature. Sidney Smith, the famous English divine, was as solemn as the grave on solemn occasions, but he had a great deal of merriment without a smile. He provoked others to the most convulsive laughter, but gave no such save in the twinkling of his eye. Judge Longstreet, the eminent jurist, the learned preacher, the dignified president of two colleges and a university, and the author of "Georgia Scenes" was of similar type. I met him often during my youth, and do not recall that he indulged in humorous anecdotes. The last time I met him was during the war in the office of the Columbus Enquirer, when he indulged in bitter sarcasm against some Georgians, whom he called traitorous obstructionists. I could hardly imagine that it was he who molded the inimitable characters of Ned Brace and Ramsey Stille. John Hooper was not a preacher, but always a serene and very dignified gentleman. He was secretary of the embryo confederacy that assembled in Montgomery, and there was no sign of "Simon Suggs" of "Taking the Census" in his solemn deportment. My observation has been that the best story tellers and conversationalists have the least inclination to publish their own sallies. It was common to say of my old partner, "Oh! rare Judge Underwood," but I could never induce him to put pen to paper in that line. He said that a good story or a flash of wit and humor lost its relish by writing it, for the tone of voice, the accent, the piquancy, the facial expressions could not be recorded.

When the Rev. J. T. Lewis wrote this sermon it was not uncommon for amateur preachers to perform up and down the western rivers and thus advertise their business, which was principally flat boating and peddling their produce. Lorenzo Dow took continental journeys from Maine to Texas, but he was a pretty good orthodox preacher. These flat boat preachers were a rough and tumble lot, and tangled up the scriptures awfully, but they could draw the crowds and their whiskey was a good card. It was an orthodox produce then and preachers and the people were as fond of it as old Father Noah, who was a preacher of righteousness. Rev. Mr. Lewis does not give this preacher's name, but his sermon has been sent me by my friend and I give it to your readers as it was given to me. When it first came forth we thought it inexpressibly funny. It is not so funny now to the old people, but the younger generation are more easily amused than the veterans and for their sake I append it. A pretty school girl recited it last week at the commencement exercises of our public school and she did it well and brought down the house.

This sermon was said to have been preached at Port Hudson, where the amateur divine had "tied up" for the double purpose of observing the Sabbath and selling whiskey. I may say to you, my brother, that I am not an educated man, and I am not one of them as believes that education is necessary for a gospel minister, for I believe the Lord educates His preachers just as He wants them to be educated; and although I say that oughtn't to say it, yet in the state of Indiana, where I live, there's no man as gits bigger congregations as what I gits.

That may be some here today, my brother, as don't know what persuasion I am in. Well, I must say to you, my brother, that I'm a Hard Shell Baptist. That's some folks as don't like the Hard Shell Baptists, but I had rather have a hard shell than no shell at all. You see me here today, my brother, dressed up in good clothes; you must think I was proud, but I am not proud, my brother, and although I have been a preacher of the gospel for twenty years, and although I'm captain of the flat boat that lies at your landing, I'm not proud, my brother, ah.

I am not wine to tell exactly what my text may be found; suffice it to say it is in the words of the Bible, and I'll find it somewhere between the first chapter of the book of Genesis and the last chapter of the book of Revelation, and if you will go and search the scriptures, you'll not only find my text, but a great many other things as will do you good to read, and my text, when you shall find it to read thus, ah:

"And he played on a harp of a thousand strings—spirits of jest men made perfect."

My text, my brother, leads me to speak of spirits. Now there's a great many kinds of spirits in the world—in the fust place, there's the spirits of jest men, call 'em jesters, and there's the spirits of turpentine, and there's the spirits as some folks call liquor, and I've got as good an article of them kind of spirits on my flat boat as ever was fust down the Mississippi river; but there's a great many kinds of spirits, for the text says: "He played on a harp of a thousand strings, spirits of jest men made perfect." And there's a great many kinds of fire in the world. In the fust place there's the common sort of fire, and then there's the foxfire, and camphire, fire before you are ready and fire and fall back and many other kinds of fire, for the text says: "He played on a harp of a thousand strings, spirits of jest men made perfect."

But I'll tell you of the kind of fire as is spoken of in the Bible, my brother, in the words of the Bible, and that's the kind of fire as a great many of you'll come to if you don't do better nor what you have been doing—for "He played on a harp of a thousand strings, spirits of jest men made perfect." And that's the kind of fire you can't dodge, my brother, ah, for it's the fire that won't be quenched. You may dry the mountains of Hapsidan, where the woodbine twined and the lion roared, and the whangdoodle mourned for its first born, but you can't hide from this unquenchable fire, for it is the fire of hell and damnation, ah! And he played on a harp of a thousand strings—spirits of jest men made perfect."

Now, as there are many kinds of spirits and many kinds of fire, ah! in the world, ah! jest so there are many kinds of Christians, ah! In the fust place we have the Presbyterians, and they are a high-skillin', high-roastin', bifalutin set, ah! and they may be likened unto a turkey buzzard that flies up into the air, ah! and he goes up, and up, and up, till he looks no bigger than your finger nail, and the fust thing you know, he comes down, and down, and down, and goes to fillin' hisself on the carcasses of a dead horse by the side of the road, ah! and "He played on a harp of a thousand strings, spirits of jest men made perfect."

And that is the Presbyterians, my brother, with their long frock coats and high shirt collars and dismal swamp faces, but they never cleared no new ground nor burnt no brush nor deadened no timber, nor killed no bars. They always waits for us hard shells to do that and settle up the wilderness and then they will slip in and go to plantin' and put on heavenly airs and claim to be the only people that are elected and shore of eternal salvation—and they play on a harp of a thousand strings—spirits of jest men made perfect."

And then, my brother, there's the Baptists, ah! And they have been likened to a "possum on a simmon tree, and t' thunders may roll and the earth may quake, and the lions roar and the whangdoodle mourn, but the "possum clings that still, ah! And you may shake one foot loose and the other's thar and you may shake all feel loose, and he laps his tail around the limb, and he clings and he clings over, ah! for "He played on a harp of a thousand strings, spirits of jest men made perfect."—Bill Arp, in Atlanta Constitution.

Palma Denies Gomez is Silent. A special from Havana says: President Palma and General Gomez were questioned Sunday with regard to the alleged "bribery" story. President Palma indignantly denied that he had been a party to any scheme to have General Gomez withdrawn from the campaign in his favor. He also spoke for General Gomez, who was present when Palma was questioned on this matter. The president of Cuba said that to insinuate Senator Gomez had been bought off by a bribe of $25,000 was to question the honesty and integrity of Gomez and himself and that such attacks would pass unanswered.

Not only does the United States Senate represent in its membership almost every phase of professional and industrial activity, but many of its members were experienced in legislative work before coming to the Senate. Of the eighty-eight Senators, twenty-six served in the House of Representatives. Fifteen Senators have served as Governors of States. Senator Warren served during two terms as Governor of the Territory of Wyoming, and his second term ended with the admission of the Territory as a State. He was then elected first Governor of the State. Fifteen Senators have a record of service in the Confederate Army, and one was in the Confederate Navy. Nine Senators were in the Union Army. Senator Pettus, of Alabama, and Bate, of Tennessee, were in the Mexican War.

The story of the tramp who stole a bar of soap is preposterously conflicting. Either he was not a tramp on his did not steal a bar of soap.

ST. PIERRE AND ITS LIFE

SAY LITTLE PORT, BUT WITH NO AVENUES OF ESCAPE.

As Metropolis of Martinique Was a Merry Place Until Covered by Lava and Ashes—A Mountain Hill Has Through Every Street.

Merchants and ship captains who know the Windward Islands cannot conceive of the gay little port of St. Pierre de Martinique covered with ashes and lava. As do all the colonial capitals of the French, St. Pierre followed as closely as the steamers and mails would permit the customs and fashions of Paris. At the Hotel des Bains at the "absinthe hour" one might always find a gathering of the young men of the town, who sat sipping their liqueurs and chatting gaily.

Where St. Pierre was the coast line curves inland like a slightly bent bow. Describing it, one of the shopkeepers on the Rue de Victor Hugo used to say that the town was situated on a bay shaped like a dilemma with a volcano on one horn and a tropical jungle on the other. He had got the phrase from an English correspondent who had wondered what the inhabitants would do if such a calamity as the present one ever occurred. The Englishman had noted the lack of roads leading from the town and the futility of any hope of escape.

The town was built on the flat, narrow fore-shore that lay between the foot of the steep wooded mountains and the sea. The houses and shops were built down to the water's edge, and clustered in irregular groups about the Cathedral, which was situated directly opposite where the ships lay in the roadstead, and was the most prominent architectural feature of the town. It was built of a whitish stone, and with its two towers in which bells were hung, was sharply accentuated against the green background of the mountains. The water front of the town extended for nearly two miles along the gently curving coast. All the space back to the hills that shut in the town was filled with the low white houses of the people. Some twenty or twenty-five streets ran down from the hills to the water front. These were cut by irregular cross streets.

The Rue de Victor Hugo was the principal thoroughfare. All of the best shops were located on it, and it served as a parade for the fashionables when they made their appearance in the cool of the evening, arrayed in the white ducks, Panama hats and low-cut patent-leather shoes, and the women either in the year-old fashions of Paris or in the strikingly gay colored native garb.

The Cathedral, the Opera House (where traveling companies played before enthusiastic audiences), the Hotel des Bains, and the banks were probably the largest and best-built buildings in the town. French was the common language, and nearly all of the white people were of French extraction. It was a lively place, and its people had some of the light spirit and gaiety of their Gallic kinsmen. Always on coming into the harbor passengers noted the apparent freshness and cleanliness of the place. The white houses with their green blinds and tiled or thatched roofs, the gay striped awnings and vivid green of the background made a cool, pleasant picture. Ashore, the bright costumes of the native girls, the movement of the street life and the strangeness of the new scenes was a source of constant interest to tourists.

The upper or new town was the most attractive part of the place. The streets were broader and cleaner and the buildings of a better quality. All of the streets were narrow, the principal one (the Rue de Victor Hugo) being scarcely wide enough to permit two carriages to pass abreast.

Through every street ran an open gutter of water from the hills, and early in the morning, just when the cool dawn-wind was coming down from the mountains, these gutters would be alive with people. The native women would bring out their tall earthen jars, called "Welsh hats" by the resident Englishmen, to be filled with the cool flowing water. Babies were brought out and allowed to disport themselves, while their mothers cleaned the household utensils. The streams being fed from mountain lakes, cleanliness in dress and habitation was common, even among the lowest classes.

Back from St. Pierre about eight miles, on a winding mountain road, was the fashionable native resort, Morne Rouge. Here the rich residents had their country homes, and it is probable that when the flood of fire, lava and ashes came down from Mont Pelée these were among the first houses destroyed. In the season, which began about June 1, there were usually 4000 or 5000 persons at Morne Rouge. Probably half that number had gone out this year to open their villas.

The people of St. Pierre were rather proud of their volcano. Mont Pelée stood first as a "point of interest" for tourists. There has always been plenty of evidence that life was not extinct in Mont Pelée, but the easy-going inhabitants believed that the volcano was in its dotage, and its occasional weak mutterings only gave it added value as a show place; the manifestations were never taken seriously. Not since the end of the eighteenth century and again in 1851 had there been even weak eruptions.

When the head of Mont Pelée blew off the inhabitants in the town below had no chance of escape. The burning lava, the ashes and mud and the fire came down the hills as the water had been coming down for hundreds of years, and the people below were caught as fish in a net. The only way open was the sea, and that offered nothing but death by drowning. On the side of the town away from the vol-cane the tropical undergrowth came to within a few yards of the houses, and the beach ended at the city limits.

There were no wharves or quays at St. Pierre, and really no harbor, simply an open roadstead with deep water to shore. The island rises sheerly from the sea, and there was no anchorage until the ships got within 300 feet of the buildings on shore. Skippers of sailing vessels would take their ships close in and anchor with bows pointing seaward and with a stern line out to steady the craft. They had to be alert during the rainy or stormy season, because of their exposed condition, and be ready to slip their anchors and run out to sea. According to the dispatches this is what the British steamer Roddam did when the town was destroyed. Though she had a full head of steam on seventeen of her crew were killed in running out, and the vessel was partially wrecked. The sailing craft in the harbor didn't have a ghost of a chance to get away. There were usually from eighteen to twenty-five vessels in the harbor at this season of the year, anchored in a long line along the water front.

What happened when the floods of fire and lava came down will be related later, but every one who knew the town and its people can easily imagine the scenes of wild horror that must have been enacted when the excitable people realized that escape was impossible.

The chief exports of Martinique are sugar, rum and cocoa. Owing to the low price of sugar, which has prevailed in recent months, the island has suffered very greatly. The island buys of the United States such articles as butter, oatmeal, tobacco, vegetables, horses and mules, coal, harness, wagons, machinery, etc.

LIVES GROWING LONGER.

Increase of 4.1 Years in the Last Decade—Pneumonia the Chief Danger.

People are growing healthier and lives are becoming longer in this country, if medical statistics can be relied on. According to figures published in the last week life has been lengthened by an average of 4.1 years in the last decade.

In 1900 the average length of life in the United States was 31.1 years. In 1900 this mean average had risen to 35.2 years, chiefly by reason of the decrease in mortality among the very young.

The three diseases which have caused the most deaths in recent years are pneumonia, consumption and heart disease, in the order named. Deaths from the first cause have increased slightly and medical science has made comparatively little progress in finding a specific treatment for it.

Pneumonia is an infectious disease like tuberculosis. Although it is not so contagious as are many other diseases, the sanitation of houses, schools, shops, factories, places of business and amusement, in medical opinion, undoubtedly determines to a great extent the vulnerability of the system to it.

Neglect of the ordinary laws of health is responsible for many cases of pneumonia. Among personal measures suggested for its prevention are avoidance of undue exposure to inclement weather and of crowded and ill-ventilated gatherings; temperance in eating and drinking, daily bathing and regular exercise in the open air with special reference to complete respiration.

There is nothing better than systematic deep breathing while briskly walking out of doors.

Making an Almanac.

One of the most profitable publications of the world is an almanac. It hung fire for a long time until an accident caused a furore in its favor. In predicting what would happen in the Weather Department, a clerk, or assistant editor, said to the manager, "I've finished the year with the exception of one day. What shall we do with that?" "What is the day?" the manager asked. "Thursday, June 14." "Oh, say it will snow," the clerk did so, and thought no more about it until June 14 arrived and the snow fell. The miracle was the talk of all England, and when people discovered that the almanac had predicted it the demand for the publication was difficult to satisfy. The work has never been exactly right since, but its reputation survives. Its owners are capitalists. — New York Press.

To Fill Naval Vacancies.

Japan, like the United States, is suffering from a shortage of naval officers, and has resolved upon the novel experiment of transferring a considerable number of army officers to the naval service. These are to be selected officers from the Japanese army. They will be volunteers and must be specially recommended by their commanding officers. They are to be appointed to the navy on probation for two years, at the expiration of which they will be required to pass an examination in nautical and naval subjects, when, if successful, they will be permanently transferred to the navy.

Young Roosevelt Too Frisky.

President Roosevelt does not believe in interfering with the pleasures of his children, but at a recent Cabinet meeting the youthful Kermit stalked boldly into the Cabinet room on stilts. "I guess that's about enough for you," said the President, as he arose and carried the youngster out, enjoining him never to interrupt again.

We are the greatest beef eaters in the world. The rate per capita of meat consumption in a year in the United States is a third larger than England, twice as large as France, two and a half times larger than Germany, Belgium or Denmark, three times as large as Russia and Ireland, and six times as large as Italy.

Richmond, Va., offers ten cents for every muskrat tail delivered to the authorities. At a recent meeting of the water committee an item of $2 was ordered paid for this purpose. In answer to an inquiry the superintendent stated that the muskrat hunters had done a good business lately. He said further that the muskrat was a "pesky varmint" that digs holes in the river banks and canals, and that they occasion much damage to dams and other things in connection with the water department.

Through recruiting office statistics Earl Grey has been enabled to show his countrymen that England is paying at least one heavy penalty for her transformation from an agricultural into a manufacturing country. She has lost her old yeomanry, once the military bone and sinew of the nation, the brawny beef eaters who from the days of Crecy and Agincourt down to Waterloo fought and won the nation's battles. The physical deterioration of the lower classes is, according to Earl Grey, the tale told by the figures at the recruiting offices, notably and significantly those near the great industrial centres.

Mr. Rhodes was not given to high-flown talk, and I suspect the story of his "last words" is a fiction, exclaims a writer in London Truth. Sydney Smith observed that it seems a necessity that every distinguished man should die "with some sonorous and quotable saying in his mouth." Mr. Pitt was supposed to have expired exclaiming, "How do I leave my country?" It was afterward established on conclusive evidence that his real last words were, "I fancy I could eat one of Bellamy's meat pies." Mr. Fox was credited with some becoming observation about public affairs, whereas his last words conveyed a request for barley water. Sir Robert Peel was stated to have died after an ejaculation about the blessings of cheap bread. In reality, he awoke for a few minutes, after several hours of sleep, said: "God bless you all," and died. Lord Beaconsfield was reported to have exclaimed, "Any news in the Gazette?" with his last breath, whereas he muttered, "I feel overwhelmed."

THE JOINT INSTITUTE

The first bi-union Teachers' Institute of Chilton and Bibb county teachers was called to order in the Methodist church at Maplesville, at 8 o'clock Friday morning, by Prof. J. W. Moore, County Superintendent of Education for Chilton county.

Devotional exercises were conducted by Rev. P. G. Maness, and after an address of welcome by T.
U. Crumpton, of Maplesville, and response by Prof. H. L. Hicks, of Bibb county, the Institute got down to business. Capt. R. A. Pratt, Superintendent of Bibb county, was accorded the chairmanship of the meeting. The following teachers were present during the session:

Bibb county—R. H. Pratt, Superintendent; J. C. Hicks, Miss Lucy Rice, Miss Emma Smith,
Miss Speer, H. L. Hicks, Miss M.
Yelwood, Miss Pearl Murphree,
Miss L. Nunnally.

Chilton county—J. W. Moore, Superintendent; L. E. Byrum, J.
A. Moore, T. G. Maness, J. T.
Williams, John T. Martin, J. M.
Collier, Miss Lida Oakley, R. E.
R. Hicks, Mrs. A. G. Dunlap, T.
E. Dunlap, Prof. Dunlap, G. L.
Speer, R. O. Headley, W. G. Atchison, R. A. Rasco. Making a total attendance of twenty-five teachers.

T. U. Crumpton of Maplesville delivered the address of welcome in behalf of the people of Maples-ville. Mr. Crumpton said:—
"Ladies and Gentlemen of the Institute: It is a great pleasure to be the medium of conveying to you in behalf of the people of Maples-ville a most kindly welcome. We delight to show honor to you, the educators of the sister counties of Chilton and Bibb, and we recognize and appreciate the importance of having this Institute convene in Maplesville." In conclusion, Mr.
Crumpton paid high tribute to the advancement of education in the two counties, and to the untiring efforts of J. M. Moore and Capt.
R. H. Pratt as superintendents of their respective counties.

Prof. H. L. Hicks of Blocton delivered the response. Mr. Hicks said: "We thank the people of Maplesville for the hearty welcome they have accorded us as teachers of the counties of Chilton and Bibb.
We trust that our deliberations in your midst may prove a great benefit to your thriving little town, and to every teacher present, and in conclusion Mr. Hicks said: "We thank you for the invitation to come here, and for every kindness that may be shown us during our stay." At the conclusion of Mr.
Hicks remarks, the Institute took up the regular program.

The first subject was, "Should the Public School Teachers of Alabama be paid Monthly instead of Quarterly?" The discussion was led by J. W. Moore. Mr. Moore said: "That the teacher was a laborer indeed and in truth, and should be paid at the expiration of each month. He continued by saying that the great object was, that the pay of the teachers was not enough. He also urged that the teachers be prompt in drawing their money when due, and in the conclusion of his remarks, Prof. Moore heartily endorsed the five months session for the public schools of Alabama, and the advanced step that Chilton had taken in adopting a uniform system of text books.

The discussion was participated in by many of the teachers. Capt.
Pratt complimented the teachers of Chilton, and said that Bibb county was considering a uniform system of text books. In reference to the payment of teachers monthly, Capt.
Pratt said: that they were laborers worthy of their hire, and should be paid as men in other departments.

W. B. Speer said that the rural teacher should be paid monthly, and cited many instances of such teachers having to discount warrants to get them cashed. Much inconvenience would be saved the public school teachers, said Mr.
Speer, if they were paid at the close of each month.

Prof. J. A. Moore of Montevallo closed the discussion, saying: that the question that so much concerned the teacher was how much and how often. He advocated the payment of the public school teachers monthly.

The next subject called was:
"Why we teach History, and how to teach it." The discussion was opened by P. G. Maness, followed by R. E. R. Hicks. They jointly discussed the subject in full, each advocating the use of non-sectional histories, and Prof. Maness approved very highly of the study of local history, citing many instances of its importance. The discussion was closed by Prof. Harwood, who made a few remarks advocating the use of Southern histories in Southern Schools.

At this juncture the Institute adjourned until two o'clock in the afternoon.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

The Institute convened at 2 o'clock, Capt. Pratt called the Institute to order, and commented very highly upon the work of the teachers during the morning session.
The Reading lesson was discussed by Prof. Martin, who said that there were but few good readers.
He dwelt at length upon reading as the foundation of all good work, and urged that the dropping of the reading lesson in the middle grades be discouraged. The discussion was continued by J. A. Moore, who said that reading was one of the most difficult branches to teach, and the one most neglected in the common schools. He also urged that the teachers of the rural schools try to get up interest in reading and grammar. R. E. R. Hicks said that the flogging interest in the subject of reading was due to the inefficiency of the teachers upon that subject. He recommended that a careful study of each reading lesson by the teacher would help to get up interest in their respective schools. Capt. Pratt made a few remarks upon the subject, and the discussion was closed by Prof. Jason.

"The Preparation of the Teacher, Daily and Professional." Discussion opened by W. B. Speer, continued by R. E. R. Hicks, who cited that many failures upon the part of teachers was for a lack of thorough preparation. He urged that teachers should attain a higher scholarship.

"How to obtain Regularity and Punctuality in Attendance." Discussion opened by Prof. J. M.
Collier of Clanton. Prof. Collier said: "I am glad to be in the Institute, and I think that the most effective method of securing prompt attendance is for the teacher and the parent to know each other and co-operate in their work, and that the teacher should carefully study the minds of his pupils and give each their special requirements.
He said the majority of parents did not intend to educate, did not comprehend education in its true sense, and as a consequence were negligent about keeping their children in school. He said that the teacher must surround himself with such an atmosphere as to hold the pupil in school; the only effective way he said, was to compel them by law, but as such is inadequate at present we must seek other ways of attraction. Study your community, rural teacher, shape same for success, be in everything for good, be wide awake, live for your pupils and for your school, and reach the parents through their children and you will have some success at least.
J. A. Moore continued by saying that if the people were able they would educate to a greater extent.
He also cited the ignorance of the parents as a cause of lack of interest. He said that if the teachers of Alabama could show their several communities that their future success depended upon educating their children, that it would in many instances give the cause an impetus.

Prof. Martin said much dependent upon the teacher being able to adopt himself to each individual under his charge. Have the pupils think school, talk school; first understand them and then teach them. The subject was closed by a few appropriate remarks by R.
E. R. Hicks. The Institute adjourned until 7:30 p.m.

NIGHT SESSION.

There was an increased attendance at the night session, and after the call to order, Prof. J. A. Moore said a few appropriate words introducing Hon. W. W. Lavender of Centreville, who very ably discussed the "Recent School Legislation in Alabama," and commented very favorably upon the progress that Alabama had made along educational lines in late years, but said that she had not done her best.
He spoke very favorably of the five months term of school, and referred to this law as a stride in the right direction, but cited that money was insufficient to pay teachers such salaries as their work deserved.
He said that the law compelled every teacher to show competence by certificate, but failed to follow this requirement with a just recompense. He paid high tribute to the work of John W. Abercrombie as Superintendent of Education for Alabama, and spoke in glowing terms of the advancement Alabama had made along educational lines under his administration.

The inability of the people to build school houses, said Mr. Lavender should be supplied by the State furnishing the money for such purposes. Mr. Lavender dwelt at length upon the educational needs of Alabama, and how by the cooperation of the people and the Legislature, the standard of education in Alabama could be raised to the equal of any State in the Union.
After tendering a resolution of thanks to Mr. Lavender, the Institute adjourned until Saturday morning 10 o'clock.

SAURDAY.

10 a.m. Devotional Exercises conducted by I. A. Moore.

The text books recently adopted by Chilton county, their merits as compared with other works, was freely discussed by the teachers of Chilton, and all spoke enthusiastically of their efficiency over the old books.

Mr. Crumpton urged that the county of Bibb adopt the same system of text books, and the matter was discussed to some length by the teachers of Bibb. Prof. R. A.
Rasco spoke very favorably of the recent adoption, and commented highly upon the selection as a whole, and said with possibly a few exceptions, they were the best available.

"The Use and Abuse of Corporal Punishment." The discussion was opened by H. L. Hicks, who said the rod was rarely needed in school when the child was properly restrained in the home.
He referred to the old time scorching as a miracle worker in the school room, and highly recommended its use in the modern schools, but with restriction. Almost the entire Institute entered freely into the discussion and many valuable hints were given by teachers of experience that will no doubt be of much benefit to young and inexperienced teachers in their future work.

"The Coming Teacher." W.
B. Speer discussed the subject very satisfactorily, and with profit to the Institute. The present and future requirements of the teacher, he showed very plainly that only the progressive teacher could hope for success in the future, and that the non-progressive teacher in a few years would be a back number supplanted by those active, energetic men and women who can always find work to do and have a mind to do it.

At the conclusion of the program the Institute was highly entertained with a recitation given by Miss Lillie Franzen of Thorsby. The recitation was highly enjoyed by all present, and freely commented upon as being of a high literary character.

J. M. Collier, J. A. Moore, W.
B. Speer, were appointed as a committee on resolutions, and tendered the following:

Resolved, That we, the teachers of Chilton and Bibb counties, assembled in Institute, thank the people of Maplesville for the kind and hospitable treatment accorded us during our stay in your midst, your homes have been generously opened at our disposal, and every kindness has been shown us by a generous people.

The next Institute for Bibb county will convene at Blocton, and Prof. Moore of Chilton will possibly hold his next Institute at or near Pilgrims Rest, in the southern part of the county.

Very respectfully,
L. E. BYRUM, Sec. for Chilton.
H. L. HICKS, Sec. for Bibb.

Children's Day at Concord.

The combined Sunday-School exercises rendered at Concord church Sunday, by the pupils of Concord and Providence schools, were not only enjoyed by those present but was a clear demonstration of the earnest religious training which the young people of those communities are receiving at the hands of those interested in Sunday-School work.
Those who look upon our youths as the jewels which should adorn the coming century, not only in church work, but national as well.

At 9:30 o'clock the people were called together in the grove surrounding the house, and after prayer by Rev. W. J. Armstrong, and the roll call by the Secretary of each school, the respective members were formed in line of march which presented a beautiful spectacle.

After a semi circle march of a short distance, retiring to the house the exercises were greatly added to by recitations rendered by individuals of the schools. 11:15 adjourned for dinner which was not only plentiful but very enticing. At 1:15 the people were again called to the house and the whole afternoon was devoted to singing conducted by able leaders. In short the whole day was one of pleasure, of worship and of success.

The finest type of manhood is never overwhelmed or entirely dismayed, no matter what comes. A man of this best type may see his property swept away from him, his hopes blasted, his ambitions thwarted and his plans demolished, but his spirit remains undaunted; his courage, his trust, and his self confidence are undiminished. His success is beyond the reach of mere accident or fire, of panic, or of temporary disaster; the foundation of his success is laid upon the eternal rock of truth, of justice, of probity, of high thinking, and of square dealing, and no floods or misfortunes or commercial devastations can reach him. They do not touch the real man, for his investments are in himself. It is only the more shallow minds, men without reserve of character, without other resources than money or property, that go down in financial failure. The man who has learned to live in himself, and not in his property; who does not put his trust in riches, but in principle, does not lose his greatest possession when he loses his money.—Success for June.

Newspapers are the information of the people. A part and a very important, civilizing part is the information given in the advertising columns telling people how and where to obtain those things that will satisfy their wants, contribute to their comforts and pleasures, and help them in their trades, callings and professions. Advertising news should be handled with more care and attention than any other matter in the paper and made as interesting and instructive as possible for its intrinsic value to readers, as well as for its direct value in making the business profitable, in rendering it possible to publish a worthy and acceptable paper. Advertising gives better opportunity for the display of taste and real typographic art than does anything else in a newspaper.—National Printer Journalist.

The Small College in America.
The prosperous condition of Brown at the end of its century of service has a special significance. It means not only efficient administration and instruction, but a continuous belief in the "small college." And such a belief is not without reason. In the first place, few youths of seventeen or eighteen can properly select their course of study. To immaturity of mind and habits of dependence upon others surviving from preparatory school days is added the uncertainty of one's faculties and bent. To have found one's self in the underlying condition of choosing with wisdom one's career, and the college is the place of place for the finding of one's self. Granting that a youth fresh from the preparatory school and with a certain amount of confidence in his own abilities, that training in the humanities, that the college purposes to give, without which special training is invariably the starting point of its results, the college being equal to all that the state will make, the college is the place of place for the finding of one's self. Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering likewise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by Hopkins Drug Co., and A. Horn, Thorsby.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Some of the Rights We Saw, and Some We Saw Not.

Taking a few days ago I was agreeably surprised to learn that the Peoples Savings Bank of Clanton had depositors living in Montgomery, Birmingham and Atlanta. This speaks well for the bank, which is doing a flourishing business. Nearly all of our business men do business with the bank and find it very convenient; many wonder how we managed to get along without it. The bank has loaned this year to parties in Montgomery some $12,000 to $15,000 and I don't know how much to home folks. Here's wishing it continued prosperity and unbounded success.

Personally conducted parties to Texas seem to be getting fashionable. It is not long since Mr. O. E. Latham carried a party of tourists to the Dallas reunion, and last week he started with another crowd to points in Texas. The party comprised Mrs. A. J. Campbell, Mrs. L. H. Campbell and Messrs E. P. Tucker, J. F. Palmer, Zack Abney, B. L. Woolley, B. M. Gentry, C. M. Porter and G. E. Latham. Others had engaged to go but on account of sickness will wait until Mr. Latham's next trip about July 17. I hope they will all enjoy their trip.

The scene of attraction at present is in the cutting just north of the depot, where a gang of men with a steam shovel are engaged in removing the bank of the cutting to straighten the track and do away with that awkward curve. The steam shovel plunges into the bank and removes about a cart load of it at a time. A crowd of ladies and gentlemen gather there every day to watch the operation, which is a very interesting one. The curve will be straightened and the track widened.

Judge Adams has had his hair cut. Nothing wonderful about that you say. Well, don't be in a hurry and I'll explain it to you. When you have known a man for a good many years, and have always seen him with a flowing beard, and then suddenly meet him with a smooth face, you are mighty apt to think he is someone else. The judge no longer sports a beard, although he sticks to his moustache. He looks fifteen years younger and is going for a fight. But he is still the same old Judge.

Friday week is the Glorious Fourth and I suppose most of us will attend the celebration at Thorsby where a great program has been arranged. At 10 a.m. there is to be a grand street parade with all sorts of floats, headed by the Thorsby band; and at 11:15 Col. W. H. Denson will make the speech of the day, after which comes dinner, but you had better make that with you to make sure of it. The afternoon will be given up to sports and racing, the final taking place at 4 p.m. with a grand display of fireworks. I reckon it will be a great day.

Heart to heart talks are invigorating. Did you ever try one? Let me try one now. "Out of the full heart the mouth speaketh," and it is a full heart that guideth this old pencil. My heart speaks to your heart, and this is its cry: I am laid up and if only about 500 of you will send me 50 cents each next week it will smooth things wonderfully. Bring it and I will give you the glad hand; or send it and I will say God bless you. Heart to heart talks are cheering.

TO CURE A COLD IN ONE DAY

Thorsby, Ala., June 17, 1902
Editor Banner—Your notice in last week's issue concerning rural free delivery, awakens my thoughts again to another subject, which is inseparably connected with that of free delivery of mail to country people, which would contribute so greatly to country life in bringing those who live in the country in touch with educational and current events of the day that tend to elevate the aspirations of humanity and largely dispell the monotony of rural life, without adding thereto deleterious effects of city or village life, and much more that might be said in advocacy of rural free delivery.

But our purpose in this article is to discuss the subject of good roads, which is one of the essentials to get this free delivery, yet this is but one of the many points in the argument for better roads which is becoming more and more a recognized necessity for the welfare and convenience of all the people, and while we cannot fail to see the general progress in everything else in our midst, while our towns and villages are rapidly building up, our country districts are also rapidly settling up, new and better residences built, new lands opened up, and old lands brought into a higher state of productiveness by better tillage, etc., together with an awakening concerning school and educational interest, all of which unmistakably declare that there is a spirit of progress and improvement pervading the minds of the people, and the greatest blot that mars these signs of the times is the miserable condition of our public highways and low ways and rough ways and rugged ways, that promise never to be any other way until there is a new and better system to make and keep them in better condition. We often hear it said that the present road law is good enough if properly enforced, but with this idea we take issue, and according to our view it is impracticable and very defective, manifestly unjust to the class of our people on whom the burden falls; while all public burdens should justly be borne equally by all. The present system is old, antiquated and out of date, being made to fit conditions of fifty or seventy-five years ago, when conditions were altogether different from the present. Made when the country was new, and negroes were slaves, etc.

Now, to my mind, the first thing in order on this subject is to agitate the question among the people and let's have a public roads convention to meet in Clanton in August sometime, when the farmers have time to attend, and organize clubs in each community, that the people may come together and discuss the question and formulate some better plan, for any question that so concerns all the people, then all the people should take a hand in the matter.

Death came to the home of Mr. Bob Middlebrooks Sunday and took the only jewel that he had. It was hard to give him up, being all the child he had. It was so precious, age about eight months. But the Lord taketh and the Lord giveth; blessed be the name of the Lord.

The Sabbath School at this place is progressing nicely. Parents and children take an interest in it, and that is what it takes to make a successful Sunday School.

The literary school which opened on June 9th, though small at first is rapidly growing; all are hoping for a successful term.

The death Angel visited the home of Mr. Samuel Adams last Saturday night and carried away his three-year old child to a land where it can rest in peace forever. Our sympathy is extended to the bereaved parents. Though it seems hard sometimes to see the little ones taken from us, we must only be thankful and believe that our Saviour has some good purpose in every thing.

The lengthy arm of death reached the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderso last Friday evening, taking from their home their dear little boy, about seven years of age. The remains of the little one were carried to the Mount Carmel cemetery to await his final calling. The funeral services were conducted by Rev. Till Deason. May the Lord lend a helping hand to the people of this community to help bear the troubles of those bereaved parents and relatives who are mourning and grieving on account of their dear child being taken from them. Remember that the Lord giveth and the Lord taketh, and His will must be done.

"One Minute Cough Cure beats all other medicines I ever tried for coughs, colds, croup and throat and lung troubles," says D. Scott Curran of Loganton, Pa. Croup is so sudden in its attacks that the doctor often arrives too late. It yields at once to One Minute Cough Cure. Pleasant to take. Children like it. Sure cure for grip, bronchitis, coughs.

Dear friends we miss you from our town, our Sunday-school and preaching, but hope you will come again next year and be one of our number.

Starting proof of a wonderful advance in medicine is given by druggist G. W. Roberts of Elizabeth, W. Va. An old man there had long suffered with what good doctors pronounced incurable cancer. They believed his case hopeless till he used Electric Bitters and applied Bucklin's Arnica Salve, which treatment completely cured him. When Electric Bitters are used to expel bilious, kidney and microbe poisons at the same time this salve exerts its matchless healing power, blood diseases, skin eruptions, ulcers and sores vanish. CLANTON, — A. A. L.

The whole which sank a ship did not purpose to be turned into the light of other days in this electric era.

The special franchise tax valuations in New York amount this year to $220,620,165, or $10,000,000 in excess of those of 1901.

Official statistics show that there are seventeen million children in Russia between the ages of six and fourteen receiving absolutely no education.

If the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children had no other claim upon public support, its exhibit of confiscated instruments of punishment would be sufficient, says the American Cultivator. Any one of the instruments would be sufficient to turn an ordinary child into a revengeful outcast.

The Census Bureau has announced that the total number of farms reporting cranberries in 1901 was 2827, with 20,44122 acres and a product of 987,962 bushels of total value of $1,215,193. Massachusetts had 5125 acres in cultivation, raising 598,906 bushels. Wisconsin has 5912 acres and 111,699 bushels, and New Jersey, 8356 acres and 240,221 bushels.

Accidents among rash and adventurous novices who risk their lives in climbing Alpine summits have been grievously frequent in recent months. Mountaineering amid great perils is laudable for Sir Martin Conway and champions of his class, but it is the wildest and most reckless folly for feeble specimens of humanity who lack experience. Such untrained weaklings might as safely go up in airships.

Hartford, Conn., is represented to have experimented more with street sweeping methods than any other city in the United States. It now employs a suction machine on sheet asphalt pavements, rotary sweepers on block asphalt and granite blocks, and hand sweeping on the improved pavements during the day time and on macadam. The cost per 1000 square yards daily of these three methods is 12.2 cents for the first, 24.46 cents for the second and 50.3 cents for the last.

Between the printing-press and the camera there will be no lack of graphic human documents about this generation, states the New York Post. Every small incident in a life may be handed down to its direct offspring, and the result cannot but be entertaining. If now and then embarrassing, to people in times to come. It is not even left to one to choose the pose and the surroundings, any more; the photographer is everywhere, and his realism unconscionable. One's children, one's wife, one's servants, the camp in the woods, the interior of the house, the way one sits in the saddle and the way one gets himself up for automobile—these are set forth in negatives owned by strangers.

In Ohio a thing may happen a half-hour before it does happen. When standard time was adopted by the railroads a decade or so ago and later made official time by the various states and municipalities, although the Ohio legislature stamped it with its more important cities have two kinds seal of approval, few towns made the change, and even now many of the of time, standard (that of the 90th meridian) and sun. The difference in Ohio between these two is about a half hour, and to have the banks, courts, railways and about half the houses running by "standard time" and the rest of a city running by "sun time" is, to say the least, confusing. An interesting lawsuit recently grew out of this condition in Akron. A property owner took out a fire insurance policy at 11:27 standard time, but the policy was dated "noon," it being 12 o'clock by the sun. It happened that the building took fire at the minute the policy was being written, and the insurance company refused to pay the damages. Suit was brought, and it was decided by the supreme court of the state that as "standard time" was legal time in Ohio, the policy, although it was written at 12 o'clock sun time, had really been written thirty-three minutes earlier at 11:27, and therefore the company must pay the insurance.

History repeats itself and so do fashions, not only in dress, but jewelry. One of the large manufacturing jewelry houses in New York City says that it has done more work altering and restoring old cameo jewelry the past season than it has for twenty years.

PUSH, PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY

The Cream of State Specials Condensed.—Matters Industrial and Otherwise.

—Dr. J. B. Thomason was shot and killed by Jasper Hardwick at Cedar Plains, ten miles from Decatur. Hardwick surrendered to the sheriff, giving as his reason for doing the killing that Dr. Thomason had sworn to kill him, and had been carrying a shotgun. The sheriff allowed Hardwick to go on his own recognizance. There is no cause known leading up to the killing. Dr. Thomason was a brother of John A. Thomason, the county coroner and a Decatur business man. Hardwick is a brother of County Tax Collector C. C. Hardwick.

—Warranty deeds showing the transfer of $272,625 worth of real estate to the Seaboard Air Line Railroad, have been filed in the Probate court of Jefferson county. The real estate will be used for the terminals of the Seaboard Air Line in Birmingham. Most of the property was bought from the Birmingham Realty Company, the Seaboard paying that corporation $202,000. The property is principally on Powell avenue and avenue A in Birmingham running back to alley B. It extends from Twenty-fourth street to Thirty-second street and will be used for yards and roundhouse. The total frontage of the property on avenue A is 5600 feet which will allow of ample freight yards for the large business the Seaboard expects to handle from Birmingham.

—The shipment of melons and canteloupes from the line of the Geneva branch of the Louisville & Nashville railroad has begun and they are going forward by the carload. The industry is under the special encouragement of the road which sent experts among the farmers along the line to show them how to plant and cultivate and how to pack the fruit, and furnished the seed free. A corporation formed by the employees of the company has several hundred acres in canteloupes and is shipping its first carload this week. The lands in Covington and Geneva counties, as well as the climate, are in every way similar to those in southwest Georgia.

—During a recent storm a bolt of lightning descended upon a gin at Huffman, belonging to Mr. Sims, and the structure was burned to the ground. The fire spread rapidly when started by the lightning and in a few minutes it held the building entirely in its embrace. The flames leaped high in the air despite the fact that the rain was coming down in sheets all the while, and the surrounding country was lighted up by the glow of the conflagration. Several dwellings near by were licked by the flames and would no doubt have been destroyed but for the heavy rain. Mr. Sims, who is in business in Birmingham, said that the loss would be about $2,000.

—A recent death at Florence under peculiar circumstances was that of Bill Allen, a negro. Allen had been granted a pension of $108 per month and had received $108 back pay. Just one week after receiving his money he died. It was charged that he was poisoned for his money, and a one-legged negro was tried for the offense, but was released. The negro physician who attended Allen declared that he was not poisoned, but one of his negro friends think the circumstances of his death suspicious.

—Wm. Vaughan, of Birmingham, chairman of the republican executive committee, in an interview while in Montgomery, said that the republicans of Alabama will nominate a complete list of candidates for state offices to go before the people at the November elections, and they will make a determined effort to win.

A STREET DUEL

Elk Park, N. C.—In a street duel here between Policeman James Ellis and William Winters, a mountaineer, Ellis was shot and instantly killed and Winters perhaps fatally wounded. The men met in town and faced each other with revolvers and fired several shots. Williams held ill feeling against the officer, who had formerly arrested him for disorderly conduct.

—Messrs. C. W. Mills, John S. Goings, of Ensley, and E. P. Rossmore, of Birmingham, have organized and incorporated the Red Mountain Development Company, capital $10,000. Messrs. R. F. Manley and Romaine Boyd are members of the board of directors. This company owns a tract of land between Cleveland and Grace, consisting of 200 acre or more, which will be developed. The location is ideal for manufacturing sites, and several deals are under way looking to the location of industries. Messrs. Goings and Mills will manage the company's affairs.

—While many were out driving Sunday afternoon at Hartsell, the horse being driven by Prof. J. H. Riddle became frightened and in a very few jumps threw Mr. Riddle and Mr. Rogers out of the buggy and ran into the buggy occupied by Dr. W. A. Barcroft, knocking him and his little 5-year-old son some twenty feet. The doctor received several severe flesh wounds which are not regarded as dangerous, but the extent of the injury to the little boy is not yet known, his jaw being broken, and he was otherwise bruised, but the doctors say his injuries are not fatal.

—The widow of the late Col. R. H. Abercrombie of Gadsden has presented to the department of archives and history the sword worn by her husband as colonel of the 45th Alabama. She has also given a handsome photograph of Colonel Abercrombie as he appeared in the Confederate uniform. He was a lawyer and planter of Tuskegee and removed to Gadsden only a few years before his death, some ten years ago.

—The matter of a president for Howard College, at East Lake, is still undecided. Rev. L. O. Dawson, of Tuscaloosa, who has been offered the presidency, still has it under consideration. Dr. Dawson is very popular in Tuscaloosa. It is learned from that town that every reasonable effort is being made to retain him there, and that he will probably decline the invitation from the Howard trustees.

—The Third Alabama Regiment, National Guard, went into camp at East Lake Monday. There are between 550 and 600 men in the camp, and the sight is a very interesting one for the visitors who attend in large numbers. The most interesting portions of the day are the meal hours, dress parade and company drills.

—Books of subscription have been opened at Prattville for the Autauga Railroad Company. The road is to run westward from Prattville to Autaugaville, which was a noted community before the war, having a fine water power and a cotton mill, which cut an important figure in supplying the Confederate army with cloth.

W. C. Barnes was today appointed postmaster at Hokes Blu, Etowah county, Ala., vice W. F. Bond, resigned. The postoffices at Cairo, Estaville, Riggs, Sand Springs, Limestone county; Gold Dust, Macon county and Thaddeus, Tallapoosa county, in Alabama will be discontinued after June 30.

—Those employed at Pratt City Ensley, Brookside, Bossburg, Coalburg and several other points were paid off and the amount distributed was larger than usual; to production during the last month being quite large.

J. M. Fowler, of Jackson county, was arrested by Deputy Marshal Arnold on a charge of retailing illicit liquor. Fowler was taken to Huntsville and bound over on a bond of $200.

—Governor Jelks has gone to New York with Mrs. Jelks and their daughter, who sails in the next few days for Europe.

—More than $200,000 was paid out to coal miners in this state Saturday.

The Philadelphia Times thinks that there is no doubt that the maintenance of an efficient navy is of more importance to the United States of America than that of a large army.

CARPENTER'S STRIKE

Norfolk, Va.—Two thousand men in the building trades are idle in this city and many carpenters at work on over 300 houses in course of construction here, have struck. General Organizer Odell of the Carpenters' and Joiners' Union is endeavoring to adjust the differences. Unless a speedy settlement is made it is feared that a sympathetic strike is to be the result.

MONTGOMERY LETTER

Interesting Items From the State's Capital City.

MATTERS PERSONAL AND OTHERWISE

About People and Things at Montgomery, of Interest to Every Alabamian.

Montgomery, Ala.—Col. W. W. Quarles, of Selma, publishes an open letter of considerable length in which he says that he is not a candidate for Governor and does not desire to be, carefully refraining from any declaration as to what may happen in the future. Curiosity among the politicians is aroused as to why he should leave the matter still open at a time when he had promised something definite one way or the other. The letter is in effect an argument for a primary and puts Col. Quarles still more prominently before the people as their champion in this matter. It is understood here that the opposition to Governor Jelks has finally decided that it will not center on any man prior to the action of the State's committee, and hence Col. Quarles' expected announcement before that time would have been an individual and not a factional enterprise. The whole matter is still open with the chances decidedly in favor of Joseph F. Johnson, being the man who will be called into the race. Report here has it that in addition to the names of Col. W. L. Martin and Col. Quarles, the name of Col. A. O. Lane, of Birmingham, is also being canvassed by the opposition.

Mr. William Vaughn, chairman of the Republican state committee, was here today on legal business in the United States District court. He was quite ready to talk freely of his party's intentions in this state, and said a full ticket would undoubtedly be put in the field whatever the democrats might do. "It will be a clean ticket," said Mr. Vaughn, "with a business man in all probability at the head of it—one who has not taken a conspicuous part in politics heretofore." Mr. Vaughn further stated that positively he would not be a candidate for re-election as chairman of the committee.

Attorney General Brown has prepared and filed in the supreme court an information in impeachment proceedings against Solicitor R. H. Lowe of the Eighth circuit. The proceedings are based on grand jury reports from Cullman, Morgan and Limestone counties, charging neglect of duty and incompetency. The information sets forth the fact that he has neglected to attend the courts and ascribes his incompetency to physical illness through cerebral ailment. The case cannot come on before late in the fall, and in the meantime Mr. Lowe's health is reported to be improving.

The Atlantic Coast Line Railroad nas filed in the probate court of Montgomery county a mortgage on all its line of $80,000,000. It is a consolidated mortgage to take up outstanding bonds on the several lines of the system, and also to provide funds for extensions and improvements. The bonds secured by the mortgage are 4 per cent. It is built likely the largest amount ever covered by a document of the kind filed in this county. The only mileage of the company in this state are the various branches of the Plant System.

Portland, Oregon.—A fire that started shortly before midnight last night in the Phoenix Iron Works, formerly the Wolf & Zwicker plant, on East Madison and East Water streets, burned for four hours and destroyed six blocks of buildings valued at $600,000. The insurance amounted to about $300,000. It was long after daylight before the fire burned itself out. All the buildings destroyed, were wooden structures, except the Standard Oil Company and Parlen, Orendorff & Co., which were brick.

TO SUGGEST A BRIDE

Queen Dowager Asks the Pope to Select a Wife for Alfonso. London, England.—The correspondent of the Daily Express at Rome in a dispatch says that the Queen Dowager of Spain has asked the Pope to suggest an eligible bride for King Alfonso. It is reported, continues the correspondent, that the pontiff has recommended either an Austrian or a Bavarian princess.

Col. Harvey E. Jones, State tax commissioner, has prepared a summary of the work of his department for the tax year ending September 30, 1901. The result is all the more remarkable when it is remembered that he was appointed by Governor Sanford on February 7, 1901, and did not actually take charge of the office until March 5 of that year. That he and his county tax commissioners did hard and faithful work is shown by the results, which also establish the importance of the department as a branch of the fiscal service of the state. The summary shows that the total amount paid to the state treasury was $98,352,24. Of this amount there was collected on delinquent tax account $3,390,04. Colonel Jones desires it to be stated that the license account is phenomenally large because licenses were held back after the raises by the legislature of 1900-1, pending litigation which resulted in a decision by the Supreme Court sustaining their validity. This was exceptional, and the same amount of money from delinquent licenses cannot be expected by the department in future. A striking feature of the report is the fact that the county tax commissioners found over three million dollars of property which had escaped the scrutiny of the regular fiscal officers in the counties. It may be added that the work is now progressing smoothly everywhere, and the tax commissioners are working harmoniously with other tax officers all over the state. The summary as to county valuations is made on an average county tax rate of five mills, which is rather under than over the mark. The state rate is absolute, and of course the results are exact.

Books of subscription have been opened at Prattville for the Autauga Railroad Company. The road is to run westwardly from Prattville to Autaugaville, which was a noted community before the war, having a fine water power and a cotton mill, which cut an important figure in supplying the Confederate army with cloth.

The Supreme court has adjourned until Saturday the 28th, when it will hand down some decisions and adjourn for the term.

WILL LOSE THEIR MONEY.

San Francisco, Cal.—San Francisco sailors who wagered $150,000 on the safe arrival of the German bark H. F. Glade, stand to lose all their money unless the long overdue vessel arrives by next Wednesday. Information by cable from London says that Lloyds will post the vessel as missing. The Merchants' Exchange here crossed the bark from the overdue list as no longer insurable. The Glade sailed from here October 19 last with wheat and barley for Europe, and is out 243 days. Many local plungers believed its foul bottom was the cause of delay and ventured large amounts on its safe arrival.

ATTEMPTED SUICIDE.

New York, N. Y.—Anthony Shonederf of New York, 72 years of age, has attempted to commit suicide here, says a Paris special to the World, by throwing himself in front of a locomotive on the Paris Belt Line Railway at the Coucellas station. Both legs were cut off below the knees and he will die. Shonederf is said to have lost heavily at Monte Carlo last April. His daughter-in-law arrived at the station just in time to see the wheels roll over him. Then she fainted.

Dallas, Texas.—The St. James hotel collapsed at 2 o'clock Monday morning, but no one was killed. Among those injured are J. Fift and James Nolan, the well known sporting writer. Nolan is thought to be internally injured.

Mr. Fletcher, manager of the hotel, was too dazed to talk after being pulled from the ruins, but it is learned from the guests that there were more than thirteen in the building when it collapsed. The building is an old one, having been erected some twenty-five or thirty years ago.

MAD RIOT IN PATERSON

Anarchists Lead a Desperate War Against the Silk Mills.

MANY PERSONS HURT IN STREET

Comrades of Bresed, the Anarchists of New Jersey, led a desperate war against the silk mills of Paterson, N. J., on Wednesday. A mob of about 1000 men, many of them armed with clubs and stones, hurled themselves upon the mills, and in the confusion many persons were hurt. The mob was dispersed by the police, but the damage to the mills was considerable. The riot was the result of a long struggle between the anarchists and the silk mill owners, who had been fighting for years over the issue of the right to work in the mills.

The morning's meeting of the anarchists was the start of the day's work, which followed existing gatherings of the preceding few days. Each day the turbulent element straggled in and out, and the authorities were unable to keep the streets clear of the mob. The mob was dispersed by the police, but the damage to the mills was considerable. The riot was the result of a long struggle between the anarchists and the silk mill owners, who had been fighting for years over the issue of the right to work in the mills.

At the various factories along the streets were stationed armed police, but a handful when the mob gathered them. Despite all they could do, the mob worked like men all day, and a dozen mills were left half wrecked after the mob had passed, and the employees of as many more had been forced away from their places with threats of violence. In most cases the managers had seen the impossibility of resistance and had yielded promptly.

An Englishman named McQueen and an Italian called Galliano, the former said to be the editor of an Anarchist paper in New York City and who is well known for his sympathy with violence and the latter an open follower of the red flag, were the ringleaders. With them were many of the former companions of Bresed, who was assassinated King Humbert of Italy. Under the leadership of these men the city was turned into a hotbed of anarchy. There were threats of arson, pillage and more bloodshed for the following day, and the Governor of the State stood ready to call out the line and Fourth Regiments to quell the mob. But for the position of Mayor Hinchcliffe, who wanted to quiet the trouble by peaceful means if possible, the soldiers would have been out on Wednesday.

During the storming of the mills there was an attempt to assault a private residence. It was the home of the Hamford Brothers, whose mill near by was invaded and burned until not a pane of glass remained in it from the beating. The house of the mill owners was saved only by the determined stand of a group of policemen, one of whom was knocked out and beaten into insensibility.

After short fights in the other mills the rioters finally met their match at the Hall factory. Up to this time they had been entirely victorious except for the repulse at the Hamford home, which had been attacked only by the wing of the force, while the main body besieged the mill. At the Hall factory a single policeman's business was the day and put a temporary quietus on the riot.

This one officer refused to let the mob enter the mill. A shot was fired at him forthwith. He returned the shot. The mob retreated. Half a dozen bullets flew past his head. He stood again, this time into the midst of the crowd. A rioter fell, and the rest retreated, leaving his body on the ground. This was the finish of the last fighting. In a wild rush, leaving hundreds of hats and torn bits of clothing strewn through the street in front of the mill, the mob dispersed, and it was not until Mayor Hinchcliffe, having been busy organizing the police all day, issued a formal call on the troops to give their aid and act as a supplementary police force in the event of further trouble.

During the rioting more than a score of citizens were seriously injured. Harry Harris, a newspaper reporter, was beaten and stoned and sent through the chest. Lora Salvo, one of the Anarchist leaders, was shot through the lungs. Policemen firing Post shot an unknown striker in the neck, inflicting what was presumed to be a fatal wound. The injured man was borne away unconscious by his companions. Foreman Charles Robinson received a bullet wound in the left arm.

recalls the fact that this tool was produced by an art now lost. It is not day is any poorer for this loss, since steel susceptible of temper at one-third the cost of copper is now abundant.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

What Is Going On In the Nation's Capital City.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Who Writes Entertainingly of Men and Matters of National Interest.

Washington, D. C.—Friday last, was Senator Morgan's seventy-eighth birthday. Despite the victory of the Panama lobby he was among the early arrivals at the senate chamber that morning, and took considerable satisfaction out of the general expectation that there is to be an isthmian canal. After all he considers this the main point. It seems to be the belief that the house, after a struggle, will accept the Spooner Panama substitute.
The republicans led by Hepburn of Iowa, and the democratic side are sorely disappointed over the result in the senate, but to use the language of a prominent Nianguan supporter, "we had better take Panama than nothing." There was a very sanguine feeling expressed as to the successful canal proposition at the cabinet meeting today. Secretary Hay had a long conference before the meeting with Senator Morgan and other senators, and all of the advice that had come to the White House before the cabinet meeting went to assure the President that the canal legislation at the pending session is a certainty and almost as strong as the evidence that the legislation would be in favor of the Panama project. So well assured is the administration already has taken place for the steps to be taken to carry out purpose of the act, and it is understood the state department will deal with the diplomatic features of the canal project, involving of course, the consummation of the Colombia treaty while the attorney general will pass upon the question of sufficiency of title to the Panama canal.

The sundry civil appropriation bill agreed to in conference carries $25,000 to be made immediately available for the Montgomery public buildings authorized by the public buildings and grounds bill. This amount is estimated to be sufficient to last until March 1, 1903. The bill donating the proceeds from the mineral lands of Alabama to the public schools of that state will probably go over until the next session of congress. It is favorably reported and undoubtedly will pass when a vote is reached.

General Wood, former military governor of Cuba, has authorized the following statement in regard to the criticism of his administration made by D. B. Hill at the Tilden Club reunion in New York: "The statement made by Mr. Hill shows either a profound ignorance of the subject to which he refers or an absolute disregard for the truth. If he had ascertained the facts and desired to state the truth he would not have made the statement which he is credited with having made."

W. C. Barnes was today appointed postmaster at Hokes Blu, Etowah county, Ala., vice W. F. Bond, resigned. The postoffice at Cairo, Estaville, Riggs, Sand Springs Limestone county; Gold Dust, Macon county and Thaddeus, Tallapoosa county, in Alabama will be discontinued after June 30.

Senator Hanna and Representatives Burton and Dick held a conference over the controversy over Burton's accepting the renomination from the Cleveland district. After the conference it was stated that a satisfactory adjustment was assured and that Burton would remain a candidate. Although another conference is to be held, it is expected that the basis of settlement will be that the county committee will conduct the county campaign and that Mr. Burton will organize the congressional committee in order to conduct his campaign.

Brasil's Threat to Bolivia.
The Brazilian Government has notified the Government of Bolivia that if the treaty for the lease of 50,000 square miles in Acre to an Anglo-American rubber syndicate is not rescinded diplomatic relations will be immediately suspended. The ownership of the territory in question is disputed.

Town Taken Up by Fire.
The town of Alexander City, Ala., of 1200 inhabitants, was almost completely destroyed by fire. An appeal for succor for the destitute has been made.

The action of the Republican conference on Cuban reciprocity in adjourning sine die is claimed by the best sugar republicans to mean a victory for their side and for the final defeat of the administration.
Senator Allison, the chairman of the caucus, is quoted as saying that it would be many a day before he would issue another call, and unless an agreement can be reached in the meantime it is difficult to see the use of another conference. Several of the supporters of the Cuban reciprocity want to continue the fight, but a majority seem favorable to making a surrender.

Upon Representative Underwood's recommendation the Department of Agriculture has ordered a soil survey of Perry county, Alabama, and will send two corps of experts to go into the county about October 1. It is expected that the work will be completed and the information obtained in the hands of the citizens by February 1 of next year.
The survey will cost about $1,000.
Very few have been made in the south and this is the first in the state of Alabama. The surveys are considered by the department of great value to farmers as indicating proper fertilizing material and what crops can best be raised.

The famous colored educator, Booker Washington, arrived in the city Sunday night and took a room at a colored people's hostelry. He sent word to Representative C. W.
Thompson that he was in town.
Monday afternoon, after the lunch hour, he secured an interview with President Roosevelt. Prof. Washington invited President Roosevelt to visit the Tuskegee Normal School during his visit south next autumn, and the President promised he would accept if possible.

The war department has been engaged for some time in the collection of data requisite for the preparation of a reciprocity treaty with Cuba should the President conclude to send such a treaty to the senate in the event of the failure of congress to grant relief by legislative enactment to the people of the island. It is not believed, however, to be probable that a treaty will be submitted during the present session of congress. A high official of the administration expressed these sentiments when spoken to on the subject, and in addition negatived the likelihood of a special treaty affecting only sugar producers in Cuba.

members of the life-saving service was ordered favorably reported by the House committee on commerce.

Representative Thompson has secured an increase in the clerk hire of the Alexander City, Ala., postoffice from $150 to $300 per annum.

Secretary Root has made answer to the senate resolution of April 17, calling for information as to the cost of the war in the Philippines. Fifty thousand dollars was advanced for the expenses of the Philippine commission originally from the United States treasury, but this amount afterwards was reimbursed out of the Philippine treasury. The cost of the Philippine war, including outstanding obligations up to date is $170,326,586.

A BLOODY FIGHT

Newport, Tenn.—This morning Dave Keller and John Holt became involved in a bloody fight as the result of which the latter is dead and the former in the hands of the sheriff. Unpleasant feeling had existed for some time. This morning they met in the road and Holt ordered Keller, who was carrying a shotgun, to stop. They had some hot words and according to Keller's statement, Holt advanced upon him without paying attention to orders to stop.
Upon failure to do this, Keller fired killing Holt.

PERISHED IN FIRE

Mysterious Death of Electrician Bunch, at Ensley.

BOARDING HOUSE TOTALLY DESTROYED

His Dismembered and Charred Remains Found in the Debris of Building.

Birmingham, Ala.—In the smoking ruins of the home of J. T. Fox, at Ensley, the mutilated remains of Otis Bunch, a young electrician, were found yesterday morning shortly after daylight. The head was almost severed from the body, as if slashed with some sharp instrument, and the broken and distorted limbs, separated from the unsightly trunk, were found in different parts of the room. When found the body was lying beside a wrecked piano, where it had fallen from the room above, when the flood gave way to the flames.

The house which was destroyed was a ten-room structure, situated on the corner of Avenue D and Twenty-fourth street, and was occupied by Mr. Fox and family, who conducted a boarding house. Eight-teen young men roomed at the house and all were asleep when the house was discovered ablaze. By leaping from upper story windows in their night clothes, all of the young men escaped except young Bunch.
Several of them sustained slight injuries and lost all of their belongings.

The flames were past control when discovered and the house and all its contents were destroyed. The loss is total as there was no insurance carried.

When the inmates of the house had gotten together it was found that young Bunch, who is only 18 years of age, was missing. A search of the ruins revealed his dismembered body, horribly burned, in what had been the parlor.

It was at first reported that he had started down the steps, but finding them on fire rushed back up the stairs into another young man's room with the hope of escaping from one of the windows. As he reached the center of the room the floor gave way and he was precipitated to the lower floor. Later this story could not be substantiated and on account of the mutilated condition of the body suspicion was aroused as to how he came to his death. The Ensley police are investigating the matter, but as yet have made no arrest. The officers say that it would have been impossible for the body to have been so dismembered merely by the fall. The theory is advanced that young Bunch was murdered and the house set on fire to hide the crime. No alarm was turned in until the structure was almost consumed.

Odus Bunch came to Ensley from Pulaski, Tenn., several months ago and secured a position in the Ensley steel mills as an electrician. His family is said to be wealthy and after a technical education he had left home to get experience in some of the large industrial plants of the south. He was paid a big salary in full Saturday but none of his money has been found, though it is possible it was destroyed in the fire.

On account of the quick destruction of the house it was rumored that the structure may have been fired to secure the insurance money, but this was soon discarded as absurd because no insurance was carried.

The entire affair is enveloped in mystery and the city attorney and police are working hard to solve it.
No direct charges have been made against an individual, but on account of the horrible mutilation of the boy's body the authorities deemed an investigation necessary.

James Bunch, a brother of the dead boy, arrived last night and had the remains sent to Pulaski, Tenn., where funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Ping-pong is said to be threatening to extinguish golf. Won't some one invent something right away that will knock out ping-pong?

Here is if life tragedy told in a three line advertisement in a Boston newspaper. This is the advertisement:
"Wanted—Sunny, airy, quiet, comfortable, unfurnished, inexpensive room, by non-smoking, tidy, middle-aged, unmarried poet." Only a case-hardened soul could read these lines without tears. Think of it! A poet in his tide-ness and his middle age, hunting a room! There is unspeakable pathos in the cheerful way he puts it, with the glad thine first.

THE SABBATH SCHOOL

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS
FOR JUNE 29.

Review of the Twelve Lessons for the Second Quarter, Acts iv. 2-31—Golden Text, Luke iii. 22—Summary for Sabbath School.

Introduction.—We have seen during the past quarter the great interest the early church took in the welfare of every work; in fact, the whole church was called a missionary church, organized for the purpose of operating along missionary lines. To carry the gospel to the "regions beyond" seemed to be the great ambition of the apostles and their followers. Only as the missionary spirit is kept alive will the church be saved from standardism and death.

KING EDWARD VII is lying dangerously ill in London and his coronation has been indefinitely postponed. All the invited guests have returned to their respective homes. The king is over sixty years of age, and whether he will live to be crowned is problematical.
In the event of his death, his oldest son the Prince of Wales would become king.

A LONG CHASE.
When on Tuesday, June 10, sheriff Morgan was called to meet heriff Cox, of Shelby county, at campo, it is hardly to be expected he realized what sort of a journey he had started on. He was called to assist in the capture of Charley Martin, who lived near Ocampo, and Pell Martin, who were wanted for the killing of John Pilgreen at Calera some two weeks ago. The two Sheriffs met at Minooka, and that night and next day scoured the woods with the help of Mr. Buck Arledge, all through Stumps hill out to the river. Thursday Sheriff Cox left them, and Morgan and Arledge followed the chase into Shelby county, crossing the river at Bill Willis' tent. The chase led them up through Marble Valley to Syl-cauga; at one time they were only an hour and a half behind the men they were after. At Sylcauga the chase doubled back fifteen miles towards Chilton, and finally when Morgan and Arledge were at Talladega Springs, they received notification that the prisoners had been captured at Mr. Dozier's place, about eight miles from Marble Valley, and had been jailed at Columbiana, where a preliminary trial was to be held on Wednesday, June 25. Sheriff Morgan and Mr.
Arledge were eight days on the trail and all told, reckon they traveled about three hundred miles.
Morgan says at one time he was sixty hours without taking off his clothes or shoes.

MASONIC INSTALLATION.
The installation of officers of Clanton Lodge, No. 423, A. F. & A. M., took place at the Methodist church Monday night by Major J.
G. Harris, Past Grand Master of the Masonic Lodge of Alabama, who also delivered an able address outlining the object of masonry and the duty of a mason to its cause.
The Clanton choir rendered exceptionally good music for the occasion, while the playing of Miss Myrtle Moore, the organist, was of the highest order. The following officers were installed: C. J.
Stewart, Worshipful Master; G.
Higgins, Senior Warden; J. W.
Moore, Junior Warden; W. I.
Mullins, Treasurer; P. M. Moore,
Secretary; E. B. Deason, Senior Deacon; J. C. Jones, Junior Deacon; J. M. Stanfield, Tyler.

After the Lodge had disbanded, Major Harris and several friends were entertained at the home of Mr. G. Higgins, where refreshments were served and an enjoyable time passed.

Closing Exercises Thorsby Normal School.

A highly successful session of the Thorsby Normal School was concluded on Wednesday, June 18, when diplomas were delivered to thirteen graduates and the exercises carried out before a large and appreciative audience.

When the school was opened at ten o'clock it was at once filled by the friends of the students and the public. The exercises commenced with speeches by the graduating class, which were all well delivered and evidenced the careful training the graduates had received.

Dr. Cunningham, of Jefferson, who was to have delivered the annual address, was unavoidably prevented from attending, and Judge Adams made the address in his happiest style, at the same time giving good advice to all.

At the intermission all were cordially invited to an appetizing repast served in the refreshing shade of the beautiful trees adorning the school grounds.

In the afternoon Prof. Rasco, in handing the diplomas to the graduates, made a brief but impressive speech to them, and this was followed by the baccalaureate address by Judge Longshore, who made an exceptionally felicitous speech, and the proceedings were closed with prayer by Judge Adams. At intervals during the day the Thorsby Cornet Band discoursed sweet music.

Long before 8 p. m. the hall was packed until there was not standing room, and it was oppressively warm. Nevertheless, the concert was the crowning success of the day. The two pieces, "The Enchanted Wood" and "The Scientific School" were excellently rendered and elicited hearty applause.
The tableau and the hoop drill were very pretty and effective, and the recitation, "Our Hired Girl," by Miss Lizzie Wambem was prettily given. Everyone was delighted with the entertainment.

The Thorsby Normal School is making for itself an excellent reputation and Prof. Rasco is to be congratulated on the success it has attained.

MANY of the country editors see in the distance the disruption of their business through the encroachments of the big city dailies.
Such fear is groundless. The country paper that minds its business and does not try to compete with the big daily of the city is in no danger of annihilation. The province of the latter is to give the general news, that of the former to distribute the local news.
People who live in small towns are very loyal to their sections.

tance they invariably, if they be

"I suffered from dyspepsia and indigestion for fifteen years," says
W. T. Sturdevant of Merry Oaks,
N. C. "After I had tried many doctors and medicines to no avail
one of my friends persuaded me to try Kodol. It gave immediate relief. I can eat almost anything I want now and my digestion is good.
I cheerfully recommend Kodol.
Don't try to cure stomach troubles
by dieting. That only further weakens the system. You need wholesome, strengthening food. Kodol enables you to assimilate what you eat by digesting it without the stom-
ach's aid."

IN MEMORIAM.

The sad end of our beloved friend
James Miner, Jr.

On Saturday morning, June 14, he was as well as ever. He went to the woods; he and his partner cut them a load of logs and loaded them on their dray and went to the log-way, and the train came and James went to the mill at Stanton and on his return, four miles from Stanton at 10:30 o'clock, he got up from where he was sitting and said to some friends that were on the train,
"I am going to get me some water." He started back to the engine; while walking the couplings he made a mistep and fell under the cars and three sets of trucks crushing his body and throwing him from the track just in time to keep the engine from running over him. The engineer stopped his train as quick as possible and the fireman stepped out and started to him, but before he could reach him he got up on his feet and fainted, but afterwards recovered and called for water and talked awhile. The doctor was sent for and started home with him, but he died in the buggy on the road home. He passed peacefully away before any of his connection knew he was hurt; they carried him on home to his father and on Sunday morning a large host of friends and relatives assembled at Sardis church to pay the last tribute of respect to him. Rev. T. J. Deason conducting the funeral services, after which he was laid to rest to await the resurrection. Mr. Miner was a member of the Baptist church; he was a Christian hearted young man, 25 years old; his friends were many and enemies he had none; all who knew him were friends to him. He was raised here and no one knows any thing wrong of him. He was a dutiful and devoted boy to his parents, and always had a smile and a pleasant word for all. He will be missed by his friends where he worked and in our social circle, but with his father, mother, brother and sisters he will be missed most of all.
How we miss his cheerful presence, and view with saddened hearts the place made vacant by his absence, but with an eye of faith we can look to the beautiful world beyond and hear him singing happy songs of praise, while he wears the crown of righteousness which the righteous Judge has given him and which He will give to all those who follow in His footsteps. So, then, let us each and everyone live so that when our Heavenly Father sends His messenger to call us away from this world of sin and sorrow we may clasp the hands of our loved one gone before in that bright land of peace and love never more to part, never more to weep.

Gone beyond the darksome river,
Only left us by the way.
Gone beyond the night forever.
Only gone to endless day.
Gone where every eye is tearless,
Only gone from earthly care.
Oh the waiting and cheerless
Till we meet the loved one there.
Weep not, dear friends, we will meet him again. A FRIEND.

OBITUARY.

Sister Elmina Hand, wife of W.
W. Hand, died instantly May 18, 1902, near Clanton, of neuralgia of the heart.

She was born March 3, 1843; united in marriage to Bro. W. W. Hand, October 28, 1860. Aged 59 years and 7 months. Joined the Baptist church, Coosa county, at fifteen years of age. Lived a consistent member forty-four years. She was the mother of eleven children, of which Pastor Joseph Hand the beloved brother and preacher, is her son. Whereas, God, in his infinite wisdom, has seen fit to take her life to the spirit world, where she may ever bask in the sunshine of his love where there is no more sickness, pains, groans or shedding of tears, but one eternal day. May the beloved husband, children, parents and friends, grieve not for her as those who have no hope, but bow our heads and say from our hearts the will of God be done, for as she cannot come to us we can, by the grace of God and consistent living for Christ, meet her in the morning of the resurrection where there will be no more parting forever. She bath only paid the debt dear reader, we will shortly have to pay.

Spring Fever.
Spring fever is another name for biliousness. It is more serious than most people think. A torpid liver and inactive bowels means a poisoned system. If neglected, serious illness may follow such symptoms.

DeWitt's Little Early Risers remove all danger by stimulating the liver, opening the bowels and cleansing the system of impurities. Safe pills. Never gripe. "I have taken DeWitt's Little Early Risers for
torpid liver every spring for years," writes R. M. Everly, Mountsville, W. Va. "They do me more good than anything I have ever tried."

Normal Musical Institute.

The Second Session of the Showalter Normal Musical Institute will begin in Clanton, Ala., on Thursday, the 7th day of August, 1902.

The Institute will be under the personal leadership of Prof. A.
J. Showalter, of Dalton, Ga., assisted by his two daughters. The charges will be as follows:

For the Evening Choruses, Night Sessions.....$1.50
For all not in Harmony and under 14 years..... 3.00
For all above 14 years and not in Harmony..... 4.00
For Primary Harmony..... 4.50
For Advanced Harmony..... 5.00 for the term of twenty days. Where two are sent from the same family, a deduction of 15 per cent will be allowed; for three from one family, a deduction of 20 per cent. Where more than three wish to enter from one family, apply to Committee for special discounts.

Special arrangements can be made for private lessons on reasonable terms.

Board can be had in pleasant homes at from seven to ten dollars.
The first session of this Institute was a grand success and the promise for the second session is very flattering. A large number from a distance are making applications for places. The session will be one of the best and fullest ever taught in middle Alabama.

Clanton is one of the best business towns between Birmingham and Montgomery, situated on the great Louisville & Nashville system, 42 miles north of Montgomery, in the health giving pine woods, on a high plateau, 590 feet above tide water; malaria is unknown. The water is celebrated for its purity and coolness. The people are refined, cultivated Christian people, and will extend a hearty welcome to those attending. And while those attending this Institute do so with a purpose, and will have the greater part of their time occupied, still in the intervals there will be time for pleasant social intercourse.
The Committee will cheerfully give any further information wanted. Address

P. D. WILSON, Secretary, Clanton, Ala.

Read It In His Newspaper.

George Schaub, a well known German citizen of New Lebanon, Ohio, is a constant reader of the Dayton Volkszeitung. He knows that this paper aims to advertise only the best in its columns, and when he saw Chamberlain's Pain Balm advertised therein for lame back, he did not hesitate in buying a bottle of it for his wife, who for eight weeks had suffered with the most terrible pains in her back and could get no relief. He says: "After using the Pain Balm for a few days
my wife said to me, 'I feel as though born anew,' and before using the
entire contents of the bottle the unbearable pains had entirely vanished
and she could again take up her household duties." He is very thankful and hopes that all suffering like-wise will hear of her wonderful recovery. This valuable liniment is for sale by Hopkins Drug Co.,
and A. Horn, Thorsby.

Attractive Women.

All women sensibly desire to be attractive. Beauty is the stamp of health because it is the outward manifestation of inner purity. A healthy woman is always attractive, bright and happy. When every drop of blood in the veins is pure a beautiful flush is on the cheek.
But when the blood is impure, moroseness, bad temper and a shallow complexion tells the tale of sickness, all too plainly. And women to-day know there is no beauty without health. Wine of Cardus cures women with beauty and attractiveness by making strong and healthy those organs which make her a woman. Try Wine of Cardus, and in a month your friends will hardly know you.

Too Many Sheep.
Immense areas of cattle range have been destroyed by too much crowding and by sheep. Sheep in large bunches rip the grass so close and so cut it up with their hoofs that it dies. The railroads of the Northwest have combined to find the grass most suitable for stock, and to this end will divide 1,000,000 acres of land into thirty subdivisions, each of which will be planted with a different kind of grass.

STOPS PAIN

Athens, Tenn., Jan. 27, 1901.
Ever since the first appearance of my menstrual troubles I have suffered with suffering with great pain in my hips, back, stomach and legs, with terrible bearing down pains in the abdomen.
During the past month I have been taking Wine of Cardui and Thedford's Black Draught, and I passed the monthly period without pain for the first time in years.

What is the worth to a woman suffering like Nellie Davis suffered? Yet there are women in thousands of homes to-day who are bearing those terrible menstrual pains in silence. If you are one of these we want to say that this same

WINE OF CARDUI

will bring you permanent relief. Consult yourself with the knowledge that 1,000,000 women have been completely cured by Wine of Cardui. These women suffered from leucorrhoea, irregular menstrues, headache, backache, and bearing down pains. Wine of Cardui will stop all these aches and pains for you. Purchase a $1.00 bottle of Wine of Cardui to-day and take it in the privacy of your home.

Women Need

a constant supply of blood-purifying medicine to their system. Break down under the constant strain. The very moment there is lack of blood, or when the blood is impoverished, the system appears upon the face in sallowness or pallor.
The remedy needed is Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic.
Nothing else meets this particular condition so well. Use of it has made hundreds of these sick women look younger and made them feel even younger than they looked. It not only restores strength, energy and beauty, but it is a prompt and certain cure for all ailments producing the loss of blood. It cures because it removes the cause. It supplies just what nature needs to bring health.

Dr. Harter's Iron Tonic

strengthens debilitated organs, gives tone and elasticity to muscles and ligaments, restores wasted tissues and renews the vigor of the en-

Sunday ranks third in the British Empire in the value of its import and export trade, London and Liverpool outranking it in the order named. No wonder Russia eyes it covetously.

Increase of speed in the operation of trains is calling for a new system of signaling which can be communicated direct to the engineer in his cab. This is now said to be possible through the agency of electricity and the use of the rails on which the locomotive is running.

Lord Kelvin pronounced the Santos-Dumont airship "a snare and a delusion," on the ground that "a balloon with a paddle can never be of any practical use." The fact remains undisputed, however, that the Brazilian's invention is the only dirigible machine which has thus far navigated the air.

A Canadian parliamentary committee has reported favorably on the construction of a canal to join Georgian Bay, Lake Huron and Montreal. The route selected for the canal is 400 miles shorter than the route now used by the way of the St. Lawrence river. The cost of the improvement is estimated at $80,000,000, and, if undertaken at once, can be completed by 1910.

Downing street, the home of British diplomacy, perpetuates the name of a clever New Englander—George Downing—who went to England from Massachusetts and became a chaplain in Cromwell's army. He served as British ambassador at the Dutch court, and retained his popularity in the reign of Charles II, being given the large grant of land at Westminster, where he laid out Downing street. He is said to have been the first pupil in the first school established in Massachusetts.

During the turmoil of the general elections, the streets and public buildings of Paris were treated to a regular orgy of rainbow-colored placards. It is said that rival candidates were not content with flaming posters pasted on every available spot, but each morning renewed them with others, putting, in staggering letters and impressionist colored ink, questions and replies to inquiries and statements of their opponents, forming incongruous catechisms of political convictions. This is certainly a new development of electioneering literature.

One of the most singular of the "little trades" of Paris, and one not recognizable by the police—hence a recent prosecution—is that of the tattooer. He plies his industry, far from the eyes of the sergeants de ville, in some very retired spot near the river. The persecuted artist who was the subject of recent police proceedings only deals in the higher emotions—love and patriotism. For five sous he will draw a heart on a flag; for twice that sum he will give you two flags dominated by a star. The portrait of the beloved will be indelibly traced for a franc; for 20 centimes more he will add the pignard, which will avenge. But why harrow the feelings? He seems not to have lacked customers.

All adventure-loving boys will be sorry to learn that Robinson Crusoe's island, Juan Fernandez, is now the site of a flourishing cannery establishment. Mr. Mansfield, the consul at Valparaiso, has written to the department of state about it. The Chilean republic, which owns the island, will soon provide it with a local government, and make it a province. It is situated 600 miles west of Valparaiso, and is 15 miles long and eight miles wide. Mansfield says: "There are quantities of lobsters, crabs, and excellent food fishes in the water." The lobsters are large, of excellent flavor, and especially suited for canning. They are easily caught and the supply seems inexhaustible. The cost of securing them is nominal. There are also a large number of fur seals on Fernandez. There is plenty of fresh water on the island; land can be acquired by settlers without cost; fruit and vegetables grow wild, and can be easily cultivated, which makes the cost of living relatively low. There is a good harbor on one side of the island, where a large ship can anchor with safety. Of course, this ruins the romance, and it would not pay any real out-and-out voyager to go there and be wrecked now.

WASHINGTON GOSSIP.

What Is Going On In the Nation's Capital City.

FROM OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

Who Writes Entertainingly of Men and Matters of National Interest.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—With final adjournment probably today, the House worked under high pressure from noon yesterday until far into last night. As a preliminary several resolutions were adopted to grease the executive wheels. The rule providing for the printing of conference reports until the end of the session, and a resolution was adopted making a motion to suspend the rules in order at any time. The House then got down to business.

The conference report on the Philippine civil government bill, which is considered the last obstacle in the way of adjournment was adopted by a strict party vote, with the single exception of Mr. McCall, of Massachusetts, who voted with the Democrats.

A partial report on the general deficiency appropriation bill was adopted, and after a prolonged fight the House by a vote of 118 to 101 accepted the Senate amendment to appropriate $500,000 for the Buffalo Exposition and then sent the bill back to conference. The Senate amendment to appropriate $160,000 for the Charleston Exposition and $1,000,000 to pay the Hawaiian five bubonic plague awards were defeated, the former by a vote of 71 to 118.

Subsequently at the night session the House reversed itself and assented to the Senate amendment making an appropriation for the Charleston Exposition.

A number of bills were passed under suspension of the rules, including the Senate bill to allot lands in the Cherokee Nation and to provide corporation laws for Alaska.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Mr. Frank W. Bricknell, special agent and agricultural explorer of the Agricultural Department, writing from Buenos Ayres to the Bureau of Animal Industry, says that if it is possible for some breeders of the United States to send some really first-class animals to that place, now is a good time to do so, as British cattle have been barred owing to an outbreak of foot and mouth disease in England. The cattle must arrive in Buenos Ayres not later than August 1, so as to have time to get in condition before the opening of the great annual show of the Rural Society, which begins in Buenos Ayres September 14 and lasts five days.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—At noon today Senator Lodge, who is in charge of the Philippine civil government bill after reading the conference report on the measure expressed the opinion that the Senate would adjourn after the session about 4:30 o'clock. Both Democratic and Republican members of the committee said they would do nothing to prolong the session.

The only other plan upon which there was at that time any dispute was the naval appropriation bill and it was then announced that the conferees had settled the controverted point about the construction of war ships in government yards by agreeing that one of the proposed vessels should be so constructed. Senators generally agreed that it was entirely feasible to conclude the session before adjournment today.

WASHINGTON.—Representative Richardson, of Tennessee, and his Democratic associates on the special committee which investigated the charges of bribery, etc., in connection with the Danish West Indies purchase, have decided not to make a minority report and the report of the committee will be unanimous that there was no bribery. The committee will decide upon the report and give it out today.

WASHINGTON.—Acting Secretary of State Hill received a request by cable yesterday from United States Consul L. W. Livingston at Cape Haytien for an American warship to protect the interests of the United States during the present revolutionary crisis in Hayti. Dr. Hill referred the request to Secretary Moody who ordered the Marietta at San Juan, Porto Rico, to proceed at once to the scene of trouble.

Killed by Falling in Well.

ANNISTON, Ala., July 1.—Mr. Sam Pressley, who was conducting a saw mill at Peachburg, in company with Mr. Carter, met a violent death yesterday morning.

A well was being sunk at the mill. Mr. Pressley went to the bottom of the well. He found that much gas had accumulated since the suspension of work Saturday afternoon. He gave the alarm and was hastily drawn to the top, but just when putting his feet upon solid earth again swooned and fell back a depth of eighty feet.

So great was the concussion that it caused a considerable amount of earth to cave in on the body and completely covered it.

Owing to the gas no one could descend into the well, and at noon yesterday the body had not been recovered.

They Fight Over Exchange.

PEKIN, July 1.—The Tao Tai of Shanghai has notified the bankers' commission that China refuses to pay the July installment of the indemnity except at the rate of exchange prevailing April 1, 1901. The foreigners consider that the Tao Tai's declaration is the result of the announcement of the United States minister, Mr. Conger, to the Chinese government that the United States sustains China's contention and is willing to accept payment on the basis mentioned. But the ministers are confident that China will accept the decision of the majority of the ministers when she is convinced that the United States is her only supporter. Some of the ministers insist that the policy of the United States is unreasonable and in direct opposition to the protocol.

Italians Furnish Four Deaths.

NEW ORLEANS, July 1.—Joseph Gracile, one of the Italians who attacked Antonio Luciani, barricaded home on the night of June 11, died last night at the Charity Hospital of wounds received in the conflict. His made the fourth death growing out of the raid. Salvatore Luciani and Vincenzo Bentura were almost instantly killed in the Luciani stronghold. The next day, after having been released on bond Antonio Luciani killed Bartholomew Farriaric, the companion of Salvatore Luciani, claiming that it was Farriaric who had killed his brother, Salvatore.

Raise in Salary.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Twenty-five hundred clerks in the employ of the New York postoffice whose salaries are $600, $700 and $800 a year will be made happy today by having an increase of $100 in each of their salaries. This increase will cost $15,000. Three hundred additional clerks also will be employed today at a cost of $180,000 a year.

Judge Taft Hears From Root.

ROME, July 1.—Judge Taft, civil governor of the Philippine islands, has received a cablegram from Secretary Root enumerating the definite propositions to be presented to the Vatican regarding the disposition of the friar lands in the Philippines.

Rapist on Trial for His Life.

WASHINGTON, Ind., July 1.—Joe Herbert, on trial for his life, Bill Edison, the Vincennes rapist and other prisoners broke jail early this morning. The whole country has been aroused in the pursuit. Edison is the prisoner who narrowly escaped the lynching recently at Vincennes.

Sunday School Workers Banqueted.

DENVER, Col., July 1.—A number of Sunday school workers, who attended the world's convention at London in 1899 and who were also delegates to the International Sunday School Convention which has just closed in this city, were banqueted at the Albany Hotel last night.

Appointed by the French.

PARIS, July 1.—At a cabinet meeting held at the Elysee Palace today, M. Beau, the French minister at Pekin, was appointed governor-general of Indo China, succeeding M. Paul Doumer, who resigned in April last.

Queen Victoria was accounted a Christy sovereign in her day, but it is said King Edward is more economical still. He has put labor saving machinery into the royal palaces, dismissed superfluous officials and effected a saving of something like $100,000 a year by his various economies.

New York City is going to expend $1,500,000 for churches during the coming year—almost as much as the average magistrate is willing to lay out on his summer vacation.

NEW YORK.—Supt. A. A. Harrington, of the Mohawk division of the New York Central railroad yesterday announced that the Twentieth Century Limited broke the world's record for long distance running on its trip yesterday from Albany to Syracuse. It made the 148 miles between the two cities in 145 minutes, including a stop at Utica and several slow downs.

THE SENATE DEFILED.

Two Senators Again Come to Blows.

BEVERIDGE AND BAILEY, THE ONES.

Beveridge Insults Bailey, so he says. Beveridge denies it, and They go Together.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 1.—For the second time this session a prize fight was pulled off on the floor of the United States Senate yesterday. Tillman and McLaurin of South Carolina giving way to Bailey of Texas and Beveridge of Indiana.

Near the close of an exciting debate between the Texas and the Indianan in which the latter said that Bailey had made an unwarranted statement and intimated that he had libeled an officer of the government, Bailey demanded that the Indiana Senator retract his words. This Mr. Beveridge declined to do. After adjournment Bailey walked over to the Republican side, again requested Mr. Beveridge to withdraw the offending words, and to physically resent Beveridge's allegations by choking the Indianan. The prompt arrival of the Senate employes and several members saved Mr. Beveridge.

This is the first time in the long and honorable Congressional career of Senator Bailey that he has lost his head to the extent of engaging in a personal encounter. Senator Beveridge of Indiana, however, sorely irritated him, as Beveridge only can irritate.

Beveridge is virtually the "wasp" of the Senate and Senator Pettus is about the only man who ever cleaned him up in debate. Senator Beveridge made no effort to resent the attack of Mr. Bailey yesterday. In fact the two Senators were separated so quickly that there was no time for an exchange of blows.

From what can be learned, however, Senator Beveridge would not have fought. Several days after the Tillman-McLaurin fight Senator Beveridge was discussing the incident with a party of gentlemen.

"I think," said he, "I could have restrained myself had I been in Tillman's place. A number of years ago I got into a fight in Pittsburgh and I made up my mind then that I would never engage in another physical encounter."

The Senators during the afternoon had a heated controversy over a statement by Senator Beveridge in which he said that Senator Bailey had made an "unwarranted attack" on Solicitor Penfield of the State Department.

In executive session Senator Beveridge, like other senators who smoke, lighted a cigar and took a seat on the Republican side. He was still sitting there when the Senate adjourned. Senator Bailey crossed the aisle and walked through the seats until he was facing Senator Beveridge.

"Beveridge," he said, "I don't want to have any trouble with you, but I want you to withdraw those words which charge me with making an unwarranted attack upon Penfield."

"I did not intend to insult you," replied Senator Beveridge, "and there is nothing in my language that you could consider offensive."

"I don't allow any one to say that I libel a man, and that is what you do in making the charge. If you want to withdraw the words when I ask you, I'm going to make you withdraw them."

Senator Bailey had been getting more and more angry and excited as he talked. He had been sitting down part of the time leaning against the desk immediately in front of Senator Beveridge, the latter in his reply to Senator Bailey's last remark, still remaining in his chair, said: "I repeat that I did not intend to insult and that I have nothing to retract."

As the words were uttered Senator Bailey threw himself upon Senator Beveridge, who is a man hardly up to the average in physique, and seized him by the throat with both hands. The rush was so sudden and fierce that the chair in which Mr. Beveridge was sitting was pushed back against a desk and the desk was toppled over. Before the assault could go any further Senators who had been sitting near moved up between the desks. Senator Hansbrough, of North Dakota, seized Senator Bailey by one arm and Senator Spooner seized the other. The Texas senator is a powerful man and it was with great difficulty that the two senators were able to drag him away from Representative Wiley, of Alabama, yesterday obtained the consent of the speaker to call up the bill providing for the holding of annual sessions of the Circuit Court at Montgomery. Mr. Wiley secured a suspension of the rules and the bill was passed.

Has Accepted.

ST. LOUIS, July 1.—A copy of Lord Lansdowne's letter to Ambassador Choate accepting the invitation to participate in the World's Fair has been received from the Secretary of State. The display to be made by Great Britain will consist largely of educational and art exhibits. Opportunity will also be afforded British manufacturers to make exhibits.

Mr. Wilbur F. Crafts, of the Sabbath Reform Association, is continuing his propaganda for closing the Louisiana Purchase Exposition on Sundays despite the fact that the Louisiana Purchase Exposition Company has given every evidence of a firm purpose to observe the Sunday closing clause of the law providing for federal participation in the exposition.

Commissioner Zeggio, writing from Florence on June 17, says that the Crown Prince of Stam, while in Florence recently, manifested considerable interest in the World's Fair, and said that he would certainly spend a few days in St. Louis on his visit to this country next September.

Commissioner Zeggio has learned that King Menelik, of Abyssinia, desires to visit the World's Fair.

A Conflict Ensues.

CLEVELAND, O., July 1.—The first serious conflict between non-union employers and sympathizers with the striking tug men took place last night with the result that Michael McDonough, president of the Licensed Tug Men's Protective Association is now in the hospital with a bullet wound in his leg. The tug Chris Grover, manned by non-union men, was stoned by men on shore and a number of shots were fired.

WILKESBARRE, Pa., July 1.—The first loss of life during the anthracite strike occurred today at the William A. Colliery, at Duryea. Antonio Guiseppe, an Italian, was shot dead by one of the coal and iron policemen from behind the stockade of the colliery. The friends of the dead man say he was walking on the road near the stockade when he was fired upon. He insisted on making his way into the stockade and was shot. There is much indignation over the shooting and the sheriff of Lackawanna county was summoned to take steps to preserve order as it was reported that there would be an uprising among the foreigners and that they would attack the stockade before night.

Uncle Sam Gets More Money.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Uncle Sam's coffers have been enriched greatly during the last fiscal year by duties collected here by the report of the collector of the post just issued. For the year ending June 30th, duties amounting to $165,500,126 have been paid. This is the largest amount ever collected at New York and beats the previous record made in 1899-1900, by $12,000,000.

JAMESTOWN, Island of St. Helena.—Cronje, the Boer commander, has taken the oath of allegiance to King Edward. Many of the remaining prisoners are following his example.

GUTHRIE, O. T.—Sheriff A. J. Belard and Under Sheriff Coburn, of Roger Mills county, Oklahoma, were killed yesterday in a battle with horse thieves while the officers were attempting to arrest members of a band of outlaws.

The State Executive Committee of the Democratic party is called to meet at Montgomery on July 10, when the great question of primary or convention will be settled.

Congress adjourned on Tuesday. Speaker Henderson said that since the adoption of the constitution no House of Representatives had done as much work as this one.

The twelfth annual convention of the Southern Educational Association was opened at Chattanooga Tuesday. Five hundred delegates, representing all of the Southern States, were present, and two or three hundred more are expected.

On Monday next the Registrars will commence their last round at Coopers, and every man who has not already done so should make it a point to go out and register. It is only a small expenditure of time now and a man is registered for life. By all means go and register!

KING Edward is rapidly getting better, and a review of the colonial troops from all parts of the world was held by the Queen on Tuesday. It was a unique review from the fact that the troops were gathered from all parts of the British empire.

The coal operators and miners in the Birmingham district not having come to an agreement concerning wages, the United Mine Workers have quit work, and it seems likely that the suspension may last for some time. All is quiet around the mines and no trouble is anticipated.

The Dixie Manufacturer last week issued an illustrated art edition, devoted to Birmingham's manufacturing advantages and commercial interests. It graphically portrays the progress and development of the Magic City, and contains very interesting sketches and photos of many of the leading men of Birmingham. There are some good views of various buildings and the resorts in the neighborhood, and also several illustrated sketches of a number of Alabama's prominent men. The whole edition is exceptionally well got up and reflects great credit upon Editor Rountree.

IN MEMORIAM.

We have one member less than at our last communication. On June 17 Brother Joel Gulleldge died at Verbena, Ala. He was born on the 24th of June, 1811, and was therefore in his 91st year. He had been with our lodge only a short time but was one of the oldest Masons in the State, having been made a Mason about the year 1849 at Rockford, Coosa county, at the time Brother I. W. Suttles, deceased, a Mason of much prominence at that time, was W. M. of Rockford Lodge. Brother Gulleldge lived until early manhood in Anson county, N. C., when he came to Alabama, and he lived the greater part of his life in Coosa county of this State.

Brother Gulleldge joined the M. E. Church, South, in early life and was a devout worker in this church up to his death.

Brother Gulleldge lived a long and useful life and it is with keen regret that we have had to sever our earthly association with him. We mourn with the family of the deceased brother and while we fully realize the loss of a member of the Lodge at this place, we trust that one more is added to that Lodge higher up.

Misses Berta and Ethel Macon have been guests of Mrs. Fannie Parnell.

We have been fortunate to have Mr. Dock Tucker and some of his friends to sing in our church.

The Misses Elam and Miss Yula Tucker have had a most enjoyable day with Mrs. Hill Foshee.

Mrs. Dr. Claughton has returned from visiting relatives in Verbena.

Mr. Green and family have lately visited his sister, Mrs. Joe Adams.

We envy Saratoga, N. Y., our rising young dentist, J. A. DuBose. He had made a reputation in his old home in his profession.

The admirers of Ransy Sniffles have been enjoying his favorite pastime, but no berry pickers here were driven to the straight he was.

We are yet having a most distressing drought, only two light showers succeeded by hot sunshine have fallen in about five weeks.

The woods to the west of this place have burnt most distressingly; many railroad ties of the T. T. Lumber Co. were destroyed.

Your correspondent had a most delightful day at the Sand Mountain M. E. church. Rev. Mr. Hinton preached a most excellent sermon. Benches from the church were carried under the shade of the nearest trees, and a delicious dinner was served. Many old friends were met and pleasantness exchanged. A most enjoyable singing was had after the dinner. During an intermission "an ox was found to be in the ditch" in a fire breaking out in a neighbor's fence, when these kind people gave every assistance in this most disagreeable work.

Mr. Gore's family are most pleasantly entertaining Prof. Allen of Florida.

Saves a Woman's Life.

To have given up would have meant death for Mrs. Louis Cragg, of Dorchester, Mass. For years she had endured untold misery from a severe lung trouble and obstinate cough. "Often," she writes, "I could scarcely breathe and sometimes could not speak. All doctors and remedies failed till I used Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was completely cured." Sufferers from Coughs, Colds, Throat and Lung Trouble need this grand remedy, for it never disappoints. Cure is guaranteed by Clanton Drug Co. and F. A. Gulleldge, Verbena.

All-day Singing at Bethsalem.

The all day singing at Bethsalem was held Sunday, June 29, 1902. At 9:35 the body was called to order by singing: The officers of the meeting were: J. N. Billingsley, chairman, J. W. Billingsley, W. J. Billingsley, Charley Vinson. The singing was ably conducted by the following named teachers and leaders: J. W. Billingsley, S. R. Billingsley, J. C. Billingsley, S. B. Culpeper. At 11 o'clock Bro. S. M. Adams preached a delightful sermon. Adjourn for dinner which was spread on the table underneath the oaks. At one o'clock the meeting was again called to order for the afternoon session. The singing was well attended from the surrounding community. Then Bro. S. M. Adams preached his farewell sermon for this time and adjourned at 4:15.

BRIGHT MORNING STAR.

State Baptist Convention.

Mr. Wallace C. Edler, who left Clanton on June 24th to attend the State Baptist Convention in New Decatur, as a delegate from Clanton Baptist church, has returned and reports a very good and interesting convention. There were a goodly number of prominent men present, and their proceedings were marked by harmony and dispatch. The citizens of both the Decatur and Clanton churches, who opened their houses to the delegates, treated them to a beautiful ride on the Tennessee river, with free lemonade, etc. Major Harris, of Montgomery, Judge Kelly, of Anniston, Prof. Collier, of Clanton, Dr. Anderson, the Pastor of our church, were present. Howard College affairs are now in a good way of adjustment, and the new departure in the management of the college will no doubt be successful.

Poisoning the system.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities. Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dizziness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work. Never gripe or distress.

Chestnut Creek Singing.

As the sun rose on Sunday morning, June 29th, it found the good people of this, as well as the adjoining neighborhood, in eagerness to get to the house of God. At 9 o'clock we were duly organized, after which an arranging committee was appointed.

While waiting for a report the class was entertained by Bro. T. L. Robinson. The leaders for the day were Brethren J. S. Jones, T. L. Robinson, R. T. Grant, W. H. Robinson, J. M. Curlee, O. Z. Robinson and N. J. Jones. The organists for the day were Misses Emma Robinson, Martha Pyron and Eudora Pattillo; also Messrs. P. R. Grant and Lee Robinson.

It was a day very much enjoyed by all present. There was a large table prepared under the native oaks upon which was served one of the most elaborate dinners ever witnessed in this section of country. But who could expect anything else of the good mothers and sisters of Chestnut Creek and adjoining settlements? Above all was the music. It was unexcelled. Also the music from the instrument was of the most graceful type ever heard at this place.

Before adjournment the following resolutions were offered and adopted:

Resolved 1st. By this congregation, that we tender our utmost thanks to the people of Chestnut Creek and vicinity for their kind hospitality shown us during this day.

Resolved 2d. To the sisters for the preparation of an elaborate and delicious dinner.

After singing "Onward Christian Soldiers," the congregation was dismissed with prayer by Bro. W. H. Robinson at 4 o'clock.

Respectfully submitted,

UGLY BILL.

Far from looking down upon the farmer as a "rube," regard him as an expert in most of the practical things of life—more especially mechanical things. You can tell the city man that a camera operates by a simple pressure of a button. He will leave the "rest" to you. As a rule he knows nothing whatever of mechanics—couldn't wield a hammer with any precision. couldn't comprehend a technical description or a diagram if you gave him one, and doesn't care to, ordinarily.

Make the camera practical; that is all he asks. When it is out of gear he takes it to the repair shop around the corner. But the farmer wants to know all about the process of making a picture, and all about the mechanism that accomplishes the feat. He has a mechanical sense that is utterly lacking in city folks.

Things must be advertised largely from the mechanical side, and very little can be left to you. That is why the meaningless diagrams of cogs, wheels, levers and parts of agricultural machinery bring results in farm journals. The farmer understands them, is interested in them, and insists upon having them.

You can burn yourself with Fire, with Powder, etc., or you can scald yourself with Steam or Hot Water, but there is only one proper way to cure a burn or scald and that is by using Mexican Mustang Liniment.

It gives immediate relief. Get a piece of soft old linen cloth, saturate it with this liniment and bind loosely upon the wound. You can have no adequate idea what an excellent remedy this is for a burn until you have tried it.

A FOWL TIP. If you have a bird afflicted with Roup or any other poultry disease use Mexican Mustang Liniment. It is called a STANDARD remedy by poultry breeders.

We mean all that rich,

no matter; for Ayer's

Sometimes it makes the

Behind Her Watch in a Mine Pie.

There is one young matron of Hartford who will no longer wear her watch when she goes into the kitchen to bake pie. The baking of pie is the one portion of the culinary work she does and she does this because her husband says it tastes like that "matron used to make."

Among the wedding presents of this young matron was a handsome watch which she thought so much of that she wore it on all occasions.

She decided to bake a pie last Saturday says the Hartford Courant. All went well until a short time after the pie was placed in the oven, when she discovered that her watch was missing from her chatelaine on which it usually hung on her dress. She hunted all through the house, but could find no watch. The husband returned home and he was told of the mishap. The wife became convinced that some person had stolen the watch and she could not be consoled.

The nice pie "like mother used to make" was brought on for dessert at dinner yesterday, and a generous portion given to the husband. He looked at it and then asked his wife:

"What kind of pie do you call this,
my dear?"

Vegetable Caterpillar.

Among the many strange growths, apparently freaks of nature, which are to be found in New Zealand, the vegetable caterpillar readily ranks among the foremost. This caterpillar is several inches in length, is hairless, and does not differ essentially in appearance from some of the caterpillars of our own land.

Its claim to distinction lies in the fact that when it gets ready to die it dies a hole for itself in the earth and completely buries itself. Later a slender green shoot springs from the spot.
This bears two or more leaves near its top.

Upon investigation it is found that the green shoot springs from the head of the dead caterpillar, and further investigation develops the fact that the body of the caterpillar is filled with poison.

The form is retained without change, and the roots do not pierce through the skin or enter the ground.
When dug up this dead yet living freak presents a most odd appearance, for the head and even the eyes of the caterpillar are distinctly seen, yet from the head is growing the green shoot, with its leaves.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COMMENTS
FOR JULY 6.

Subject: The Giving of Manna, Ex. xvi.
1:15-Golden Text, Matt. vi. 11-Memory Verse, 4:2-Commentary on the Day's Lesson.

1. "Widerness of Sin." It is supposed that this wilderness, or desert, had its name from a stern city of Egypt called Sin, near which it lay. But before they came to Sin they had an encampment by the Red Sea after they left Egypt. Num.
33:10-11. "Sinai." This is a mountain between the other Sinai. Sinai means thornbush, and probably received this name because here the Lord appeared to Moses in the burning bush. "Fifteenth day." This was exactly one month from the time they left Egypt. Second month. This was Iyar or Zif, and corresponded to nearly as possible to our month May. The Jewish month began with the evening when the new moon was first discovered.

2. "Murmured." For what of it, presumably they had taken a month's bread when they left Egypt and now they were again "murmuring." An additional proof of the hardness of their hearts.
They had just seen the bitter water called Marah, and now they were murmuring because they were not getting any more bread. The Lord was angry with them because they stood confronted with their own difficulty. They evinced a reticent un-thankful spirit.

3. "Flesh pots." The Hebrews when in slavery were doubtless fed in companies, in places where large pots or boilers were fixed for the purpose of cooking their food.
"Ye have brought us." They seem to have actually lost the sense of having been delivered from Egypt. "To kill hunger." People when murmuring often anticipate evils which never will happen. Discontent magnifies what is past and undervalues what is present without regard to truth or reason; none talk more absurdly than murmurers.

4. "Unto Moses." God made known His purpose unto Moses in order that he might rest easily and not be tempted to discouragement. "Will rain bread," etc.
Efforts have been made to do away with the supernatural aspect of this incident by suggesting that the manna was nothing more than the gum of the tamarisk tree, to which the name manna has been given;
but we are certain that this gum could not have been the bread that is here said to have come from heaven. The manna is typical of Christ who came down from heaven (1 Cor. 10:3), a supernatural gift, to give life to the world. "And gather." The manna was like a small grain. "A certain rate." Every person was to gather according to his eating. V. 16. "Every day." It would breed worms and spoil if they undertook to keep it from one day to another. It was necessary also to gather it before the sun had risen. It fell upon the dew (Num. 11:9); it was so pure and delicate that it could not bear contact with the earth. Each one had to arise early and seek his daily portion. So it is with the people of God now. The heavenly manna must be gathered fresh every morning. We must feed upon Christ every day, with fresh energy of the Spirit, else we will perish. V. 20. "May prove them." Thus God tried them to see if they would trust Him and depend upon Him for fresh supplies each day, and if they would keep His commandments.

5. "The sixth day." The day preceding the Sabbath. "Shall prepare." The people gathered the manna and ground it in mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it; and the taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil.
Num. 11:8. "Twice as much." On the sixth day of the week they were told to gather and prepare twice as much as usual.
No manna fell on the Sabbath. Had it been a natural production it would have fallen on that day as at other times, and had God not performed a miracle, the people would have perished on the Sabbath as on other days. V. 23, 24.

6. "Then ye shall know." That the Lord had brought them out of Egypt was plain enough, yet they were ascribing to mills, or beat it in a mortar, and baked it in pans, and made cakes of it; and the
taste of it was as the taste of fresh oil.
Num. 11:8. "Twice as much." On the sixth day of the week they were told to gather and prepare twice as much as usual.
No manna fell on the Sabbath. Had it
been a natural production it would have fallen on that day as at other times, and
had God not performed a miracle, the people would have perished on the Sabbath as on other days. V. 23, 24.

7. "Glory of the Lord." Either this glorious work of God in giving you manna, or the glorious appearing of God in the cloud, mentioned in verse 10.
"Against the Lord." From this we see that when we murmur against God's servants we are really murmuring against God himself. "Will ye obey my voice?" The hea-vels have heard your murmurings. We have not brought you out of your slavery. God by His own almighty power has done that.

8. "Shall give you." Their needs were all to be supplied. "They were to have fresh bread each day, and six mornings each week hereafter for nearly forty years." "Hearth your murmurings." How offensive to God must their murmurings have been,
and yet He bore with them and had mercy upon them.

9. "Come near before the Lord." Evidently some particular place which had been designated, where God appeared to them in the cloudy pillar. The tabernacle was not built until some months later.

10. "The glory of the Lord." A glorious manifestation of God's presence in a "cloud of glory." Chap. 19:9. This would give them encouragement, and cause them to reverence God as their deliverer.

11. "Ye shall know." When God plagued the Egyptians it was to make them know that He was their God.

12. "Quails." Quails were then as now considered a delicacy. Among the Egyptians a quail was an emblem of ease and plenty. "Covered the camp." They flew low and were so tame that the Israelites could take as many as they chose. The children of Israel were again supplied with quails about a year later. Num. 11:31.

13. "A small round thing." It was like sardines (Num. 11:7), and white like hoar frost. The people gathered on an average about three quails for each man.
It was dry enough to eat with bread and bake like grain, and was pleasant to the taste. It was a wholesome food, and was used as bread by the Israelites about forty years. It ceased to fall as soon as the Israelites reached the land of Canaan.
Josh. 15:2.

14. "It is manna." "What is it?" R.
V. 15. They said one to another, "Man-hu" which means, What is it? The manna was a type of Christ. 1. It met a great need.
2. It was not understood by Israel, so Christ was not understood by those to whom He came. 3. It was for all the people, Christ is for the world. 4. It had to be gathered early, each day. 5. It was white and sweet, so Christ is pure in Himself and sweet to the taste of the refined soul. 6. It gave life to the Israelites.

Creating a National Forest Reserve.
The United States Senate has passed a bill creating a National forest reserve in the Southern Appalachian Mountains. The first bill provides for the purchase of 4,000,000 acres in the Southern Appalachian system at a cost not to exceed $10,000,000. The Secretary of Agriculture is to designate the lands to be purchased, and is to take measures to preserve the hardwood forests which they bear.

THE MAN ON THE CORNER

Name of the Rights to Sell, and Some of the Best.

THE FOURTH AT THURSDAY

It was a great day—a great occasion, great in patriotism, great in crowds, great in sunshine, great in heat and great in dust. Thorsby did itself proud and was well pleased in doing it. There were probably twenty five hundred people on the grounds, all as quiet as a church mouse as could be wished. There was a force of special police to assist Marshal Rice, but I don't think they had much to do.

The parade in the morning through the principal streets was well conceived and successfully carried out, making an interesting and instructive street pageant. Headed by the Thorsby Corn Band the procession started on its way to the park. A sweet Goddess of Liberty followed the band, and then came a realistic float showing an orchard, where the trees were planted, the fruit grown and picked when ripe. This was followed by the canning factory where the fruit was canned with marvelous alacrity. It made a real good show having grown and canned the fruit the next float disclosed the grocery man selling it to the customer, and there we will let it rest else we would have to follow some and see it made into pie. The cash and door factor and the Thorsby Normal School had very interesting floats and other features of the parade were all good in their respective ways.

At the park, after the Declaration of Independence was read, and long rendered by the Glee Quartet, the Hon. W. H. Denson, of Birmingham, was introduced at the oration of the day. Crispin is one of the best speakers in Alabama, and made one of the best speeches on this occasion, occupying about an hour and thirty minutes.

In the afternoon there was racing and other sports. They tugged at a log, raced in sacks, and had a pie and potato race. Some of the greasy pigs, who were chased the greasy pig, and the rough riders gallantly smashed barrels. There was plenty of food and life, and the ice-cream and lemonade vendors did a thriving business with the peripatetic crowd. Quite a crowd came down from Union and Calera, and there was a train load from Clanton and Verona, while for miles around the people came in wagons and busses. All seemed to enjoy the day, and the day was a decided success.

At night the proceedings wound up with a fine display of fireworks and the young folks tripped to the fantastic to the music of a light band to their heart's content.

WOOD AND WEDDED.

A quiet and pleasant wedding took place last Wednesday at the home of Mr. Fleming Higgins, wife of the bride, at Oxford, Coosa county, when Mr. Harter and Miss Jessie Allen exchanged the vows which bind them together until death shall part them. Rev. Mr. Ivey officiated. Mr. I. H. Middleton acted as best man, and Miss Willie Gunnell as chief bridesmaid. After the ceremony the happy couple departed for Birmingham, and subsequent home to Clanton. Mr. Chilton is one of our most prominent business men, and a former bride endeared herself during her sojourn here. We offer our best wishes, and trust the future may be all sunshine.

There is no reason why the man who makes his money in oil should have a hard look.

Canada's military establishment, consisting of less than 40,000 men, all told, will be increased to 150,000, if the British idea of colonial defense prevails.

The assassination of the boarder visitors to the Naval academy at Annapolis to change the name "cadet" to "midshipman" will be generally approved, not only by readers of Maritime but by students of American history.

Out of the 4300 species of plants gathered and used for commercial purposes in Europe, 420 have a perfume that is pleasing and enters largely into the manufacture of soaps, scents and sachets.

There are more species of white flowers gathered than any other color—1124. Of these 287 have an agreeable scent, an extraordinary large proportion. Nasturtium arvense yellow blossoms, with 561, 77 of them being perfumed. Red flowers number 223, of which 84 are scented. The blue flowers are of 594 varieties, 34 of which are perfumed, and the violet blossoms number 308, 19 of which are pleasantly odoriferous.

An editorial writer of the Boston Herald relates his experiences in one of the famous restaurants in Place St. Mark, in Venice, where the Chicago's men lately got into trouble. He says that when the restaurant was presented it contained items enough, which were not ordered to double its amount, and that when he protested against paying a row was raised and the police were summoned, and that any opposition on his part would have involved the risk of "resisting the police," which is the offence charged against the Chicago people. He had to pay to avoid trouble, and thinks it is a regular dodge in this place to bleed foreigners.

Playgrounds greatly lessen the juvenile mischief that often runs into crime. A noted lecturer says permanent playgrounds in cities are important moral helps and that the police department in London reported many years ago that crime was largely repressed by giving children a chance to work off their surplus energy in play. New York City made the same discovery, and not only provides sufficient playgrounds for the schools, but is rapidly adding to the number of small parks and open spaces in crowded places, states the St. Louis Globe-Democrat. Play for children presents itself to sociologists in these times as a natural right, the disregard of which runs up a heavy score against a community.

The destruction of St. Pierre brings men face to face with the elemental terrors of nature, the fear, if not the awe, of which civilized people pay, to a great extent, outgrown. To the earlier members of the race nature did not seem beneficent. Man was very much at the mercy not only of the extraordinary catastrophe, but of the ordinary phenomena of the world. By taking thought he has fortified himself against destructive forces to a marvellous degree. He is protected against extremes of heat and cold. He can ride out the fiercest storms of the ocean. He is coming to conquer the pestilence that lurks in darkness. Yet he walks in a vain shadow. The earth, which he thinks he has conquered, may open on the instant and swallow him up. He is an important creature, tossed about by power the magnitude of which he cannot comprehend. The earth is a mere crust between him and the abysses. He calls her a kind mother, and so she is in her pleasant moods. But she is also ruthless, without regard for human life, without any sentiment of pity, embraces the New York Tribune. He thinks the world was made for him, but he is a little regarded as the swarms of flies which are killed by the first frost. Nature will make for him the most beautiful of homes, only to write "vanity" on the buried ruins.

ANOTHER AIG FLOOD.

General Traffic in New York Are Still Being Free.

BUFFALO, N. Y., July 7.—A heavy rain and high water from the Niagara River have the flood there equalled the deluge in the Erie basin and been reported, but the passage made no mention of any casualties.

At the office of the Erie railroad the following statement was given to the Associated Press:

"On our main line between Buffalo and Hornellsville our east-bound train was slightly damaged between Dale and Warsaw and our west-bound train between Swanton and Canaseraga. We are getting our trains through at these points by using a single track. We expect to have both tracks open for traffic this afternoon."

At the office of the Pennsylvania railroad it was stated that all of their lines were open except the Rochester division, Hinsdale to Rochester.

BOY DROWNED.

OLEAN, N. Y., July 7.—A heavy rain and cloud burst did much damage in Allegany county yesterday morning. Many washouts along the Rochester division of the Western New York and Pennsylvania railroads occurred and all trains were abandoned. TO PUT THE BOYR BACK.

That's What The House of Commons Will Do.

LONDON, July 7.—Winston Spencer Churchill (Conservative) and Ivor Churchill Guest (Conservative), in the House of Commons today raised the question of the "restoration" of the cadets of the royal military college, Sandhurst, as a result of their failure to denounce the persons guilty of starting the recent fire at that institution. The War Secretary, Mr. Broderick, after narrating the facts already known, said the rusticated cadets would lose terms of seniority. No charge had been formulated against individuals, but the cadets who had left Sandhurst all belonged to commandants whose quarters had been set on fire. Some of them had been seen entering a room shortly before one of the fires. There was, therefore, good reason to believe that several cadets were implicated in the unfortunate business. The Commander in Chief, Roberts, considered that the safety of the institution necessitated the adoption of stringent measures.

It Is Ended.

THE HAGUE, July 5.—The taking of testimony by Dr. Asser, the Dutch jurist-consult, who is arbitrator of the American-Russia sealing dispute, closed yesterday with a statement of Herbert B. Pierce, third assistant Secretary of State at Washington, enunciating the view of the United States government regarding the extent of the territorial waters and an exchange of compliments between the representatives of the two governments and Dr. Asser, the latter thanking the delegates for their valuable help and referring to the admirable example set by the two great powers in arbitrating the differences.

Mr. Pierce and M. Comoroff, the Russian delegates entertained the American and Russian participants in the case and the Netherlands minister at luncheon.

TRAVERS CITY, Mich., July 5.—A special Pere Marquette passenger train, made up of an engine and two cars, was run into late last night at Williamsburg by the regular line flyer, Engineer Roy Pickett, of the special train, whose home is in Grand Rapids, jumped and struck his head on a switch standard. He was killed instantly. Fireman Dwyer also jumped and was severely injured. None of the passengers were hurt.

Strike Ordered at Chicago.

CHICAGO, July 7.—A strike of the freight handlers has been ordered. The men paraded and held a meeting on the lake front. Between 8,000 and 9,000 men are out and all the railroads entering Chicago are affected.

More Than 100 Injured.

CHICAGO, July 5.—Three persons were killed and more than 100 injured in the celebration of this year's Fourth of July in Chicago.

NATIONAL EDUCATORS

Nice Weather Greeted Them in Minneapolis.

TEACHERS WHO ARRIVED TODAY.

First Days Meeting Hours.

Question of Taxation for School Purposes.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., July 7.—Bright skies and balmy breezes greeted the teachers and educators who flocked into this city this morning from every corner of the country to attend the sessions of the National Educational Association. All incoming trains brought large delegations and the day for most of the visitors was one of getting settled in preparation for the week.

The local committee had their arrangements so carefully organized that there was no confusion and the assignment of quarters went rapidly on. The meetings of the day were those of the national council and of the Indian education section. The council's session was held in the Unitarian Church and after a few preliminaries, Nathan C. Schaeffer, of Harrisburg, State superintendent of Public Instruction in Pennsylvania, read a paper on "Taxation As It Relates to School Maintenance." He declared that the accepted policy of every civilized country, its nature and purposes should be taught in connection with history and civil government. "One of the highest tests of patriotism," he said, "is found in a willingness to pay a just share of the tax for the education of the people."

He maintained that money spent in the proper education of people is the best possible investment for public funds and urged that the taxes be levied in such a manner that the school fund would not go below a certain point. The second paper of the morning was by A. G. Lane, district superintendent of schools of Chicago, on "Taxation and Teachers' Salaries." "The reports of county and State superintendents," he said, "show that if effective instruction is to be imparted to all children more generous provision must be made for the ample compensation of teachers, for permanency in their work, and for centralized schools. In the rural districts." He thought that to secure the best results in the larger cities, the statutes relating to the raising of taxes for the teachers' salary fund should provide for an adequate and definite amount.

The discussion was opened by J. M. Greenwood, superintendent of schools of Kansas City, Mo.

HUSBAND AND WIFE TOGETHER.

They Died While Children Were Dandling and Having a Gay Time.

GRAND FORKS, N. D., July 7.—While their son and daughter and several young friends were singing and dancing in the parlor Saturday night, Charles J. McCormick, a Great Northern conductor and his wife, were dying in a bathroom on the same floor. Their bodies were found some hours later.

Mr. and Mrs. McCormick had been out driving in the evening and both had appeared to be in excellent spirits. Upon returning home they informed their son and daughter that they were going to take a bath.

When the door to the bathroom was opened, Mr. and Mrs. McCormick were found to be dead. Their bodies were in the bath tub and their clothing scattered about the room. Nearby stood a partly emptied bottle of beer and fragments of a lunch. A physician who was called thought they had been dead two hours. No satisfactory explanation of the tragedy could be given, though the evidence points to poisoning.

Mr. McCormick was one of the oldest conductors on the Great Northern. He was known as President Hilly's favorite conductor and was always selected to take charge of the President's private car.

Supposed to Have Committed Suicide.

NEW YORK, July 5.—The body of Andrea Zebheja, the captain of the steamship Frederick, was found floating in the Erie basin today near the place where his ship was berthed. It is believed that the captain committed suicide on account of the criticism he received from the owners of the vessel because of an accident to the ship.

BOSTON.—The expected feature of the Charles River bicycle races yesterday afternoon, the one-hour motor paced race between Harry Elms and Bobby Walthour proved a fizzle owing to an accident to Walthour's motor. After the second mile Walthour rode without pace or with a slow motor for sixteen miles and then withdrew. Elms continued to the end of thirty miles, which he completed in 44:22, and was declared the winner.

A CONVICT WITH NERVE.

He Has Suffered and Then Gave the Entire Family.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 7.—Harry Tracy, the Oregon convict, has again staged his dramatic act, a display of great daring. His last act was to impersonate a farm hand and to break out of the sound in a rowboat late Saturday, and at noon yesterday Sheriff Cookley chartered the tug Sea Lion and with a posse started in pursuit.

According to information received at the sheriff's office, Tracy slept in a graveyard on the outskirts of Seattle after his battle Thursday night with the Seattle officers. On Friday morning he proceeded to the ranch of a man named Fisher, secured food and slept and rested in the woods all that day and night. Early Saturday morning he appeared at Meadow Point on the water front, three miles north of Seattle, his original point of landing. There he compelled a Japanese fisher boy to row him to Madison Point, twelve miles across and down the sound from Seattle. He disembarked the boy, declaring the latter would be killed by Tracy's pal if he told of the trip.

They landed near the home of Johnson, a ranchman, and Tracy watched the house for an hour, to make sure of the number of men there. Finding but two, he entered and announced that he intended to kill everyone on the ranch and take charge of the place for a few days. He added: "But after seeing your pretty little girl, I will kill no one if you all mind me. I will be here all day."

The family prepared breakfast for Tracy and put one plate on a table against the wall. "This is not right," declared the convict. "Put the table in the middle of the room and all sit down with me," which was done.

Tracy then read Friday evening's papers, and after learning how Mrs. W. Horn had betrayed his presence in her house to the butcher boy, said he had been careless in not keeping every eye in that house constantly under his eye.

"My carelessness in this respect made it necessary to kill two officers," he said.

He forced the Johnsons to give him a bundle of clean clothes, a hat and six days' supply of food, cooked for him, put on Johnson's suit of Sunday clothes and had the food, clothing and blankets made into bundles.

At 8 o'clock he bound and gagged the Johnson family, made their hired man, Anderson, carry the bundles to Johnson's rowboat, put Anderson in the boat at the oars and started down the sound.

Mrs. Johnson released herself and the others two hours later and notified Deputy Sheriff McKay, who lives at Madison Point. McKay secured a boat and sent word to Seattle. Sheriff Cudahey was summoned from Bothell, and with several men started down the sound in an electric launch looking for the desperado and the farm hand.

All of His Family Drowned.

NEW YORK, July 7.—The wife of Capt. Tiemann N. Horn, of the Ninety-fifth company, seacoast artillery, his daughter Frances, aged seven, and Miss Olive McMahon, of New York, were drowned in Sandy Hook bay yesterday. Captain Horn is stationed at Fort Hancock on Sandy Hook. He had made up a sailing party to go out on the bay in his small cat-rigged yacht, Midget. At a point about half a mile off Old Camp Lowder a strong puff of wind caused the sail to give, and in a moment the little vessel capsized, throwing all hands in the water. Captain Horn and Dr. Waterhouse, one of his guests, made every effort to save the women and child, but a strong ebb tide quickly swept them beyond reach, and before any other help could be had Mrs. Horn, Frances and Miss McMahon were drowned.

Riot Between Slaves and Polish Miners.

CONNELLVILLE, Pa., July 7.—A race riot between Slavs and Polish miners and coke workers occurred Saturday night at the Paul mines of the Ralney Company near Vanderbilt, three miles from here.

Mike Zovitchis, a Slav, was killed instantly by three revolver wounds and Victor Hessel, a Slav, who was shot through the body, will not live till morning.

Saturday night a big christening was held at the home of Frank Letsky, a Slavish boarding boss. Beer and other drinks flowed freely and at 11 o'clock

NEW YORK.—Adam B. Gunn, of

Buffalo, who won the title of all-round athletic champion at Buffalo last year, ably defended his honors yesterday at Cretia Park, Long Island City. The other contestants were Edward S. Merrill, of Milwaukee and Myer Prieststein, of Syracuse, N. Y. Gunn, by his clever showing in each of the five events, outstruck the other two and won again with a total score of 500 points. At Buffalo last year Gunn's winning total was only 470 points.

PUSH, PROGRESS AND PROSPERITY.

The Cream of State Speeches.

Condensed—Matters Industrial and Otherwise.

THORNTON, Ala., July 7.—The day of July was another red letter day in the history of Chilton county. The day was celebrated as never before in the history of the county. The day was a busy one and the people were pushing and shoving and the day was a day of progress and prosperity. The celebration took place under the auspices of the Thornton Corn Belt. The merchants and manufacturers also contributed much in the way of floats and decorations. The grand parade took place at 10:30 a. m. and was the big feature of the event. The quantity and quality it was the most elaborate parade seen by the people of this part of the country.

The parade was headed by the mayor and his aides, followed by the speakers of the day and the mayor and the reception committee in carriages. Then followed an elaborate float representing the department of Liberty. Other floats represented an orchard, the principal industry of Thornton, showing the planting of the trees, picking and marketing of the fruit. Then came some very interesting floats, representing a complete canning factory in full operation. The Door and Sash Factory, the Thornton Normal School and Miss Ford's millinery establishment were represented by handsome floats. General Atkins' regiment of United States Volunteers won deserved applause and so did Colonel Hayes' regiment of Rough Riders. Many other floats and features of the parade, not above mentioned, were well gotten up and reflected great credit on their owners.

At the park an interesting program was carried out. The Declaration of Independence was read by Mrs. Dora Thornton. There was music by the band and singing by the ladies' quartette and the glee club.

The great speech of the day was delivered by Hon. W. H. Denison of Birmingham. His speech was a happy combination of oratorical effect, full of patriotism and out of the glorious history of our past was drawn an earnest lesson for the present conditions in State and national politics. Colonel Denison made a forcible and effective speech and was liberally applauded. Professor Johnston of the Thornton Normal School made a few remarks after which refreshments were had.

In the afternoon were a number of attractions, such as a tug of war, a race, a pie race, potato race, peanut race, with crowbars, climbing the greased pole, calling for a greased pig, etc., and a grand display of fireworks at night. An immense crowd, estimated at about 3,000 people, took part in the big celebration.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala., July 7.—The Alabama Bar Association elected the following officers before adjournment Saturday evening: Lawrence Cooper, of Huntsville, president; E. DeGraffenreid, of Greenville, vice-president; Alexander Troy, of Montgomery, secretary and treasurer.

The last day's session of the bar was an interesting one, and was held on Monte Sano. Congressman John M. Allen, of Tupelo, Miss., was a speaker, delivering one of his characteristic speeches. Capt. Daniel O'Connell, of Huntsville; Capt. Milton Humes, of Huntsville; Sterling Wood, of Montgomery, and Col. A. S. O'Connell, of Nashville, made addresses during the day. The social feature of the meeting was a barbecue given on the mountain.

Capt. Milton Humes entertained the visiting lawyers at a breakfast.

TROY, Ala., July 7.—The Supreme Court has handed down a decision involving about $500,000 in favor of the people. The case is of the Alabama land railroad and certain citizens of Troy to make them pay more for the right to build the Alabama land railroad. The road was completed according to the conditions and the money was not paid over.

They Must Stay.

LONDON, July 7.—In the House of Commons this afternoon, A. J. Balfour announced that an autumn session of Parliament would be necessary, owing about the middle of October, so that the House would adjourn early in August.

Replying to a question on the subject of the coronation of King George V., the commissioner of works, A. B. Douglas, said it was not proposed to move the clock, as it was hoped to have it still in its original position for which they were not prepared.

With one of the Sheriff of the State

near Yates yesterday "received" Sheriff Baxter, of Harrisburg, of Illinois county, an answer to a letter in which the governor recommended Sheriff Baxter for failure to protect negroes. Baxter alleges that he did not advise the negroes to leave town, and also that he had the aid of the United States marshal. He does not say, but that he is endeavoring to have with assistance of private men a message to Sheriff Baxter.

I sincerely hope that the message is correct and that the sheriff is not a victim of the average additional negro propaganda. But I am not sure. There are several things which indicate that you certainly have fallen short. You have been relying on the United States deputy marshal to perform some part of your duty, but you have failed to respond to the fact and invite them to return the assistance that you will protect the demand upon you in this case was explicit, and I shall not again be obliged to condemn a sheriff who put himself as rapidly as he can.

The governor also received yesterday from President Alton a letter in which the governor of Illinois, Alton, writes from Metropolis and states that there have been of violence against colored people in Elkhart for the past four months. He says that owing to the violence the contemplated property on May 29 was protected, that he and his wife are at Metropolis where the collection is very strong because their lives were in danger and they remained in Elkhart.

Governor Yates replied to the letter of the school to the school elsewhere. "I note your statement of your school lived in this for the most part old and that they were not students lucky."

Development of Alabama Roads.
Prof. William E. Martin of Emory and Henry College fills the April number of "Johns Hopkins University Studies" with a paper entitled "Internal Improvements in Alabama." He begins with the Indian trails, and traces the roads of the State step by step to the present steam roads and river navigation.

Paths run from one Indian village to another, among the Creek Indians, and a main path, known as the "Southern Trail," led in early times from about where Augusta, Ga., stands, crossing the Chattahoochee at Columbus, and thence across the Tallapoosa at Tookabatcha, then almost due west to the Coosa, then up the river to "Coosa Old Town," and from here moving westward across the Cahaba river near Cahaba Old Town, and thence into the settlements along the Tombigbee, and running still farther northward reaching the Chickasaw in northwest Alabama. From Coosa a trail ran to Mobile County, and still another led from Shallow Ford on the Chattahoochee to High Town or Etowah bordering on the Cherokee district, and finally reached the Chickasaw country. These were the first roads of Alabama, and along these trails went the first traders who visited the State. The French later had routes leading from Mobile to the Creek and Cherokee towns, and to the Choctaw and Chickasaw countries.

These were trading routes.
Then came the federal roads. In 1805 the right was obtained from the Indians to lay a road from "Tellico to Tombigbee," in order that the mail of the United States might be carried from Knoxville to New Orleans through the Cherokee, Creek and Choctaw countries.

Egyptian Cotton.

"Egyptian cotton is being introduced in Texas and promises to revolutionize the cotton industry in the South," Mr. C. S. Austin of San Antonio, Tex., remarked last night at the Raleigh. "It is much more desirable than the cotton raised in the United States now, and is even better than the sea island cotton. The Egyptian cotton has much longer fibre than other cottons and its seed can be removed so easily that it is not necessary to cut up the cotton in ginning it. A series of saws which work between rods is used in ginning ordinary cotton and considerable power is required to tear it loose from its seeds. The Egyptian cotton can be separated from its seed by a series of rollers, which do not cut the cotton and destroy the length of its fibre. The Department of Agriculture has distributed the new cotton throughout the South and it will soon be known whether the Egyptian product will flourish in all the districts devoted to the raising of cotton."—Washington Post.

Thorsby.

The celebration at this place on the 4th was the grandest ever known here, and I think we can safely say the grandest ever known in Alabama. I, for one, am proud of our little town, but let us strive to make it better another year.

We were glad to see some of the scholars up to help us celebrate the 4th. Come again, friends, we are glad to have you with us.

Miss Maggie Richardson of Deatsville celebrated the Fourth with her friend Miss Stanley, of Thorsby.

We are glad to know that the sick is now better.

Dr. C. C. Honey has returned from the North, and reports plenty of rain up there; also fine crops. I know the people would appreciate it down here in this dry South.
But Dr. Honey says he prefers this hot dry South to the cold wet North.

The cannery is now at work, but will still be better prepared soon.

SESTINA.

Poisoning the system.

It is through the bowels that the body is cleansed of impurities.
Constipation keeps these poisons in the system, causing headache, dulness and melancholia at first, then unsightly eruptions and finally serious illness unless a remedy is applied. DeWitt's Little Early Risers prevent this trouble by stimulating the liver and promote easy, healthy, action of the bowels. These little pills do not act violently but by strengthening the bowels enable them to perform their own work.
Never gripe or distress.
